

ANOTHER STEAMSHIP DISASTER

POLICE INSPECTOR SHOT DOWN IN BOSTON CAFE

Thomas F. Norton Murdered by Lawrence Robinson, a Noted Crook, Whom He Was Arresting on Charge of Triple Murder at Grand Rapids, Michigan

BOSTON, June 20.—Inspector Thomas F. Norton, one of the cleanest and bravest men of the police department, was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Baylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Norton fell fatally wounded at the first shot and died less than a half hour later at the Hotel Hospital. Following the slaying of Norton two detectives and two police officers who were with him, fired upon Robinson as he fled from the restaurant and wounded him three times. He is now at the City hospital, where it is believed he will recover.

Robinson is known as a desperate and bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

Held on Murder Charge

With him at the time of the tragedy was Joseph F. Daniels, alias Duddy, known to the police of many cities as a pickpocket. He was captured, and is held by the police without bail to answer to a charge of murder. If Robinson recovers, he will be arraigned upon the same charge.

The circumstances surrounding the murder of Inspector Norton were of a character unequalled in the records of the police department. The restaurant was fairly filled with guests. Girl waiters were hurrying back and forth, taking and delivering orders, and the orchestra was discoursing lively popular music.

So quietly had the officers entered that none of the guests realized that anything out of the usual was happening. Not a head turned as the five officers, all in citizens' clothes, strolled in.

Then a shot rang out, followed by another, and then a fusillade of staccato reports. Through the smoke a knot of struggling men could be seen in one corner. Then one staggered out of the group and fell, and another broke away and fled, followed by the flash of revolvers and more reports.

Planist Kept Playing

That was all that was in the restaurant were able to see, so rapidly had the tragedy occurred. Even the woman pianist continued mechanically to pound out ragtime. It was all over in a few seconds.

Robinson has been in Boston a few days. All during his stay he has been shadowed by detectives. It is charged against him that Sept. 15, 1913, he and another entered a jewelry store in Grand Rapids, Mich., and while robbing the place shot and killed three employees.

Since that time the Jewellers' Security Alliance has had Pinkerton detectives on his trail and the trailers have followed him from place to place, always just too late to capture him.

It was known generally that Robinson was one of that class of crooks who make a practice of following excursions and large outdoor carnivals for the purpose of picking pockets in the crowd.

It is supposed that when the circus came to Boston Robinson followed in its wake. Almost as soon as he reached this city the Pinkertons knew of it and began their search in an effort to locate him.

Daughter's Graduation

The men assigned to the case were Supt. Daniel Greene of the Boston office of the agency and Guy C. Packard, a detective. They located Robinson yesterday morning, and with him Daniels, who is wanted in several cities. They followed the men and saw them take place in the cafe.

Immediately police headquarters were notified and Inspector Norton, Patrolman James R. Claffin and John F. McCarthy, both of whom are doing special detective duty at police headquarters, were assigned to assist the Pinkertons and to make the arrest. It was an emergency call. Inspector Norton had bought a bouquet and was starting to attend his daughter Olive's graduation, but he promptly answered the call.

Robinson and Daniels had taken place in a quiet corner on the Boylston street side of the cafe, where they would attract no attention. They had ordered a meal and were leaning across the table talking in low tones when the five officers entered, just before 5 o'clock.

Firing Begins

The squad had entered at the door on Boylston street nearest Tremont street, and to reach the place where the two desperadoes were seated had to cross the restaurant. The corner where the men were was sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Detective Packard pointed guardedly to Robinson and Inspector Norton stepped forward a little and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. There was not even a word spoken when Robinson, who stands 6 feet in height and is of powerful build, leaped to his feet, overturning the table before him as he did so.

In a second he had whipped out his revolver, a .32-calibre magazine weapon, and had fired. His weapon must have been close to Inspector Norton's head.

The inspector staggered and collapsed. As he fell, the other four officers lurched forward to grapple with the two men and there was a milling struggle. For several seconds the struggle continued, and then Robinson wrestled his great bulk from the grasp of his captors and jumped the overcast table.

Bullets Take Effect

He fled without looking back, and

Object of the Gift

The object of a wedding gift is to perpetuate the memory of the wedding day.

The gift should be a frequent reminder of the happy event by its years of useful service.

Consider the electric toaster, percolator, chafing dish or tea samovar—These are true examples.

Lowell Electric Light Corp.
50 Central Street

LARGEST EXCURSION BOAT ON MISSISSIPPI SINKS

The Majestic, With Crew of 49, Struck Rocks Near St. Louis and Sank in Ten Minutes—24 Missing—Steamer, an Hour Before, Had Discharged 900 Excursionists at Alton, Ill.

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—The river steamer Majestic, the largest excursion boat on the Mississippi river, struck the cribbing of a waterworks tower near here early today and sank in ten minutes. Of the 49 persons on board at the time of the accident 24 have not been accounted for and it is feared they were lost. All on board were members of the crew or members of the boat's band. The steamer an hour before had discharged 900 excursionists at Alton, Ill., and was headed for St. Louis 27 miles down the river.

The boat struck squarely against the cribbing of the new in-take tower of the St. Louis waterworks and sank to the bottom. The water did not cover the vessel, however; the upper deck remaining above the surface, and to as he did so, Detective Packard and Patrolman Claffin got free play for their guns and fired after the fleeing figure. There were four shots, three of which took effect. With bullets flying about him, Robinson sped on, heedless of his wounds. He leaped up the stairway, with detectives and policemen in hot pursuit, and dashed into the late afternoon crowd that was passing along Boylston street.

As he emerged Mounted Patrolman Harry F. Dickinson was passing and noting the wild appearance of the fugitive jumped from his horse and followed the man into Bunsted court.

Robinson, wounded as he was, attempted to make another battle, but he was overpowered and handcuffed.

DEATHS

HUNT—William H. Hunt, formerly one of the proprietors of the old Lowell Morning Times, died at Everett, aged 77 years. Mr. Hunt was also connected with the Lowell Advertiser during the Civil war, and is the last of the three Hunt brothers.

DUTTON—Mrs. Emma Ann Dutton, widow of the late Samuel S. Dutton, died yesterday afternoon at 207 Parker street, aged 79 years. She leaves one son, Walter L. Dutton of 673 Pleasant street, Braintree, and two grandchildren. The body was removed to the home of her son in Braintree.

GAY—Mrs. Julia E. Gay died at the state infirmary, Tewksbury, aged 20 years. She leaves one son, Edward B. Gay. The body was sent to Ludlow, Vt., for burial.

FUNERAL NOTICES

FULSON—Died in this city, June 20th, Mrs. Betsey Fulson, aged 89 years, 6 months and 31 days, at her home, 17 Belmont street. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edward B. Fulson of this city, one brother, Putnam Hayward of Topsham, Vt., one sister, Mrs. Resina Rollins of Derry, N. H., and one granddaughter, Mrs. Howard Wright of Winchester, Mass. Funeral services will be held at 17 Belmont street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both the service and burial will be private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George W. Hooper.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

THE ROAD TO RELIEF

FLEX-OIL

ON THE FEET

It is worth your while to think of this means when your feet are released from a pair of leather shoes at night, heated and tired—baths—then dry them thoroughly and rub in Flex-oil until it is absorbed.

—In this three times a week—and your feet take all stiffness and soreness. Remember that men and women are as old as their feet feel—Flex-oil is for sale at all drug stores and at

O'SULLIVAN DRUG CO.,
Opp. City Hall Price 25 Cents
LOWELL, MASS.

this the persons on board climbed after the crash.

The accident occurred at the Chain of Rocks, a natural formation of rock that starts from the Missouri side at the extreme northern limits of St. Louis, or 15 miles above the heart of the city and runs 2000 feet into the stream, offering a barrier to navigation around which steamers must pass.

The city intake tower is at the end of this rock barrier. The boat was owned by the Wisconsin line of Quincy, Ill.

Waterworks employees saw the vessel come into view as it turned a bend just above the Chain of Rocks. A moment later they heard a crash and the lights of the vessel disappeared. The steamboat had gone down, how far, no one knew. The waterworks employees were now on the job, and those on board and telephoned to police headquarters here and to the harbor master for assistance. Automobiles loaded with police were rushed up the river on both the Missouri and Illinois sides. Rowboats and power launches also were summoned to aid.

Panic on Board

There was a momentary panic on board as the vessel struck and the sleeping crew and bandmen tumbled from the berths and rushed to the upper decks. The main deck caught fire but the flames were put out as the vessel listed. The vessel then righted herself and shot to the bottom, only the upper deck and the smokestack remaining visible as the crew pulled away in boats. Those who escaped to the Missouri shore built a bonfire around which they warmed themselves.

Men put out from shore in a rowboat and when they reached the Majestic they found the vessel had settled bow foremost and that much of the stern was out of the water.

FINAL MEDIATION SESSION

Today May End Conferences—Net Result Delay of Hostilities Between U. S. and Huerta

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 20—

Just one month ago today the first of the Mexican mediation conferences was held. Probably the last will occur today. The prediction cannot be made with positiveness because of possible developments in Mexico City and Washington, about which the mediators lack definite information.

Minister Naon of Argentina, who is expected to arrive here about 2 p. m. from Washington, where he conferred with President Wilson, Secretary Bryan of the state department, and Luis Cabrera, one of the representatives of the constitutionalists, may be bringing some new plan. This is not considered probable, however, as the American delegates seemed yesterday to spread the news that their statement to the public was final and that a constitutionalist must be selected for provisional president. It is not believed here that anything Dr. Naon could say to the Washington government or to the constitutionalist agent would change the determination of either to reject any plan to install a neutral.

The possible developments in Mexico City which particularly interested the mediators related to the report that Pedro Lascurain, the ranking member of Huerta's cabinet, had yielded to persuasion and would again accept the portfolio of minister of foreign relations. If true it could mean only that Huerta was prepared to relinquish his authority without regard to the outcome of mediation. Many who have followed closely the trend of events in Mexico City feel that with the executive authority surrendered to a prominent Mexican who admittedly would assume control only until some way out was found, the position of the United States would be far less embarrassing. It was said that the United States probably could secure an orderly entrance of the constitutionalist army into Mexico City and protect the persons who had opposed its progress, if Huerta were out of the way.

Principals to the mediation conference will go into the session to be held today feeling that there is no chance of an agreement and doubting if a way can be found to prolong the negotiations. If the three plans are formally submitted the Americans will reject that prepared by the Mexican delegation and a very similar one presented by the mediators. The Mexicans will reject the American plan.

The mediators would then ask both delegations if they felt that there was any possibility for a change of opinion. If deadlock were confessed the proceedings automatically would end.

It is probable, therefore, that the net result of mediation will be the delay of hostilities between the United States and the Huerta government and even avoidance of further fighting until settlement of the Mexican trouble was signed. It is probable that the federal forces opposed to American troops at Vera Cruz, the latter being contingent upon Huerta's retirement and the withdrawal of American forces which would follow.

Only one protocol directed toward settlement of the Mexican trouble was signed. It proclaimed that there shall be set up in Mexico on a day to be fixed later a government to be recognized by the Mexican people as a whole. This was intended to be followed by other protocols setting forth the names of individuals to be installed in control of such government, the date at which they would take over affairs from Huerta, and pledge recognition by the United States and the three South American governments represented by the mediating plenipotentiaries.

No agreement was reached on names and the protocol, which contained a fortnight of argument in its preparation is therefore a diplomatic utterance wholly without force.

Richardson Hotel

DINING ROOM

SUNDAY, JUNE 21

Special Table d'Hôte $1.00

DINNER

Special Combination for one or more persons. Combination

No. 1 served $1.50

for two.....

Choice of soups, olives, ranches, lead tomatoes, broiled sirloin steak a la Richardson, old fashioned strawberry shortcake or fresh strawberry college ice. Roquefort cheese, toasted crackers, after-dinner coffee.

Musical 5.30 to 8.30

First Edition

FOR LATER LOCAL AND TELEGRAPHIC NEWS AND TODAY'S STOCK MARKET REPORT SEE LATER EDITIONS

9 IN MILITARY BALLOON

KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Army Captain, Four Lieutenants, Naval Officer, Civil Engineer and Two Soldier Mechanics Lost Their Lives When Balloon Burst Into Flames

VIENNA, June 20.—Nine persons, occupants of a military balloon, were killed here today by an explosion in the air craft. The party, consisting of an army captain and four lieutenants, a naval officer, a civil engineer and two soldier mechanics, were maneuvering at a height of 600 feet when the balloon suddenly burst into flames. All of the occupants were dead when the wrecked balloon reached the ground. The cause of the accident is unknown.

THE LIST OF GRADUATES

Of High and Grammar Schools—Exercises Will be Held Next Week

The exercises of graduation of the high and grammar schools will be held next week. The dates of the exercises in the different schools were published in The Sun yesterday. The names of the graduates of the high schools and the grammar schools, so far as the lists have been issued, are appended:

HUTCHER SCHOOL
Anderson, Henry Edward Emanuel
Bailey, Lester Harold
Baker, Ernest Angus
Bell, Henry George
Breen, Abner John
Chaffin, Joseph William

Carlson, Albert Herman
Cochrane, Francis Guy
Dillon, Charles Joseph
Dukeshire, Leslie Leland
Dwyer, Walter Louis
Emerson, George Hodgskin
Finnegan, Daniel J. A.
Hannan, Thomas Henry Joseph
Hawesberg, Carl Gordon Adelbert
Hayden, George William Thomas
Graville, Henry Carl
Gray, John William
Hansen, Henry Arnold
Haysen, Lawrence Henry Joseph
Hedlund, Oscar Emanuel
Keehan, Francis Joseph
Kenny, Francis Joseph
Higgins, Eugene Anthony
Keller, George Daniel
Lancraft, John Irving Charles
Lyons, George Joseph
Continued to page four

HELLED CONVENTION HERE HE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

THE WOOLSORTERS AND GRADERS TRANSACTED BUSINESS HERE LAST NIGHT

The sixth annual convention of the Woolsorters and Graders of the United States was held here yesterday and last night. In attendance were delegates John Cronin, Joseph Miller of Lawrence, Mr. Ernest Ripley of South Haver, Mr. Clayton of Sanford, Me., Mr. Frank Greenwood of Philadelphia, Pa.

Cope of Providence, R. I., and delegates from Holyoke and other places. Last evening an enjoyable smoketalk was held in which many prominent members took part. Among those who responded were: Opening, J. J. Whitaker, local 3; remarks by President Harrison; song, "Comrades of Arms"; Woolsorters' quartet; song, "Good Company"; E. Hutton; song, "F. Needham"; reading, "Gunga Din"; A. Hutton; duet, Messrs. Hird and Hutton; song, F. Booth; song, T. H. Ready; song, J. Jackson; song, J. Donnelly; reading, Mr. Timmons. Mr. H. Waterhouse.

COSTAS SAMARAS SHOT HIMSELF TWICE AT HIS FATHER'S HOME

Costas Samaras, who resides in Lynn, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself twice in the right side at the home of his father, Nicholas Samaras of 63 Hanover street, shortly after six o'clock last evening and as a result he now lies at the Lowell corporation hospital in a critical condition.

Inability to secure steady employment and the fact that he has a wife and two children at 300 Boston street, Lynn, depending upon him for support are believed to be the causes of the young man's attempt at suicide. He came to this city Thursday and made several attempts to get work but each time he failed and it is said that he did not want to go back to his wife without a position.

While the members of his father's family were seated around the supper table, Samaras stepped into the next room and taking a revolver from his pocket shot himself twice just above the hip. He then shouted for help but his father was beside him as soon as the second shot was fired and the ambulance was sent for to convey him to the hospital, where he was placed on the operating table.

Samaras is a farmer by trade and has not worked for several weeks. He had showed no signs of despondency until recently.

MR. A. P. BEST

AUTO RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY
Appreciating the splendid patronage by the people, announces that he will equip the buses with the latest system of modern spring seats with a view of affording patrons the highest degree of comfort.

CHALIFOUX CORNER

Not a day passes without new lots of goods being opened here for the first time, and not all of them can be advertised. Just now many good things in WEARING APPAREL AND SUMMER THINGS are unaccountably low-priced for quality. Visit our cool, spacious and airy store and fulfill your wants in a high priced store built for the comfort and accommodation of its patrons.

AMONG THE TOILERS

John Halloran, employed at the Merrimack mills has purchased a motorcycle.

Jack Moran, employed at the Massachusetts mills has purchased a motorcycle.

William Quinn, employed at the Lowell Electric Light Corp., is a great admirer of a certain motorcycle.

Tom Miller, formerly employed at the Bay State mills, has accepted a position with W. J. Mulcahy.

Miss Hazel Ferris, employed at the Ipswich factory, is resting up for a few weeks at Hampton beach with her friends.

Robert Whalen, formerly employed at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, is now working for John Douglass & Co., Dorset Junction.

Miss Minnie Moore, employed at the Boot mill, is planning for her vacation which she will spend at Littleton, Mass., in July.

Frank Cassidy, employed at the American Mill & Leather Co., has been confined to his home for the past week with a bad cold.

William Barry and Robert McCormack, employees at the U. S. Bunting Co., had an enjoyable time at the Packard party which was held last evening.

Miss Anna Fagan, employed at the U. S. Bunting Co., will spend the month of August at Atlantic City with a party of girl friends.

F. S. Burgess, superintendent of the Pioneer Woollen Co., Pittsfield, Maine, has severed his connection with that company.

Earl Rollins has accepted the position of overseer of dyers at the Ashland Knitting mill, Ashland, N. H. He comes from Lenoir, N. H.

May, employed at the Barry Shoe Co., was seen last Saturday driving with Neptune at Salem Willows. They do say that she can swim as well as the old boy at that.

Sylvester Killoran, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., is a perfect marvel on the violin. The most complicated pieces he strums out with comparative ease.

Mr. John Shanley, employed at the Northern Mill, is suffering from a very painful injury received while at work yesterday. It will probably confine him to his home for a few weeks.

Charlie Nichols, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., says that going to work with an alarm clock in one's pocket is not all that could be desired.

J. W. Tiffany, president and general manager of the New England Knitting Co., Winsted, Conn., succeeds the late David Strong as president of the Winsted Hosiery Co., same city.

Guy Goodwin has been appointed overseer of spinning at the Stark mill, Manchester, N. H. He was formerly employed as second hand in the spinning department at this mill.

Thomas Res, superintendent of the McCallum Hosiery mill, Northampton, Mass., has resigned his position with that company to accept a position with a new company which is starting operations at Holyoke, Mass.

Peter Bauer, who has been superintendent at the Paragon Silk Co., for three years, has declined to accept a similar position with Ford McCall, who is starting a silk mill at Turners Falls, Maine.

James W. Booth, agent of the Atlantic Mills, Providence, R. I., has severed his connection with that company. He is succeeded by Everett E. Salisbury, who was head of the yarn sales department for the same company.

The Yale Knitting Co., of Malden, Mass., has purchased from the city of Malden, 6000 sq. ft. of land adjoining its present property and is having plans prepared for a four story addition, 50 by 100 feet of mill construction. A decision has not as yet been reached as to whether this addition will be constructed at once and no contracts have been awarded.

The Burton Co., of Holliston, Mass., has been reorganized with organized capital stock of $1,000,000, deal in yarns, twines and cloths. The incorporators are George B. Burton, 185

Summer street, Boston, president; Edgar M. Hunt, treasurer of the Hoxbury Carpet Co., 38 Summer street, Boston; treasurer; Edward D. Morgan, clerk; Charles A. Parry, Cecil M. Cavallari, William Taylor and Franklin F. Simons. The new corporation succeeds the Electro-Chemical Fibre Co., at Holliston, which has been conducted for the past year or two in the manufacture of rayon, twine and fibre stock. It is proposed to add much new machinery.

MMU Men's Union Held Meeting
The Millmen's union held its regular meeting last evening in the Carpenter hall in the Bunels building. Considerable important business was transacted. Five applications for membership were turned over to the investigating committee. These will be reported upon at the next meeting which will be Friday evening, June 26. Several of the members spoke in favor of the union and the president, the treasurer's report showed the union to be progressing rapidly.

British Mills Marking Time

The course of the London wool sales with their advance in line Colonial wools has been reflected in the market for native wools, and both at Bradford and Leicester the latter are reported strong at a relative advance. The latest movement has carried prices and fine crossbreeds nearly to the level of the home year of 1913, but the situation is materially different. Then the trade believed in higher prices and acted accordingly, starting the new season with considerable supplies on hand. Now, at any rate so far as Bradford is concerned, the majority of users have at the best but scanty stocks, while some are quite bare. Bradford has not been a believer in fine wools reaching their present level, and even so it is in the main skeptical of that level being maintained for any length of time. A wrong factor in the calculation has been the under-estimating of the United States demand, and to some extent to the demand from continent also, as to combine competition of these two divisions the latest advances has been mainly due.

The increased demand from the United States for fine wools has come in opportunistically, but the figures given out by the Bradford United States consulate, for April, suggest that this support may be overestimated. The April exports are much in excess of April last year, but they are the smallest of any month so far this year. This may mean that the spring orders have been largely filled, or it may mean that, after all, as the American manufacturers accommodate themselves to the changed conditions they are going to pretty well hold their home market, and the persistence with which they have sought, and are still in the market for fine wools, even at enhanced prices, really looks like hopefulness in that connection.

Last month's exports from the Bradford consulate district were valued at $2,541,345, compared with $3,170,556 in March, $2,765,326 in February, $2,760,500 in January and $1,955,335 in April last year. Comparisons of details with last year cannot be given with exactness owing to changes in classifications which went into effect last month, and 12 months must elapse before exact comparisons can be given. "Cotton cloth" covering cotton dress goods and linings, showed a 20 per cent increase over last year at $236,275 against $176,275.

There is a considerable amount of idle machinery in the Bradford district just now, and it is reported that the number of wool sorters out of employment is much greater than usual for the month of May. These may be accepted as indications that conditions in spite of the help from America are not good, and the immediate outlook is by no means promising. The woolen and cotton industries have just now a very close resemblance to each other in one respect. They are both suffering from relatively high raw material costs, but they are being put up without regard to the demand, and in both actual business is being checked thereby.

The Manchester market for the past few weeks has been decidedly inactive, but in spite of that prices of some of the more important goods, and even for the heavier gray goods, and even for these under the influence of raw materials further efforts have been made to secure higher prices. Manufacturers who were able to take advantage of the late demand from India continue in a good position. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates. There is thus at the present time considerable inactivity in the market. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates.

There is thus at the present time considerable inactivity in the market. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates. There is thus at the present time considerable inactivity in the market. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates.

There is thus at the present time considerable inactivity in the market. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates. There is thus at the present time considerable inactivity in the market. Stocks of goods are naturally able to avail themselves of the market. There are many more, however, not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not adverse to putting orders and their books at old rates.

"SYLVIA WINS!" CRY THE SUFFRAGETTES ASQUITH AT LAST GRANTS THEM HEARING

1-SYLVIA PANKHURST 2-PREMIER ASQUITH 3-SUFFRAGETTE BANNER

LONDON, June 20.—Premier Asquith capitulated to the suffragettes. He consented to receive a deputation of east end working women at his official residence in Downing street. Sylvia Pankhurst's attempt to carry out her threat of a hunger strike at the entrance to the house of commons until the premier yielded to the demands that he listen to a delegation of women was largely responsible for the prime minister's decision. The victory was a distinct one, because Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested about a week ago for attempting to lead a procession of east end women to Westminster to demand the audience which Mr. Asquith had steadfastly refused.

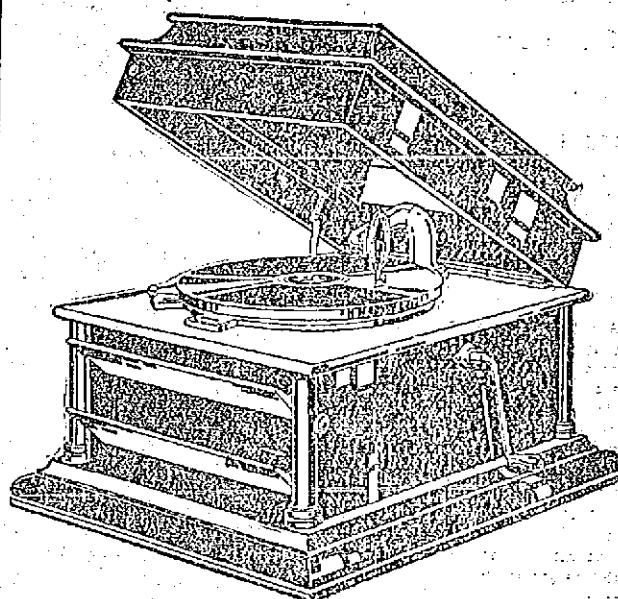

THEY DO SAY

That you never can tell when the ground will open up and swallow you.
That all bridges in Lowell should be thoroughly examined.
That it is possible to buy baseball pool tickets in Lowell.
That he who goeth often to the bar goeth seldom to the bank.
That the Lowell ball team is getting a move on.
That we are only a little way from the glorious Fourth.
That the rose party of St. Margaret's parish was some event.
That July 15 will be a great day for department store clerks.
That the pulmotor at last proved its effectiveness.
That Arthur can't get over it and he is out to solve the mystery.
That the high crown straw hat gives relief to many a swelled head.
That a bird in the hand is not worth much if the cat had it first.
That there is too much drunkenness in the streets of Lowell.
That many a wife is a thing of beauty, and a jaw forever.
That the temporary loan remains intact despite the many attacks upon it.
That the city government for 1914 is not saving any money for the city.
That the High street church clock may be forsaken in its old age.
That it is difficult to think what the lives of some great men remind us of.
That the savings bank will do more for the country than socialism.
That Alderman Brown believes there are many forms of the rector courteous.
That, lest we forget, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.
That trading houses for house lots is a new business for the city of Lowell.
That the graduation exercises are coming thick and fast.
That Nellie says she thinks they were intended for a Chinaman.
That the Chippewas' Farmers ball at Billerica on July 10 will be a big affair.
That the printer's "devil" will have it in several events at the big high day Tuesday.
That John H. Condon was always on deck to see that sports are run off properly.
That St. Margaret's parish affairs invariably draw a heavy of charming young ladies.
That some very lively contests are to be decided at the N. E. T. U. convention next week.
That the fellow who fell out of his automobile in Prescott street didn't get arrested.
That the police are not making a howling success of enforcing the traffic rules.
That not all the four-voiced people who meet in the early morning have been eating the first cantaloupes.
That the little doggie is not welcome in the house when he dips his little feet in the newly spread oil.
That some people do not realize the danger of too much solitude until they are in solitary confinement.

tee has arranged for the delegates to the N. E. T. U. convention someone is liable to get the goat.
That the fellows who went to Plymouth, Sunday, had the time of their lives, but they didn't go on Harry Thaw's yacht as they expected.
That mischievous boys tickled the Cross street woman's neck with a feather while she snoozed at the movies.
That Mary and Nellie and Lylo don't think much of the fellow who failed to take them to the movies after inviting them.
That the fellow who slipped on the banana peel at the corner of Central and Market streets has engaged a seat on the water wagon.
That the fango is in full bloom in Lowell and that two pretty Boston girls pay a visit here every Tuesday night.
That there are many horses in Lowell's streets that should be sent to the Red Farm or despatched to the happy hunting ground.
That a certain police officer is quoted as saying the average dog doesn't know when he's on the way to the gas box. How remarkable!
That the Sun, as usual, was the first paper in the street with a full account of the Chelmsford street bridge accident Wednesday morning.
That Charles Stickney's plan for a waiting room on the top of the American Express company's building is elevating.
That where Alderman Brown goeth repairs go with him as witness the painters and carpenters in the treasurer's and auditor's offices.
That the typography of that somewhat book issued in connection with the N. E. T. U. convention is a distinct tribute to the artistic ability of Lowell's printers.
That with Ed Shea, John Dalton, "Billy" Goodkin, Jimmie Donnelly, Andrew McCarthy, and "Clove" Nobles the typesetters surely have a feast of sweet voiced singers.
That when it comes to a real swimming race there are but few men in Lowell who have sufficient confidence in their ability to be willing to risk a few iron men on the outcome.
That after listening to the hot-house variety wit of an effervescent young lady tapped her forehead and said: "If it swims, we have it."
That Supt. Kernan, unlike many other superintendents, does not consider himself above doing some of the manual labor connected with the upkeep of parks.
That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 1.30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.
That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.
That the residents of Pawtucketville feel an improvement society in their district would mean a lot toward the development of that part of the city.
That one member of the school board said recently that Henry H. Harris wouldn't get his vote for superintendent.
That Stan. Britton and Jimmy Callahan allow that they can spare the time from fishing when the Progressive ministers are on deck.
That Pres. Frank J. Campbell of the Mass. Druggists' association has some interesting passages in his annual report.
That with all the "cats" the commit-

The Bon Marche

LOWELL'S MOST PROGRESSIVE STORE

ON APPROVAL

Then pay for it in $5.00 payments if you decide to keep it.

The one Standard "Talking Machine" of the world—the Columbia Grafonola "Favorite." With a full outfit of double-disc records—24 selections, including the famous Sextette from "Lucia" and Quartette from "Rigoletto."

On 3 days' free trial—the whole outfit subject to your acceptance and approval.

For machine and full outfit of records $59 in $5 payments or terms agreeable

NEW JULY RECORDS NOW ON SALE

AT THE SACRED HEART IN JOINT OUTING

SPECIAL SERVICES AT 11 O'CLOCK
MASS—FEAST OF SACRED HEART
AND CLOSE OF 40 HOURS

Tomorrow the services at the Sacred Heart church will have a double significance, inasmuch as the feast of the Sacred Heart will be observed and the closing services of the forty hours' devotion will take place. The forty hours' devotion service was opened last evening, with services at 7.30 o'clock at which there was a very large congregation. Today many parishioners visited the church and remained there to do honor to the Blessed Sacrament which was exposed on the altar.

While at all the masses tomorrow special services will be held the most impressive will come at 11 o'clock, when solemn high mass will be sung and a procession will be held. A feature of the exercises will be a special musical program at the 11 o'clock mass which will be as follows:

Asperges.....Werner
Sanctuary Choir.
Kyrie, "Mass in F".....Casali
Gloria, "St. Cecilia's Mass".....Turner
Credo.....Turner
Church Choir.
Soloists: Miss Sadie Kenney, Timothy Flinnigan, James Cusick.
Offertory, "Salva Regina," Dudley Buck, George Kirwin.
Sanctus, Mass in F.....Casali
Benedictus, Mass in F.....Casali
Agnus Dei, Mass in F.....Casali
Church Quartet.
Communion, "Jesu Dulcis Memoria".....Gottard
Sanctuary Choir.
Closing of forty hours' devotion will follow after mass with the following program:

Close of Forty Hours' Devotion
Processional Hymn, "Pange Merguam".....Gregorian
Sanctuary Choir.
Soloist, George Kirwin.
Tantum Ergo.....Lyles
Church Quartet.
Aldermanus.....Gregorian
Laudate Dominum.....Gregorian
Church and Sanctuary Choir.
Recessional March.....Whitney
Organ.

Church choir of 40 voices assisted by sanctuary choir under the direction of Rev. James T. McDermott. Church quartet: Mrs. Mary Monroe, Mooney, soprano; Miss Bessie Finnigan, contralto; John McMahon, tenor; George Kirwin, bass. Organist and director, John J. Kelly.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column

Hamilton Mill Officials and New Bedford Concern Celebrate

This morning at 9.15 the agent, superintendent, overseers, second hands, office clerks and other officials of the Hamilton Manufacturing company of Lowell met in Merrimack square for the purpose of enjoying their annual outing. It has been the custom in years past for the employees of the local concern to celebrate this outing with the officials of the Sharp Manufacturing company of New Bedford, and both groups met this morning in Boston and proceeded to Rowes Wharf, where they took a specially chartered boat for Nantasket Beach. As on last year the feature of the outing is a banquet at the Villa Napoli on the heights above Nantasket. Some of the most notable men in the country attended and a great many leading business men of Boston are guests of the occasion. After the banquet a social time will be enjoyed and speeches will be made by the most notable men present. The presentation of the cash prize donated annually by the Sharp Manufacturing Co. for the greatest gain in efficiency in any department of both mills will then be made. Last year the prize came to an overseer in the Hamilton Co., Susan Albert. A portion of the local mill takes personal charge of all arrangements to far as the Lowell contingent is concerned. This morning the young men in the happy party were looking forward with especial eagerness to the annual baseball match held on the grounds of the Villa Napoli between the representatives of the Lowell mill and the New Bedford mill. The same is easily the leading feature of the summer pleasure schedule at Nantasket.

TOILET SOAP AND PREPARATIONS

We stock only the kinds which through their purity and character have nationally established themselves. See the special box of toilet soap in our window for 12 cents. This box is regularly sold for 25 cents.

F. J. CAMPBELL
Registered Pharmacist
TOWNE'S CORNER DRUG STORE

I Promise Not to Hurt You

Don't put off your dental work any longer through fear. After the first tooth has been filled or extracted by the King Safe System of Painless Dentistry you will laugh at your fears and wonder why you waited so long.

PAINLESS, ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS

No old style instruments. The finest that up-to-date dental science has produced for the comfort and pleasure of my patients. See The King file.

Full Set of $5 up
Teeth.....$5

Gold Crowns, $4.50 | Other Fillings 50c Up
Gold Fillings $1 Up | Bridge Work, $4.50

PAINLESS EXTRACTING FREE
DR. T. J. KING, 158 Merrimack St., Lowell.
P. a. m. to 5 p. m. Sundays 10-12. Dental X-rays in Attendance. Phone 3500 French Spoken

CROQUET

The Ever Popular Game

Croquet Set
75c to $5.00

White Mountain Ice Cream Freezers
ALL SIZES, FROM
1 Quart to 25 Quarts
THE BEST FREEZER MADE

Handsome Hammocks
MADE FOR SERVICE

BARTLETT & DOW
216 Central Street

WORCESTER

AGAIN

DEFEATED

COURTNEY SAYS CORNELL VARSITY EIGHT

WILL REPEAT AT INTERCOLLEGIATE REGATTA

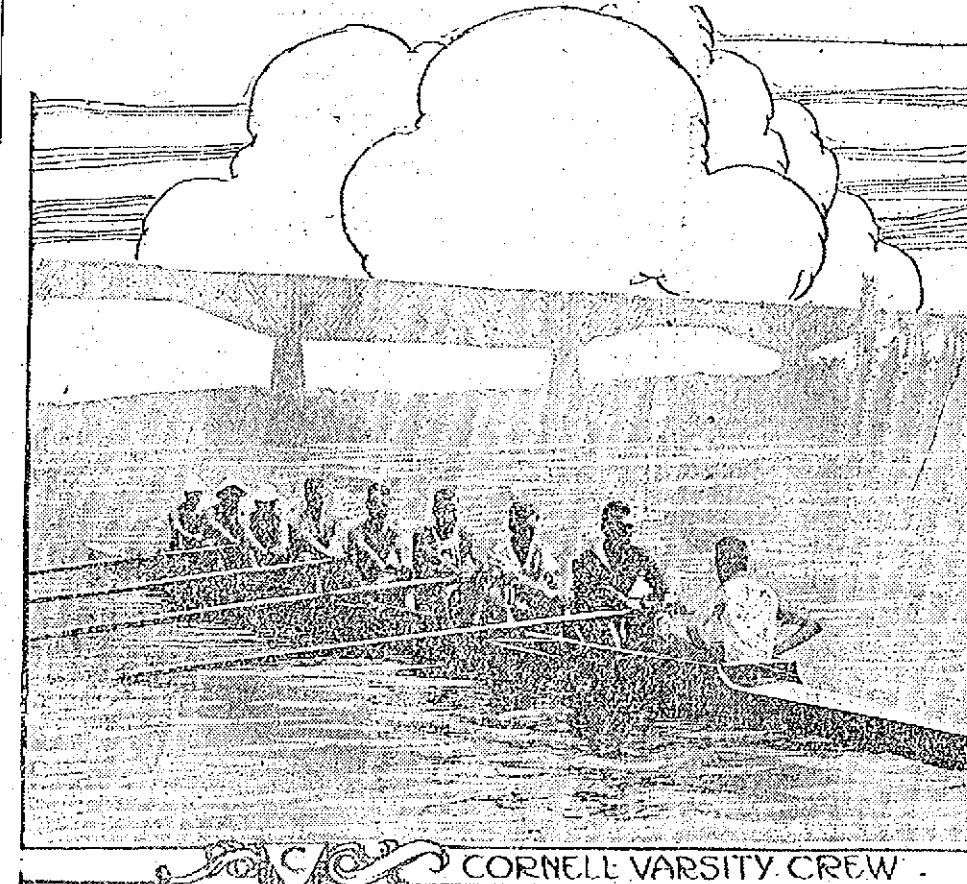

YALE WINS BY 4 INCHES

Outplayed by Local Team and Lost by 7-2 Score

Lohman Pitched Steady Game and Team Went Well Behind Him

"TEXAS" LOHMAN
Lowell Pitcher Who Let Down Bur-
kett's Men Yesterday With Two Lonesome Tallies

CORNELL VARSITY CREW

Blue Leads Crimson Eight Across Line in Greatest Struggle in History

NEW LONDON, June 20.—Yale's big blue varsity eight, displaying a degree of gameness never before duplicated upon the Thames, snatched victory from the very jaws of defeat in the last 25 feet of yesterday afternoon's Harvard-Yale varsity race.

By a mere matter of four inches, the difference in time was announced as a fifth of a second because boat races are timed by split second stop watches instead of by electric chronometers—the bow of Yale's English rigged, English coached varsity eight across the finish line. One boat length before the finish Harvard was in front. It was 100 to 1 that Harvard would win. Then came in less than a minute it takes to tell Yale's final rush, the greatest flash of come-back rowing ever seen in college aquatics, and Yale, not Harvard, was the winner. Yale's time was 21 minutes 16 seconds, Harvard's 21 minutes 16 1/2 seconds.

Closest Race in History of Sport

Never in a varsity boat race, here upon the Thames or at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson, has a race been won and lost by so infinitesimal a margin. As the crews sped across the finish line the difference between them was so slight that even partisan supporters of the rival eights upon the Central Vermont's observation train as they looked down upon the crews not 25 yards away, were not sure which eight had won it. It was one of those decisions that might have gone either way and it was only when the big, dark blue flag, emblematic of Yale, was swung out from the side of the judge's boat and waved vigorously back and forth that the spectators were aware as to which eight was first and which was second.

As in every close decision there was a difference of opinion among those who were on the water, assembled on either side of the narrow lane in which the eights pulled through their final strokes, the strokes that won for Yale and lost for Harvard. A moving picture concern that had secured a desirable position exactly upon the finish line took moving pictures of the finish and there were a number of photographers, professional and amateur alike, who flashed the finish more or less upon a direct line. What these cameras will reveal when plates are developed isn't known here in New London. It might be that the camera will uphold the official decision. And then again it may be otherwise. In any case the race is likely to stand upon the official records as a win for Yale, and surely there will be no word of protest from official Harvard. Yesterday's victory was the first in seven years for Yale varsity eight over Harvard.

Pop Courtney, coach of the Cornell navy and the most famous and successful handler of crews in the country, says that the Ithacans are going to repeat their former triumphs on the Hudson this year. Last summer Syracuse beat them out in a heartbreaking pull, but Courtney lays the defeat to overconfidence. Nearly all of the crews entered this year have a good chance to win, and Columbia, Washington and Wisconsin are also feared.

the inning with a fly to Carroll out in left. One run, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell 3, Worcester 1.

Lowell

Ab r bh po a e

Dee ss 1 0 0 5 5 0

DeGroff r 1 1 1 0 3 0

Burke 2b 1 1 1 0 3 0

Stimpson lf 3 2 2 4 0 0

Matthews cf 3 2 2 4 0 0

Shaffer 2b 3 1 1 1 3 0

Wacoby c 2 0 0 5 0 0

Kelly 1b 2 0 0 5 0 0

Lohman p 3 0 0 0 0 1

Totals 23 7 9 37 12 2

Worcester

Ab r bh po a e

Carroll lf 1 0 0 1 0 0

Strands 3b 1 1 1 0 0

Pottelger cf 4 0 2 2 0 0

Ross 1b 1 0 2 15 0 0

DeGroff 2b 1 0 2 1 0 0

Conney ss 4 0 0 0 6 2

Monahan c 4 0 0 2 2 0

Woodbury p 3 1 0 0 0 1

Totals 31 2 9 24 17 3

Lowell 0 2 2 0 1 0 0 2 7

Worcester 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2

Two-base hits: Matthews, Three-

base hits: Shaffer, Matthews, Sacri-

and Kelly. Scorer: Matthews.

Bases on balls: By Lohman 1, by

Woodbury 3. Struck out: By Loh-

man 3. Left on base: By Worcester 1. Left on base: By Lowell

5. By Worcester 7. Time: 1:45. Attendance: 900. Umpire: Black.

and, forging Dowd and completed a double play by whipping the ball to first ahead of the runner.

Monahan struck out.

The score:

Lowell

Ab r bh po a e

Dee ss 1 0 0 5 5 0

DeGroff r 1 1 1 0 3 0

Burke 2b 1 1 1 0 3 0

Stimpson lf 3 2 2 4 0 0

Matthews cf 3 2 2 4 0 0

Shaffer 2b 3 1 1 1 3 0

Wacoby c 2 0 0 5 0 0

Kelly 1b 2 0 0 5 0 0

Lohman p 3 0 0 0 0 1

Totals 23 7 9 37 12 2

Worcester

Ab r bh po a e

Carroll lf 1 0 0 1 0 0

Strands 3b 1 1 1 0 0

Pottelger cf 4 0 2 2 0 0

Ross 1b 1 0 2 15 0 0

DeGroff 2b 1 0 2 1 0 0

Conney ss 4 0 0 0 6 2

Monahan c 4 0 0 2 2 0

Woodbury p 3 1 0 0 0 1

Totals 31 2 9 24 17 3

Lowell 0 2 2 0 1 0 0 2 7

Worcester 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 2

Two-base hits: Matthews, Three-

base hits: Shaffer, Matthews, Sacri-

and Kelly. Scorer: Matthews.

Bases on balls: By Lohman 1, by

Woodbury 3. Struck out: By Loh-

man 3. Left on base: By Worces-

ter 1. Left on base: By Lowell

5. By Worcester 7. Time: 1:45. Attendance: 900. Umpire: Black.

Those who are pointing to the failure of the Federal league back in 1890 and citing it as an instance to show that the Federal league will come to the same end, fail to take into consideration some of the important factors concerning the Brotherhood war.

At the time that we players league went to smash there were ugly charges that some of the prime movers in it had sold out to the National league

after it seemed that they had whipped the National league to a frazzle by taking practically all the star players.

It was said at the time that the number of the ruling powers in the players league figured that they could make more by "selling out" to the National league than by sticking to the new league. And so they went the way that promised the biggest percentage return. If so the charges declared those powers had not sold out.

The players league would have been the mightiest power in baseball, and the National league, then on the verge of bankruptcy, would have had to go down and out for all time.

Just what means were used to force

"selling out" process is not quite clear but it is said that some of the men deeply interested in the new league made a deal with the National league whereby the National league people were to reimburse them for all the money they had put into the new proposition and give them a handsome bonus in addition, for getting out of the new league's affairs, and using whatever influence they had to further loosen the props of the new league.

When a number of the backers of the league suddenly withdrew their support, in keeping with the alleged "selling out" process, the foundations of the new league weakened.

The players who had hurried to the new organization then became panicky and were quite willing to get back into the National league fold.

It has been said that the backers of the players league suffered a loss of about $1,000,000. This figure seems greatly exaggerated. In the first place a franchise, players, grounds and nea-ly everything a major league club needed didn't cover a cost of much over

$100,000 in those days and every club that was put into the enterprise wasn't a dead loss.

Also it must be borne in mind that if this story about "selling out" is true, that some of those who backed the players league got out of it with a profit, and that the total loss suffered by the men behind the players' league didn't eclipse that which the National league was made to suffer.

Therefore if these stories from the past assume the proportion of facts, it will be seen that the players' league and the Federal league cannot furnish any suitable parallel unless some of the Feds sold out to organized baseball, a possibility that is very very remote.

The players' league made a greater showing, in some ways than the Feds have done. The players' league opened the season with practically the cream of the talent of the National league. Of all its stars of the year before, the National league had left only a handful and their lineups looked strange and very "bush-leaguey."

In the days before the formation of the players' league the visiting teams were not given a percentage of the gate, but were allowed something like

$100 a day. This hardly met traveling expenses, and in small towns the owners of the teams that had to depend on the home gate receipts for paying off their players, could afford to pay the men only small salaries, while in cities like New York and Chicago the home receipts were very large and, of course, the players on these teams drew down big salaries.

The players wanted some equitable arrangement and the magnates of the big towns refused to change the plan of allowing visiting teams only $100 instead of splitting the income 50-50 the players decided to form their own league and work along on this basis.

However, after the players' league went into the scene, the National league lifted the splitting idea from the wreckage and adopted it to its own uses.

Were the old plan of guaranteeing the visiting team an allowance of about $100 a day still in existence, it would mean that such teams as the

Giants, Phillies, Athletics and other good home drawing teams would make about six million kecks each year while the Browns, Cardinals and other perpetual tail-enders would suffer preposterous and ruinous losses.

DEMAND FOR VEAL INCREASING

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—"The demand for veal has increased rapidly, and not only are the surplus dairy calves slaughtered but thousands of beef calves as well, until a calf will now sell for from $8 to $12 when only two to three months old."

This quotation from Farmer's Bulletin of the U. S. department of agriculture means that unless the farmer has unlimited cheap feeds, it is usually more profitable to market the dairy or dual-purpose calves, than to attempt to raise them, even though some of them might make good steers. While many deplore this heavy slaughter of calves, and legislation against it has been urged, the consumer's demand must be met.

While the number of cattle has decreased, the demand for meat has actually grown until not only have the exports nearly ceased, but the packers that they may provide cheaper meat are now buying many cattle that were formerly fed. The farmers who formerly bought nearly finished cattle

as feeders have been compelled to pay higher prices for such cattle or to take thinner animals.

The cattle-feeding business has changed greatly during recent years.

Formerly steers from four to six years

MANUAL TRAINING AT WASHINGTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL CONDUCTED UNDER DIFFICULTIES—GOOD RESULTS

INDUSTRIAL WORK AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The sewing has been done under the direction of the special teachers, Miss Flint and Miss Owen, aided by the regular room teacher. In the fourth grade, both boys and girls have sewed, and it is said that the boys usually excel girls in the quality of their work. The boys made carpenter aprons, and the girls sewing aprons, many of them being trimmed with ribbons and lace. In grade five, the girls made work aprons, and sweeping caps for themselves. In grade six, lessons were given in the making of petticoats and pretty dressing sacks or blouses. In grade seven, the girls made dresses for themselves. They cut their patterns, too, and several girls have made other dresses at home. In this grade, also, the girls have learned to run the sewing machine, which has been purchased with money raised from cake sales.

The manual training has been directed and taught wholly by the master, John E. Burr, although he acknowledges a debt of gratitude to the suggestions of Miss Underhill, the drawing teacher, whose kindly criticisms have helped to make the articles beautiful as well as useful. In grade five some time was given to mechanical drawing, and accurate measuring and cutting of patchboard. This was followed by simple problems in wood-work ends to hold books on a table were constructed. In grade six a combination of brasswork and wood work was used for the problems. An original design was first made for the decoration of brass top for pen wiper. This design was afterwards worked out for the four corners of a blotter mounted on thin whitewood. The last problem was the making of a letter rack, or postcard holder, from two thicknesses of white wood. The work required careful and accurate use of saw, knife, hammer and glue. Grade seven made raffia porch pillows on looms constructed at the school and tall wooden vases. The latter were decorated with paintings from drawing lessons. One boy finished his in burnt-work, which made an attractive article. The manual work in grades eight and nine was open to both boys and girls. The articles made were the folding sketching stool and the umbrella stand. These were constructed from hard wood purchased by Mr. Burr and sold at cost or less to the pupils of the class. The tools—two saws, three screwdrivers, several hammers, two planes, a square, and a few other odd tools, donated by children or purchased with money raised at food sales or from sale of old rubbers collected by children. Out of little came much, for necessity is the mother of invention and causes all things to be as they are.

THE SPELLBINDER

Rep. Victor Francis Jewett of Lowell has been referred to quite frequently this year as a republican of the newer type of legislators who disapprove of the methods in vogue by the so-called "reactionaries," and the following is from a recent issue of the Cambridge Sentinel:

If the republicans are ever to come back in the esteem of the people of Massachusetts they must discard every reactionary leader in their midst. These leaders, and Middlesex county has far too many of them for the good of the community, were all opposed to improving the government of Middlesex county.

Girls' High School Needed
In a few months hence the school board will be at its wits' end to find room for all the pupils who wish to be admitted to the high school. At present the work and discipline of the school are seriously interfered with as a result of overcrowding, while some go so far as to say that the pupils are exposed to dangers of a different kind from the manner in which boys and girls are crowded together in class rooms, corridors and assembly halls.

On all sides it is admitted that we must have either a new high school or a very large addition to the present school. Already we have an "annex" and if another building were added there would be some difficulty in finding a suitable name for it. It might be called "No. 2" or "High School Extension," which would be very clumsy.

There is a widespread sentiment throughout the city in favor of a girls' high school by which the sexes would be provided for in separate buildings. There is no doubt whatever that great advantages would redound to both boys and girls from segregation in different schools.

In recent years the courses of study for boys and girls have been more and more differentiated along special lines of study and training, demanded in the one case by the boys, and in the other by the girls.

For example boys are tending more to mechanical trades and handicrafts where they do not prepare for the professions; and the rudiments of a great many such trades are taught in the vocational schools. The girls, on the contrary are taking up domestic science in its various branches and in this the boys have no place. But these are not the only instances in which the courses taken by girls differ from that of boys. The preparation for college is different as it naturally should be. It is a fact incontrovertible that the special educational needs of boys and girls can be much better provided for in separate schools and hence the necessity of reaching a decision as soon as possible in this matter of providing a new high school for girls.

The expense will undoubtedly be used as a reason for putting off the decision but the sooner the problem is taken up and disposed of the better for the schools, and the city. Undoubtedly the matter of expense is a very serious obstacle, but the necessity may as well be met now as later. There is also a demand for a new industrial school and one which some people regard as more urgent than that for a new high school. In my opinion they are both equally necessary and the city may as well take steps to provide both, even if it be necessary to go to the legislature for permission to borrow outside the debt limit.

The Referendum
It is all very well to talk home rule for cities and to encourage the referendum, but there are certain instances in which the referendum like other good things may be vitiated. If the legislature passed a bill granting a pension to every adult man and woman in the state the people would undoubtedly approve it by big majority, but would it be wise just or right for the governor to submit any such proposition to the referendum? I think not, and I believe a great many democrats have the same opinion.

Who's to Blame?
When a police officer comes to a gang of boys on the sidewalk and asks them in a gentlemanly way not to block the thoroughfare, or to move on, they generally show respect for his authority and do as he has ordered. But if he treats them like a lot of noxious animals that are to be banished they will naturally resent such treatment. When a police officer is always in trouble with the people on his beat, even where other men preserved order and had no trouble, there is a suspicion that the people are not entirely to blame.

Bills That Should Stay Put
There were two bills killed in the legislature this year that should never be brought forward again. One was the veterans' preference bill which in the final show up mustered but little strength. The defeat in the senate was obtained on a voice vote and the advocates of the measure were unable to muster enough supporters to make a respectable showing.

The other bill which has been defeated was that for a statute to Gen. Butler on the state house grounds. This bill always brings to the front all the personal enemies of the late General Butler, all the feckless millitary men in whose minds the old Lowell warrior was not an ideal hero. Out of respect to Butler, his friends should let the matter rest until such times as his personal enemies and columnists shall have passed away and till posterity unswayed by malice will do justice to his memory.

Oiling the Streets
Now that the streets, formerly watered, are treated with oil, the abutters are wondering whether they will have to pay for the watering merely or pay for what the oil treatment costs. The oiling is much to be preferred if it costs no more than the watering. A good many people believe that the oil would last longer and be more effective as a dust-layer if it were protected against travel for 24 hours after being laid. Why not close the streets for 24 hours after oiling, Mr. Morse?

The County Ring Saved
Speaking of the county ring probe, Practical Politics has the following:

"The Middlesex county ring, mythical or otherwise, will breathe easier, now that the house has rejected the bill for an investigation of the government and financial administration of Middlesex county."

"Rep. Henry J. Mahoney of Cambridge, editor of the Cambridge Sentinel, made a gallant fight for the measure, but the opposition proved just strong enough to win out. The bill needed a majority vote. An attempt to secure reconsideration yesterday failed."

"The strong argument used against the measure was that County Commissioner Erson Barlow, who was elected on a Boston 'American-anti-Middlesex county ring platform, has failed to discover any rottenness and that therefore there is no apparent need of an investigation."

This was certainly turning the tables on Commissioner Barlow and it also shows that as a political power the county ring is still in the game.

Seeking Building Defects
Commissioner Donnelly and Inspector Connor are acting in co-operation with the state police in investigating fire-traps and defective buildings.

Commissioner Donnelly states that already considerable good has been accomplished and that fire escapes have been ordered upon several buildings where the laws did not seem to be complied with. Inspector Connor also complains of the greed shown by certain proprietors of Central, Middlesex and other streets who build out to the sidewalk line and have gone to the trouble of the sidewalk. This habit is to be discouraged as far as possible.

City Finances
Mr. Tarbox, the expert accountant

Plan Your Next Visit To Boston Monday, June 22nd And Take Advantage of Our Great Annual June Clearance Sale

An Event of Unusual Magnitude to which every Selling Section of our Two Immense Buildings Contributes Remarkable Values

Hundreds of Price Concessions

This is by all odds New England's Foremost Clearance Sale. Patrons will find thousands of articles needed for Summer uses marked at remarkably low prices. In some cases recent special purchases have arrived in time to be included in this sale.

At Actual Savings of 1/4 to 1/2

If you cannot attend this sale in person use our Telephone or Mail Order Service freely. Information cheerfully given regarding the goods on sale, and orders filled promptly.

SUMMER BUSINESS HOURS—Remember the Jordan Marsh Company store closes at 1 P. M. Saturdays and 5 P. M. other week days during the summer months.

Free Delivery

We deliver free of charge in Massachusetts anything we sell. We deliver free of charge in New England anything we sell, with the exception of House-furnishings—in which case a purchase of 2.50 secures free delivery.

Jordan Marsh Company

No Shopping Trip to Boston Can be Complete Without a Visit to Boston's Greatest Store

from the office of the state board of labor and statistics, has been in Lowell, off and on, for several months and has familiarized himself very thoroughly with the city's financial condition. A amble fits across his very pleasant countenance when he hears city fathers and others talking about the reduction in the temporary loan can be looked for this year and it cannot be looked for next year, or any other year, unless less money is appropriated than is represented by the revenues. Reducing the temporary loan with borrowed money is not a genuine reduction and this is just what is going on. The only difference in the modus operandi at city hall this year as compared with former years is that this year the city secured permission from the legislature to carry out a refunding process which is but an arrangement to pay off a certain amount within a specified time.

The Park Department
Things are settling down to normal in the park board and the citizens may now look forward to a display of business judgment in the management of the department affairs. The arrangements for the opening of the playgrounds have been well looked after and there is a prospect of good results. Commissioner Henry Carr has worked hard and collected a considerable sum of money for the playgrounds. He intends to get the best sanction for a baby show at the close of the South common, so as to bring out the mothers with their babies. He would offer prizes for the prettiest babies and the most handsomely decorated baby carriages.

Fearful of Pawtucket Bridge
The Pawtucket bridge is under suspicion again and the residents of Pawtucketville will hesitate to drive over it with heavy loads until some engineer reports it safe or until Charles Morse drives over it once more with a big steam roller. What say you, Commissioner Morse, in regard to testing the strength of the bridge once more? It is alleged that it does not wobble under the heaviest of Gage's ice teams or under the ordinary street car; but even that is not sufficiently assuring to the people who are afraid that it might collapse some fine morning same as did part of the Chelsea street bridge.

School Board Rumors
There is a good deal of curiosity as to what the school board will do at its next meeting. Rumor has it that a new superintendent will be elected either at that or a subsequent meeting. There is still a vacancy for principal of the Edison school. The candidates mentioned are Christopher Hagan, Hon. John F. Meehan and a Mr. King from Boston. Mr. Hagan had charge of the school for a year and did good work, while the late principal was out on leave of absence. The board put a woman in charge of the school as a matter of economy and it is not known whether after retiring so many teachers, it will be able to pay a principal at the Edison. It is stated that the proposed arrangement for sake of economy is to give each primary teacher 10 pupils and each grammar teacher 15. There will be no examination for new teachers this year as there is still a waiting list of ample proportions.

THE SPELLBINDER.

$500.00 IN CASH PRIZES

GIVEN AWAY IN

Next Sunday's Boston American

FOURTEEN Puzzle Pictures each representing a street, will be published in next Sunday's Boston American. A list containing the correct answers will be published on the same page.

No answer books to buy—no expense to you. Just pick the names you believe to be correct from the list—write them in the "Answer Blank" and mail them to the Weekly Puzzle Editor of the American.

THE ORIGINAL KATZENJAMMER KIDS

Uncle Heiney has his hands full mit dem!

HE GETS 'EM
YOU BET!

Don't Miss Them
Next Sunday!

Make Your Dollar Produce More in a New York City Hotel

Two Specialties

$2.50 PER DAY A pleasant room with private bath, facing large open court.
(Not one room, but one hundred of them.)
$3.00 PER DAY An excellent room with private bath, facing street, Southern exposure.
(Not one room, but eighty-seven of them.)
Also attractive rooms without bath from $2.00. The Restaurant prices are most moderate

Location

One minute from 5 of the largest department stores. Five minutes walk from 19 principal theatres. Within a block of the Fifth Ave. shopping district. Every line of transportation passes the door. Fifth Avenue bus lines and principal surface lines. The Hudson Tubes across the street. Elevated Railroad Station across the street. Subway Station three minutes away. Grand Central Station within seven minutes. Pennsylvania Railroad Station just one block away. For convenience one could ask no more.

The Hotel

EVERYTHING NEW AND MODERN. A FIVE MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL. EQUIPPED TO SATISFY THE MOST EXACTING TASTE.

THE HOTEL MARTINIQUE

"THE HOUSE OF TAYLOR"

Established 1848

Broadway, 32nd and 33rd Streets
New York

CHARLES LEIGH TAYLOR
President

WALTER CHANDLER, JR. & WALTER C. GILSON
General Manager Vice-President

QUINCY HOUSE
500 Rooms—$1.00 Per Day and Up
FREE SHOWER BATHS
Your Choice from 3 or 4
Luncheon Specials 50c
Every Day 11:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
TABLE D'HOTE DINNER
In main dining room and enfilade, 11:30 to 9 p.m. $1.00
PLANKED STEAK or CHICKEN
Served for two persons in the JAPANESE GARDENS
BOSTON'S MOST NOVEL CAFE
Special Music, 12 to 2 P.M.
With Sides 6 P.M. to Midnight

HOTEL COLLINGWOOD

West 35th Street,
NEW YORK CITY
SETH H. MOSELEY.
Half Bk. from Herald Sq. & 5th Av.
In midst of leading department stores and theatres.
Select accommodations for discriminating people with personal attention and service impossible in the larger hotels. Your patronage is earnestly solicited.
Room without bath.....$1.50
Room without bath for two.....$2.00
Room with bath.....$2.50
Room with bath for two.....$3.00
Parlor Bedroom with bath.....$5.00
Special attention given to ladies and families. Restaurant at moderate prices.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

SOME LYING FIGURES

The ways of the political propagandist are often more contradictory than consistent and they who take their industrial information from the pages of trade journals are apt to be badly misled. The current editions of some leading journals and magazines would have the public believe that American industry is in a most depressed condition, that the future is gloomy, that the government is short of funds—and all because of the democratic administration in Washington. Meanwhile there is no indication of hard times in the great manufacturing cities, apart from the temporary lull that is due to conditions the world over and to over-present reasonable influences. When President Wilson declared a few days ago that the degree of business depression which exists is due to psychological causes, he aroused a storm of protest and would-be ridicule throughout the land, but the truth of his statement is borne out most strongly by the frenzied attempts of selfish interests to create an artificial opposition to the government. The president touched a sore spot and the resultant signals show that his diagnosis was nearly correct.

No better illustration of judgments formed, consciously or unconsciously, on biased application of statistics could be given than that contained in two recent editorials, one being from the Fall River News and the other from the well known financial review, "The Banker and Tradesman." Both editorials deal with emigration conditions as an indication of good or bad business and though each arrives at diametrically opposite conclusions, no one can deny that each discussion is convincing, without the other.

"There is hardly a more faithful and reliable index of the conditions in the business world," says the Fall River News, "than the statistics of immigration, the ebb and flow of the movement of working people from Europe to this country or the reverse." It then goes on to compare the immigration figures of the present year with those of former years and concludes that the total for the five months ending June 1, 1914, as compared with the same period in 1913 shows a falling off of more than 25 per cent. It furthermore decides that far more emigrants returned to their own country this year than last and that both facts make it look as though American conditions are far from prosperous.

The conclusions arrived at are as follows: "These figures can only indicate that the demand for labor is strikingly less at this time than it was a year ago. Opportunities for employment have been reduced. This present condition is but a repetition of what happened following the depression of 1907. Then, foreign born persons returned to their native lands in great numbers. 'So far, there has been no general wage reduction. The employers are not cutting wages, but they are reducing their payrolls. Fewer men are employed. Labor, of course, feels the change.'"

Even if the figures on which above is based were correct it is questionable if they could be taken as a barometer of American trade conditions, as immigration is affected to a great extent by conditions in other countries. In this phase of the matter, however, we are not at present interested.

The edition of "The Banker and Tradesman" published almost on the same date as the above, tells an altogether different story. Under the caption "Immigration on Increase" it says:

"According to statistics published by the Bureau of Immigration, all records for influx of foreigners to our shores are being broken this year. Since the first of the fiscal year of 1914 began immigrants have come to this country at the rate of more than 2000 per week. The government statistics show that for April and May the total number of immigrants admitted for that month was 119,855 and for the ten months 1,128,356. If the number of people admitted during May and June equal those admitted in previous years, the total for 1914 would be approximately 1,351,000 immigrants. The record for any year heretofore was 1,255,549 arriving in 1907."

As the financial journal gives the government Bureau of Immigration as the source of its information, its figures carry more conviction than those quoted by the other paper and go far towards nullifying the pessimistic conclusions. This does not indicate, however, that our Fall River contemporary distorted the immigration reports, but in all probability it based its conclusions on tables compiled by some interested source adverse to the democratic regime.

LAWRENCE STRIKE FUND

The decision of the fall bench of the supreme court to the effect that money contributed to the relief of the Lawrence strikers two years ago was a public charitable trust and that those controlling it were personally liable for its expenditure, is a strong blow to the L. W. W. in this section of the country. Strictly speaking it has nothing to do with the principles of the disruptive body, but it will attract a great deal of unfavorable advertising to its methods, and unfavorable advertising is what the L. W. W. or other bodies founded on false sentimentality most fears. The case of the Lawrence funds was given to the courts when it was discovered that only $10,188 of the $100,000 contributed by the public, was accounted for. The working public was unusually generous, many having contributed because of the emotional aspects of the case, even though they did not approve of the strike or the methods of those in charge of it. It is not probable that a strike under similar circumstances at the present time would appeal so strongly to public sympathy, particularly after the publication of the supreme court decision.

We look for sterling honesty in greatest degree from those who condemn dishonesty, and therefore the revelations attendant on the Lawrence strike with its mismanagement of funds is a direct shot at the shrewdness of the L. W. W. Surely those who agitate equality for all and who dwell so eloquently on the woes of the poor should be the last to capitalize the misery brought on by their unwelcome agitations. And what sin of capital approaches in gravity the personal appropriation of money contributed by honest workers for the relief of those believed to be in want?

The court has ordered the Lawrence strike committee to pay over $15,000 to the clerk of the supreme court, and if the individuals concerned have not been repudiated by the organization, the money will undoubtedly be paid in short order. The L. W. W. is said to be well supplied with funds, for whatever it is strikes you out it succeeds in drawing credit to its mill. Money may not come so freely, however, after a few revelations like that now brought to public attention.

WHAT OF MEDIATION?

The reported difficulties that prevent a successful culmination of the mediation proceedings at Niagara seem so slight as compared with the situation confronting the different countries at last that hope should not yet be abandoned. If the proceedings up to date were not a gigantic bluff on the part of any or all of the representatives, it ought not to be very hard for all parties to find some way out that will be generally acceptable. The two greatest obstacles it would seem are the selection of a successor to Huerta and the bringing about of an armistice between the conflicting parties in Mexico.

The representatives of the present de facto government of the revolutionary land announce that Huerta is willing to resign provided that a neutral official be elected as his representative. This would seem quite reasonable if the Huertists explained what their idea of a "neutral" is, but of this there is no certainty. On the other hand it is said that the American government insists on a Mexican president from the followers of the constitutionals—though why this should be is also a puzzle to the ordinary person. Strictly speaking, America should have no more interest in one party than in the other, and if there is any prospect of peace in selecting somebody outside the active ranks of both parties, the American public would advocate such a proceeding. Still, it is only fair to assume that the administration has some delicate reason for wishing to have a constitutionalist succeed Huerta, and in this connection it is not always well for the public to display too great curiosity.

As to the armistice, the rebels do not seem willing to surrender any military advantage they have gained, relying on their arms to win what mediation may not give them. Possibly Mexico could fare worse than under the domination of the victors. Villa and Carranza, at present at odds, have shown considerable ability as leaders, and their policies in conquered territory have restored a greater semblance of liberty than the rule of Huerta. Whether mediation succeeds or fails, there are gleams of hope in the situation.

THE FOG DANGER

From the testimony already given in the inquiry on the loss of the Empress of Ireland in the mouth of the St. Lawrence and from the report of a somewhat similar collision last week between the Pretoria and the New York—fortunately different in effect—it would seem that the laws governing navigation in time of fog are quite generally disregarded. Though it is an accepted rule of the sea that vessels slow down or stop entirely at such times, the recent disasters prove that many of them trust to luck and keep on their course. From many different quarters comes the statement that no method of signaling can be relied on wholly when there is a thick fog and that absolute safety can only be assured for passengers by ships coming to a dead stop. It will not be surprising that if such will be insisted on in the future for the present situation may not cease until there is some reliable international tribunal with ability to make a new set of wise sea laws and with authority to enforce them.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

At the present session of the superior court now sitting in New Bedford, Judge Robert F. Raymond refused to commute the district court sentence of three months in the house of correction imposed upon a resident of Fall River who pleaded guilty of operating an automobile while he was in an intoxicated condition. This action will be commended by the public, for a sentence of three months does not seem excessive for the offense of endangering the lives of men, women and children, and this drunken driver does. He may lose his own life which in some aspects may not be a public calamity, but he is just as liable to inflict serious injury on the driver or occupants of any other auto using the same thoroughfare, to say nothing of pedestrians who are at his mercy. For the good of all communities an example should be made of all drunken drivers who come before the courts, and it is to be hoped that they get into the clutches of the law before instead of after some serious accident.

ANNEXATION IMPERATIVE

It is not generally known to the people of Lowell that this city is one of the smallest in the state in point of area, as most cities in the same class when population is considered, have twice the area of Lowell. Lowell has a smaller area than any of the suburban towns. This is one great reason why annexation from these towns is imperative. On this point The Sun will have something to say later on.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PROTECT OUR YOUNG MEN
Reformers every now and then make a great outcry about the necessity of saving our young women from the snares of the great city. Dr. Frank Gunaehus points out that there is so much talk about the needs of the young women the young men have been forgotten. The cities grind up a lot of girls. There is no guarantee that the average girl is safe in the great city than the average boy. There are just as many people who go running for young men as there are who run for young women. The average youth faces more temptation in a day than the average girl comes across in a month—Johnston Democrat.

INVITING FIRES

There is a disposition in this country to sympathize with any one who is suffering from fire, but the attitude toward such persons in Europe is just the opposite, they being held personally responsible until they have proved themselves innocent. This may seem unjust and unreasonable, but the result of such action is that very few fires in Europe are traced to incendiaries. The knowledge that such an occurrence casts a reflection upon the owner of property makes him much more careful regarding the conditions about his premises than is the case where a fire is considered simply a misfortune.—Newport News.

WERE FROM MISSOURI

And now it is said that the generally accepted report of the death of the black monarch, King Menelek of Abyssinia, like several others that have received circulation previously from time to time in the past 10 years, was erroneous and that he is still in the flesh. Apparently he is a tough old proposition with more lives than a cat.—Fall River Globe.

FOGS AND SPEED

There will be general approval of the action suggested by Secretary Redwood and taken by Acting Supervising Inspector General Hoover, in issuing instructions to all local boards of steamship inspectors to impose a heavy penalty in all cases where a master of a vessel carrying passengers proceeds through fog at full speed. The penalty is to be decided whether the recklessness of the captain resulted in loss of life or not. In the future it will not be necessary for a collision to occur before a prison term, but the mere fact of the endangering of lives by running at full speed will result in action being taken.—Manchester Union.

WORCESTER LIGHTS

Worcester saw itself lighted up last night and one of the largest, if not the very largest crowd, that has ever congregated in the city's history was attracted to the scene. The spectacle was a revelation to all. Few ever received a more striking manifestation of the value of light over half-light and darkness. To many the spectacle was that the city had not installed up-to-date lighting in its central portion before this.—Worcester Gazette.

PRISON TERMS

A Boston hotel employee's story, about being hounded back to crime by the painful mugging of fellow workers is heard, in various forms, in many cases where an ex-convict has come back to prison for a second term. If the prison happens to have encouraged decent ideals in the prisoner, the world is better off. A prison term is a small part of the punishment the law inflicts. Even a year's term is a life-sentence, of a sort.—Brooklyn Times.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Hundreds of persons have already seen the wonderful Laszky photograph, "The Only Son," at the H. F. Keith Theatre, and today many more will witness it. It is a remarkable picture, a happy blending of the tragic with the lighter scenes. Thomas W. Ross in the leading part is seen to distinct advantage, while his supporting company of players has many good ones. The rise of a pampered son in the business world, and the light which he reluctantly wages against his father from the burden of the story, add to the interest of this picture. The other reels, two of them of a comedy nature, and in one of which the irrepressible John Bunny appears. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15. Children five cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Of the many interesting and really commendable southern plays presented

this afternoon and evening, the Kasino will be the objective of hundreds of happy couples representing Lowell, Nashua, Lawrence and Haverhill. The Kasino is a new and an amusement resort has spread far beyond Lowell boundary lines, and today finds patronage more substantial than that of the inevitable tribute to good management. Come and get the Kasino sensation.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Band concerts at Lakeview park, Sunday, June 21st, 1914, by the National band, R. A. Griffiths, bandmaster. Jos. C. Usher assistant bandmaster. F. T. Murrey, piccolo soloist. Bandmaster Griffiths has here arranged one of his old time, popular concert programs of songs new and old.

AFTERNOON, 3 TO 5

March, Gollmar Bros. Triumphal, Sweet Overture, Light Cavalry, Supper Overture medley, I'm Just Crying for You, Caprice, Geraldine, Hall Waltzes, Our Wedding Day, Tehani Selection, Bonnie Scotland, Dawditt (a) Play on My Way to Mandalay, (b) When the Twilight Comes to Kiss the Rose Good Night, Von Tilzer Descriptive, The Forge in the Forest.

EVENING, 7.30 TO 9.30

March, Freedom's Awakening, Welcome, Overture, Harrington-Sargent Medley, Remick's Hits, Selection, Sons of Erin, Beyer Patrol, The Blue and the Gray, Dalbey Piccolo solo, The Meadow Lark, Brookshire Mr. F. T. Murrey, Overture, Superba, Dalbey Selection, Sweet Memories, Lamps Finale, Songs of the Nation. Commencing next Monday afternoon and evening and for the entire week management of Lakeview park will present as the free outdoor attraction, the famous coterie of acrobats, The Weber family. The troupe consists of three men and three women who present one of the best acts of its kind on the American stage, and have been featured with many big fair and circuses. The Weber family will be remembered as having appeared at Lakeview last summer for a week's engagement. Performances will be given on the open air stage every afternoon at 4 and every evening at 9 o'clock.

IT MAY COST A LITTLE MORE

But when painted right you get the difference of the cost in the wear. Have your painting done by the shop with a reputation for good work.

DWYER & CO.

Painting Contractors
170-176 APPLETON STREET.

OTTO COKE

GENUINE OTTO COKE
$6.00 Per Ton 2000 Lbs.
$3.00 Per Half Ton 1000 Lbs.
$5.00 Per Chaldron 1440 Lbs.
$2.75 Per Half Chaldron 720 Lbs.
Prices subject to advance without notice.

JOHN P. QUINN

Tel. 1150 or 2450. If one is busy call the other this season by the Merrimack Square Theatre Players, none should prove more entertaining and meet with more general satisfactory results than next week's attraction, "Lena Rivers," a play dramatized from Mary J. Holmes' novel of the same name. This piece has been giving genuine satisfaction to the theatrical people of the country for several years past and judging from the results attained during the present season, it promises to be listed with the best of its kind for some time to come. Undoubtedly many local patrons have witnessed the play in the past, but like all good offerings of this kind it loses none of its charm and power to entertain despite its repetition. The story it tells is one that grips and holds interest to the very close, never once straying from the main theme and always dealing with facts and circumstances that reflect the work of a true artist. The characters of the play and the atmosphere which the dramatist has drawn about the piece is wonderfully done and tends to make it a distinctly southern drama and that invariably reaches the heart and feelings of its audiences. Walter Scott Weeks and Miss Valerie will appear in the leading roles and the supporting cast is a thoroughly ready won. They will receive the complete support of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Stevens, Miss Eddy, Miss Hurst, Miss Williams and the others. In staging the piece Manager Cadell will again demonstrate the fact that he is willing to give his patrons the very best that the stage can offer. Seats are now on sale and if you would be sure of your favorite location, pay a visit to the 2053 and have them reserved. Sunday's sacred concerts, given afternoon and night, will be of the usual high standard and will have something new in the line of photo-plays. Remember this theatre is always cool and comfortable. Try it and be convinced.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

Sunday brings Francis A. Bushman and Beverly Blythe in "The Girl Behind the Curtain," a clever two part story acted in these two acts' imitable manner. It tells of a prearranged marriage in order to secure a fortune, how the girl first is deceived and then is beautifully told, in a clear and convincing manner. Other good films will also be shown on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Through the Clouds," a most spectacular picture, with a story that is a sensation, will be the special attraction. The story is that of a gang of clever thieves who finally get hold of a valuable diamond through a clever ruse. A detective is at once engaged to unearth its whereabouts and after a series of thrilling escapes, he finally lands the prize, and the gang is jail. A scene from a balloon to an aeroplane in mid-air is one of the many thrilling scenes.

THE OWL THEATRE

"Gosh darn that villain!" he came pretty near killing the series of "The Perils of Pauline" in this week's release. In fact, it is his advice to make away with Pauline, and the smooth rascal is as inventive as a fox. She came pretty near death this week, if it did happen, why, the management of the Owl would be without a big drawing card. However, she is still on deck. "Our Mutual Girl," a two-reel Keystone and another two-part drama, is a program to see it today, it's your last chance. Monday and Tuesday, Daniel Frohman and his troupe of actors, in "The Girl Behind the Curtain," a most spectacular picture, with a story that is a sensation, will be the special attraction. The story is that of a gang of clever thieves who finally get hold of a valuable diamond through a clever ruse. A detective is at once engaged to unearth its whereabouts and after a series of thrilling escapes, he finally lands the prize, and the gang is jail. A scene from a balloon to an aeroplane in mid-air is one of the many thrilling scenes.

THE KASINO

This afternoon and evening, the Kasino will be the objective of hundreds of happy couples representing Lowell, Nashua, Lawrence and Haverhill. The Kasino is a new and an amusement resort has spread far beyond Lowell boundary lines, and today finds patronage more substantial than that of the inevitable tribute to good management. Come and get the Kasino sensation.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Band concerts at Lakeview park, Sunday, June 21st, 1914, by the National band, R. A. Griffiths, bandmaster. Jos. C. Usher assistant bandmaster. F. T. Murrey, piccolo soloist. Bandmaster Griffiths has here arranged one of his old time, popular concert programs of songs new and old.

AFTERNOON, 3 TO 5

March, Gollmar Bros. Triumphal, Sweet Overture, Light Cavalry, Supper Overture medley, I'm Just Crying for You, Caprice, Geraldine, Hall Waltzes, Our Wedding Day, Tehani Selection, Bonnie Scotland, Dawditt (a) Play on My Way to Mandalay, (b) When the Twilight Comes to Kiss the Rose Good Night, Von Tilzer Descriptive, The Forge in the Forest.

EVENING, 7.30 TO 9.30

March, Freedom's Awakening, Welcome, Overture, Harrington-Sargent Medley, Remick's Hits, Selection, Sons of Erin, Beyer Patrol, The Blue and the Gray, Dalbey Piccolo solo, The Meadow Lark, Brookshire Mr. F. T. Murrey, Overture, Superba, Dalbey Selection, Sweet Memories, Lamps Finale, Songs of the Nation. Commencing next Monday afternoon and evening and for the entire week management of Lakeview park will present as the free outdoor attraction, the famous coterie of acrobats, The Weber family. The troupe consists of three men and three women who present one of the best acts of its kind on the American stage, and have been featured with many big fair and circuses. The Weber family will be remembered as having appeared at Lakeview last summer for a week's engagement. Performances will be given on the open air stage every afternoon at 4 and every evening at 9 o'clock.

IT MAY COST A LITTLE MORE

But when painted right you get the difference of the cost in the wear. Have your painting done by the shop with a reputation for good work.

DWYER & CO.

Painting Contractors
170-176 APPLETON STREET.

OTTO COKE

GENUINE OTTO COKE
$6.00 Per Ton 2000 Lbs.
$3.00 Per Half Ton 1000 Lbs.
$5.00 Per Chaldron 1440 Lbs.
$2.75 Per Half Chaldron 720 Lbs.
Prices subject to advance without notice.

JOHN P. QUINN

Tel. 1150 or 2450. If one is busy call the other

Putnam & Son Co.

166 CENTRAL STREET

Attention Workingmen!

"WATCH THE WEAR"

The best Union Made Overalls in America. If a pair rips, Bring Them Back, and get a new pair free. In our basement department we carry everything required by tradesmen, mechanics, machinists and teamsters, of the best make and quality.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, 50c

Blue denim, white drill, Otis pin check, black, drab black and white duck and drill.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, high back railroad make, 75c

Double cylinder blue denim, heavy pin check, special white, drab, and black and white duck.

Remember, if a pair of "Watch the Wear" overalls rip, you get a new pair FREE.

Working Shirts 45c

Great full sizes; double stitched felled seams and full length. Black satin and twills, black and white, and chevrons.

SPECIAL TODAY

Lisle Finish Fast Black Hose 10c
A lot just closed from a manufacturer—much finer quality than we have ever seen for this price.

Engineers' and Shop Caps—10c Canvas Gloves—5c

Wool and White Duck Frocks and Coats for butchers, all length coats, long, three-quarter and short.

Long Khaki Coat for grocers, long cover coats, covert coats and overalls.

White Duck Coats for barbers, druggists and barkeepers.

Machinists and carpenters' aprons.

Bakers' Long White Coats and Caps.

Everything for all tradesmen in our Basement Department.

WHITE-PINE BLISTER RUST

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE RECOMMENDS DESTRUCTION OF ALL INFECTED LOTS

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 26.—Further investigations by specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture into the white pine blister rust have convinced the department that if this disease becomes generally distributed in our forests it will be the worst enemy that the white pine has to encounter. Drastic action is therefore urged again by the authorities in order to eradicate the disease before it becomes as firmly planted here as it is already in Europe. Owners of infected areas are strongly advised to destroy their diseased trees without delay. There is no chance that the tree can recover, and it is merely a menace to its neighbors.

In a professional paper published as bulletin No. 115 by the U. S. department of agriculture entitled "New Facts Concerning the White Pine Blister Rust" the latest information available regarding this disease is set forth.

To indicate the seriousness of this disease it is stated that about 10 years ago infected trees were found in the pines planted for ornamental purposes in a large private estate in Vermont. About 50 of the 150 trees on this estate or 33 1-3 per cent are now visibly affected by this disease. Probably 5 or 10 per cent more will develop it, for it takes a long time for the maximum of damage to be done.

In studying this menace the department of agriculture has had something like 500 lots of white pines carefully inspected. Results of this inspection show conclusively that a single tree with fruiting bodies of the fungus and in proximity to a current blast which acts as a carrier for the disease may start an epidemic which may continue for years and may spread over an area of several square miles. Moreover, it was found that the inspection and removal of trees actually found to be infected was quite inefficient to prevent the spread of the plague. Despite the present loss that it would cause, therefore, the department feels that the only safe method is the total destruction of infected lots.

The white pine blister rust is a native of Europe, and was first discovered in this country in 1903. It has not as yet attacked any of our forests, and if owners of white pines which have not been grown from seeds which make a conscientious search for evidence of the disease, it is hoped that it can yet be kept under control. Obviously the rust makes its presence known through yellow blisters which break out through the bark on the main stem near the ground. After a few days these blisters break open and give forth large numbers of dusty orange colored spores.

Owners who have reason to suspect this disease on their trees are urged to forward specimens for investigation to the office of forest pathology, bureau of plant industry, where examination of them will be made free of charge.

WOMEN'S

PANAMA

HATS

A few genuine South American Panamas, large shape, today

.....$1.00

A LIMITED NUMBER

of Women's small shapes in Panamas, exceptionally fine braids$3.00

WHITE FELT HATS—

for women, and White Duck

Hats with black patent leather

band50c

Putnam & Son Co.

166 Central Street.

CUT PRICES ON

LEATHER GOODS

DEVINE'S

124 MERRIMACK ST.

Repairing, Etc. Telephone 2160

ANDREWS & McGRAY

Manufacturers of

Cabinet Work of All Kinds to Order

Stores and offices fitted up. Wood turning, jobbing and repairing. Old furniture repaired and finished. New furniture made to order. Wood tanks, shoe and butchers' blocks and tables made to order. 46 Fletcher st. Tel.

Summer Prices on

COAL

NOW PREVAIL

They Will Undoubtedly Be Advanced July 1st. A

Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

E.A. Wilson & Co.

YEAR'S SEWER WORK IN PAWTUCKETVILLE

A meeting of the municipal council held yesterday was preceded by a conference in Mayor Murphy's office to which Accountant Tarbox of the state bureau of labor and statistics was a party. The conference had to do with the borrowing of money for the purpose of meeting current expenses.

Mr. Brown had come out with a statement to the effect that he believed the present government could get along with a smaller loan this year than in previous years by collecting a greater amount in taxes. He allowed that $300,000 extra could be collected in taxes, but his brother members on the council and Mr. Tarbox believed that to be a physical impossibility.

Mr. Tarbox believed it would be good policy for the government to pass a loan order for $1,700,000. "The situation at the present time," he said, "is not any different than it ever has been, except that heretofore the treasurer borrowed $500,000 in anticipation of revenue and now the order to borrow has to have the endorsement of the city government. It is simply a technicality. The council's action in the matter makes it legally sound and gives the city better standing with the banks."

The $500,000 temporary loan has been brought forward from year to year in anticipation of revenues. The $500,000 that came over from last year must be paid, in order to be paid legally, out of the revenues of 1913.

"No other government has ever done it. This government recognized, or it was called to its attention early in the year, that the manipulation of the temporary loan in former years had been illegal and the government appealed to the legislature for a special act and this act provides that the money collected for taxes shall be used for no other purpose than to pay the temporary loan. The sum of $100,000 was paid in January and that reduced the temporary loan to $500,000 and the city has two years from Jan. 1, 1914, in which to pay that amount."

"The city has $100,000 in the bank representing money collected on 1913 taxes and the government is obliged to take that money and pay the notes on the temporary loan. The other notes for $300,000 can be renewed, but the government must increase the temporary loan $500,000 in order to get by. The city hasn't any surplus money on hand and never will have a surplus until its appropriations are less than its revenues. The situation today isn't any different than it was last year or other years except that it has been legalized."

The Meeting Called

Mayor Murphy called the meeting to order at about 11:20 with all members present. The first business up consisted of a grant of petitions for permits to keep gasoline and for street cleaning and watering, all of which were properly referred.

Charles Stickney had addressed a letter to the mayor relative to the accident at the Boston & Maine railroad station, Wednesday morning. The mayor did not read the letter, but Mr. Stickney was present and he told Mr. Stickney that the council would hear him if he had anything to say.

Mr. Stickney had a scheme for the erection of a waiting room on the roof of the sheds of the American Express Co., near the Chestnut street bridge. He said that stairs could be built there and that access to the station could be made much more readily by way of a stairs at that point. Only a short stairs would be necessary, he said, and it would do away with the long, tiresome stairs that are being used at the present time.

Mr. Stickney's scheme sounded all right, but there was some doubt as to the willingness of the Boston & Maine to build the waiting station and further doubt as to the willingness of the American Express Co. to allow the erection of a building on the roof of its sheds. Mr. Stickney said he didn't suppose that the municipal council could order it done but he thought it wouldn't do any harm to suggest it. The council will think it over.

$250 For July Fourth

Lowell will probably have a very elaborate municipal celebration of Independence day as the sum of $250 was voted this morning by the municipal council for the observance of the glorious Fourth. The council voted the mayor the authority to spend the $250.

Severals in Pawtucketville. All of the money to be expended on sewers for the remainder of the year will be spent in Pawtucketville and the amount to be expended will approximate $35,000. A week ago Chas. Morse brought in an order to borrow $35,000 for the construction of the sewer in question, but since that time he has found out that he has money enough to build them without borrowing a cent, unless, perchance, he should encounter ledge and Charlie told his brother members of the council that the digging looks "pretty soft" to him.

Mr. Morse went to the auditor's office this morning and discovered that on June 15, last four days ago, he had $22,221.54 cents to his credit for sewer construction and in addition to that he will have about $5000 that the city will pay him for the construction of the Middlesex street sewer for the accommodation of the County Training school at North Chelmsford. When Charlie found out that he had money in the bank he tore up the loan order and tackled the council this morning on a cash proposition. It was voted unanimously to do the work as planned by Mr. Morse.

The order is to lay a sewer from Woodward avenue to Hayes avenue, also sewers in Hayes avenue, Tolman avenue, Chase avenue, West Meadow road and Mitchell avenue, was read. This sewer will extend for a distance of about 1800 feet, through and under private land belonging to the Lowell General Hospital corporation. F. G. McGregor, new or former Frederick Aver, heirs of Josephine M. Chase, heirs of Hiram Whitney, William T. S. Bartlett, and the Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston. The sewer is to be built of brick in cement mortar.

Borrow for Current Expenses. The following order to borrow from time to time during the year for the purpose of meeting expenses was submitted by Aldermen Brown and unanimously adopted:

Order to borrow from time to time during the current financial year, beginning Jan. 1, 1914, money for the purpose of meeting current expenses for the city on temporary loans in anticipation of the revenue of said financial year.

That the treasurer be, and he is hereby authorized, with the approval of the commission of finance and of these persons constituting a majority of the municipal council who countersign the notes hereinafter mentioned, to borrow from time to time during the current financial year, beginning Jan. 1, 1914, money for the purpose of meeting current expenses of the city on temporary loans in anticipation of the revenue of said financial year and to give for such loans the notes of the city to an amount not exceeding $500,000. Such notes shall be payable with-

SPECIAL Traveling Goods

At Factory Prices for Rest of June

TRUNKS, BAGS AND SUIT CASES

Save Money by Trading Here. Give Us a Call and Be Convinced.

Sarre Bros.

539-543 MERRIMACK STREET

Above City Hall

Auto Delivery

EMPRESS WAS OFF COURSE

Second Mate of Steamship Alden So Testifies at Quebec Inquiry Today

QUEBEC, June 19.—Olin Sable, second mate of the steamship Alden, testified at the Empress of Ireland inquiry today that when the Empress approached his ship in the St. Lawrence shortly before the fatal collision with the collier Storstad he noticed that the Empress was off her course and that he had to port his helm to avoid her.

This testimony was introduced by counsel for the Storstad's owners in corroboration of the testimony yesterday of James Galway, a quartermaster on the Empress who said the vessel's steering gear was defective.

INQUIRY RESUMED

QUEBEC, June 19.—The Empress of Ireland wreck inquiry opened today with explanations and apologies by C. S. Haight of counsel for the owners of the Empress, who said he had not meant to imply yesterday that the Canadian Pacific railway, owners of the Empress, had tried to spirit witnesses away. This was the impression made by Mr. Haight yesterday when he placed on the stand James Galway, a quartermaster of the Empress, who testified that the ship's steering gear was defective. Galway had told him, he said, that he was about to be sent to England.

Percy Hillhouse of the Fairfield shipbuilding yard of Glasgow, where the Empress was constructed, testified that the water tight compartments and the boat accommodation. He said that the Empress was carrying boats to accommodate 30 more people than she had on board at the time she sank.

In one year from the date of the first issue of notes in anticipation of the revenue of said financial year.

Subject to the limitations imposed by this order, any such notes or portions thereof, may, at their maturity, be paid or replaced by the issue of new notes due within one year from the date of the original obligation. All debts incurred under authority of this order are hereby expressly made payable from the revenue of said current financial year. Said notes shall not be valid unless authenticated by the certificate of the First National bank of Boston subscribed thereto.

The purpose of this order is to enable the city of Lowell to make immediate provision for the maintenance of its public departments which it otherwise would be without the funds essential thereto, and this order is of urgent necessity for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety.

Trade House for Land

On recommendation of Alderman Carmichael it was voted to instruct Agent Foyle to trade a house on the boulevard for land on the boulevard. The city owns a cottage house on the boulevard and while the city hasn't any need for the house it has almost urgent need for 7500 feet of land owned by Joseph P. St. John. The house looks as good to Joseph as the land does to the city, hence the trade. Mr. Carmichael said that Mr. St. John would move the house somewhere, but he didn't know just where.

At 12 o'clock the council adjourned to meet again on Tuesday, June 23, at 11 a. m.

Rube at City Hall. Rube DeGroot and Mrs. DeGroot, and Shorty Dee were callers at the city hall this forenoon and they seemed to enjoy their visit immensely. They first visited the mayor and City Messenger Monahan then showed him through the building from top to bottom. Rube and Shorty threw themselves into the leather-upholstered chairs in the public reception room and allowed that they were much more comfortable than the professional bench.

George O'Donovan, an engineer of the Empress, said he was in charge of the steering gear. He inspected it every day and had never found anything wrong with it and had never had any complaint.

Olin Sable, a member of the crew of the steamer Alden, was called. He swore that he noticed the Alden steering badly as she passed them shortly before the disaster. This, in a way, corroborated Quartermaster Galway's testimony of yesterday that the ship's steering gear was not in perfect order.

Sable, who is a Norwegian, was second mate on the Alden. The Alden was coming up the St. Lawrence when the Empress went by. She was about six points off on the starboard bow. It was 10:20 p. m. According to the witness the Empress was steering badly and he had to port his helm between 1 1/2 and 2 points to avoid her.

Hans Olvern, another sailor on the Alden, corroborated Sable.

THE CAESAR MISCH STORE

ALEXANDER STRAUSS, INC.

220 Central Street

Special Sales

For Today

EVERYTHING ON CREDIT

At prices that are as low or lower than any other store. Nothing but garments that will give guaranteed service.

MEN'S $18.50 SUITS.....$12.50

Fancy Blue Stripe Serge—fancy mixtures. Every one has been reduced for this sale.

BOYS' $5.00 SUITS.....$3.95

Stylish, durable suits of stout cheviot mixtures.

AN ABSOLUTE CLEARANCE OF WOMEN'S SUITS—All cloths suits in this disposal sale—

~~$12.50~~ ~~$15.00~~

Formerly $18.50 to $22.50.

Formerly $22.50 to $25.00.

LADIES' $3.95 WASH DRESSES, $1.95

Black and White Striped Voiles—Light weight gingham and fancy printed voiles.

$1.95 WASH SKIRTS.....98c

Cordeline, Ratine Skirts—In plain and tunic models.

$1.50 WAISTS.....98c

New Organdie and Crepe Waists—The new "Lily" collar and vestee effects.

$2.95 CHINA SILK BLOUSES, $1.98

Plain White and Pompadour flower designs. Silk that will wash as well as cotton.

PLANS FOR SEPARATING B. & M. AND NEW HAVEN

BOSTON, June 19.—In a lengthy conference at the capitol today Governor Walsh, Senator Edward Fisher of Westford and Representative Ellis of Newton discussed plans for separating the Boston & Maine from the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad before the close of the present session of the legislature.

In a statement today, the governor expressed great displeasure at the action of the railroad committee yesterday in referring the separation question to a recess committee and said that he believed the order calling for the recess committee would never come out of the committee on rules, to which it was referred by the senate. Senator Fisher and Rep. Ellis, who had dissented from the railroad committee's report, will appear before the committee on rules Monday to oppose the appointment of a recess committee.

Protect Yourself
Ask for ORIGINAL
GENUINE

The Food Drink for All Ages—Highly Nutritious and Convenient. Rich milk, with malted grain extract, in powder form—dissolves in water—more healthful than tea or coffee. Used in training athletes. The best diet for Infants, Growing Children, Invalids, and the Aged. It agrees with the weakest digestion. Ask for "HOLLAND'S"—at Hotels, Restaurants, Fountains. Don't travel without it. Also keep it at home. A lunch in a minute. In Lunch Tablet form, also, ready to eat. Convenient—nutritious.

PEOPLE OF LOWELL

Have you ever stopped to consider the superiority of our convenient way that gives you CREDIT MERELY FOR THE ASKING?

100 Cents a Week Points the way to CLOTHES SATISFACTION FOR ALL THE FAMILY.

—BECAUSE—

FOR YEARS WE HAVE BEEN TRUSTING THE PEOPLE WHO TRUST US TO GIVE THEM A SQUARE DEAL.

BUY THAT BALMACAN NOW PAY FOR IT LATER!

LADIES'

SUITS
COATS
DRESSES
BALMACANS

at prices that tell a tale of economy.

MEN'S AND BOYS'

SUITS
PANTS
BALMACANS

High in Quality and Low in Price

$1.00 a Week

Frankel & Goodman Corp.

242 Central Street
LOWELL'S MOST RELIABLE CREDIT STORE

YOUR OPPORTUNITY

To buy graduation gifts for your daughter, son or relative is presented to you today and Monday through the discounts that have been made on the original selling prices of the articles, suitable in every way for gift giving purposes, which are listed below.

LADIES' SOLID GOLD WATCHES, Waltham movements; value $25. Sale Price $17.00.
LADIES' GOLD FILLED WATCHES, 20-year guarantee, hunting and open face. Regular value $15.00. Sale Price $8.95.
LADIES' FINE GOLD FILLED WATCHES, 20-year guaranteed cases, Waltham or Elgin movements. Value $20. Sale Price $12.50.
DIAMOND RINGS, small but extra fine quality. Value $25.00. Sale Price $14.75.

SIGNET RINGS, Greatest values in town. Ask to see our special at $2.98. Regular value $5.00, engraving free.
GENTS' WATCHES, New thin model 12 size, Waltham movements. Regular value $18.00. Sale Price $10.50.
GENTS' SOLID GOLD WATCHES, regular value $40.00. Sale Price $27.00.
THE EQUITY OR TRENTON WATCHES, fine timekeepers, only $5.00. Fully guaranteed.

GEORGE H. WOOD

THE WEDDING GIFT STORE
135 CENTRAL STREET

PETER DAVEY

Undertaker and Funeral Director
53 BARTLETT STREET
Telephone 79-R

CARROLL BROS.

PLUMBERS and STEAM FITTERS
36 Middle St. Tel. 1650

SUN READERS

Please take notice that we are now located at our new store, 140-142 GORHAM ST., opposite Saunders' and Flynn's markets. We are offering this week special bargains in everything to furnish a home. We extend to you a welcome invitation to visit us. An attractive metal match holder will be given free to all who call.

Quinn
FURNITURE CO.

140-142 Gorham St.

U. S. BUNTING CONTRACTS

Held Up by Sec. Daniels Who Suspects "Combine" in Bids of Two Lowell Firms

WASHINGTON, June 19.—On his expressed suspicion that the two American manufacturers of bunting were not true competitors in their bids on material for American flags, Secretary Daniels yesterday held up indefinitely the award of the contracts for the navy department.

Asst. Sec. Roosevelt recently informed Cong. Rogers that the contracts would be awarded to one of two firms in Lowell, but Secretary Daniels now informs Mr. Rogers that "the bids will remain on his desk for many a long day to come."

Of four bids submitted two came from American concerns, the United States Bunting company and the New England Bunting company, both of Lowell, these being the only manufacturers of this material in the United States.

Protests against the award of contracts for the American flag to English concerns poured in from all parts of the country, and Mr. Rogers took up the question with the navy department.

In his conversation with Mr. Rogers, Secretary Daniels said that he at least suspected that the American concerns were in a combination and that he did not propose to award the bid to any such "combine."

Although he did not say it in so many words, he gave the inference that he would award the contracts to foreign manufacturers rather than to an American concern which might be in such a combination.

Mr. Rogers yesterday wrote to the presidents of the American companies explaining the navy department's attitude and asking them to state the actual situation, "preferably" under oath.

CANAL WILL BOOM TRADE

MEANS $2,000,000,000 A YEAR MORE BUSINESS, AUSTIN TELLS MARYLAND BANKERS

CAPE MAY, June 19.—"The opening of the Panama canal will mean two billion dollars more business each year for the United States," declared O. P. Austin, formerly of the federal department of commerce, in an address today before the convention of the Maryland Bankers' association.

"By using the canal, shippers in our eastern seaports will save thousands of miles to ports in China, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand and will be nearer them than in London, even by the use of the Suez canal."

Mr. Austin suggested that the government construct an inland waterway in the Great Lake section of the country, "which would reach into the interior for 1500 miles and send forth great amounts of freight."

George R. Gehl of Westminster was elected president of the association; Charles Mann, Baltimore, secretary; and William Marriot, Baltimore, treasurer. The annual banquet was held last night.

PRIVATE SHIP

PANAMA, June 19.—The first private-owned ship entered the canal, which heretofore had been sacred to government craft, when the Santa Clara of the Pacific-Atlantic Steamship company passed through the Miraflores and Pedro Miguel locks yesterday afternoon. She carried the members of the diplomatic corps and many other prominent people.

Owing to the lateness of the hour the steamer was moored alongside the Pedro Miguel wharf and will return to her dock at Balboa tomorrow.

GIRL FIGHTS KIDNAPPER

YOUNG WOMAN BATTLES WITH MAN IN AUTO FOR TWO MILES—CLOTHING TORN DURING FRACAS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Philip V. Van Arsdale, who was famous as a chess player during his college days and is now a teacher in the high school at Scotch Plains, N. J., hired an automobile at Mt. Holly, N. J., yesterday afternoon and drove to Lumberton, two miles away.

Lumberton is the summer home of Rev. Johnson Oatman, a hymn writer, whose 17-year-old daughter Rachel, Van Arsdale married five years ago.

In February Mrs. Van Arsdale sued her husband for divorce in Nassau county, naming Mrs. Ella Gottlieb of Kew, L. I., in her complaint. Since the separation which preceded the suit three-year-old Williamina Van Arsdale has been living with her grandfather while the mother taught school in Mineola.

The child was playing in the yard about the Oatman bungalow when Van Arsdale drove up yesterday. He swung his daughter into the machine, but Miss Miriam Oatman ran after the car and jumped into it. A struggle followed, and Miss Oatman was twice knocked down, she later told a justice of the peace before whom she laid a charge of assault and battery against Van Arsdale.

The struggle continued throughout the two-mile ride into Mount Holly, where the attention of a policeman was attracted, and the automobile ordered run to the jail. This was done, and Van Arsdale left while Miss Oatman was making her charge. Her clothes and those of the little girl were torn during the scuffle.

WOMEN ASSAIL MURPHY

SUFFRAGE PARTY INVADES THE TWELFTH, AND ITS ORATORS PLEAD FOR THE VOTE

NEW YORK, June 19.—With the slogan, "We want votes," printed on a dozen banners the woman suffrage party of New York began yesterday afternoon what some of the leaders declared would be a "clean sweep" of the twelfth assembly district, "Tammany's Own." The party took a dozen of its best orators into the district in automobiles and carriages. Some preferred to walk.

A stop was made at the stoop of a big, unoccupied brownstone house at Rutherford place and East Seventeenth street, not many doors from the residence of Charlie Murphy.

Mrs. William Gillette ran up the stairs and announced that the party had formally taken possession, for the time being at least, of one section of "Tammany's Own" district. She was followed by a tall young woman who unfurled the "Votes for Women" standard. It was exactly 4 o'clock when Mrs. Gillette began talking, and from that until almost midnight the rollicking twelfth heard more about woman suffrage than ever before.

Nobody in the district made any objection to the invasion. Around 7 o'clock in the evening a group of the "braves" assembled outside the Annandale club and gave some of the women a handclap as they passed by in carriages. It is the hope of the campaigners to win over to their cause at least 60 per cent of the women of the twelfth, and to do so they intend to keep up the fight in this district from now until Sept. 15, holding four meetings daily.

Among those who volunteered for yesterday's meetings were Mrs. J. T. MacLean, Miss Elsie Stroup, Mrs. James Blood, Miss Portia Willis, Miss Margaret Hinchey and two Quakeresses, Mrs. J. Hoag and her daughter, Miss Eloise Hoag.

POSTMASTER AT BOSTON

NOMINATION OF CONG. MURRAY PREPARED FOR SUBMISSION TO SENATE BY PRESIDENT

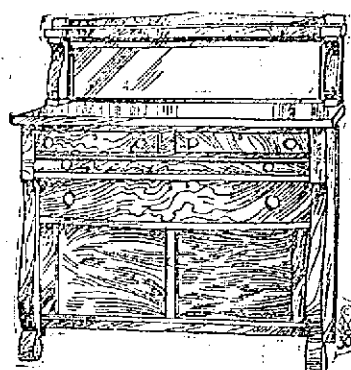

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The nomination of Congressman William F. Murray of Massachusetts to be postmaster at Boston was prepared for submission to the senate today by President Wilson.

NOMINATIONS BY PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Wilson today made the following nominations for postmasters:
Stephen Charters, Ansonia, Conn.; John Penfers, Meriden, Conn.; W. F. Murray, Boston.

FURNITURE FOR THE JUNE BRIDE

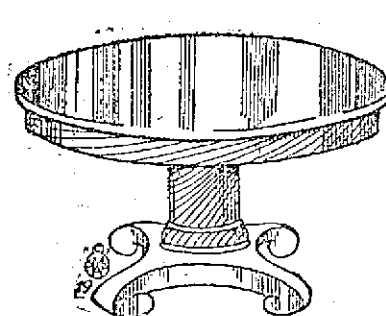

It is every new housekeeper's desire to have an up-to-date furnished home. We make this easy for you by showing an unusually fine assortment of furniture from the leading manufacturers in this country.

BUFFET

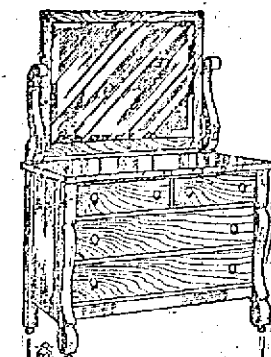

Like cut. Quartered oak, colonial design, large roomy drawers, plank top. Special Price..... $26.00

DINING TABLE

Like cut. Made of genuine quartered oak, platform base, large 41 inch top, 6 foot extensior. Special Price..... $15.75

DRESSER

Like cut. Genuine mahogany, 24x30 inch mirror, 42 inch top, dull finish. Special Price..... $17.25

A FEW SUGGESTIONS FOR WEDDING GIFTS

Imitation Leather Couch, $15
Leather Rocker..... $7.50
China Closet..... $14

Mahogany Pedestal..... $2.50
Gas Lamp..... $6.00
Dinner Set..... $10.00

Brass Bed..... $18.00
Reed Rocker..... $5.50
Brass Costumer..... $6.00

Parlor Suite..... $30.00
Large Picture..... $2.50
Dinner Chimes..... $3.50

MORRIS CHAIR

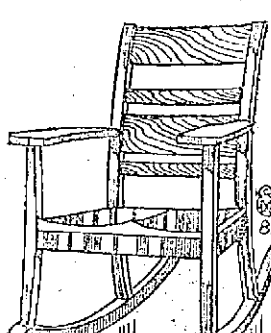

Like cut. Genuine quartered oak, spring seat, removable cushions. Special..... $10

LIBRARY TABLE

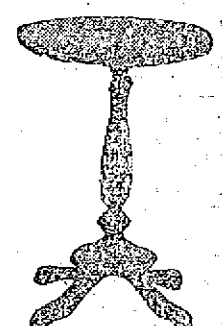

Like cut. Mission finish, 40 inches long; bookrack on sides. Special..... $12.00

PARLOR ROCKER

Like cut. Imitation mahogany frame, highly polished; shaped seat and back. Special..... $4.00

PARLOR TABLE

Like cut. Imitation mahogany, 24 inch top, pedestal design. Special..... $6.00

GOOKIN FURNITURE CO., Prescott St.

THE FASHION

115 MERRIMACK ST.

White Graduation Sale

WHITE CHIPS—In all the new blocks at 98c
WHITE HEMPS—With black facing, $2.49 and $2.98
PANAMAS—Latest styles at $2.49, $2.98 up
All our Trimmed Hats in Black and Colors at Reduced Prices.

SPECIAL PRICES TO GRADUATES

B. T. CRYAN - - - - - Manager

Seasonable Dresses

An Assortment of Handsome Dresses That Will Bring Crowds Here Today

200 DRESSES AT $1.98
Lawn, Voiles, Linens

300 DRESSES AT $2.98
French Linen, Flowered Crepe and Voiles

Dresses you would expect to pay $5.00 for. Others.....$5.00, $7.98, $10.00, $12.50 to $25.00

BIG DRIVE ON

CLOTH GARMENTS

$15.00 Suits at..... $8.00
$25.00 Suits at..... $12.00

GET YOUR OUTING COAT AT THIS SALE

$5.00—Values to $12.50
$8.00—Values to $20.00

WASH SKIRTS

Received Today
ON SALE TODAY AT

$1.00
$1.25
$1.49
$1.98

Ratone, Cordelene and Repp. Styles that no other store can show you.

CHILDREN'S DRESSES

Selling Above $1.00
$2 Styles, $1.50
$3 Styles, $2.25
$5 Styles, $3.75
35 Children's Coats Today... $1.98

CLOTHING $1.00 A WEEK

YOU don't have to look forward to new clothes if you trade with us. Just get them and pay us a dollar a week while you are wearing them. Such qualities as we offer will outlast your payments by many weeks.

For July Fourth and Your Summer Vacation

MEN'S, WOMEN'S and CHILDREN'S SUITS, COATS, SHOES and HATS at a saving from downtown prices from $2.00 to $4.00.

SPECIAL BLUE SERGE SUIT..... $12.50
This is a saving of $2.50 on each suit.

OPEN MONDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY EVENINGS

Shadduck & Normandin Co.

Lowell's Largest Credit House

210-214 MIDDLESEX ST.

New York Cloak & Suit Co.

CHERRY & WEBB

12-18 JOHN STREET

200 MINERS KILLED

CALGARY, Alberta, June 19—Two hundred men are believed to have been trapped and killed today as the result of an explosion in Hillcrest collieries mine at Hillcrest, near Frank, on the Crow's Nest line. About 600 men went into the mine this morning before the explosion occurred. More than four hundred men escaped but 200 were left, and it is said there is no hope that they are alive.

SAILOR DOPED IN JAPAN

Brought as Convict to California to Serve Three Years' Sentence—Strange Case

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—A strange tale as was ever told of adventure in the Pacific was made public today when Judge Dooling in the United States district court ordered on a habeas corpus the release of Albert Johnson, a Scandinavian sailor, just beginning to serve a three-year term in San Quentin penitentiary for a crime of which he never heard, under a name he could not even pronounce. Johnson must appear in court again on June 27, when the habeas corpus is returnable, but meanwhile he is at liberty without bail telling his wonderful story to his mates on the coast, of shanghaiing and mistaken identity, a story of the truth of which the authorities are fully convinced. Johnson was brought across the Paacific under sentence imposed by the treaty court at Shanghai on one Peter A. Grimes, alias Rodger or Dollar, for forgery. It was several days after he arrived before he could get the ear of the prison authorities. He could neither speak nor understand English, but eventually through his cellmate, a fellow countryman, who knows the language, he told the story which led to an investigation by the United States district attorney, who thoroughly concurred with the court in ordering Johnson's release.

Real Grimes Drugged Him
The story told by the sailor man is that he left his ship in Nagasaki to spend an evening ashore. In a saloon he met up with two or three men and accepted their invitation to drink. The next thing he remembered he was in irons between decks on a strange ship, which he soon learned was the United States transport Sheridan. He was landed at San Francisco and taken to San Quentin.

This recital fits into the known facts concerning Grimes, or Dollar, at several points. Confecture bridges the uncertainties remaining and removes all doubt from the authorities that Johnson has told the truth. The real Grimes served a term in San Quentin for forgery and was released last August. He was smooth enough to win the sympathy of Capt. Robert Dollar, a San Francisco merchant in the China trade, who sent him to Shanghai in a clerical position on one of his ships.

The vessel was scarcely outside the Golden Gate when Grimes was posing as Capt. Dollar's son. Before he reached the other side he had passed a number of bad checks and borrowed money from passengers. These courses he continued in Shanghai until he was arrested and placed on trial. The treaty court found him guilty of forgery and sentenced him to three years in San Quentin. An officer of the court took him to Nagasaki to put him aboard the Sheridan on her way back from Manila.

There is a slight gap in the story, which the authorities supply thus: Grimes was taken out by the officer who had him in charge, met Johnson in a saloon on the ship and, finding him a simple-minded sailor man, slipped a knockout pill into his drink. By the time he had taken effect Grimes had made his custodian drunk, taken the custodian's papers from his pocket and himself took the sailor down to the stateroom and received the assistance of the captain for his own safe delivery.

Johnson has been shown the prison picture of Grimes. He picked it out from a bunch of others and at once identified it as a likeness of one of the men with whom he drank in Nagasaki.

When two days out from Honolulu

20th Century Shoe Store

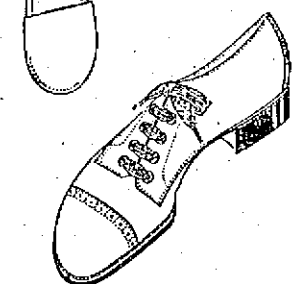

88 MERRIMACK STREET

Dorothy Dodd
FOR WOMEN

Dainty New Styles—Dressy Footwear that keeps its shape.

FLEXIBLE ARCH
for flat foot.
Correct and Possible.

ASK TO SEE THEM

"A GOOD RETURN"

Whether you buy the PACKARD Tennis Shoe, or the PACKARD Walking Shoe, or the PACKARD Evening Shoe, you get a good return for your money invested. Great pains are taken in the making of

Packard SHOES

The best of leathers are used, the most skilled workmen employed, so that the inevitable outcome is a shoe of style, quality, durability and comfort which necessarily cannot be duplicated at the price. There was such a demand for rubber sole shoes, both for golf and tennis, and also for walking, that the PACKARD people laid even greater stress on their new rubber sole shoes. Let us show you our most complete line.

SEE OUR WINDOWS

MEN'S AND BOYS' TENNIS OXFORDS

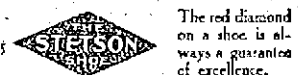

39c 39c

All Sizes—Black, Tan and White.

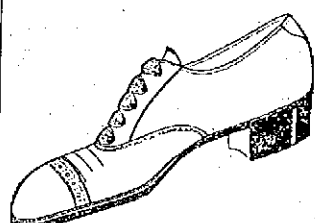

STETSON RUSSETS

are worth what they cost. Don't do yourself the injustice of buying shoes before examining Stetsons.

Stetsons cost from $5.50 to $9.00 the pair.

PENNANT SHOES
FOR MEN

$3.00

All the Latest Styles and Shapes

EDUCATOR SHOES
FOR CHILDREN

20th CENTURY SHOE STORE

88 MERRIMACK STREET

LADIES SLASHED PRICES

Prevail in all our departments. This is the time of the year when we must clean up all odds and ends to make room for white hats and materials. As is usual at this time cost makes no difference. We must have the room. Prices therefore are slashed in many cases to half and others nearly as much. YOU CAN BUY TWO OR THREE HATS HERE NOW FOR THE RETAIL PRICE OF ONE.

CHILDREN'S
HATS

Panamas

Panamas in greater variety than elsewhere. Practically daily shipments are coming into these rooms. They are new and the latest of their kind, many forecasting the ideas created in Paris for advance seasons. Our remarkable list of prices is

$1.68 to $4.98

Full line of nobby little hats for the young folk. Suitable for any wear from plain to graduation. Retail value range, from 98c to $2.98. Our wholesale price direct to you is

68c Up

WHITE CHIPS AND HEMPS Are Here in Abundance. See Them Now at...

68c Up

TRIMMED HATS

A remarkable stock of hats is to be sacrificed at the give-away price of...

$1.48 Up

BROADWAY

Wholesale Millinery Co.

196 Merrimack St.

Up One Short Flight or through H. L. Braus Company.

New York, Boston, Manchester, Haverhill

Caswell Optical Co.

39 MERRIMACK STREET

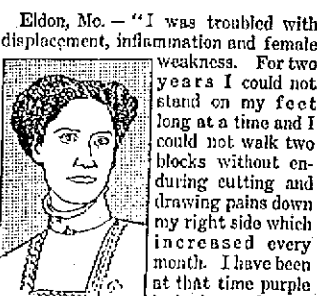

Ground Floor

We are now settled in our new location in the Hildreth Building

Come in and see us in our new home—Next to Waldorf Lunch.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertised itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? It has helped others, why not you.

A wireless was received on board the Sheridan asking if Grimes had been received at Nagasaki. As a prisoner under that name was safe between decks, having been regularly received at the Japanese port, an affirmative answer was returned.

Subsequent communication with Shanghai and Nagasaki from this port has borne fruit and it is learned that Grimes, under the name of Rodger, has been arrested at Nagasaki, United States, Dist. Atty. Preston was informed by cable yesterday that he will be prosecuted there for criminal offenses. The prosecutor also has been instructed by the attorney general to make a complete investigation of the substitution and to forward a report to Washington. Immediately. News of the arrest of Grimes has been sent to Washington by the United States consul at Nagasaki, with confirmation of the story of the substitution of the Norwegian sailor for the American prisoner.

VARDON WON OUT

PRESTWICK, Scotland, June 19.—Harry Vardon of South Hertfordshire, England, today for the sixth time won the British open golf championship.

Vardon's aggregate for the 72 holes was 306 strokes. He made the first round in 73, the second in 77, the third in 78 and the fourth in 78.

The new champion won the title the first time in 1896 when he was 26 years old. He took it again in 1898, 1903 and 1911.

Francis Ouimet, open champion of the United States, finished with an aggregate of 332 and was not among the first 50.

John Henry Taylor, last year's winner, who had led the field at the end of the third round, was second at the finish with an aggregate of 303.

J. L. Jenkins, who recently won the British amateur championship, easily led the amateurs with an aggregate of 315.

MONUMENTS AND MEMORIALS on all descriptions in granite, marble and bronze. Our manufacturing plant has the most modern power equipment and every labor-saving device.

GUMB BROS.

Cor. Gorham and Anderson sts. Near Edison Cemetery. Tel. 1017

DANDELION

TABLETS AND PILLS

A Miracle as a Blood Purifier. Say thousands who have used them. A positive cure for Rheumatism, Constipation and Pimples. Best remedy for Liver, Kidney and Stomach. Eliminates all poisons from the system without griping. Purely vegetable and guaranteed under Pure Food and Drug Law. Free samples on request to SCHENCK CHEMICAL CO., 64 Franklin street, New York. 25 Cents a box at HALL & LYON CO., 17-19 Merrimack Street, Lowell, Mass.

RAILROAD SECURITIES BILL
WASHINGTON, June 19.—Louis Brandeis of Boston and George Ruble of New York appeared today before the senate interstate commerce committee to discuss the railroad securities bill already passed by the house.

WILSON AT PHILADELPHIA JULY 4
WASHINGTON, June 19.—President Wilson has accepted an invitation to speak at Philadelphia on July 4.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun's "Want" column.

GIRL CRUSHED HAND
Fourteen-year-old Vera Doney injured her hand while at work in the U. S. Bunting factory this forenoon and was removed to St. John's hospital, where the injured member was treated.

Dainty
Summer
Dresses

Dresses that are cool, in a great variety of colors and designs to suit any individual fancy. The materials will not muss easily and will give you the satisfaction of knowing that no matter how hot the day you will always look "neat and trim."

Our Credit Plan

If you will open a "credit charge account" with us you will soon realize the comfort of being "better dressed" without the worry of "saving cash" in order to have the clothes you need.

Shadduck & Normandin Co.

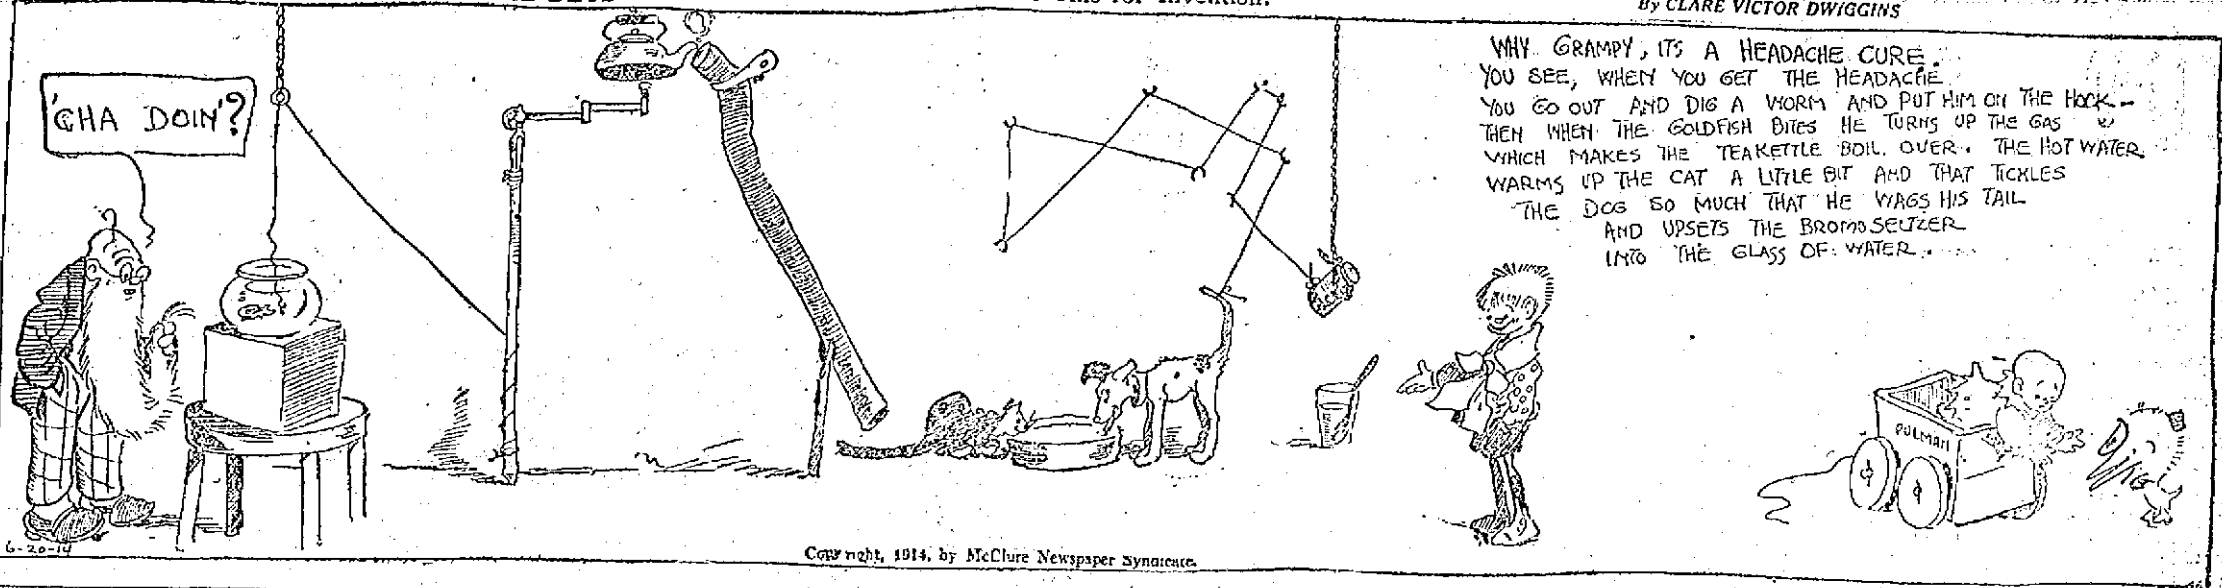

210-214 MIDDLESEX ST.

Open Monday, Friday and Saturday Evenings

DAY BY DAY WITH THE DEYS

How's This for Invention?

By CLARE VICTOR DWIGGINS

Copyright, 1914, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

READY FOR CONVENTION CARS COLLIDE

21 INJURED

N. E. Typographical Union Will Convene in Lowell Next Week—Opening Session Monday

Trolley Cars in Head-on Collision in Woods Near Rehoboth

Motorman Struck Pole When He Jumped for His Life

PROVIDENCE, June 20.—Twenty-one persons were injured, several of them seriously, when a Providence and Brockton street freight car and a Providence and Taunton passenger car came together in a head-on collision in the woods a quarter of a mile west of Rehoboth Village last night.

William Greene of Taunton, motorman, on the Providence-bound car, was among the seriously hurt. When the freight car came booming around the curve almost upon him, Greene dived out one side of his vestibule, while Charles Sutton of East Providence, a passenger who was standing in the front platform, went out the other side.

Greene hit a trolley pole beside the track and had four ribs broken. Sutton landed head first in a sandbank and was seriously hurt.

Others seriously injured are: Walter Webb, Brockton, messenger on the freight car, head and face bruised and cut.

James Pendergast, Brockton, right hand crushed.

Ernest R. Williams, Berlin, N. J., leg fractured.

Peter F. Kelley, Providence, right leg fractured.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE ON ALL

HELP WANTED

WORK FOR YOURSELF. MAKE money operating vending machines. Full line, complete outfit, small investment. Large profits, spare time, outdoor work. Ferris, Hass & Co., Easton, Pa.

WILL PAY RELIABLE WOMAN $250 for distributing 2000 free packages perfume, soap, powder in your town. No money required. Ward & Co., 216 Institute Place, Chicago.

SALSMEN WANTED—EXPERIENCE unnecessary, easy work, big pay. Write for large list of openings offering opportunities to earn $100 to $500 a month while you learn. Address nearest office. Dept. 267, National Salesmen's Training Association, Chicago, New York, Kansas City, San Francisco.

AGENTS MAKE BIG MONEY SELLING our line of specialties. Write for our new catalog and free sample. G. C. Haines & Co., Bridge St., Route 1, Glenfield, Lewis Co., N. Y.

SALSMEN WANTED—CAPABLE specialty men for Mass. Stable line on new and exceptional terms. Salary $100 to $500 weekly. Attractive commission contract; $35 weekly for expenses. Cleveland, O.

BUFTON HOLE OPERATOR, BACK stitcher and closer wanted. W. J. Barry Shoe Co.

EXPERIENCED HOOKER, EYELETTER, folder, lining maker, tip stitcher and stitchers on other parts wanted. Apply Stover & Bean, Food Bldg.

LOCAL REPRESENTATIVE WANTED. No canvassing or soliciting required. Good income assured. Address National Co-operative Realty Co., 1500 Marden Bldg., Washington, D. C.

BOOKKEEPER WANTED—EXPERIENCED double entry bookkeeper; state experience and salary expected. Address 377, Sun Office.

EXPERIENCED FOLDER ON MACHINE wanted; also hooker, eyeletter, tip stitcher on union special and stitchers on other parts. Stover & Bean Co., Thorndike St.

FLY SPINNERS, CAP SPINNERS and twisters wanted for worsted mill. Meet Mr. Hurley, the overseer, Tuesday at 10 o'clock. City Employment Office, 121 Central St.

HALLOU AUTOMOBILE AND RAILROADS. 141 Washington St., Boston, Mass. Wages, room, board, railroad ticket furnished by "H. Co-operative" Propositions. Get particulars.

LOWELL RAILWAY MAIL CLERK examinations coming. $75 month. Sample questions free. Franklin Institute, Dept. 183 N. Rochester, N. Y.

GOVERNMENT EXAMINATIONS—Thorough instruction $5. Returned if not employed. Particulars free. American Civil Service School, Washington, D. C.

MENDERS WANTED—Good work, steady job, excellent pay. Phone Lawrence 747, or call ready for work. Lawrence Burling & Sewing Co., 48 Osgood St., Methuen, Mass.

Young man 18 years old. Apply Liggett's Hall & Lyon Stores.

WANTED AT TALBOT MILLS NORTH BILLERICA Weavers on Woolen Goods.

Good Opportunity

For a strong young man who is willing to work, starting on small wages, must be honest and trustworthy; good recommendation; nature of business, stock man and general man in plumbing shop. Address T 59, Sun Office.

SUMMER RESORTS

FURNISHED CAMP TO LET ON Merrimack river, near Tyng's Island. Apply Billy Winters, 606 School St., or phone 8.

BOARS HEAD, HAMPTON BEACH, large double house, to let. C. E. Mitchell, 14 Water St., Haverhill, Mass.

THE OCEAN PARK HOUSE, Stone's throw from water, right beside ball grounds, is now open for the season. Best home cooking, board moderate, and ideal place for June brides and those who wish to stay over Saturday and Sunday. Address Mrs. T. Flinn, J. Ocean Park, Lynn, Mass.

FIVE-ROOM COTTAGES TO LET at Salisbury Beach, south end, by day or week; on water front. Apply to Albert Clark, 74 Market St., Amesbury, Mass.

E. SAVAGE, PAPER HANGER and decorator, with the United Wall Paper Store on Prescott St. All orders promptly attended to. Tel. 443.

PIANOS AND ORGANS TUNED AND REPAIRED. Tuning $1. J. K. Kishner, 129 Cumberland St., Tel. 614-J.

JIMMIE CO. CHIMNEY EXPERTS—Chimneys swept and repaired. Residence 1125 Bridge St., Tel. 345-W.

THE SUN IN BOSTON—THE SUN is on sale every day at both news stands of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell.

W. A. LEW Steam dyeing and cleaning of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel. 30 years in the business. 9 JOHN STREET

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Smith, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Joseph F. Fay, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-first day of July, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing the same in this will and testament, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on or before the date of said Probate Court, and by mailing, postpaid, said will and testament, by first-class mail, to all persons interested in the estate, thirty days at least before said Probate Court. First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SITUATIONS WANTED

WOMAN OF GOOD EDUCATION would like position in office or household, as secretary, governess or bookkeeper, speaking both French and English. Call Miss E. Aumont, T. W. C. A., John St.

SPECIAL NOTICES

STRAW HAT TAKEN SAT. EVE. Finder, if returned to Father's church, can be had at 25 Abbott St.

CASH PAID FOR SECOND HAND furniture of all kinds. Storage house, No. 11 North St.

WILL SOME BROTHER L. O. O. M. tell me where I can find work? Address 110, Sun Office.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING—Newly sewed, $50. Repairs sewed, 50c. Oak leaf leather shoe repair. A. Sandler Prop., 513 Broadway, cor. Mt. Vernon.

LAURENCE'S HAIR STAIN, Brown, Black, 25c. All drug stores.

BLANCHE CHARPENTIER, LADIES' and gents' manicurist, wishes to inform her friends that she is now located at Burns Barber Shop, Hildreth Bldg.

ANY PERSON OWNING A CAMERA, large or small, and wishing to make it a source of income, then, should call at Lowell Art Novelty Shop, 410 Sun Bldg.

CERTIFIED TEACHER WILL GIVE lessons in mathematics and any branch of the English language, will also prepare students for city service examinations. Miss K. E. Cavanaugh, 123 Lively St.

SPECIAL TREATMENT OF STOMACH, Bright's disease, bladder and nervous troubles. Dr. Overalls' book in public libraries. Free. Circulars explain everything. Address Overalls' Sanatorium, Chicago.

BOARD AND ROOMS, NICELY FURNISHED, with bath, hot and cold water; 3 minutes walk to city hall station. Eagle House, 332 Gorham St.

E. SAVAGE, PAPER HANGER and decorator, with the United Wall Paper Store on Prescott St. All orders promptly attended to. Tel. 443.

PIANOS AND ORGANS TUNED AND REPAIRED. Tuning $1. J. K. Kishner, 129 Cumberland St., Tel. 614-J.

JIMMIE CO. CHIMNEY EXPERTS—Chimneys swept and repaired. Residence 1125 Bridge St., Tel. 345-W.

THE SUN IN BOSTON—THE SUN is on sale every day at both news stands of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell.

W. A. LEW Steam dyeing and cleaning of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel. 30 years in the business. 9 JOHN STREET

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Smith, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Joseph F. Fay, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-first day of July, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing the same in this will and testament, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on or before the date of said Probate Court, and by mailing, postpaid, said will and testament, by first-class mail, to all persons interested in the estate, thirty days at least before said Probate Court.

First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SITUATIONS WANTED

WOMAN OF GOOD EDUCATION would like position in office or household, as secretary, governess or bookkeeper, speaking both French and English. Call Miss E. Aumont, T. W. C. A., John St.

SPECIAL NOTICES

STRAW HAT TAKEN SAT. EVE. Finder, if returned to Father's church, can be had at 25 Abbott St.

CASH PAID FOR SECOND HAND furniture of all kinds. Storage house, No. 11 North St.

WILL SOME BROTHER L. O. O. M. tell me where I can find work? Address 110, Sun Office.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING—Newly sewed, $50. Repairs sewed, 50c. Oak leaf leather shoe repair. A. Sandler Prop., 513 Broadway, cor. Mt. Vernon.

LAURENCE'S HAIR STAIN, Brown, Black, 25c. All drug stores.

BLANCHE CHARPENTIER, LADIES' and gents' manicurist, wishes to inform her friends that she is now located at Burns Barber Shop, Hildreth Bldg.

ANY PERSON OWNING A CAMERA, large or small, and wishing to make it a source of income, then, should call at Lowell Art Novelty Shop, 410 Sun Bldg.

CERTIFIED TEACHER WILL GIVE lessons in mathematics and any branch of the English language, will also prepare students for city service examinations. Miss K. E. Cavanaugh, 123 Lively St.

SPECIAL TREATMENT OF STOMACH, Bright's disease, bladder and nervous troubles. Dr. Overalls' book in public libraries. Free. Circulars explain everything. Address Overalls' Sanatorium, Chicago.

BOARD AND ROOMS, NICELY FURNISHED, with bath, hot and cold water; 3 minutes walk to city hall station. Eagle House, 332 Gorham St.

E. SAVAGE, PAPER HANGER and decorator, with the United Wall Paper Store on Prescott St. All orders promptly attended to. Tel. 443.

PIANOS AND ORGANS TUNED AND REPAIRED. Tuning $1. J. K. Kishner, 129 Cumberland St., Tel. 614-J.

JIMMIE CO. CHIMNEY EXPERTS—Chimneys swept and repaired. Residence 1125 Bridge St., Tel. 345-W.

THE SUN IN BOSTON—THE SUN is on sale every day at both news stands of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell.

W. A. LEW Steam dyeing and cleaning of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel. 30 years in the business. 9 JOHN STREET

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Smith, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Joseph F. Fay, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-first day of July, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing the same in this will and testament, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on or before the date of said Probate Court.

First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SITUATIONS WANTED

WOMAN OF GOOD EDUCATION would like position in office or household, as secretary, governess or bookkeeper, speaking both French and English. Call Miss E. Aumont, T. W. C. A., John St.

SPECIAL NOTICES

STRAW HAT TAKEN SAT. EVE. Finder, if returned to Father's church, can be had at 25 Abbott St.

CASH PAID FOR SECOND HAND furniture of all kinds. Storage house, No. 11 North St.

WILL SOME BROTHER L. O. O. M. tell me where I can find work? Address 110, Sun Office.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING—Newly sewed, $50. Repairs sewed, 50c. Oak leaf leather shoe repair. A. Sandler Prop., 513 Broadway, cor. Mt. Vernon.

LAURENCE'S HAIR STAIN, Brown, Black, 25c. All drug stores.

BLANCHE CHARPENTIER, LADIES' and gents' manicurist, wishes to inform her friends that she is now located at Burns Barber Shop, Hildreth Bldg.

ANY PERSON OWNING A CAMERA, large or small, and wishing to make it a source of income, then, should call at Lowell Art Novelty Shop, 410 Sun Bldg.

CERTIFIED TEACHER WILL GIVE lessons in mathematics and any branch of the English language, will also prepare students for city service examinations. Miss K. E. Cavanaugh, 123 Lively St.

SPECIAL TREATMENT OF STOMACH, Bright's disease, bladder and nervous troubles. Dr. Overalls' book in public libraries. Free. Circulars explain everything. Address Overalls' Sanatorium, Chicago.

BOARD AND ROOMS, NICELY FURNISHED, with bath, hot and cold water; 3 minutes walk to city hall station. Eagle House, 332 Gorham St.

E. SAVAGE, PAPER HANGER and decorator, with the United Wall Paper Store on Prescott St. All orders promptly attended to. Tel. 443.

PIANOS AND ORGANS TUNED AND REPAIRED. Tuning $1. J. K. Kishner, 129 Cumberland St., Tel. 614-J.

JIMMIE CO. CHIMNEY EXPERTS—Chimneys swept and repaired. Residence 1125 Bridge St., Tel. 345-W.

THE SUN IN BOSTON—THE SUN is on sale every day at both news stands of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell.

W. A. LEW Steam dyeing and cleaning of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel. 30 years in the business. 9 JOHN STREET

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Smith, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Joseph F. Fay, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-first day of July, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing the same in this will and testament, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on or before the date of said Probate Court.

First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SITUATIONS WANTED

WOMAN OF GOOD EDUCATION would like position in office or household, as secretary, governess or bookkeeper, speaking both French and English. Call Miss E. Aumont, T. W. C. A., John St.

SPECIAL NOTICES

STRAW HAT TAKEN SAT. EVE. Finder, if returned to Father's church, can be had at 25 Abbott St.

CASH PAID FOR SECOND HAND furniture of all kinds. Storage house, No. 11 North St.

WILL SOME BROTHER L. O. O. M. tell me where I can find work? Address 110, Sun Office.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING—Newly sewed, $50. Repairs sewed, 50c. Oak leaf leather shoe repair. A. Sandler Prop., 513 Broadway, cor. Mt. Vernon.

LAURENCE'S HAIR STAIN, Brown, Black, 25c. All drug stores.

BLANCHE CHARPENTIER, LADIES' and gents' manicurist, wishes to inform her friends that she is now located at Burns Barber Shop, Hildreth Bldg.

ANY PERSON OWNING A CAMERA, large or small, and wishing to make it a source of income, then, should call at Lowell Art Novelty Shop, 410 Sun Bldg.

CERTIFIED TEACHER WILL GIVE lessons in mathematics and any branch of the English language, will also prepare students for city service examinations. Miss K. E. Cavanaugh, 123 Lively St.

SPECIAL TREATMENT OF STOMACH, Bright's disease, bladder and nervous troubles. Dr. Overalls' book in public libraries. Free. Circulars explain everything. Address Overalls' Sanatorium, Chicago.

BOARD AND ROOMS, NICELY FURNISHED, with bath, hot and cold water; 3 minutes walk to city hall station. Eagle House, 332 Gorham St.

E. SAVAGE, PAPER HANGER and decorator, with the United Wall Paper Store on Prescott St. All orders promptly attended to. Tel. 443.

PIANOS AND ORGANS TUNED AND REPAIRED. Tuning $1. J. K. Kishner, 129 Cumberland St., Tel. 614-J.

JIMMIE CO. CHIMNEY EXPERTS—Chimneys swept and repaired. Residence 1125 Bridge St., Tel. 345-W.

THE SUN IN BOSTON—THE SUN is on sale every day at both news stands of the Union station in Boston. Don't forget this when taking your train for Lowell.

W. A. LEW Steam dyeing and cleaning of ladies' and gentlemen's wearing apparel. 30 years in the business. 9 JOHN STREET

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all persons interested in the estate of Margaret Smith, late of Lowell, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Joseph F. Fay, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

Probate Court, to be held at Lowell, in said County of Middlesex, on the twenty-first day of July, A. D. 1914, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing the same in this will and testament, for three successive weeks, in the Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be on or before the date of said Probate Court.

First Judge of said Court, this tenth day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

SITUATIONS WANTED

WOMAN OF GOOD EDUCATION would like position in office or household, as secretary, governess or bookkeeper, speaking both French and English. Call Miss E. Aumont, T. W. C. A., John St.

SPECIAL NOTICES

STRAW HAT TAKEN SAT. EVE. Finder, if returned to Father's church, can be had at 25 Abbott St.

CASH PAID FOR SECOND HAND furniture of all kinds. Storage house, No. 11 North St.

WILL SOME BROTHER L. O. O. M. tell me where I can find work? Address 110, Sun Office.

MODERN SHOE REPAIRING—Newly sewed, $50. Repairs sewed, 50c. Oak leaf leather shoe repair. A. Sandler Prop.,

Villa Dictates New President

SENATOR FISHER'S BILL
ON THE B. & M. STOCK

Would Provide That the State
Can Step in at Any Time and Purchase the Stock of the Road to Protect Public

Senator Fisher has prepared a draft of a bill, which has the approval of the governor, which he intends to offer as a substitute for the resolve for a recess committee, which resolve the committee on railroads reported on Thursday with five members of the committee dissenting. Senator Fisher as one of the dissenters feels very strongly that some legislation should be enacted and the principal feature of his bill is that the commonwealth reserves the right at any time to acquire the stock of the Boston & Maine railroad now held by the Holding company, and that this right of the commonwealth to buy shall be stamped or printed upon each certificate of stock. This "string," so called, is for the purpose of reserving to the commonwealth the right to step in at any time and take the stock and thus prevent the same from being controlled by some monopoly to the detriment of the public and minority stockholders.

It seems unfortunate that the committee on railroads should have reported such resolve, especially as the federal government has taken the position that unless legislation is enacted it will enter suit by July 15th and in order to avoid such suit the New Haven railroad has assented to the terms of the agreement and it only needs action by the Massachusetts legislature in order to release the stock of the Boston & Maine railroad in order to carry out this agreement and avoid the litigation and consequences which must follow if the federal government enters suit and it is admitted that the "Fisher bill," so called, amply protects the right of the commonwealth.

ANGELES PROCLAIMED
PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Acting Secretary of War of Constitutional Cabinet Deposed From That Position by Carranza and Proclaimed the Provisional President of Mexico by Gen. Villa

SALTILLO, Mexico, via Laredo, Texas, June 20.—General Felipe Angeles, acting secretary of war of the constitutional cabinet, was deposed from that position today by order of General Carranza, for disobedience of orders.

ANGELES PROCLAIMED PRESIDENT BY VILLA
SALTILLO, Mexico, June 20.—(Via Laredo, Texas, June 20)—Diaz Gutierrez, a small town north of San Luis Potosi, was captured today by constitutionalists under General Carranza, according to official advices received here.

DIAZ GUTIERREZ CAPTURED BY REBELS
SALTILLO, Mexico, June 20.—(Via Laredo, Texas, June 20)—Diaz Gutierrez, a small town north of San Luis Potosi, was captured today by constitutionalists under General Carranza, according to official advices received here.

Second Edition

FOR LATER LOCAL AND TELEGRAPHIC NEWS AND TODAY'S STOCK MARKET REPORT SEE NEXT EDITION

NINE KILLED IN MIMIC
WAR IN AIR AT VIENNA

Ripping of Dirigible by Biplane While Both Were Flying at Great Height Caused Explosion and Nine Men Were Burned

VIENNA, June 20.—Nine aviators lost their lives today when a mimic war in the air was suddenly turned into tragic reality by the accidental ripping of a dirigible airship by a biplane while both were flying at a great height during the Austrian maneuvers.

Both craft were destroyed and their occupants, nine military and naval officers and non-commissioned officers, were burned and mutilated beyond recognition.

The Austrian army dirigible balloon Koertling ascended at Fischamend about 12 miles from Vienna, where there is a military aviation station. It was the intention of Captain Hauswirth, the commander, to take photographs of the movements of the troops below and then to join in the maneuvers.

The aeroplanes started half an hour later from the same spot. It was manned by Lieutenants Platz and Hocsta.

her big sister and immediately began a sham attack. After encircling the airship several times at a height of 1500 feet the biplane's pilot suddenly maneuvered his little craft with the object of taking a position directly above the airship.

The navigator evidently miscalculated his distance or his speed, for the nose of the biplane grazed the envelope of the airship and ripped her wide open.

There was a terrific explosion and flames immediately enveloped the biplane. In a few moments the remnants of both craft crashed on the slopes of a mountain with their occupants. The bodies were so charred and mangled that they were scarcely recognizable.

The names of the victims:
CAPTAIN JOHAN HAUSWIRTH.
LIEUT. ERNEST HOFSTETTER.
LIEUT. BRUER.
LIEUT. HOCSTA.
LIEUT. HAIDINGER.
LIEUT. PLATZ.
CORPORAL HADIMA.
CORPORAL WEBER.
ENGINEER HAMMERER.

HARVARD --- YALE

Deciding Game in Baseball Series at Boston This Afternoon

BOSTON, June 20.—The diamond was in perfect condition when the Harvard and Yale nines started the deciding game this afternoon in the series which is to settle their baseball differences for the year 1913.

The sun shone from a cloudless sky and the northwest wind, which had been almost a gale earlier in the day, diminished to a gentle breeze.

Long before three o'clock, the hour set for the opening of the game, the crowds began to converge at Fenway park, where the game is to be held. This is 16th time that a third game has been necessary to decide the series. Harvard has won 24 of the series played in previous years and Yale 16 with three ties. Harvard won two of the three games last year.

The lineup:
Harvard—Nash, 1b; Wingate, ss; Clark, 2b; Ayers, 3b; Cannon, rf; Hardwick, lf; Frye, cf; Mahan, p; Osborn, c.
Yale—Middlebrook, cf; Hanes, rf; Blossom, ss; Cornish, 2b; Rellly, 3b; Hunter, c; Patsy, lf; Swihart, 1b; Way, p.

MR. A. F. BEST
OF THE
AUTO RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY
Appreciating the splendid patronage by the people, announces that he will equip the buses with the latest pattern of modern spring seats with a view of affording patrons the highest degree of comfort.

Object of the Gift

The object of a wedding gift is to perpetuate the memory of the wedding day.

The gift should be a frequent reminder of the happy event by its years of useful service.

Consider the electric toaster, percolator, chafing dish or tea samovar—These are true examples.

Lowell Electric Light Corp.

50 Central Street

ST. LOUIS, June 20.—The river steamer Majestic, the largest excursion boat on the Mississippi river struck the cribbing of a waterworks tower near here early today and sank in ten minutes. Of the 49 persons on board at the time of the accident 24 have not been accounted for and it is feared they were lost. All on board were members of the crew or members of the boat's band. The steamer an hour before had discharged 900 excursionists at Alton, Ill., and was headed for St. Louis, 27 miles down the river.

The boat struck squarely against the cribbing of the new intake tower of the St. Louis waterworks and sank to the bottom. The water did not cover the vessel, however, the upper deck remaining above the surface and to this persons on board clung after the crash.

The accident occurred at the Chain of Rocks, a natural formation of rock that starts from the Missouri side at the extreme northern limit of St. Louis, or 15 miles above the heart of the city and runs 2000 feet into the stream, offering a barrier to navigation around which steamers must pass.

The city intake tower is at the end of this rock barrier.

The boat was owned by the Wisconsin Line of Quincy, Ill.

Waterworks employees saw the vessel come into view as it turned a bend just above the Chain of Rocks. A moment later they heard a crash and the lights of the vessel disappeared. The steamer had gone down, however, lacking boats, the waterworks employees were powerless to aid those on board and telephoned to police headquarters here and to the harbor master for assistance. Automobiles loaded with police were rushed up the river on both the Missouri and Illinois sides. Rowboats and power launches also were summoned to aid.

Panic on Board
There was a momentary panic on board as the vessel struck and the sleeping crew and bandmen tumbled from the berths and rushed to the upper decks. The main deck caught fire but the flames were put out as the vessel listed. The vessel then righted herself and shot to the bottom, only the upper deck and the smokestacks remaining visible as the crew pulled away in boats. Those who escaped to the Missouri shore built a bonfire around which they warmed themselves.

Men put out from shore in a row-boat and when they reached the Majestic they found the vessel had settled bow foremost and that much of the stern was out of the water.

STEAMER TOURIST WAS RAMMED AND SUNK—CREW OF SEVEN RESCUED

YONKERS, N. Y., June 20.—The Tourist, a small excursion steamer, coming down the Hudson after an evening river party given by J. P. Havemeyer of Ardsley-on-the-Hudson was rammed by a scow off here and was beached and sunk. Her crew of seven all were rescued. Fifty passengers had been landed before the crash came.

broken finger from a foul tip in the Havemeyer game the week and falls will fill in behind the bat and baton, who was not in the lineup against Havemeyer, returned to the game today at second base.

At 1:50 o'clock the brass band of the Middlesex County Training school opened proceedings with a much enjoyed concert which continued until the entire training school was present in a body.

ATTACHMENT FOR $150,000
At noon today an attachment for $150,000 against the Boston and Maine railroad was filed at the registry office in this city by Allan Follansbee of Chicago.

LINCOLN SCHOOL WON
The protested game between the Washington and Lincoln schools which the judges declared would have to be played over again took place this forenoon at Spaulding park and was won by the Lincoln, 5 to 2, so they now claim the championship of the city. The batteries were: Washington, Dillon and Carr; Lincoln, Wilkins and MacDonald.

High School Rival Game
The Lowell and Lawrence high schools met today at Spaulding park in their second game of the season for the diamond championship of the two schools. These two schoolboy rivals met in Lawrence last week when the local team was returned the winner after a nip and tuck struggle.

Providing that Lowell high wins today's contest the series will be over with Coach Pulsifer's charges victorious, but if the down river schoolboys reverse last week's decision a third game will have to be played. In case of a rubber contest being necessary Spaulding park will once more be the scene of struggle, although the date has not yet been fixed.

The local team was greatly handicapped today by the absence of Edwards, the first string catcher, from the lineup. Edwards received a

AUTO FIRED ON WRECK INQUIRY

Masked Men Attack Party of Three at Sudbury

MARLBORO, June 20.—Alderman John A. Frye reported to the police last night that while coming through Sudbury in an automobile, he, his brother, Robert Frye, and the latter's wife were victims of an attempted holdup by masked men as they were coming through Sudbury last night. The place is about three-quarters of a mile east of the Wayside Inn. Alderman Frye said to a reporter: "We were coming along at a fair rate of speed and rounding a curve when we saw two men in the middle of the road. 'Halt!' cried one of them. I was driving and my brother and his wife were on the same seat. The men were masked. I went right through them. One of them fired a shot which I found out afterward placed the radiator of my machine. One of the men had two revolvers in his hand and the other had one. We then came to Marlboro.

The Frye boys are well known Harvard men. John is of the class of 1903 and Robert of 1910. They are brothers of Russell B. Frye, pitcher of this year's Harvard nine. Mrs. Frye is from Missoula, Mont., and is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music. She remained calm during the whole affair.

SISTER OF MRS. MACK

POLICE ARE ASKED TO FIND SISTER OF WOMAN WHO DIED IN BOSTON

The following letter has been received at the police station from the office of the medical examiner of Suffolk county:

Boston, Mass., June 20.
Chief of Police, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: On June 15, a Mrs. Mary Mack died suddenly in this city at 40 Lynde street and her body at present is in my care at the Northern District mortuary, 15 North Grove street.

I have just received information that the deceased is supposed to have a sister in Lowell, whose husband is known as "Dr." Madden, said to have been in your city, perhaps on Merrimack street.

If you can locate this man and notify him of the above I will greatly appreciate it.
George B. McGrath, M. D.
Medical Examiner.

QUBEC, June 20.—Counsel for the Canadian Pacific R. R. Co., owners of the Empress of Ireland, cross examined Jacob Saxe, third officer of the Storstad at the wreck inquiry in an effort to show that the chief mate of the collier neglected his duty in not calling Captain Andersen to the deck as soon as he saw the approach of the fog ship, which the two vessels when they collided, crashed on the captain had been called from his cabin only a few moments before the collision.

"On other occasions when you have seen fog coming up," demanded Mr. Aspinwall, the Canadian Pacific attorney, "hasn't he always been called?" "When I have been in charge of the vessel," replied Saxe, "I have always called him when I saw the fog coming in."

"That is the right time, is it not?" "Yes."

Richardson Hotel

DINING ROOM
SUNDAY, JUNE 21

Special Table-d'Hote $1.00
DINNER

Special Combination for one or more persons. Combination No. 1 served for two..... $1.50

Choice of soups, olives, radishes, fried tomatoes, planked sirloin steak a la Richardson, old fashioned strawberry shortcake or fresh strawberry college ice. Rognoufort cheese, toasted crackers, after-dinner coffee.

Muscle 5:30 to 8:30

For 65 Years

City Institution for Savings
LOWELL, MASS.

Never paid less than 4%

Interest begins July 1st

CENTRAL STREET

THE ROAD TO RELIEF

USE FLEX-OIL

ON THE FEET

It is north four while to think what relief your feet are released from a pair of leather shoes at night, heated and tired—baths—then dry them thoroughly and rub in Flex-oil till it is absorbed—do this three times a week—and your feet lose all stiffness and soreness. Remember that men and women are as old as their feet feel—Flex-oil is for sale at all drug stores and at

OSULLIVAN BROS. CO.,
Opp. City Hall Price 25 Cents

OSULLIVAN SPECIALTY CO.
Lowell, Mass.

CHALIFOUX CORNER

Not a day passes without new lots of goods being opened here for the first time, and not all of them can be advertised. Just now many good things in WEARING APPAREL AND SUMMER THINGS are unaccountably low-priced for quality. Visit our cool, spacious and airy store and fulfill your wants in a high posted store—built for the comforts and accommodation of its patrons.

AMONG THE TOILERS

John Halloran, employed at the Merrimack mills has purchased a motorcycle.

Jack Moran, employed at the Massachusetts mills has invented a socket wrench.

William Quinn, employed at the Lowell Electric Light Corp., is a great admirer of a certain motorcycle.

Tom Mullin, formerly employed at the Ray State mills, has accepted a position with W. J. McLeary.

Miss Hazel Ferris, employed at the Lowell hosiery, is resting up for a few weeks at Hampton beach with her friends.

Robert Walter, formerly employed at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, is now working for John Douglass & Co., Draper loom.

Miss Minnie Mayne, employed at the Beatt mills is planning for her vacation which she will spend at Littleton, Mass., in July.

Frank Cassidy, employed at the American Hide & Leather Co., has been confined to his home for the past week with a bad cold.

William Burns and Robert McComb, employees of the U. S. Bunting Co., had an enjoyable time at the Buckhorn party which was held last evening.

Miss Anna Farn, employed at the U. S. Bunting Co., will spend the month of August at Atlantic City with a party of girl friends.

F. S. Burgess, superintendent of the Pioneer Woollen Co., Pittsfield, Maine, has severed his connection with that company.

Bart Bellins has accepted the position of overseer of dyeing at the Ashland knitting mill, Ashland, N. H. He comes from Lacombe, N. H.

May, employed at the Barry Shoe Co., was seen last Saturday morning with Neptune at Salem Willows. They do say that she can swim as well as the old boy at that.

Sylvester Kilham, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., is a perfect marvel on the violin. The most complicated pieces he brings out with comparative ease.

Mr. John Shanley, employed at the Northern Waste Co., is suffering from a very painful injury received while at work yesterday. It will probably confine him to his home for a few weeks.

Charles Nichols, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., says that going to work with an alarm clock in one's pocket is not all that could be desired.

J. W. Tiffany, president and general manager of the New England Knitting Co., Winsted, Conn., succeeds the late David Strong as president of the Winsted Knitting Co., same city.

Guy Godwin has been appointed overseer of spinning at the Stark mills, Manchester, N. H. He was formerly employed as second hand in the spinning department at this mill.

Thomas Roe, superintendent of the McMillan hosiery mill, Northampton, Mass., has resigned his position with that company to accept a position with a new company which is starting operations at Holyoke, Mass.

Peter Bauer, who has been superintendent at the Paragon Silk Co., for three years, has resigned to accept a similar position with Fred McLaughlin, who is starting a silk mill at Turners Falls, Maine.

James W. Booth, agent of the Atlantic mills, Providence, R. I., has severed his connection with that company. He is succeeded by Everett E. Salisbury, who was head of the yarn sales department for the same company.

The Yale Knitting Co., of Malden has purchased from the city of Malden, 6000 sq. ft. of land adjoining its present property and is having plans prepared for a four story addition, 50 by 100 feet of mill construction. A decision has not as yet been reached as to whether this addition will be constructed at once and no contracts have been awarded.

The Burton Co., of Holliston, Mass., has been reorganized with organized capital stock of $1,000,000, to deal in yarns, twines and cloth. The incorporators are George D. Burton, 155

Summer street, Boston, president; Edgar M. Hunt, treasurer of the Roxbury Carpet Co., 88 Summer street, Boston, treasurer; Edward D. Moynan, clerk; Charles A. Purdy, Crell M. Cavanagh, William Taylor and Franklin P. Sumner. The new corporation succeeds the Electro-Chemical Yarn Co. at Holliston, which has been conducted for the past year or two in the manufacture of ray yarns, twine and three stock. It is proposed to add much new machinery.

Mill Men's Union Held Meeting
The Millmen's union held its regular meeting last evening in Carpenter hall in the Burels building. Considerable important business was transacted and two new members were admitted. Five applications for membership were turned over to the investigating committee. These will be reported upon at the next meeting which will be Friday evening, June 26. Several of the members spoke interestingly on the good of the union. The treasurer's report showed the union to be progressing rapidly.

British Mills Marking Time

The course of the London wool sales with their advance in the Colonial wools has been reflected in the markets for native wools, and both at Bradford and Leicester the latter are reported strong at a relative advance. The latest movement has carried prices and fine crossbreds nearly to the level of the boom year of 1910, but the situation is materially different. Then the trade believed in higher prices and acted accordingly, starting the new season with considerably supplies on hand. Now, at any rate so far as Bradford is concerned, the majority of users have at the best but scanty stocks, while some are quite bare. Bradford has not been a believer in fine wools reaching their present level, and even yet is in the main skeptical of that level being maintained for any length of time. A factor in the calculation has been the under-estimating of the United States demand, and to some extent, as to combine competition of these two divisions the latest advances has been mainly due.

The increased demand from the United States for fine wools has come in opportunely, but the figures given out by the Bradford United States consulate for April, suggest that this support may be overestimated. The April exports are much in excess of April last year, but they are the smallest of any month so far this year. This means that the spring orders have been largely filled, or it may mean that, after all, as the American manufacturers accommodate themselves to the changed conditions they are going to pretty well hold their home market, and the persistency with which they have bought, and are still in the market for fine wools, even at enhanced prices, really looks like hopefulness in that connection.

Last month's exports from the Bradford consulate district were valued at $2,521,345, compared with $1,176,955 in March, $2,722,520 in February, $2,760,880 in January and $3,532,895 April last year. Comparisons of months with last year cannot be given with exactitude owing to changes in classifications which went into effect last month, and 12 months must elapse before exact comparisons can be given. "Cotton cloth" covering cotton dress goods and linings, shows a good increase over last year, $2,521,345 against $1,176,955.

There is a considerable amount of idle machinery in the Bradford district just now, and it is reported that the number of wool sorters out of employment is much greater than usual for the month of May. These may be accepted as indications that conditions in spite of the good prospects are not good, and the immediate outlook is by no means promising. The woolen and cotton industries have just now a very close resemblance to each other in one regard. They are both suffering from relatively high raw material. In both prices are being paid without regard to demand, and in both actual business is being checked thereby.

The Manchester market for the past few weeks has been decidedly inactive, but in spite of that prices of both yarns and cloths have been advanced, except for the coarsest yarns and the coarsest cloths. The market is not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not averse to putting orders and their books at old rates. There is thus at the present time considerable irregularity prevailing. Stocks of coarse yarn from American cotton are increasing, and the Whitehouse holiday is being taken advantage of by some of the coarse yarn mills to close down for the entire week. All the mills at Royton, a coarse yarn center, will be closed, and this will make the second full week of shut down in the district within the past five weeks. The Burlington mill manufacturing chiefly print cloths, which have a short time movement coming to an end at the close of this month, will also shut down next week, and so little effect has their concerted action had on the market that the demand from India has fallen away to restricted dimensions without anything like adequate improvement in the needs of other markets. China continues extremely disappointing, and the tenor of advices from there affords little encouragement to manufacturers to look for any immediate increase of a tangible character in the orders, whether for staples or for fineries. South America also fails to encourage. This week there are occasional reports of an increase in the filling-in business, coming from the direction of lowering the market for print cloths, that it will be by no means surprising to find them agreeing to further extend the curtailment. The chief trouble of the market is that the demand from India has fallen away to restricted dimensions without anything like adequate improvement in the needs of other markets. China continues extremely disappointing, and the tenor of advices from there affords little encouragement to manufacturers to look for any immediate increase of a tangible character in the orders, whether for staples or for fineries. South America also fails to encourage. This week there are occasional reports of an increase in the filling-in business, coming from the direction of lowering the market for print cloths, that it will be by no means surprising to find them agreeing to further extend the curtailment.

It has been shown how Bradford is benefiting from an increased demand from the United States for cotton dress goods and cotton linings. The Manchester market for the past few weeks has been decidedly inactive, but in spite of that prices of both yarns and cloths have been advanced, except for the coarsest yarns and the coarsest cloths. The market is not so well situated, and whilst they nominally advance their quotations, are not averse to putting orders and their books at old rates. There is thus at the present time considerable irregularity prevailing. Stocks of coarse yarn from American cotton are increasing, and the Whitehouse holiday is being taken advantage of by some of the coarse yarn mills to close down for the entire week. All the mills at Royton, a coarse yarn center, will be closed, and this will make the second full week of shut down in the district within the past five weeks. The Burlington mill manufacturing chiefly print cloths, which have a short time movement coming to an end at the close of this month, will also shut down next week, and so little effect has their concerted action had on the market that the demand from India has fallen away to restricted dimensions without anything like adequate improvement in the needs of other markets. China continues extremely disappointing, and the tenor of advices from there affords little encouragement to manufacturers to look for any immediate increase of a tangible character in the orders, whether for staples or for fineries. South America also fails to encourage. This week there are occasional reports of an increase in the filling-in business, coming from the direction of lowering the market for print cloths, that it will be by no means surprising to find them agreeing to further extend the curtailment.

"SYLVIA WINS!" CRY THE SUFFRAGETTES ASQUITH AT LAST GRANTS THEM HEARING

1-SYLVIA PANKHURST 2-PREMIER ASQUITH 3-SUFFRAGETTE BANNER

LONDON, June 20.—Premier Asquith capitulated to the suffragettes. He consented to receive a deputation of east end working women at his official residence in Downing street. Sylvia Pankhurst's attempt to carry out her threat of a hunger strike at the entrance to the house of commons until the premier yielded to the demands that he listen to a delegation of women was largely responsible for the prime minister's decision. The victory was a distinct one, because Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested about a week ago for attempting to lead a procession of east end women to Westminster to demand the audience which Mr. Asquith had steadfastly refused.

THEY DO SAY

That you never can tell when the ground will open up and swallow you.

That all bridges in Lowell should be thoroughly examined.

That it is possible to buy baseball pool tickets in Lowell.

That he who goeth often to the bar goeth seldom to the bank.

That the Lowell ball team is getting a move on.

That we are only a little way from the glorious Fourth.

That the rose party of St. Margaret's parish was some event.

That July 16 will be a great day for department store clerks.

That the pulmotor at last proved its effectiveness.

That Arthur can't get over it and he is out to solve the mystery.

That the high crown straw hat gives relief to many a swelled head.

That a bird in the hand is not worth much if the cat had it first.

That there is too much drunkenness in the streets of Lowell.

That many a wife is a thing of beauty and a law forever.

That the temporary loan remains intact despite the many attacks upon it.

That the city government for 1911 is not saving any money for the city.

That the high street church clock may be forsaken in its old age.

That it is difficult to think what the lives of some great men remind us of.

That the savings bank will do more for the country than socialism.

That Alderman Brown believes there are many forms of the ratort contours.

That, lest we forget, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

That trading houses for house lots is a new business for the city of Lowell.

That the graduation exercises are coming thick and fast.

That Nellie says she thinks they were intended for a Chinaman.

That the Chippewas Farmers hall at Billerica on July 19 will be a big affair.

That the printer's "devil" will have at it in several events at the big field day Tuesday.

That John H. Condon was always on deck to see that sports are run off properly.

That St. Margaret's parish affairs invariably draw a bevy of charming young ladies.

That some very lively contests are to be decided at the N. E. T. U. convention next week.

That the fellow who fell out of his automobile in Prescott street didn't get arrested.

That the police are not making a howling success of enforcing the traffic rules.

That not all the four-vinged people you meet in the early morning have been eating the first cantaloupes.

That the little doggie is not welcome in the house when he dips his little feet in the newly spread oil.

That some people do not realize the danger of too much solitude until they are in solitary confinement.

That Nesmith street was not cleaned any too well before the oil was put on.

That some men don't drink charged water because they can't have it charged.

That a water lily on the Concord river within the city limits is an appropriate symbol of purity.

That even when the butcher shops are licensed they won't carry anything stronger than bay rum.

That the affected sweetness of some ladies sounds like a rooster trying to chirp sparrow talk.

That the celebration of St. John's day in Springfield next Wednesday will be the best ever held in this country.

That the clock without works in the J. L. Chaffee Co.'s window keeps 'em guessing.

That according to many landlords there is no more room for children in Lowell.

That the builders are getting busy and the number of new buildings is rapidly increasing in this city.

That one young lady said the new town did not smell very well but it would undoubtedly keep the dust down.

That if some guys were invited to heaven via Jacob's ladder, they'd wait for an elevator.

That the sewer work in Pawtucketville will keep a lot of men employed over election time.

That one of the fair examiners at the Whitall is going to change her name.

That the smoke goes up the chimney just the same and all about the city just the same.

That George Lynch says a hole in a doughnut is worth two in your stocking.

That a woman's voice is always sweeter when she's talking to a woman she hates.

That a man never puts off until tomorrow the mean things he can say today.

That "Happy Days" Casey is sporting a new cognomen since last Sunday when he rode at the head of the Italian parade. It's Caruso Casey now.

That the residents of Upper Gorham street are all prepared for those "fish stories" upon the return of the Manhattan from their fishing trip.

That the man who rides home a mile or two on the running board is kidding himself if he thinks he is spared the exertion of walking.

That the fellow who could not buy a wheelbarrow usually jokes fun at any but the most elaborate automobile.

That the residents of Pawtucketville feel an improvement society in their district would mean a lot toward the development of that part of the city.

That one member of the school board said recently that Henry H. Harris wouldn't get his vote for superintendent.

That Stan, Britton and Johnny Cattanah allow that they can spare the time from fishing when the Progressive ministers are on deck.

That Pres. Frank J. Campbell of the Mass. Druggists association has some interesting passages in his annual report.

That with all the "cats" the comittee has arranged for the delegates to the N. E. T. U. convention someone is liable to get the goat.

That the fellows who went to Plymouth, Sunday, had the time of their lives but they didn't go on Harry Thaw's yacht as they expected.

That mischievous boys tickled the Cross street woman's neck with a feather while she snoozed at the movies.

That Mary and Nellie and Lyle don't think much of the fellow who failed to take them to the movies after inviting them.

That the fellow who slipped on the banana peel at the corner of Central and Market streets has engaged a seat on the water wagon.

That the tango is in full bloom in Lowell and that two pretty Boston girls pay a visit here every Tuesday night.

That there are many horses in Lowell's streets that should be sent to the Red Farm or despatched to the happy hunting ground.

That a certain police officer is quoted as saying the average dog doesn't know when he's on the way to the gas box. How remarkable!

That The Sun, as usual, was the first paper in the street with a full account of the Chelmsford street bridge accident, Wednesday morning.

That Charles Stickney's plan for a waiting room on the roof of the American Express company's building is elevating.

That where Alderman Brown goeth repairs go with him as witness the painters and carpenters to the treasurer's and auditor's offices.

That the typography of that souvenir book issued in connection with the N. E. T. U. convention is a distinct tribute to the artistic ability of Lowell's printers.

That with Ed Shea, John Dalton, "Billy" Gookin, Jimmie Donnelly, Andrew McCarthy, and "Clevie" Noble the Typos' banquet surely has a feast of sweet voiced slingers.

That when it comes to a real swimming race there are but few men in Lowell who have sufficient confidence in their ability to be willing to risk a few iron men on the outcome.

That after listening to the hot-house variety wit of an effervescent young man last week, an original local young lady tapped her forehead and said: "If it swims, we have it."

That Supt. Kernan, unlike many other superintendents, does not consider himself above doing some of the manual labor connected with the upkeep of parks.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

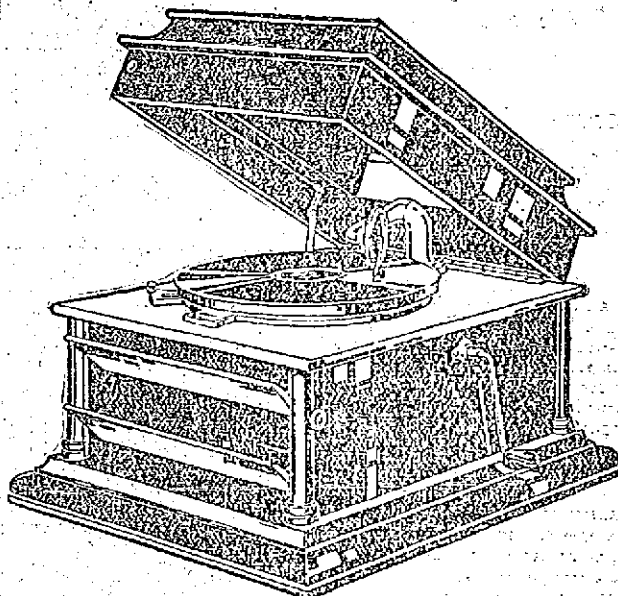

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

The Bon Marche

LOWELL'S MOST PROGRESSIVE STORE

ON APPROVAL

Then pay for it in $5.00 payments if you decide to keep it.

The one-Standard "Talking Machine" of the world—the Columbia Graphophone "Favorite."

With a full outfit of double-disc records—24 selections, including the famous Sextette from "Lucia" and Quartette from "Rigoletto."

On 3 days' free trial—the whole outfit subject to your acceptance and approval.

For machine and full outfit of records $59 in $5 payments or terms agreeable

NEW JULY RECORDS NOW ON SALE

AT THE SACRED HEART IN JOINT OUTING

SPECIAL SERVICES AT 11 O'CLOCK

MASS—FEAST OF SACRED HEART

AND CLOSE OF 40 HOURS

Tomorrow the services at the Sacred Heart church will have a double significance, inasmuch as the feast of the Sacred Heart will be observed and the closing services of the forty hours' devotion will take place. The forty hours' devotion service was opened last evening, with services at 7:30 o'clock at which there was a very large congregation. Today many parishioners visited the church and remained there to do honor to the Blessed Sacrament which was exposed on the altar.

While at all the masses tomorrow special services will be held the most impressive will come at 11 o'clock, when solemn high mass will be sung and a procession will be held. A feature of the exercises will be a special musical program at the 11 o'clock mass which will be as follows:

Asperges..... Werner

Sanctuary Chant..... Casali

Kyrie, "Mass in F"..... Casali

Church Quartet..... Turner

Gloria, "St. Cecilia's Mass"..... Turner

Crede..... Turner

Church Chant..... Turner

Soloists: Miss Sadie Kenney, Timothy Finnigan, James Cusick.

Offertory, "Salva Regina," Dudley Buck

Sanctus, Mass in F..... Casali

Benedictus, Mass in F..... Casali

Agnus Dei, Mass in F..... Casali

Church Quartet..... Casali

Communions, "Jesu Dulcis Memoria"..... Gounod

Sanctuary Chant..... Gounod

Closing, forty hours' devotion will follow after mass with the following program:

Close of Forty Hours' Devotion

Processional Hymn, "Pange Lingua"..... Gregorian

Sanctuary Chant..... Gregorian

Soloist, George Kirwin..... Lyles

Tantum Ergo..... Lyles

Church Quartet..... Gregorian

Aldonus..... Gregorian

Laude Dominum..... Gregorian

Church and Sanctuary Chants

Recessional March..... Whitney

Church choir of 40 voices assisted by sanctuary choir under the direction of Rev. James T. McDermott, church quartet: Mrs. Mary Monroe, George, soprano; Miss Bessie Finnigan, alto; John McMahon, tenor; George Kirwin, bass. Organist and director, John J. Kelly.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column

Hamilton Mill Officials and New Bedford Concern Celebrate

This morning at 8:15 the agent, superintendent, overseers, second hands, office clerks and other officials of the Hamilton Manufacturing company of Lowell met in Merrimack square for the purpose of enjoying their annual outing. It has been the custom in years past for the employees of the local concern to celebrate this outing jointly with the officials of the Sharp Manufacturing company of New Bedford, and both groups met this morning in Boston and proceeded to Rouses Wharf, where they took a specially chartered boat for Nantasket Beach. As on last year the feature of the outing is a banquet at the Villa Napoli on the heights above Nantasket. Some of the most notable men in the textile business and several many leading business men of Boston are guests of the occasion. After the banquet a social time will be

WORCESTER AGAIN DEFEATED COURTNEY SAYS CORNELL VARSITY EIGHT WILL REPEAT AT INTERCOLLEGIATE REGATTA YALE WINS BY 4 INCHES

Outplayed by Local Team and Lost by 7-2 Score

Lohman Pitched Steady Game and Team Went Well Behind Him

"All up for Worcester" was the slogan at the local baseball headquarters yesterday morning, while Jesse Burkett was grooming his club at a Lowell hotel for the game. Manager Gray was particularly anxious to head off the league leaders in yesterday's game as the ladies were admitted to the contest free of charge in view of the fact that Wednesday's game was transferred to Worcester. The local management evidently believes that with the ladies backing the club the gate receipts will soar.

The Worcester team stands out an even seven full games ahead of Lowell and the game yesterday was sought after by both clubs with equal vigor. Burkett knows his pitchers are none too numerous for a herd siege and that they are sure to buckle if they are obliged to do relief duty often. Although Jesse is outwardly confident of winning the pennant the Worcester manager knows as well as anyone else that he will have to nurse his pitching staff along in order to stay at the top during the hot weather battles.

The victors came up to Lowell from Lawrence yesterday. They played in Louis Pieper's town Thursday and stayed over night so that the entire club would not be fixed out with train travel.

Joe Monahan, the former Lowell catcher, who was released to the Bridgeport team of the Eastern association last season when Tommy Day got going so well, has been signed up by Worcester and arrived with the club yesterday. Joe strolled into the clubhouse yesterday and received a hearty greeting from "Shorty" Dee and "Rube" DeGroot who played with him here two seasons.

An instance which goes to show how superstitious a ball player is, occurred yesterday noon. As a rule the local club has taken the 12.15 car for the ball park, but yesterday they left Merrimack square at 12.15. Today when the 12.15 car left the majority of the ball players were aboard. "I went out on this car yesterday," said Simpson, "and collected four hits, so you don't think I'd let it go by today, do you?"

The new infielder, Harry Shaffer, arrived and was given a uniform. He is fully as large as reported and weighs 210 pounds right now. "If I took off another ounce I'd be thin," he told Manager Gray and he looks it. Shaffer will prove a big help to the catchers in juggling, too, for they will have to throw the ball out to the flag pole in order to get it out of his reach. And by the same token the new man has got a mighty long way to go for a ball on the ground.

Woodbury started the season with Portland and took part in one game which ended disastrously for Lowell. Later he went back to Lowell and Duffy let him go. Burkett signed him up and decided to give him a try against Lowell yesterday. Opposed to Woodbury was "Texas" Lohman, who is determined to break his streak of bad luck.

"Dutch" Pottelger looked natural on the Worcester bench. The former Lowell outfielder has been put in the clean-up role on the Worcester batting order. Umpire Black, who has proved very unpopulous all along the circuit this season, called the game as the last of some six or seven hundred fans, many of whom were of the fair sex, filed into the stands.

First Inning
Lohman walked "Stubby" Carroll, the first Worcester batter to face him. "Texas" drew down a big hand from the crowd when he retired Shorten, the Worcester slugging right fielder, on strikes. Carroll started for second on the first ball pitched to Strands. It was a wild heave and the base runner went to third. At this point Jimmy Gray and Jesse Burkett went to the umpire, Gray claiming that only one base could be taken on a passed ball or a wild pitch and Burkett telling Carroll to remain on third. Umpire Black finally sent him back to second. Matthews made a nice catch of Strands' fly in left center. Pottelger singled to left and Carroll came across the plate with the first score of the game. Pottelger tried to steal second but Woodbury's throw to Dee was accurate and Pottelger picked up his glove and bent it into center field. One run, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning
Rain began to fall at the beginning of the second inning. Stewart, the Worcester pitcher and outfielder who was injured by a collision with Dowd in the Worcester-Lowell game yesterday, was on the coaching lines at first base. The two teeth which he had knocked out yesterday have been reset and although his lip is badly split and swollen he showed lots of life. Ross sent a slow roller to the new man, Shaffer, who threw him out at first. Shaffer displayed more glaciality than all the rest of the infield put together. Dowd sent a "high foul" which Woodbury was up to "Pete" who was given the glad mitt. The fans

"TEXAS" LOHMAN
Lowell Pitcher Who Let Down Burkett's Men Yesterday With Two Lonesome Fannies

Cooney sent a high fly over the pitcher's box which Lohman shouted for. The ball rolled out of "Texas's" glove, however, but Cooney was too ambitious and tried to make second. Burkett grabbed up the ball and chased him toward second, throwing to Dee for the put-out. No runs, no hits, one error.

Simpson was out when he lifted a fly to Dowd behind second base. Matthews hit to Cooney but the latter's high throw hit Ross over the head or at least that is what the umpire said. "Wild" Ross set up a holier on first base but the ump shot off his wind in short order. Shaffer stepped up to the bat and swung wildly at two strikes. Both of them were straight over. On the next ball, Cooney hit the big fellow stepped into it and smashed it to right center for three bases, scoring Matthews. Woodbury scored, Shaffer with his grounder to Strands on which he was thrown out and the crowd went wild. Kelly looked into the batter's box and was rewarded with a pass. Lohman hit to Woodbury and the inning was over, he being an easy out at first. Two runs, one hit, one error.

Third Inning
Monahan sent up a high fly which Kelly had no difficulty in taking care of. Woodbury hit to Dee and "Shorty" threw to Kelly for the out. The umpire called a strike on Carroll and "Stubby" registered a vigorous kick. The crowd got after the Worcester outfielder for the ball went directly over the plate. Carroll lifted a high one to Simpson for the third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

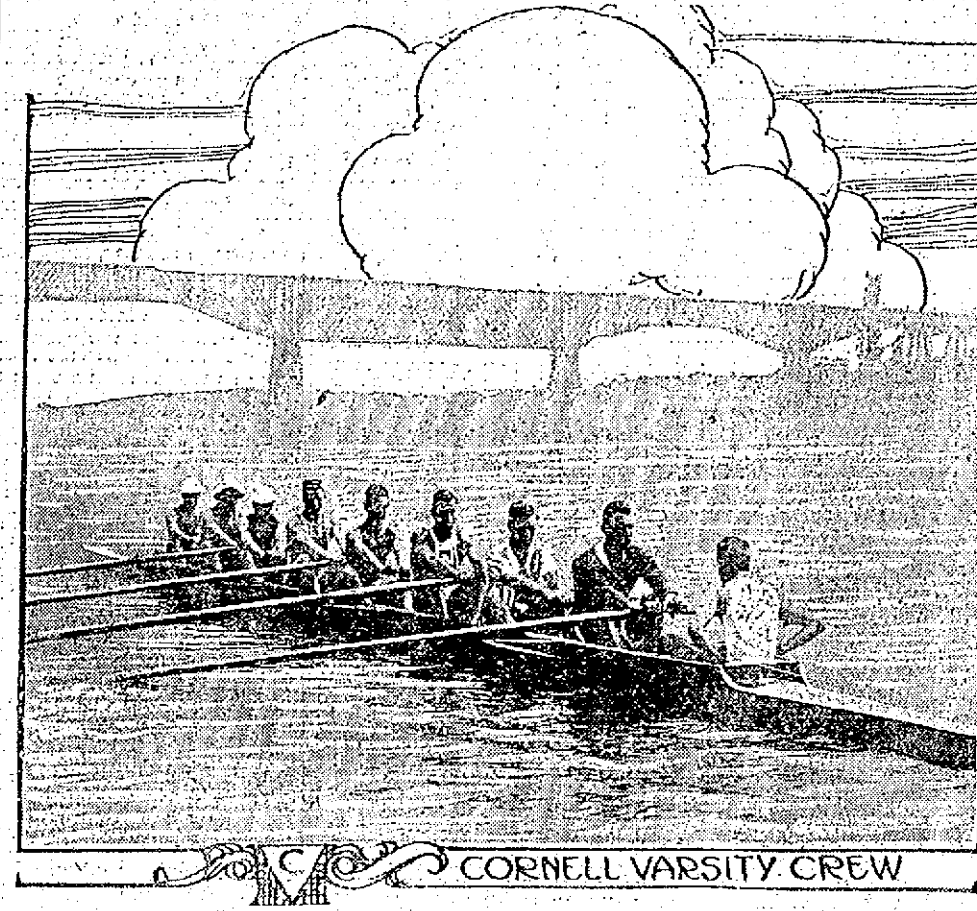

Dee was a clutch for Cooney and Ross. DeGroot lifted one over Dowd's head into right field for a single. The ball landed on first base plainly had Woodbury worried. On the next play DeGroot started for second four times but Burke fouled each time. Cooney made his second error of the game when he threw low to Ross on Burke's grounder. DeGroot went to second. Old Jesse's remarks on the Worcester bench cannot be printed. Simpson replied to the urgings of the crowd and slammed a single into left center, scoring DeGroot. Woodbury tried to catch Burke of second and threw into center field. Burke going over the plate. Carroll lifted a high one to third. Matthews hit to Woodbury and the latter threw him out at first but Burke reached the plate by a splendid exhibition of head work and fast sprinting. Simpson went to second. Shaffer died to Pottelger in short order. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Fourth Inning
Shorten sent a grounder to Shaffer which took a well appreciated bound and the outfielder was thrown out at first. Matthews made his second nice catch of Strands' hit. Pottelger lifted a high fly to short right center. Shaffer, Matthews and DeGroot all ran to second. It should have been DeGroot's chance but Matthews reached it with one hand and dropped it. This bone head work showed up all the more plainly when Ross cracked a single to left, sending to third. Dowd was real obliging, however, and slapped a grounder to second which Ross was forced at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Waco hit to Dowd and went out at first. In spite of the fact that Ross juggled the throw, Kelly drove a hot grounder through the pitcher's box which Woodbury deflected enough for Cooney to get and throw the runner out at first. Lohman had a tilt with Umpire Black for calling a strike on him. He walked finally after getting in the hole for two strikes. The Texas was on the point of trying to steal second when Dee hit to Cooney and was thrown out at first. Ross made a great one-hand stop of the ball and the inning was over. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
DeGroot galloped Cooney's fly. The shouts of "I have it" could be heard in Yorksbury Centre. Lohman crossed up Woodbury by hitting him in the hole for two strikes, he slipped over the third one. Joe retired to the bench without taking the bat from his shoulder. With two out and the pitcher up, Lohman got careless with the result that Woodbury singled to right. Carroll, however, forced the runner at second with a grounder to Shaffer. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Umpire Black called the worst strike of the season on DeGroot. Rube is a pretty steady old bat, but he couldn't have reached Woodbury's offering with stills. Cooney gobbled up DeGroot's grounder and this time made a good throw to Ross, getting Reuben without difficulty. Burke went out by the same route. There was another little shower during the last half of the fifth. Simpson had a job on Woodbury for a pass. He counted when Matthews hit to deep center for three bases. Shaffer closed

Pop Courtney, coach of the Cornell navy and the most famous and successful handler of crews in the country, says that the Ithacans are going to repeat their former triumphs on the Hudson this year. Last summer Syracuse beat them out in a heartbreaking pull, but Courtney lays the defeat to overconfidence. Nearly all of the crews entered this year have a good chance to win, and Columbia, Washington and Wisconsin are also feared.

the inning with a fly to Carroll out in left. One run, one hit, no errors.
Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 1.

Sixth Inning
Manager Burkett lost his temper between the fifth and sixth inning when the Worcester players went to the bench. Shorten fled to Simpson. Lohman made Johnny Strands, one of the league's heaviest hitters, look foolish striking him out. The first strike on Strands was called by the umpire. Simpson got his second putout of the inning when Pottelger was billy enough to drive a fly ball into left field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waco failed to reach first when he groundered to Woodbury. Kelly sent up a foul fly behind the plate but Monahan was under it. Lohman groundered out. Strands to Ross. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning
Roes singled to center over Lohman's head. Dowd beat out an infield hit to Burke. Roes going to second. It looked bad for Lowell with nobody out. The first batter, Cooney, hit to Dee and Dee's throw to Shaffer forced Ross at second. Cooney reached first on the fielder's choice. Dee ran in back of second and took Monahan's short fly and the fans began to breathe easier with two men out. Roes was left on third base which he reached on Cooney's fielder's choice when Woodbury hit to Dee and Cooney was forced at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

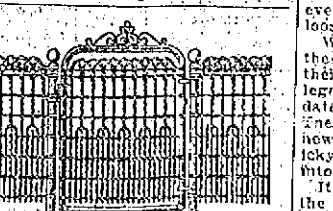

DeGroot drove his second single into right field after Dee had groundered out. Woodbury hit to Ross. Rule once more proved a cutup kid off the third bag. "Dutch" Pottelger performed a horrible operation on Burke's line drive. "Dutch" dove for the ball and made the catch a few inches off the ground. It was one of the greatest plays that has been seen at Spaulding park this season. DeGroot thought that he was a sprinter and tried to reach second without a license. Monahan's throw to Dowd nipped him on a questionable decision. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning
Simpson made another putout when Carroll lifted a fly to left. Shorten connected with one of Lohman's fast ones for a single to right center and took second when Matthews failed to field the ball cleanly. Strands hit to Burke and the latter threw him out at first after attempting to get Shorten who went to third on the out. Pottelger beat out an infield hit to Shaffer and Shorten crossed the plate with Worcester's second run. Ross slammed a grounder at Burke and Pottelger was forced at second. One run, two hits, one error.

Simpson started the latter part of the eighth with a single to center. Matthews drove the ball to the left field fence for a double, Simpson being held at third. Shaffer sent up a sacrifice fly to Shorten, Simpson scoring. Matthews took a long lead off second and when Monahan threw to Dowd, he stole third base. It was a pretty bit of baseball. Waco popped one up to Monahan in front of the plate. Kelly spanked the ball to right field for a single and Matthews, came home with another tally. Lohman forced Kelly at second with a grounder to Cooney. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning
Dowd singled to left. Dee got Cooney's grounder near second.

Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 1.

ORNAMENTAL WIRE FENCE
Erected Complete, 678 Running Feet
IRON WIRE AND FARM FENCES, AT MILL PRICES—GIBBARD
THAN WOOD
Send for Catalogue to OLD COLONY FOUNDRY & FENCE CO.
SHOW ROOMS, 48 WEST ST., BOSTON
Phone 2605-31 Oxford
W. J. CASSIDY, Representative
45 Barclay Street

end, furling Dowd and completed a double play by whipping the ball to first ahead of the runner.
Monahan struck out.
The score:

| LOWELL | | WORCESTER | |
|---------|----|-----------|----|
| Dee | 1 | Carroll | 3 |
| DeGroot | 1 | Strands | 1 |
| Burke | 2 | Pottelger | 1 |
| Simpson | 1 | Matthews | 1 |
| Shaffer | 2 | Woodbury | 1 |
| Waco | 1 | Monahan | 1 |
| Kelly | 1 | Woodbury | 1 |
| Lohman | 3 | | |
| Totals | 12 | 9 | 12 |

WORCESTER
Carroll, 1f.....3 1 0 1 0 0
Strands, 2b.....1 1 1 1 0 0
Pottelger, cf.....4 0 3 2 0 0
Matthews, c.....2 0 13 0 0
Roes, 1b.....4 0 3 2 0 0
Dowd, 3b.....4 0 0 6 2 2
Cooney, ss.....4 0 0 6 2 2
Monahan, c.....4 0 2 2 0
Woodbury, p.....3 0 1 0 6 1
Totals.....34 2 9 24 17 3

LOWELL
Two-base hits: Matthews. Three-base hits: Shaffer. Double plays: Dee and Kelly. Stolen bases: Matthews. Bases on balls: By Lohman 1, by Woodbury 3. Struck out: By Lohman 4, by Woodbury 7. Time: 1:45. Attendance: 300. Umpire, Black.

PLAYERS LEAGUE
Some Say the Federal League Will Come to the Same End

Those who are pointing to the failure of the Federal league back in 1890 and citing it as an instance to show that the Federal league will come to the same end, fail to take into consideration some of the important facts concerning the Brotherhood war. At the time that the Federal league went to smash there were ugly charges that some of the prime movers in it had sold out to the National league after it seemed that they had whipped the National league to a frazzle by taking practically all the star players.

It was said at the time that the number of the ruling powers in the Federal league figured that they could make more by "selling out" to the National league than by sticking to the new league. And so they went the way that promised the biggest personal gains. If so the charges declare, those powers had not sold out to the Federal league, but had become the National league, then on the verge of bankruptcy, would have had to go down and out for all time.

Just the time that means were used in the "selling out" process are not quite clear, but it is said that some of the men deeply interested in the new league made a deal with the National league whereby the National league people were to reimburse them for all the money they had put into the new proposition and give them a handsome bonus in addition for getting out of the new league's affairs, and using whatever influence they had to further loosen the grips of the new league.

When a number of the backers of the new league suddenly withdrew their support, in keeping with the alleged "selling out" process, the foundation of the new league weakened.

The players who had hurried to the new organization then became panicky and were quite willing to get back into the National league fold. It has been said that the backers of the Federal league suffered a loss of about $1,000,000. This figure seems greatly exaggerated. In the first place a franchise, players, grounds and nearly everything a major league club needs did not cost a cost of much over $100,000 in those days and every dollar that was put into the enterprise wasn't a dead loss.

Also it must be borne in mind that if this story about "selling out" is true, that some of those who backed the Federal league got out of it with a profit, and that the Federal league didn't collapse that which the National league was made to suffer.

Therefore if these stories from the past assume the proportion of facts, it will be seen that the Federal league and the Federal league cannot furnish any suitable parallel unless some of the Federal sell out to organized baseball, a possibility that is very very remote.

The Players' league made a greater showing in some ways, than the Federal league. The Players' league opened the season with practically the cream of the talent of the National league. Of all its stars of the year before, the National league had left only a handful and their lineups looked strange and very "bush-leaguey."

The Players' league failed to live, but it won out in its purpose to force an agreement among magnates concerning the splitting of the attendance so that the small town players would get nearly as much money as those in the larger ones.

In the days before the formation of the Federal league the visiting teams were given 25 per cent of the gate, but were allowed something like $100 a day. This hardly met traveling expenses, and in small towns the owners of the teams, that had to depend on the home gate receipts for paying off their players, could afford to pay the men only small salaries, while facilities like New York and Chicago the home receipts were very large and, of course, the players on these teams drew down big salaries.

The players wanted some equitable arrangement, and when the magnates of the big league refused to force the plan of allowing visiting teams only $100 instead of splitting the income 50-50 the players decided to form their own league and work along on this basis.

However, after the Players' league went into the scrap heap, the National league lifted the splitting idea from the wreckage and adopted it to its own uses.

Were the old plan of guaranteeing the visiting team an allowance of about $100 a day still in existence it would mean that such teams as the Phillies, Athletics and other good home drawing teams would make about six million kopecks each year while the Browns, Cardinals and other perpetual tail-enders would suffer tremendous and ruinous losses.

DEMAND FOR VEAL INCREASING
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—The demand for veal has increased rapidly, and not only are the surplus dairy calves slaughtered but thousands of beef calves as well, until a calf will now sell for from $8 to $12 when only two to three months old.
This quotation from Farmer's Bulletin 553 of the U. S. department of agriculture means that unless the farmer has unlimited cheap feeds, it is usually more profitable to market the dairy or dual-purpose calves than to attempt to raise them, even though some of them might make good steers. While many deplore this heavy slaughter of calves, and legislation against it has been urged, the consumer's demand must be met.
While the number of cattle has decreased, the demand for meat has naturally grown until not only have the exports nearly ceased, but the packers that they may provide cheaper meat are now buying many cattle that were formerly fed. The farmers who, formerly, bought nearly finished cattle as feeders have been compelled to pay higher prices for such cattle or to take thinner animals.
The cattle-feeding business has changed greatly during recent years. Formerly steers from four to six years of age were fed in large numbers on commercial feed at yards near granular or mill, or upon large farms where only the roughage was grown, and the cattle were kept on full feed for six months or longer. This method became too expensive, so feeding is now conducted upon farms as a means of marketing farm products by converting them into beef, while the manure produced is utilized as a by-product for maintaining fertility.

Blue Leads Crimson Eight Across Line in Greatest Struggle in History

NEW LONDON, June 20.—Yale's big blue varsity eight, displaying a degree of gameness never before duplicated upon the Thames, snatched victory from the very jaws of defeat in the last 25 feet of yesterday afternoon's Harvard-Yale varsity race.

By a mere matter of four inches, the difference in time was announced as a fifth of a second because boat races are timed by split second stop watches instead of by electric chronometers—the bow of Yale's English rigged, English coached varsity eight across the finish line. One boat length before the finish Harvard was in front. It was 100 to 1 that Harvard would win. Then came in less time than it takes to tell Yale's final rush, the greatest flash of come-back rowing ever seen in college aquatics, and Yale, not Harvard, was the winner. Yale's time was 21 minutes 15 seconds, Harvard's 21 minutes 16 1/2 seconds.

Closest Race in History of Sport

Never in a varsity boat race, here upon the Thames or at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson, has a race been won and lost by so infinitesimal a margin. As the crews sped across the finish line the difference between them was so slight that even partisan supporters of the rival eights upon the Central Vermont's observation train as they looked down upon the crews not 25 yards away, were not sure which eight had won it. It was one of those decisions that might have gone either way and it was only when the big, dark blue flag, emblematic of Yale, was swung out from the side of the judge's boat and waved vigorously back and forth that the spectators were aware as to which eight was first and which was second.

As in every close decision there was a difference of opinion among those who were on the water, assembled on either side of the narrow lane in which the eights pulled through their final strokes, the strokes that won for Yale and lost for Harvard. A moving picture concern that had secured a desirable position exactly upon the finish line took moving pictures of the finish and there were a number of photographers, professional and amateur alike, who flashed the finish more or less upon a direct line. What these cameras will reveal when plates are developed isn't known here in New London. It might be that the camera will uphold the official decision. And then again it may be otherwise. In any case the race is likely to stand upon the official records as a win for Yale, and surely there will be no word of protest from official Harvard.

Yesterday's victory was the first in seven years for Yale varsity eight over Harvard.

COPPERMAGNATE CHAS. F. MURPHY
F. Augustus Heinze, is Latest Picture of Tammany Leader Who Reported Near End at Home in New York Faces Fall Fight

NEW YORK, June 20.—F. Augustus Heinze, copper magnate and formerly a power in the financial world, is seriously ill in his home here. His counsel, William Travers Jerome, asked for the reopening of a case wherein a judgment for $275,000 had been found against Heinze. Jerome reported his client as dying. The judgment was in favor of William Nelson Cromwell, Edward Gould and others, who held Heinze's promissory note for that amount given in payment for 12,000 shares of the Mercantile National bank on Jan. 5, 1907. When Heinze failed to defend the action the verdict was declared against him by default.

antists hope to oust Murphy. Murphy hopes to down his enemies. Fences have already been built for the fall campaign. Murphy's claim is that his leadership has been fair and impartial and for the good of the party supporters.

LEFT ARM AMPUTATED
GEORGE FAIRBANKS OF BOSTON
NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH WHILE JUMPING FREIGHT
While attempting to alight from a freight car in the vicinity of the Lundberg street bridge about 10 o'clock last evening George Fairbanks of Boston, aged about 20 years, lost his balance and had his left arm so badly crushed that it was found necessary to amputate it at St. John's hospital where he was removed immediately after the accident.

It is said that the young man and a companion were riding on a freight car and after they passed under the bridge the latter jumped to the ground in safety. Fairbanks, slipped, however, and in putting out his hand to grasp a bar fell with the result that his arm was badly cut and crushed. The ambulance was called and Fairbanks was removed to the hospital where his arm was amputated at the elbow.

Graduation Bouquets
We will make you a two dollar bouquet of choice flowers tied with ribbon for one dollar, at the Marshall Ave. Greenhouses, Stevens street. Take a Highlands car or you can telephone your orders or call at 212 Merrimack street, upstairs.
J. McMenamin

BASE BALL
MONDAY
HAVERHILL
VS.
LOWELL
Spaulding Park
Three o'clock

THE LIST OF GRADUATES

Continued

Mahoney, George Leo
McArdle, Eugene Francis Joseph
McHugh, Francis Paul
McIntire, John Andrew
Nelson, Alban Clifford
Pink, Charles Henry Francis
O'Connor, John Cornelius Thomas
Reilly, Walter Edward
Tighe, John Henry James
Turnquist, Rudolph Emanuel
Weir, William James
Whipple, Howard Royal
Whitworth, Milton Albert
Bergsten, Jennie Sophie
Brown, Esther Hildegard
Burke, Matthew
Campbell, Elizabeth Mae
Carey, Margaret Mary Gertrude
Connelley, Susan Veronica
Donnelly, Margaret Mary Welsh
Finucane, Helen Theresa Frances Garrity, Mary Ellen
Geary, Mary
Gonley, Isabella
Healy, Sarah Mary Virginia
Hunter, Mabel Mildred
Johnson, Louise Martha
Kane, Rita
Kinney, Annie Veronica
McGuire, Marion Bernice
McKeon, Winifred Helen
McLean, Florence Frances
McLean, Ida Mary Frances
McLean, Marian Veronica
McQuade, Margaret Loretta
McGee, Mildred Anna
McGuffee, Robert
Mystrom, Sallie Josephine
Pare, Florence Elizabeth
Petersen, Elsie Carolina Victoria
Rice, Florence Gertrude
Riley, Hilma Minerva
Ryan, Estelle Margaret
Sauter, Charles
Smith, Helen Jane Lorr
Travis, Hazel Kent
Tongberg, Florence Elvira
Wahlgren, Ethel Louise
Wahlgren, Edna Anna
Welsh, Alice Veronica
Winslow, Ethel Ruth
Sik, Sarah Hill

PAWBUCKET SCHOOL

Armstrong, Clarence Howard
Buckley, Charles
Chadwick, Richard Gregg
Coburn, Joseph R. V. Jr.
Cryan, Martin Columbia
Fah, Harold Frederick
Judge, Harold Thomas
Kirk, Christopher Stephen
Kinchin, David Bruce, Jr.
McAdams, Francis Greenleaf
McKinley, James Dorman
Merrill, Robert Cotton
O'Connor, Edward Joseph
Quill, John Joseph
Ralls, Myles Francis
Sturtevant, Walter George
Turcotte, Paul Alfred G.
Vanner, Frederick Joseph
Blessington, Helen Margaret
Blessington, Rose Ann
Bourgeois, Olive
Breen, Florence Margaret E.
Cameron, Harriet Christina
Castles, Harriet Cecilia M.
Charbonneau, Alice Marie
Cryan, Margaret Genevieve
Gardner, Anna Agnes
Garnett, Marion
Hart, Mary Cecelia
Kelly, Abbie Adeline
Lafamme, Beulah
Larkin, Ella Louise
Larue, Marie Isabella G.
MacKaney, Esther Mary M.
Marchand, Emma Bertha
Mason, Cora Pearl
McDonald, Mary Cecelia
McGee, Dorothy
McGee, Marietta Veronica
MacLaughlin, Agnes May
McNabb, Mildred Jane
Miles, Edith
Morris, Dorothy Marguerite
O'Brien, Rose Anna
Pope, Eleanor Gertrude
Russell, Agnes Gertrude
Sexton, Mary Elizabeth
Sweeney, Emma Bertha
Thibodeau, Marie Beatrice
Wilnot, Cella
Wholey, Elizabeth Catherine
Wholey, Helen Rita

MOODY SCHOOL

Angelo, Paul Joseph Martin
Bischoff, John Edward
Brigham, Edward Hobbs
Campbell, Archibald
Cary, Homer Ernest
Clun, John Joseph
Corbett, John Joseph
Curran, James Patrick
Desmond, Frederick Herbert
Dunlop, Anna Maria
Edwin, Edward Joseph
Evelyn, Mildred Vera
Flather, Frederick
Flather, John Rogers
Fleming, Merton Corson
Fletcher, Theodore David
Foss, William
Gardner, Raymond Everett
Goyette, Mabel Agnes Hamel, Maurice Albert
Hartley, Frank
Hosson, Beatrice Evelyn
Hosson, Frank Foster
Hunt, Bernard
Kane, Clara Alice
Kelly, Grace Christina
Koye, Beulah Rita
Koye, Charles Joseph
Lewney, Regina Marie
McCabe, William Edward
MacElroy, Leonard Samuel
MacFadyen, Nell Leonard
McGee, Francis Stephen
McGowan, Mildred Anna
Mack, Mary Alice
Mackey, Anna Lillian
McOsker, Anna King
McSorley, John Joseph
Muldron, Alice Ellen
Mulloney, Josephine Elizabeth
Mulligan, Dorothy Keenison
Nemeth, Mary
Nector, Charles Patrick
Quinn, Francis Joseph
Rowlandson, William Edward Joseph
Smith, Charles Frederick
Smith, Pauline Hilma
Sullivan, John Howard
Sullivan, Paul Francis
Thompson, Joseph William
VandenBerg, Hoyt Sanford
Wells, Elizabeth Veronica
Wilson, Albert Edward
Wirt, Donald Roper

COBURN SCHOOL

Blain, Lillian Neula
Boyle, Catherine Frances
Burns, Elizabeth Frances
Cassin, Margaret Mary
Dillon, Dorothy Mary
Flynn, Helen Thomas
Foley, Cecelia Josephine
Gavin, Anna Theresa
Jackson, Bertha Ellen
Kazangian, Theresa Bessie
Larkin, Helen Veronica
Lowrey, Alice Cecelia
Madole, Isabella
McArdle, Gertrude Frances
McKearney, Catherine Margaret
Mellin, Mary Gertrude
O'Neill, Catherine Frances
Barrett, Lewis Medley
Brennan, James Francis
Buehly, George
Clarke, Cornelius M.
Clarke, John Willie
Conroy, George Clement
Gair, Richard Francis
Hetherman, James
Hickey, John Joseph
Lawson, Albert
Mellor, Robert Joseph
McGuire, James Patrick
Rourke, George Alfred
Wylie, Archibald

GREEN SCHOOL

Albert, Joseph, Jr.
Boyle, John Thomas Boyle
Broun, John Henry

Burns, Robert Clifford
Delisle, Hubert
Kapata, Belle Buster
Lavales, Raymond George
Lynch, Joseph Leo
Normandy, Francis Peter
Reardon, Leo Henry
Richards, Fillmore Joseph
Rehlfeld, Hector Emile
Wood, Raymond Harry Bernier, Irene Louise
Bertrand, Emma Rose
Bischoff, Marie Louise
Burdy, Cecile Jane
Cachuan, Alice Hazel
Cassidy, Josephine
Giroux, Clara Elizabeth
Gosselin, Mary Madeline
Kenyon, Gladys
Kroft, Alexander
Lefebvre, Lillian Gertrude
McGarrett, Jennie Veronica
McGill, Sadie Lena
Mountain, Bertha Lee
Poremba, Alice
Rumney, Helena Agnes
Rogers, Gladys Margaret

WASHINGTON SCHOOL

Brown, Robert Thomas
Chesley, Raymond Warren
Dillon, Harold Bernard
Dostler, John Joseph
Garrity, Thomas Elias
Gillet, Albert Joseph
Gondall, Arthur Stevens
Harrison, Benjamin Albert
Haves, Edward Norman
Hilton, Lewis Ira
Hubert, William Andrew Joseph
Lewis, Howard William
Mills, Charles Arthur
Ryan, Hilan DeWitt
Amadon, Muriel Esther
Bontwell, Mildred Avis
Collamore, Gladys Louise
Connelly, Alice Esther
Connelly, Catherine Louise Connelly
Connelly, Helen Gertrude
Dickey, Maud
Greene, Anne Belle
Greene, Mary Madeline
Henderson, Gladys Pearl
Johnson, Elsie Katherine Salma
Lee, Adriah Evelyn
Long, Gladys Evelyn
MacFadden, Marguerite
Plaisant, Adelle May
Rock, Beatrice Rose
Rock, Mildred Louise Gertrude
Whitaker, Marion Parker

Pupils Neither Present Nor Tardy

Five years, Clifton C. Hiley, gr. 8.
Three years, Clifford Anderson, gr. 6.
One year, Ida Anderson, gr. 5; Oscar Olsen, gr. 5; Myrtle Triles, gr. 5.
Thomas Neito, gr. 7; Gertrude Zolinger, gr. 7.
Harold, gr. 5; Bessie Spence, gr. 5.
Ruth Koenig, Chester Koenig, gr. 2.
Karl Hiley, gr. 1.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

Girls—Four-Year Course

Armstrong, Mabel Grace
Becon, Della
Barnard, Esther May
Beals, Mildred Ada
Breckinridge, Margaret Kyle
Brum, Margaret Frances
Butler, Lillian Scott
Cassler, Helen Agnes
Caverno, Elizabeth Sherman
Choate, Helen Edith Marguerite
Clevette, Cecile Madeline
Cliff, Gertrude Lillian
Coburn, Marion Ella
Cannon, Flora Margaret
Corbett, Alice Beatrice
Crompton, Alice Beatrice
Cummings, Irene Mary
Deane, Laura Belle
Dianen, Alice Katherine
Donohue, Alice Ruth
Duscoll, Dorothy Ignatia
Eddy, Gladys Mary
Exley, Edith May
Farrell, Mary Margaret
Falk, Helen Gray
Fahaven, Kathryn Hickson
Fahaven, Elizabeth Hickson
Flanders, Ruth Elizabeth
French, Mildred Estelle
Gallagher, Mary Katherine
Gendron, Laura Louise
Gibbons, Grace Marion
Gillbride, Helen Rose
Goggin, Laura Winifred
Gordon, Alice Elizabeth
Gould, Verne Belle
Griffin, Nora Cecelia
Graves, Achah Marietta Virginia
Gray, Mae Florence
Hartner, Nell Dodge
Jennison, Katherine McClellan
Jones, Olive Emily
Kelly, Georgeanna Patricia
Lamoureux, Christine Josephine
Landry, Alice Rose
Lane, Marion Louise
Laycock, Alice May
Lynch, John Helena
Linton, Agnes Louise
Long, Suzanne Simonds
Lounes, Lillian
Lynch, Josephine Theresa
Lyons, Helen Gertrude
Maurice, Mary Ruth
Marshall, Pauline Fluke
McIntire, Stella Gertrude
McIntire, Helen Dorothy
Morgan, Helen Frances
Murphy, Margaret Madeline
McMahon, Harriet Louise
McGowan, Gertrude May
Nichols, Edna Louise
O'Day, Helen Josephine
O'Day, Katherine May
O'Day, Kathleen Margaret
Payette, Lucille Ida
Reard, Eleanor Alice
Randall, Bertha
Reidy, Alice Gertrude
Reed, Grace Veronica
Regan, Mary Helene
Regan, Lauretta Claire
Reid, Elaine Goodale
Reid, Evelyn Jeanne
Riley, Alice Mary
Ritter, Dorothy Fay
Roberts, Myrtle Eva
Rodrigo, Asenath Frances
Roy, Marie Marguerite Juliette
Ryan, Anastasia Bernadette
Sander, Josephine Edna
Sanders, Edith Rebecca
Schole, Matilda Frances
Scott, Elizabeth Dorothy
Scott, Ruth Mary
Shapiro, Sarah Daisy

EVERYTHING FOR THE SHAVES

LATHER BRUSHES

Piles or more kinds ranging in price from 25c to $3.50 (every one warranted.)

RAZOR STROPS

Double and single stropps from 25c to $5.00 (at values unequalled elsewhere.)

SAFETY RAZORS

From 25c to $20.00, including every standard brand made, also blades or parts of any, repairs, sharpening of used blades and old style razors.

OLD STYLE RAZORS

From $1.00 to $3.50—Keen Cutters, Wade & Butcher and other makes, all of which are guaranteed. Nugs, Mirrors, Soaps, Creams, Powders, Sticks, Symplic Pencils, Massages Brushes, etc.

THE SAFETY RAZOR SHOP

Howard The Druggist, 197 Central St.

Sherburne, Ruth Evelyn
Smith, Mary Dale
Stevens, Hazel
Stewart, Margaret
Stewart, Catherine Wright
Therley, Helen Mary
Tighe, Alice Mae
Tingley, Ruth Helen
Varney, Marion
Warley, Lotia M.
Warren, Annie Ruth
White, Freda Ellen
Wiggin, Alice Lillian Woodward, Rachel
Young, Ruth Lois

Girls—Five Year Course

Atwood, Catherine
McMahon, Katherine Gertrude
Reynolds, Anne Veronica
St. Onge, Hildegard Inez
Trull, Dorothy Esther

Girls—Three Year Course

Anderson, Maud Everett
Aston, Hazel Ruth
Atkinson, Esther Emily
Beard, Oida Maria
Brennan, Mary Winifred
Burke, Mary Ellen
Burns, Emily Gertrude
Cahill, Margaret Catherine
Cameron, Edith May
Campbell, Helen Edith
Campbell, Isabel Blanche
Coffin, Cora Blanche
Chapman, Mildred Naomi
Coffin, Cora Blanche
Donegan, Anna Elizabeth
Dooley, Gertrude Anna
Downey, Mildred Anna
Dunn, Mary Lillian
Fairbrother, Marjorie Lillian Falls, Rachel Helen Farley, Grace Esther
Farmer, Edna Delonge
Geoffroy, LaRose Frances
Hardy, Harriet Elizabeth
Holmes, Amelia Marie Bernadine
Joubin, Alice Ethel
Kane, Helen Louise
Kelly, Mary Veronica
Lafamme, Mabel Elizabeth
Lake, Dorothy Potter
Locke, Louise
MacGillivray, Grace Elizabeth
Mallin, Grace Anna
Marshall, Lillian
McGillivray, Grace Elizabeth
Marshall, Lillian
Minter, Dorothy Frances
McLaughlin, Alice Leonita
Mahan, Grace Anna
Oblson, Ellen Blanche
Oblson, Lillian
Oblson, Pauline Mary
Raymond, Margaret Alice
Reardon, Elizabeth Priscilla
Shaw, Gladys Rebecca
Slipp, Verna Marie
Thomas, Martha Alberta
Washburn, Lucille
Wells, Beatrice Audrey
Willmatt, Alice Emily

Boys—Four Year Course

Hartley, Ray Hayward
Bakelie, Marshall Everett
Benson, William John
Browning, Thomas Hardisty
Bruin, James Joseph
Cahill, Paul Joseph
Cheney, Harold Gordon
Connelly, Cornelius Farley
Cooper, Howard
Cromer, William Daniel
Coulter, Joseph Joseph
Crane, John Joseph
Donohue, William Edward
Donohue, John Joseph
Dunne, William Augustus
Duffy, Francis Farley
Duval, Gerald Basil
Eckelstone, Arthur Greenhale
Evans, Albert Hayes
Flanagan, William Joseph
Frawley, Edward Hickey
Gersen, Percy
Goldrick, Edward Joseph
Gray, William Chester
Harris, Reginald Gordon
Hartford, Emily Augustus
Hickman, Charles Ernest
Hockney, Victor Fuller
Howard, William Leely
Huggard, Arthur Wentworth
Hurd, Eugene Field
Kiefer, Francis Joseph
Larkin, Edward Clifton
Larkin, Erick Thelma Lawrence
Leland, Raymond Clarence
Libbe, George Carroll
Love, George James
Markham, George Bernard
Morrison, Merrill George
Morgan, John Paul
McKenna, James Walter
McConnell, Charles Constantine
Palmer, Cecil George
Panton, Charles Ledger
Pare, Edward Everett
Parlier, Percy, Jr.
Pepin, William Reid
Peters, Sydney Shaw
Pine, Thomas Canals
Reilly, Peter William, Jr.
Robertson, John Layland, Jr.
Ryan, William John
Slater, Raymond Willis
Smethurst, Benjamin McKinley
Smith, Edwin Lee
Spaulding, Earle Everett
Stevens, Raymond Russell
Sturges, Thomas Alvin
Sunbury, Herbert Ellsworth
Sydney, William Ralph
Taylor, Herbert Harold
Walsh, John Andrew, Jr.
Woodward, Clarence Harvey
Woodworth, Brooks

Boys—Three Year Course

Allen, James Henry
Anderson, Clarence Oscar Frederick
Armstrong, John William
Bachner, Frank Elbert
Bailey, James Edwin
Bartlett, Harold Kneeland
Bowers, Vernon
Brannon, Albert James
Cady, Harold Jackson
Callahan, George Leo
Celman, Charles Tobin
Corbett, Francis Patrick
Cullen, John Thomas
Cunningham, Clarence Albert
Curran, Albert
Flanagan, Charles Randolph
Fletcher, Vernon Sargent
Forays, Raymond Gilbert
Dunright, Frederick Patrick
Downey, John Joseph
Lynch, R. J.
Mansfield, Jefferson Roberts
McCaughy, Royal Thomas
McCloughy, Benjamin Howard
O'Donnell, Paul Henry
O'Leary, Patrick John Aloysius
Raney, Walter Ambrose
Shawcross, Royal
Sullivan, Arthur James
Tietcum, George Philip Chace
Walsh, James Benedict
Wilde, Thomas Linwood
Wilson, Arthur Kiltredge
Wold, Harold

Boys—Five Year Course

Buchanan Douglas Riley
Coburn, Charles Higgins
Coburn, Roddy Clyde
Dillon, Edward Jackson
Dow, James Guthrie
Hart, Arthur James
Higgins, Thomas Bartholomew
Marshall, Edward Matthew
Merrill, Gilbert Roscoe
McCullough, Graham Harvey
McLeod, William Rodney
Pattillo, Donald Knutson
Putnam, Harold Marshall
Thomson, George Washington
Wilkins, George Carl
Wilson, Walter Chisholme

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

LOCAL BUILDERS ARE BUSY

Considerable Activity in Constructing Dwellings—Transactions Recorded This Week

And still builders are busy. More buildings are being constructed in this city and considerable alterations are being done. However, there is no large building under construction, but very little helps and most of the Lowellites in the building crafts are kept working.

The most important new job at the present time is the repairing of the fire damages at the Woolworth store in the Hildreth building, which it is figured will cost about $20,000. Dwelling houses are being erected in large numbers, while many buildings are being remodeled. A building in Pine street is being converted into a meeting place for Cercle Jacques-Cartier and different odd jobs in the building line are being done, and it is expected that before long this particular line of business will take a leap toward progress that will open the eyes of many who predicted that this year would be the worst for a long time in the building history of Lowell.

Charles Lafontaine is building a hen coop at 24 Dalton street.

The building numbered 66-68 Chambers street is undergoing considerable changes. Toilet rooms are being installed on each floor, and new floors will be put in.

Work on the new building of Oscar P. Cognac at 105 Salem street is progressing. This will be a four-apartment house with store, the apartments to contain from four to six rooms. The dimensions of the building are 21 by 73 feet and three stories in height.

The building of Charles S. Lilley in the rear of 286 Fairmount street is being enlarged. A pantry and bath are being installed on the first floor, while two sleeping apartments will be constructed on the second floor.

Richard Byam has started work on the erection of a cottage at 23 Belrose avenue. The house will contain seven rooms with pantry and bath and will be equipped with a hot water heating system.

Work will be started soon on the foundation for the gasoline tank in the rear of the police station on the E. B. Coburn Co. This will be an underground affair and the capacity of the tank will be several hundred gallons.

P. Noe Brunelle has made plans for the erection of a two-tenement house at 325-327 Moody street. Each tenement will contain six rooms with pantry and bath with a steam heating plant in the cellar. Work on the foundation has been started.

J. J. Kerwin is having the balcony of his home at 16 Watson street enlarged and the work will be completed in a few days.

Charles D. Witham is going to build a cottage at 46 Canton street. The building will contain eight rooms with pantry and bath and a steam heating system. It will be 25 by 30 feet and two stories in height. Mr. Witham in-ends building two more cottages, one at 50 and the other at 34 Canton street. All will contain eight rooms with pantry and bath and will be of the most modern type.

Charles N. Needham has started work on a two-apartment house at 36-38 Norcross street. Each tenement will contain five rooms with pantry and bath. The building will be 50 by 115 feet and 2½ stories in height.

Mrs. James Donovan has been at work on remodeling a shed at the corner of Middlesex and Sayles streets. The building will be converted into a store building with a gravel roof, and considerable alterations will be in the interior and exterior.

Avila Sawyer has started work on the erection of a storage shed at 72 Sparks street for Gledson Trudel. The structure will be one story.

Charles H. Howard is having a piazza erected at his home, 4 Barton street. The affair will be of wood, supported on cement posts.

A modern residence is being erected by Edwin A. Simpson at the corner of Main and Fairmount streets. This building will contain eight rooms with pantry, bath, and attic. The foundation will be of concrete and a steam heating plant will be installed in the cellar of the house. The cost of the building will be about $5000.

Robert Catherwood is having a stable erected in the rear of 48 Epping street. The building will be of wood, two stories in height with a flat gravel roof.

Hurvey F. Greene is having a piazza constructed at his home, 73 Marlboro street. The platform will be 10 by 15 feet.

Mr. Greene has also made plans for the erection of two cottages at 174 Pine street and 284 Stevens street. Each house will contain seven rooms with pantry and a steam heating system, and will be installed in each building.

The building of Grace G. Harvey at 542 Chelmford street is undergoing considerable changes. The roof is being raised to the ell and the dining room is being extended. A sleeping room and a bathroom are being installed and a piazza, 8 by 8, will be constructed.

The old stable in the rear of Notre Dame de Lourdes church in East Pine street is being remodeled into a club house for Cercle Jacques Cartier. Both the interior and exterior of the structure will be touched and when finished will make a good meeting place for the new organization.

Sales by Abel B. Campbell
Abel B. Campbell, real estate and insurance broker with offices at 103-105 Sun building, reports the following sales for the week ending June 10:

The sale of two excellent building lots situated on the easterly side of Warwick street between Elm and D streets. Each lot contains about 4500 feet of land and there has been a concrete sidewalk and edgestones installed. The assessed value of the lots is $300. The sale was made to Mrs. J. F. Farrington of Sheldon street. Mrs. Farrington will erect two modern houses on the lots. The grant or in this sale was Mr. A. C. Russell of Wilder street.

The sale of a splendid estate in the Highlands near Dover street. The house occupies a prominent corner and is surrounded with beautiful shade and fruit trees. The house contains six rooms and is equipped with all conveniences, including a beautiful fireplace. The sale was made for an out-of-town owner to a local business man.

Transactions Recorded
Haven G. Hill to Clarence H. Nelson, 40 Parkview avenue.
Richard Bray to Maria Glynn, land and buildings on Pollard street.
Arnold S. Welch to George R. Caldwell, land and buildings on Frye street.
Harry F. Wadsworth to The Norbeck Specialty company, land and buildings on John J. Kennedy at 10 to David Frequent at 10 and buildings on east side of Frye street.
Joseph Lafontaine to Jacques Boisvert, land and buildings on Bonell street.
Andre Belanger to Ferdinand Dion, land and buildings on Gershom avenue.
Idella L. Norton to George B. Everett et ux, land and buildings on Lincoln, Kirby and Essex streets.
Alice Brown Whipple to James Gookin, land and buildings corner Sherman and Huntington streets.
Mary A. Wilkins to Francis J. Maguire, land and buildings on Eighth avenue.

Frank L. Woldman by mortgage to Asa W. Arnold and corner Pawtucket and Wampanoag streets.
Fred G. McGregor by mortgage to Harry M. Parker, land corner Berwick street and Berkeley avenue.
Edwin L. Sweeney to Arthur E. Melton, land and buildings on Bridge street.

Susan O'Day by executor to Cornelius O'Day, land and buildings on Madison street.
Samuel B. Smiley to Laura May Ann, land corner Chelmford and Union streets.
Mary J. Moynahan et al. to Charlotte Bennett, land on Lily avenue and Dalton street.
Helen Treanbley to Harry M. Parker, land on Florence avenue.

J. J. Allen to Mary F. Neale, land on Florence avenue.
Albert E. Luman to Martha P. Worcester, land on Beacon street.
Frank H. Hennes to Avila Desrosiers, land on Cumberland street.
Asa C. Russell to Ida P. Farrington, land on Warwick street.
Thomas A. Philie et ux. to Rose A. Moran, land on Ash street.

Warren Land Trust by trustee to Joseph Beaudoin, land at Rosemont Terrace.
Nathaniel Peabody to Albert A. Davis, land and buildings on Boynton and Ludlum streets.
John F. Dillon to Albert B. Cameron, land and buildings on Pine and Stevens streets.

Nicolas Gadois to Rosanna Paquette, land corner Barker and Exeter streets.
Nicolas Gadois to Rosanna Paquette, land and buildings on Jacob avenue.
Estate E. Allen et al. by admr. to Jacob Gerson, land and buildings on Washington street.

Cortes M. Allen to Jacob Gerson, land and buildings on Washington street.
Billerica
James E. Burke Jr. to John Banber Shibles, land at 2 The Pines.
James E. Burke Jr. to Leah S. Butler, land at The Pines.
William Henry Sweeney to Ella I.

Clifford, land on Ellingwood avenue.
James E. Burke Jr. to Lydia Desjardins, land at Central Park.
James E. Burke Jr. to Jean B. Boisvert, land at Central Park.
Frank W. Coughlin to Wells T. Letteney, land on Sachem and Ordway streets.

Aaron Adelman to Frederick J. Carey, et ux, land on Pinegrove avenue.
Jacob W. Wilbur to Frank J. Levesque, land at Lakeside Park.
Jacob W. Wilbur to Alexander Morrison, land on Tuttle street.

Mary E. Thompson by conservator to Jennie P. Blodgett, land and buildings on Bedford street.
Aaron Adelman to Thomas O'Hara, land on Bedford street.
James E. Burke Jr. to John Cahill, land at Central Park.
Jacob W. Wilbur to Alvin E. Sanborn, land at Tuttle street.

Thomas W. Wilbur to Alvin E. Sanborn, land at Tuttle street.
Thomas W. Wilbur to Charles A. Wescott, land corner Beaumont and Covington avenues.
Mitchell Diga to Dorothy Black, land at Fox Hill Terrace.
James E. Burke Jr. to Patrick H. Farrell et al., land at Central Park.
Suburban Land Co., Inc., Boston, to Frank C. Dison, land at Nuttings Lake Park.

CARLISLE
William H. M. Henley to William L. Barrows, land and buildings.
Ernest C. Wilson to John Kigin, land and buildings.

CHELMSFORD
Mary L. Dudge et al. to Ira M. Boothby, land and buildings on Putnam avenue.
Emil A. Nelson et ux. to George W. Nelson, land on Brick Kiln road.
Charles O. Green to Samuel D. Paoness et al., land on Carlisle and Concord roads.

DRACUT
Roswell S. Fox to Myra Bostic, land and buildings corner Arlington and Champlain streets.
Fred C. Tobey Land Co., Inc., Boston to Joseph Beaudoin et al., land at Bel Air Park.

TEWKSBURY
Ellen Kirwin to Frances A. Duncan, land on Juniper street.
Charles O. Green to Edmund S. Horne, land corner Elm street and Florence avenue.
Grace V. Nickerson to Timothy W. Kelley, land on Elm street.

WESTFORD
Henrietta Heywood et al. by admr. to Mary E. Heywood, land on Boston road.

WILMINGTON
Suburban Land Co., Inc., Boston, to Roman P. Stashis, land at Wilmington Square Park.

THE REPORT OF BIRTHS

The following is the list of births reported at city hall this week:
12—To Mr. and Mrs. Otto Sauter at 133 Bennett street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Avila Perry of 63 Tyler street, a son.

13—To Mr. and Mrs. Peter Speropoulos, 127 Elm street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Cudworth, of 54 Chapel street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Wright of 82 School street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Hatch of 10 Appleton place, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Greenleaf of 120 Essex avenue, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Theodora Houde of 27 Sarah street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Adela Patenaude of 113 Gershom avenue, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Arglaire Constantines of 31 Winter street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. John Gole of 59 Bartlett street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nason of 215 Algon street, a daughter.

14—To Mr. and Mrs. Michel Foisy of 183 East Merrimack street, a daughter.
To Mrs. George Lempe of Cummings's alley, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. George P. Stowell of 121 Exchange street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Sheppard of 59 Lily avenue, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. James Rawnsley of 42 Lawrence street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. John H. Jennings of 114 Lincoln street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. of 53 Pond street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Elias Krikorian of 324 Moody street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. John Regan of 59 Cosgrove street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harnden of 181 Worthen street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goulette of 12 Joliet avenue, a daughter.
16—To Mr. and Mrs. Amos H. Dow of 101 Waverley street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Dan Apostolos of 420 Market street, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Alex M. Olson of 35 Veed street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Costa Ballis of 119 Farmland road, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaudette of 54 Algon street, a son.

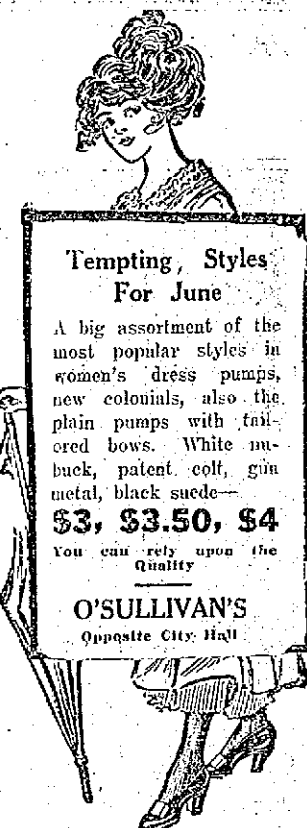

To Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of 4 Willow street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. James Coffan of 22 West Adams street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Armand Gervais of 70 Moody street, a daughter.

17—To Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mercier of 57 Beaulieu street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. John B. Richard of 14 Marshall street, a son.
To Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Turcotte of 38 Llewellyn street, a daughter.

May
To Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Lamarche, of 503 Moody street, a daughter.
20—To Mr. and Mrs. Wozak Kakak, of 24 West Fourth street, a daughter.

22—To Mr. and Mrs. Victor Branofsky, of 13 Spring street, a son.
23—To Mr. and Mrs. Moses Rhindler, of 48 Colburn street, a son.
24—To Mr. and Mrs. Rean Dyssik, of 37 Church street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Michael Marszalk, of 15 Pearl street, a son.
31—To Mr. and Mrs. Yan Wukofski, of 17 Spring street, a daughter.
June
1—To Mr. and Mrs. John Dubuque, of 19 B street, a son.
4—To Mr. and Mrs. Jean D. Defradas, of 103 Tucker street, a daughter.

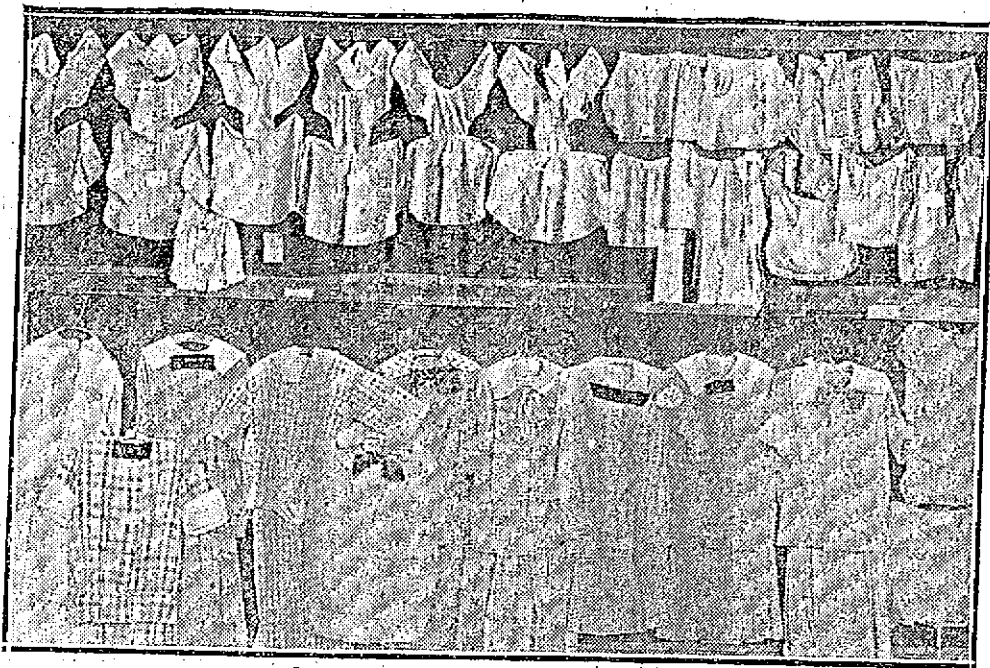

Tempting, Styles For June
A big assortment of the most popular styles in women's dress pumps, new colouinals, also the plain pumps with tailored bows. White nubuck, patent, colt, gun metal, black suede.
$3, $3.50, $4
You can rely upon the Quality
O'SULLIVAN'S
Opposite City Hall

of 141 Holyrood avenue, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Henri Patric, of 472 Central street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Farroll, of 119 Cabot street, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. William Shires, of 752 Gershom street, a daughter.
To Mr. and Mrs. Israel Spiegel, of 114 Howard street, a daughter.
12—To Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Peters, of 164 Smith street, a son.

REV. D. A. SULLIVAN, M. I.

MANUAL TRAINING AT WASHINGTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL CONDUCTED UNDER DIFFICULTIES—GOOD RESULTS

INDUSTRIAL WORK AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The sewing has been done under the direction of the special teachers, Miss Flint and Miss Owen, aided by the regular room teacher. In the fourth grade, both boys and girls have sewed, and he it said that the boys usually excel girls in the quality of their work. The boys made carpenter aprons, and the girls sewing aprons, many of them being trimmed with ribbons and lace. In grade five, the girls made work aprons, and sweeping caps for themselves. In grade six, lessons were given in the making of petticoats and pretty dressing sacks or kimonos. In grade seven, the girls made dresses for themselves. They cut their patterns, too, and several girls have made other dresses at home. In this grade, also, the girls have learned to run the sewing machine, which has been purchased with money raised from cake sales.

The manual training has been directed and taught wholly by the master, John E. Barr, although he acknowledges a debt of gratitude to the suggestions of Miss Underhill, the drawing teacher, whose kindly criticisms have helped to make the articles beautiful as well as useful. In grade five some time was given to mechanical drawing, and accurate measuring and cutting of pasteboard. This was followed by simple problems in wood; book ends to hold books on a table were constructed. In grade six a combination of brasswork and wood work was used for the problems. An original design was first made for the decoration of brass top for pen wiper. This same design was afterwards worked out for the four corners of a blotter mounted on thin whitewood varnished. The last problem was the making of a letter rack, or postcard holder, from two thicknesses of white wood. The work required careful and accurate use of saw, knife, hammer and glue. Grade seven made raffia porch pillows on looms constructed at the school and tall wooden vases. The latter were decorated with paintings from drawing lessons. One boy finished his in burnt-work, which made an attractive article. The manual work in grades eight and nine was open to both boys and girls. The articles made were the folding sketching stool and the umbrella stand. These were constructed from hard wood purchased by Mr. Barr and sold at cost or less to the pupils of the class. The tools—two saws, three screwdrivers, several hammers, two planes, a square, and a few other odd tools, donated by children or purchased with money raised at food sales or from sale of old rubbers collected by children. Out of little came much, for necessity is the mother of invention and causes all things to be as they are.

THE SPELLBINDER

Rep. Victor Francis Jowell of Lowell has been referred to quite frequently this year as a republican of the newer type of legislators who disapprove of the methods in vogue by the so-called "reactionaries," and the following is from a recent issue of the Cambridge Sentinel:

If the republicans are ever to come back in the esteem of the people of Massachusetts they must discard every reactionary leader in their midst. These leaders, and Middlesex county has far too many of them for the good of the community, were all opposed to improving the government of Middlesex county.

Girls' High School Needed
In a few months hence the school

board will be at its wits' end to find room for all the pupils who wish to be admitted to the high school. At present the work and discipline of the school are seriously interfered with as a result of overcrowding, while some go so far as to say that the pupils are exposed to dangers of a different kind from the manner in which boys and girls are crowded together in class rooms, corridors and passageways.

On all sides it is admitted that we must have either a new high school or a very large addition to the present school. Already we have an "annex" and if another building were added, there would be some difficulty in finding a suitable name for it. One has been called "No. 2" or "High School Extension," which would be very clumsy.

There is a widespread sentiment throughout the city in favor of a girls' high school by which the sexes would be provided for in separate buildings. There is no doubt whatever that great advantages would redound to both boys and girls from segregation in different schools.

In recent years the courses of study for boys and girls have been made more and more differentiated along special lines of study and training, demanded in the one case by the boys, and in the other by the girls.

For example boys are tending more to mechanical trades and handicrafts where they do not prepare for the professions; and the rudiments of a great many such trades are taught in the vocational schools. The girls, on the contrary are taking up domestic science in its various branches and in this the boys have no place. But these are not the only instances in which the courses taken by girls differ from that of boys. The preparation for college is different as it naturally should be. It is a fact incontrovertible that the special educational needs of boys and girls can be much better provided for in separate schools and hence the necessity of reaching a decision as soon as possible in this matter of providing a new high school for girls.

The expense will undoubtedly be urged as a reason for putting off the decision but the sooner the problem is taken up and disposed of the better for the schools, and the city. Undoubtedly the matter of expense is a very serious obstacle, but the necessity may as well be met now as later. There is also a demand for a new industrial school and one which some people regard as more urgent than that for a new high school. In my opinion they are both equally necessary and the city must well take steps to provide both, even if it be necessary to go to the legislature for permission to borrow outside the debt limit.

The referendum

It is all very well to talk home rule for cities and to encourage the referendum, but there are certain instances in which the referendum is a bad thing as well as a bad idea. If the legislature passed a bill granting a pension to every adult man and woman in Boston the people would undoubtedly approve it by a big majority, but would it be wise, just, or right for the governor to submit any such proposition to the referendum? I think not, and I believe a great many democrats have the same opinion.

Who's to Blame?

When a police officer comes to a gang of boys on the sidewalk and asks them in a gentlemanly way not to block the thoroughfare, or to move on, they generally show respect for his authority and do as he is ordered. But if he treats them like a lot of noxious animals that are to be banished they will naturally resent such treatment. When a police officer is always in trouble with the people on his beat, even when other men preserved order and had no trouble, there is a suspicion that the people are not entirely to blame.

Bills That Should Stay Put

There were two bills killed in the legislature this year that should never be brought forward again. One was the veterans' preference bill which in the final show up mustered but little strength. The defeat in the senate was obtained on a voice vote and the advocates of the measure were unable to muster enough supporters to make a respectable showing.

The other bill which has been defeated was that for a statue to Gen. Butler on the state house grounds. This bill always brings to the front all the personal enemies of the late General Butler, all the jealous military men in whose minds the old Lowell warrior was not an ideal hero. Out respect to Gen. Butler, his friends should let the matter rest until such times as his personal enemies and opponents shall have passed away and till posterity unswayed by malice will do justice to his memory.

Oiling the Streets

Now that the streets, formerly watered, are treated with oil, the abutters are wondering whether they will have to pay for the watering merely or pay for what the oil treatment costs. The oiling is much to be preferred if it costs no more than the watering. A good many people believe that the oil would last longer and be more effective as a dust-layer if it were protected against travel for 24 hours after being laid. Why not close the streets for 24 hours after oiling, Mr. Morse?

The County Ring Saved

Speaking of the county ring probe, Practical Politics has the following: "The Middlesex county ring, mythical or otherwise, will breathe easier, now that the house has rejected the bill for an investigation of the government and financial administration of Middlesex county."

"Rep. Henry J. Mahoney of Cambridge, editor of the Cambridge Sentinel, made a gallant fight for the measure, but the opposition proved just strong enough to win out. The vote on Thursday was 103 to 103. The bill needed a majority vote. An attempt to secure reconsideration yesterday failed."

"The strong argument used against the measure was that County Commissioner Erson Barlow, who was elected on a Boston American and Middlesex county ring platform, had failed to discover any rottenness and that therefore there is no apparent need of an investigation."

This was certainly turning the tables on Commissioner Barlow and it also shows that as a political power the county-ring is still in the game.

Seeking Building Defects

Commissioner Donnelly and Inspector Connor are acting in co-operation with the state police in investigating fire-traps and defective buildings. Commissioner Donnelly states that already considerable good has been accomplished and that fire escapes have been ordered upon several buildings where the laws did not seem to be complied with. Inspector Connor also complains of the greed shown by certain proprietors on Central Middlesex and other streets who build out to the sidewalk line and have some projections over the sidewalk. This habit is to be discouraged as far as possible.

City Finances

Mr. Tardox, the expert accountant

Plan Your Next Visit To Boston Monday, June 22nd And Take Advantage of Our Great Annual June Clearance Sale

An Event of Unusual Magnitude to which every Selling Section of our Two Immense Buildings Contributes Remarkable Values

Hundreds of Price Concessions

This is by all odds New England's Foremost Clearance Sale. Patrons will find thousands of articles needed for Summer uses marked at remarkably low prices. In some cases recent special purchases have arrived in-time to be included in this sale.

At Actual Savings of 1/4 to 1/2

If you cannot attend this sale in person use our Telephone or Mail Order Service freely. Information cheerfully given regarding the goods on sale, and orders filled promptly.

SUMMER BUSINESS HOURS—Remember the Jordan Marsh Company store closes at 1 P. M. Saturdays and 5 P. M. other week days during the summer months.

Free Delivery

We deliver free of charge in Massachusetts anything we sell. We deliver free of charge in New England anything we sell, with the exception of House-furnishings—in which case a purchase of 2.50 secures free delivery.

Jordan Marsh Company

No Shopping Trip to Boston Can be Complete Without a Visit to Boston's Greatest Store

$500.00 IN CASH PRIZES

GIVEN AWAY IN

Next Sunday's Boston American

FOURTEEN Puzzle Pictures each representing a street, will be published in next Sunday's Boston American. A list containing the correct answers will be published on the same pages

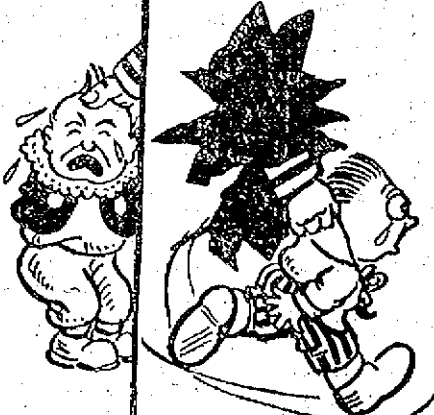

No answer books to buy—no expense to you. Just pick the names you believe to be correct from the list—write them in the "Answer Blank" and mail them to the Weekly Puzzle Editor of the American.

THE ORIGINAL KATZENJAMMER KIDS

Uncle Heiney has his hands full mit dem!

HE GETS 'EM YOU BET!

Don't Miss Them Next Sunday!

from the office of the state board of labor and statistics, has been in Lowell, and on, for several months and has familiarized himself very thoroughly with the city's financial condition. A smile flits across his very pleasant countenance when he hears city fathers and others talking about reductions made and to be made in the temporary loan, so-called. Mr. Tarbox states very emphatically that the temporary loan remains the same and that the city will never be able to cut it down until it ceases to appropriate every cent of its revenues. No reduction in the temporary loan can be looked for this year and it cannot be looked for next year, or any other year unless less money is appropriated than is represented by the revenues. Reducing the temporary loan with a view to saving money is a genuine reduction and this is just what is going on. The only difference in the modus operandi at city hall this year as compared with former years is that this year the city secured permission from the legislature to carry out a refunding process which is but an arrangement to pay off a certain amount within a specified time.

The Park Department

Things are settling down to normal in the park board and the citizens may now look forward to a display of business judgment in the management of

QUINCY HOUSE
BOSTON
500 Rooms—$1.00 Per Day and Up
FREE SHOWER BATHS
Your Choice from 3 or 4
Luncheon Specials 50c
Every Day 11:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.
TABLE D'HOTE DINNER
in main dining room $1.00
and cafe 11:30 to 2 p.m.
PLANKED STEAK or CHICKEN $1.50
Served for two persons in the JAPANESE GARDEN BOSTON'S MOST NOVEL CAFE
Special Music 12 to 2 P. M.
With Sides 5 P. M. to Midnight

HOTEL COLLINGWOOD

West 35th Street, NEW YORK CITY
SETH H. MOSELEY
Half Bk. from Herald Sq. & 5th Av. in midst of leading department stores and theatres.
Select accommodations for discriminating people with personal attention and service impossible in the larger hotels. Your patronage is earnestly solicited.
Room without bath.....$1.50
Room without bath for two.....$2.00
Room with bath.....$2.50
Room with bath for two.....$3.00
Parlor Bedroom with bath.....$5.00
Special attention given to ladies and families. Restaurant at moderate prices.

the department affairs. The arrangements for the opening of the playgrounds have been well looked after and there is a prospect of good results. Commissioner Henry Carr has worked hard and collected a considerable sum of money for the playgrounds. He intends to get the board's sanction for a baby show at the closing on the South common, so as to bring out the mothers with their babies. He would offer prizes for the prettiest babies and the most handsomely decorated baby carriages.

Fearful of Pawtucket Bridge

The Pawtucket bridge is under suspicion again and the residents of Pawtucketville will hesitate to drive over it with heavy loads until some engineer reports it safe or until Charles Morse drives over it once more with a big steam roller. What say you, Commissioner Morse, in regard to testing the strength of the bridge once more? It is alleged that it does not wobble under the heaviest of Gage's ice teams or under the ordinary street car; but even that is not sufficiently assuring to the people who are afraid that it might collapse some fine morning same as did part of the Chelmsford street bridge.

ing same as did part of the Chelmsford street bridge.

School Board Rumors

There is a good deal of curiosity as to what the school board will do at its next meeting. Rumor has it that a new superintendent will be elected either at that or a subsequent meeting. There is still a vacancy for principal of the Edison school. The candidates mentioned are Christopher Hagan, Hon. John F. Moehan and a Mr. King from Boston. Mr. Hagan had charge of the school for a year, and did good work, while the late principal was out on leave of absence. The board put a woman in charge of the school as a matter of economy, and it is not known whether after retiring so many teachers, it will be able to pay a principal at the Edison. It is stated that the proposed arrangement for sake of economy is to give each primary teacher 40 pupils, and each grammar teacher 45. There will be no examination for new teachers this year as there is still a waiting list of ample proportions.

THE SPELLBINDER

Make Your Dollar Produce More in a New York City Hotel

Two Specialties

$2.50 PER DAY A pleasant room with private bath, facing large open court.
(Not one room, but one hundred of them.)
$3.00 PER DAY An excellent room with private bath, facing street, Southern exposure.
(Not one room, but eighty-seven of them.)

Also attractive rooms without bath from $2.00. The Restaurant prices are most moderate

Location

One minute from 5 of the largest department stores. Five minutes walk from 19 principal theatres. Within a block of the Fifth Ave. shopping district. Every line of transportation passes the door. Fifth Avenue Buses and principal surface lines. The Hudson Tubes across the street. Elevated Railroad Station across the street. Subway Station three minutes away. Grand Central Station within seven minutes. Pennsylvania Railroad Station just one block away. For convenience one could ask no more.

The Hotel

EVERYTHING NEW AND MODERN. A FIVE MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL. EQUIPPED TO SATISFY THE MOST EXACTING TASTE.

THE HOTEL MARTINIQUE

"THE HOUSE OF TAYLOR"
Established 1848

Broadway, 32nd and 33rd Streets
New York

CHARLES LEIGH TAYLOR President WALTER CHANDLER, JR. General Manager WALTER C. GILSON Vice President

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

SOME LYING FIGURES

The wars of the political propagandist are often more contradictory than consistent and they who take their industrial information from the pages of trade journals are apt to be sadly misled. The current editions of some leading journals and magazines would have the public believe that American industry is in a most depressed condition, that the future is gloomy, that the government is short of funds—and all because of the democratic administration in Washington. Meanwhile there is no indication of hard times in the great manufacturing cities, apart from the temporary lull that is due to conditions the world over and to ever-present seasonal influences. When President Wilson declared a few days ago that the degree of business depression which exists is due to psychological causes, he aroused a storm of protest and would-be ridicule throughout the land, but the truth of his statement is borne out most strongly by the frenzied attempts of selfish interests to create an artificial opposition to the government. The president touched a sore spot and the resultant squall shows that his diagnosis was nearly correct.

No better illustration of judgments formed, consciously or unconsciously, on biased application of statistics could be given than that contained in two recent editorials, one being from the Fall River News and the other from the well known financial review, "The Banker and Tradesman." Both editorials deal with emigration conditions as an indication of good or bad business and though each arrives at diametrically opposite conclusions, no one can deny that each discussion is convincing, without the other.

"There is hardly a more faithful and reliable index of the conditions in the business world," says the Fall River News, "than the statistics of immigration, the ebb and flow of the movement of working people from Europe in this country or the reverse." It then goes on to compare the immigration figures of the present year with those of former years and concludes that the total for the five months ending June 1, 1914, as compared with the same period in 1913 shows a falling off of more than 25 per cent. It furthermore decides that for more emigrants returned to their own country this year than last and that both facts make it look as though American conditions are far from prosperous.

The conclusions arrived at are as follows: "These figures can only indicate that the demand for laborers is strikingly less at this time than it was a year ago. Opportunities for employment have been reduced. This present condition is but a repetition of what happened following the depression of 1907. Then, foreign born persons returned to their native lands in great numbers. 'So far, there has been no general wage reduction. The employers are not cutting wages, but they are reducing their payrolls. Fewer men are employed. Labor, of course, feels the change.'"

Even if the figures on which above is based were correct it is questionable if they could be taken as a barometer of American trade conditions, as immigration is affected to a great extent by conditions in other countries. In this phase of the matter, however, we are not at present interested.

The edition of "The Banker and Tradesman" published almost on the same date as the above, tells an altogether different story. Under the caption "Immigration on Increase" it says: "According to statistics published by the Bureau of Immigration, all records for influx of foreigners to our shores are being broken this year. Since the first of the fiscal year of 1914 began immigrants have come to this country at the rate of more than 2500 per week. The government statistics show that for April and the ten months ended with April the total admitted for that month was 119,583 and for the ten months 1,028,956. If the number of people admitted during May and June equal those admitted in previous years, the total for 1914 would be approximately 1,351,000. Immigrants. The record for any year heretofore was 1,284,345 arriving in 1907."

As the financial journal gives the government Bureau of Immigration as the source of its information, its figures carry more conviction than those quoted by the other paper and go far towards nullifying the pessimistic conclusions. This does not indicate, however, that our Fall River contemporary distorted the immigration reports, but in all probability it based its conclusion on tales compiled by some interested source adverse to the democratic regime.

LAWRENCE STRIKE FUND

The decision of the full bench of the supreme court to the effect that money contributed to the relief of the Lawrence strikers two years ago was a public charitable trust and that those controlling it were personally liable for its expenditure, is a strong blow to the I. W. W. in this section of the country. Strictly speaking it has nothing to do with the principles of the disruptive body, but it will attract a great deal of unwelcome advertising to its methods and unfavorable advertising is what the I. W. W. or other ing if such will be insisted on in the future for the present agitation may not cease until there is some reliable international tribunal with ability to make a new set of wise laws and with authority to enforce them.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

At the present session of the superior court now sitting in New Bedford, Judge Robert F. Raymond refused to estimate the district court sentence of three months in the house of correction imposed upon a resident of Fall River who pleaded guilty of operating an automobile while he was in an intoxicated condition. This action will be commended by the public, for a sentence of three months does not seem excessive for the offense of endangering the lives of men, women and children, and this drunken driver does. He may lose his own life, which in some aspects may not be a public calamity, but he is just as liable to inflict serious injury on the driver or occupants of any other auto using the same thoroughfare, to say nothing of pedestrians who are at his mercy. For the good of all communities an example should be made of all drunken drivers who come before the courts, and it is to be hoped that they get into the clutches of the law before instead of after some serious accident.

ANNEXATION IMPERATIVE

It is not generally known to the people of Lowell that this city is one of the smallest in the state in point of area, as most cities in the same class when population is considered, have twice the area of Lowell. Lowell has a smaller area than any of the suburban towns. This is one great reason why annexation from these towns is imperative. On this point The Sun will have something to say later on.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PROTECT OUR YOUNG MEN
Reformers every now and then make a great outcry about the necessity of saving our young women from the snares of the great city. Dr. Frank Goodwin points out that there is as much talk about the needs of the young women as there is about the needs of the young men. The cities grind up a lot of girls. There is no denying that. But they grind up more boys. The average girl is safer in the great city than the average boy. There are just as many people who are running for young men as there are for young women. The average youth is more temptation in a day than the average girl comes across in a month—Johnston Democrat.

INVITING FIRES
There is a disposition in this country to sympathize with any one who has suffered from fire, but the attitude toward such persons in Europe is just the opposite, they being held personally responsible until they have proved themselves innocent. This may seem unjust and unreasonable, but the result of such action is that very few fires in Europe are traced to incendiaries. The knowledge that such an occurrence casts a reflection upon the owner of property makes him much more careful regarding the conditions about his premises than is the case where a fire is considered simply a misfortune.—Newport News.

WEIR FROM MISSOURI
And now it is said that the generally accepted report of the death of the black monarch, King Menelik of Abyssinia, like several others that had received circulation previously from time to time in the past 10 years, was erroneous and that he is still in the flesh. Apparently he is a tough old proposition with more lives than a cat.—Fall River Globe.

EGGS AND SPEED
There will be general approval of the action suggested by Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce, and the board of the department of agriculture, in issuing instructions to all local boards of steamboat inspectors to impose a heavy penalty in all cases where a master of a vessel carrying passengers proceeds through fog at full speed. The penalty is to be imposed, whether the recklessness of the captain resulted in loss of life or not. In the future it will not be necessary for a collision to occur to incur the penalty. The mere fact of the endangerment of lives by running at full speed will result in action being taken.—Manchester Union.

WORCESTER LIGHTS
Worcester saw itself lighted up last night and one of the largest, if not the very largest crowd, that has ever congregated in the city's history was the result. The spectacle was a revelation to all. Few ever received a more striking manifestation of the value of light over half-light and darkness. To many the city's history of lighting in its central portion before this.—Worcester Gazette.

PRISON TERMS
A Boston hotel employee's story, about being hounded back to crime by the painful nagging of fellow workers is heard. In various forms, in many cases where a fact of crime has come back to prison for a second term. If the prison happens to have encouraged decent ideals in the prisoner, the world soon destroys them. A prison term is a life sentence of a sort.—Brooklyn Times.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KUTHE'S THEATRE
Hundreds of persons have already seen the wonderful Laika photo-drama, "The Only Son," at the B. F. Kuthe theatre, and today many more will witness it. It is a remarkable picture, with a happy blending of the tragic with the lighter scenes. Thomas W. Moss in the leading part is seen to distinct advantage, while his supporting company of players has many good opportunities. The rise of a young man in the business world, and the fight which he relentlessly wages against his father form the burden of the story told. In addition to this are three other acts, two of them of a comedy nature and in one of which the irrepressible John Bunny appears. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15. Children five cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Of the many interesting and really commendable southern plays presented

THE OVAL THEATRE
"Gosh darn that villain," he came pretty near killing the series of "The Perils of Pauline" in this week's release. Then see, it is to his advantage to make away with the villain, and the smooth rascal is as inventive as a fox. She came pretty near death this week, and if it did happen, why, the management of the Oval would be without a big drawing card. However, she is still on deck. "Our Mutual Girl," a two-act Keystones and another two-act drama are on the program here today. It's your last chance. Monday and Tuesday, Daniel Frohman announces the showing of "Cheekers," a play by W. Somerset Maugham. Five parts of thrilling drama, and over 200 beautiful scenes. This picture is shown by special request of a big number of patrons.

THE KASINO
This afternoon and evening, the Kasino will be the objective of hundreds of happy couples representing Lowell, Nashua, Lawrence and Haverhill. The fame of the Kasino as an amusement resort has spread far and yond Lowell boundaries, and today finds patronage more substantial than ever. It is the inevitable tribute to good management. Come and get the Kasino sensation.

LAKEVIEW PARK
Band concerts at Lakeview park, Sunday afternoon, will be given by the local band, R. A. Griffiths, bandmaster. Jos. C. Fisher, assistant bandmaster. P. E. Mussey, piccolo soloist. The orchestra has here arranged one of his old time popular concert programs of songs new and old.

AFTERNOON, 3 TO 5
March, Gollmar Bros. Triumphal, Sweet Overture, Light Cavalry, Supper Overture medley, I'm Just Crying for Myself, The Merry Widow, The Walzes, Our Wedding Day, Tostant Selection, Bonnie Scotland, Dearly Del, I'm on My Way to Mandalay, (C) When the Willow Comes to Kiss the Rose Good Night, Von Tilzer Descriptive, The Forge in the Forest, Merley, Hayland Hits, Alchiz, Finale, Tone Picture of the North and South, Bendix

EVENING, 7.30 TO 9.30
March, Freedom's Awakening, Welcome, Overture, Harrington-Sargent Medley, Remick's Hit, Catlin Selection, Sons of Erin, Beyer Patrol, The Blue and the Gray, Dalley Piccolo solo, The Meadow Brook, Brookshire

Mr. F. T. Mussey
Overture, Superbia, Dalbey Selection, Marlina, Wallace, March, Sweet Memory, Lampas Finale, Songs of the Nation, Commencing next Monday afternoon and evening and for the entire week the management of Lakeview park will present the free outdoor attraction, the famous outdoor actors, the Weber family. The troupe consists of three men and three women who present one of the best acts of its kind on the American stage, and have been a feature with many big fairs and circuses. The Weber family will be remembered as having appeared at Lakeview last summer for a week's engagement. Performances will be given on the open air stage every afternoon at 4 and every evening at 8 o'clock.

At the theatre there is a fine program of moving pictures being presented every afternoon and evening. Admission to the theatre is free. For next Sunday the National band, R. A. Griffiths leader, will give a concert both afternoon and evening.

CANADIAN LAKE PARK
A band concert by the Lawrence Brass Band, Reinhardt Meyer, director, will be given Sunday, June 21, 3 to 5 P. M. The program: "Belphégor," Bressant Concert waltz, "Dreaming," Joyce Patrol, "The Blue and the Gray," Dalbey Overture, "Sonderland," Rensini Popular song, "When I Come Back," Mills "They're on Their Way to Mexico," Berlin Solo for Cornet, "I Hear You Calling Me," Thomas Datto, Marshall Popular medley, "Mandalay," Felst Grand selection, "Lohengrin," Wagner Solo for piccolo, "Le Merle Blanc," Danare "Mr. Walter Dick" Finale, "Star Spangled Banner."

A REFRESHING DRINK
When shopping down street and you wish to refresh yourself, have an ice cream or a soda at Mourning, the two best in the city. 218 Merrimack st., Old City Hall block, and at Bradley bldg., 173 Central street.

Putnam & Son Co.

166 CENTRAL STREET

Attention Workingmen!

"WATCH THE WEAR"

The best Union Made Overalls in America. If a pair rips, Bring Them Back, and get a new pair free. In our basement department we carry everything required by tradesmen, mechanics, machinists and teamsters, of the best make and quality.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, 50c
Blue denim, white drill, Otis pin check, black, drab black and white duck and drill.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, high back railroad make, 75c
Double cylinder blue denim, heavy pin check, special white, drab, and black and white duck.

Remember, if a pair of "Watch the Wear" overalls rip, you get a new pair FREE.

Working Shirts 45c
Great full sizes; double stitched felled seams and full length. Black satine and twills, black and white, and chevrons.

SPECIAL TODAY
Lisle Finish Fast Black Hose 10c
A lot just closed from a manufacturer—much finer quality than we have ever seen for this price.

Engineers' and Shop Caps—10c
Wool and White Duck Frocks and Coats for butchers, all length coats, long, three-quarter and short.

Long Khaki Coat for grocers, long covert coats, covert coats and overalls.

White Duck Coats for barbers, druggists and barkeepers.

Machinists and carpenters' aprons.

Bakers' Long White Coats and Caps.

Everything for all tradesmen in our Basement Department.

WHITE-PINE BLISTER RUST

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE RECOMMENDS DESTRUCTION OF ALL INFECTED LOTS

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 26.—Further investigations by specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture into the white pine blister rust have convinced the department that if this disease becomes generally distributed in our forests it will be the worst enemy that the white pine has to encounter. Drastic action is therefore urged again by the authorities in order to eradicate the disease before it becomes as generally planted here as it is already in Europe. Owners of infected areas are strongly advised to destroy their diseased trees without delay. There is no chance that the tree can recover, and it is merely a menace to its neighbors.

In a professional paper published as bulletin No. 116 by the U. S. department of agriculture entitled "New Facts Concerning the White Pine Blister Rust" the latest information available regarding this disease is set forth.

WOMEN'S PANAMA HATS
A few genuine South American Panamas, large shape, today

A LIMITED NUMBER of Women's small shapes in Panamas, exceptionally fine braids $3.00

WHITE FELT HATS
For women, and White Duck Hats with black patent leather band $5.00

Putnam & Son Co.
166 Central Street.

To indicate the seriousness of the disease it is stated that about 10 years ago infected trees were found in the pine plantations for ornamental purposes in a large private estate in Vermont. About 60 of the 150 trees on this estate or 33 1-3 per cent are now visibly affected by this disease. Probably 5 or 10 per cent more will develop it, for it takes a long time for the maximum of damage to be done.

In studying this menace the department of agriculture has had something like 200 lots of white pines carefully inspected. Results of this inspection show conclusively that a single tree with fruiting bodies of the fungus and in proximity to a current bush which acts as a carrier for the disease may start an epidemic which may continue for years and may spread over an area of several square miles. Moreover, it was found that the inspection and removal of trees actually found to be infected was quite inefficient to prevent the spread of the plague. Despite the present loss that it would cause, therefore, the department feels that the only safe method is the total destruction of infected lots.

The white pine blister rust is a native of Europe, and was first discovered in this country in 1905. It had not as yet attacked any of our forests, and if owners of white pines which have not been grown from seeds would make a conscientious search for evidence of the disease, it is hoped that it can yet be kept under control. Ordinarily the rust makes its presence known through yellow blisters which break out through the bark on the main stem near the ground. After a few days these blisters break open and give forth large numbers of dusty, orange colored pine spores. Owners who have reason to suspect this disease on their trees are urged to forward specimens for investigation to the office of forest pathology, bureau of plant industry, where examination of them will be made free of charge.

CUT PRICES ON LEATHER GOODS
DEVINE'S
124 MERRIMACK ST.
Repairing, Etc. Telephone 2160

ANDREWS & McGRAY
Manufacturers of Cabinet Work of All Kinds to Order. Stores and offices fitted up. Wood turning, jobbing and repairing. Old furniture repaired and finished. New furniture made to order. Wood tables, shoe and butcher's blocks and tanks made to order. 46 Fletcher st. Tel.

Putnam & Son Co.
166 Central Street.

Summer Prices on COAL
NOW PREVAIL

They Will Undoubtedly Be Advanced July 1st. A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

E.A. Wilson & Co.

Lun Sing

FIRST CLASS LAUNDRY
Quickest and best service in the city. All garments returned without a button missing.

Our Customers' Satisfaction Is Our Aim.
93 PAIGE STREET.

—WE SELL—

COAL

The best from the leading mines at lowest prices. None better.

Wm. E. Livingston Co.
15 THORNDIKE ST. Est. 1828

Dwyer & Co.

Painting Contractors
170-176 APPLETON STREET.

OTTO COKE

GENUINE OTTO COKE
$6.00 Per Ton 2000 Lbs.
$3.00 Per Half Ton 1000 Lbs.
$5.00 Per Chaldron 1400 Lbs.
$2.75 Per Half Chaldron 720 Lbs.

Prices subject to advance without notice.

JOHN P. QUINN
Tel. 1190 or 2480. If one is busy call the other.

OFFICERS CHOSEN TODAY ASQUITH MEETS WOMEN

COBB ON THE TOP ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

By Convention of Wool Sorters and Graders—Lowell Man Was Elected President

Premier Received Deputation of Suffragettes at His Official Residence Today

The delegates to the convention of the Wool Sorters and Graders resumed their session at 10 o'clock this morning. Considerable important business was disposed of. Many strong debates were heard on various questions that came up for transaction. At noon the convention proceeded to ballot for officers for the ensuing two years with the following result: President, John J. Whitaker, Lowell; vice president, W. Briggs, Providence; secretary, treasurer, G. Brar, Lawrence. One of the important transactions recorded was the abolishing of the position of treasurer and the adding of the duties to the secretary's office. At 12:30 a recess was taken for ten minutes.

The members were back in their places promptly at 12:40 and the date of the next convention set. It will be held in the city of Lawrence, the third week of June, 1916. The convention at that time will be as usual of three days' duration. The board of arbitration was then elected and the convention closed.

The visiting members are strong in their praise of the Lowell members. Their hospitality couldn't be beaten was the opinion of the majority when questioned by a Sun reporter. Many visitors went directly to the various homes while others, delighted with the charms of the "City of Spindles," decided to stay over until tomorrow.

John J. Whitaker, who was elected president, resides on Cornell street, this city, and is employed at the St. Louis Worsted Co. His election not only confers a signal honor upon himself, but it also reflects great credit upon the city he has chosen as a home for himself and his family. He is well known among mill men all over New England and counts a host of friends in Lowell who will be pleased to hear of his elevation.

Last Night's Session

The sixth annual convention of the Wool Sorters and Graders of the United States was held here yesterday and last night. In attendance were Delegates John Cronin, Joseph Miller, Lawrence, Mr. Kenes, Ripley of South Haver, Mr. Clayton of Sanford, Me., Mr. Frank Greenwood of Philadelphia, Pa., Messrs. Walter Briggs and Arthur Cooke of Providence, R. I., and delegates from Holyoke and other places. Last evening an enjoyable smootalk was held in which many prominent members took part. Among those who responded were: Opening, J. J. Whitaker, Lowell; remarks by President Whitaker; song, "Comrades of Arms," Worcester; quartet, song, "Good Company," E. Hunton; song, "F. Needham; reading, "Gunga Din," A. Hunton; duet, Messrs. Hild and Hunton; song, F. Booth; song, T. H. Ready; song, J. Jackson; song, J. Donnelly; reading, Mr. Timmons, Mr. H. Waterhouse.

LONDON, June 20.—Premier Asquith today fulfilled the promise to receive a deputation of suffragettes which he had made to Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant leader, when after her recent release from Holloway jail she took up her position on the doorstep of the house of commons and threatened to carry out a hunger strike there until the prime minister received the deputation.

A party composed of six working women, members of Miss Pankhurst's East End federation, today visited the prime minister at his official residence in Downing street.

A big crowd had gathered in anticipation of the usual fight between the police and the ladies. The proceedings, however, were carried out in perfect order except for a little elbow work on the part of some workmen who had "come to see that their women got a square deal." Their presence proved to be unnecessary, as the deputation, whose members arrived by taxi, was immediately received by the premier. The women were accompanied by George Lansbury, a former socialist member of parliament, and they urged the cause of women's suffrage from their special point of view.

Sylvia was not present, as Mr. Asquith had insisted that the deputation must be composed of genuine working women. This debarred her.

The premier welcomed the members of the deputation as representatives of "an association which dissociated itself from the criminal methods of those who have done so much to damage and put back the cause of women."

Mr. Asquith argued that if every woman over twenty-one years of age possessed the vote they would still find legislation problems regarding women exceedingly difficult of solution, in the same way as the men had found them. He agreed with the deputation that if the franchise was given to women it should be granted on the same terms as it was given to men.

The premier explained that while it had become necessary to suppress the organized violence of the militant suffragettes the government had no desire to interfere with free speech or the proper organization of opinion.

In conclusion, Mr. Asquith promised consideration of the women's representations and said he would present to Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, the women's request for the unconditional release of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst.

THE PAWTUCKET BRIDGE

Under Suspicion—Order for Thorough Examination to be Presented at Council Meeting

Allderman Brown announced today that he would introduce an order at the next meeting of the municipal council for a thorough examination of the Pawtucket bridge. "There are a lot of people," said Mr. Brown, "who believe the bridge is unsafe. Engineering George Ewers pronounced it unsafe years ago and while the bridge has not shown any signs of weakening I think it ought to be given a thorough overhauling by competent bridge men and engineers. The accident to the Chestnut street bridge has awakened new fears concerning the Pawtucket bridge and I am going to present an order at the next meeting of the council providing for a thorough examination of it."

Molly Pump Still Refracting

The big Molly pump in the new pumping station at the boulevard is enjoying a rest, well earned or otherwise. The pump was shut down several days ago for the purpose of overhauling the stationary engine. The pump is a stationary engine which had been idle for two years and was put into commission again. The water supply at the present time is being pumped at the upper boulevard station and the Cook wells. The big pump in the new station will remain idle for another week.

Fire Chief Saunders went about the city in his automobile this afternoon distributing permits for the sale of fireworks. All of the stores were examined by the chief before the permits were granted and if conditions were not to his liking he refused to sign them. About all of the stores, however, received permits.

Fire Poles Painted

In order that the poles to which fire boxes are attached may be the more readily seen by persons not familiar with the box location, Chief Saunders has had a big red band painted around the pole just above the box and all of the boxes have been painted red.

The chief was at city hall this morning and he said that when the fire underwriters were here the fire boxes were being painted red and a red band on the poles. It happened that the underwriters did not see any of the red boxes or bands and they called the chief's attention to it. The chief, however, explained that the boxes and poles were being painted red so that when the underwriters submit their report the recommendations will not have anything to say about red paint on fire boxes and poles.

Underground Fire Wires

In order not to disturb the paving to be laid in Gorham street, the fire department is laying underground wires from the firehouse in Gorham street to Manchester street. The conduits were already laid, said Chief Saunders, and it was just as cheap to put the wires in now as any other time. By putting them in now we will obviate the necessity of digging up the paving later on. The underground wires already extend to the Gorham street house and the run to Manchester street will simply be an extension.

Marriage Intentions

The following marriage intentions have been registered at the city clerk's office since the last were published:

Henry G. Farrell, 37, restaurant, 205 Pleasant street, and Alice V. Parker, 25, shoemaker, South Groveland, Mass.

James J. McGowan, 29, operative, 531 School street, and Susan McCarthy, 29, at home, 12 Keene street.

Joseph Edward Matthews, 23, boiler maker, 432 Adams street, and Mary Agnita Crowe, 22, carpet weaver, near 231 Gorham street.

Samuel E. White, 50 (divorced), machinist, 41 Rock street, and Mary A. Dean, 45 (widow), Manchester, N. H. Chester Lewis Morse, 21, fire inspector, 275 Foster street, and Leona Frances Allen, 20, bookkeeper, Norwood, Mass.

Henry Richard, 28, carpet weaver, 45 business, try The-Sun "Want" column.

AMERICAN AVIATOR WON

WALTER L. BROCK BEAT EIGHT COMPETITORS FROM LONDON TO MANCHESTER, ENG.

LONDON, June 20.—Walter L. Brock, the American aviator, today won the air race from London to Manchester and back, beating eight competitors.

TWIN KILLED, LIKE BROTHER

SCRANTON, Pa., June 20.—Marlin Langan, Jr., twenty-one years old, met death on the Delaware and Hudson railroad near the South Scranton depot yesterday morning in the same manner, and in the same spot where his twin brother, Jose Langan, was killed two years ago.

Langan was on his way to work, and it is believed that he failed to hear a warning of a south bound locomotive which bore down upon him from behind.

FUNERALS

SEYMOUR.—The funeral of George Seymour, who was found dead in his room at 32 Bridge street, Thursday morning, took place yesterday and burial was in Westview cemetery. There was a delegation from the Lowell News No. 1355, Order of Owls. The delegates were: Vice President Edward J. Flynn, Thomas E. Boucher, James S. Roberts and S. Patenaud, who acted as carriers. Undertakers Young and Blake had charge of arrangements.

DEATHS

HUNT.—William H. Hunt, formerly one of the proprietors of the old Lowell News, died at 81 Essex street, aged 77 years. Mr. Hunt was also connected with the Lowell Advertiser during the Civil war, and is the last of the three Hunt brothers.

DUTTON.—Mrs. Emma Ann Dutton, widow of the late Samuel S. Dutton, died yesterday afternoon at 207 Parker street, aged 79 years. She leaves one son, Walter L. Dutton of 678 Pleasant street, Braintree, and two grandchildren. The body was removed to the home of her son in Braintree.

GAY.—Mrs. Julia E. Gay died at the state infirmary, Tewksbury, aged 28 years. She leaves one son, Edward H. Gay. The body was sent to Ludlow, Vt., for burial.

FUNERAL NOTICES

FOLSON.—Died in this city, June 20th, Mrs. Betsey Folson, aged 88 years, 6 months and 21 days, at her home, 17 Belmont street. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Edward B. Folson of this city, one brother, Putnam Maynard of Topsham, Vt., one sister, Mrs. Rosina Rollins of Derby, N. H., and one granddaughter, Mrs. Howard Wright of Winchester, Mass. Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Both the service and burial will be private. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

DUTTON.—The funeral of Mrs. Emma Ann Dutton will be held at the residence of her son, Walter L. Dutton, 678 Pleasant street, Braintree, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Friends invited. The body will be forwarded to Cumberland, Me., Monday morning for interment. Funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertakers J. B. Currier Co.

ANOTHER FIRE IN MINE

After Recovering Twenty Charred Bodies Rescuers Were Driven From Hillcrest Collieries

LETHBRIDGE, Alberta, June 20.—After recovering 20 charred bodies at nine o'clock this morning rescuers were driven from their work by fire at nine o'clock of the Hillcrest collieries, where a great explosion yesterday wrecked the underground property and is believed to have killed 197 men. Mine experts believed that most of the men were entombed about 3200 feet from the pit mouth, but tons of rock, broken timbers and other debris are heaped in the entrances and it seemed probable that many of the bodies will not be recovered for several days.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Reversing That of Superior Court in Cases of Cawley vs. Jean and Vice Versa

Important decisions referring to the cases of Edward Cawley vs. Wilfred Jean, an action of contract, and Wilfred Jean vs. Edward Cawley, an action of tort, have been made by the supreme court and at least one of the cases will probably be tried over again.

On March 6, 1906, Edward Cawley brought suit against Wilfred Jean to recover rent due under the terms of a lease amounting, as he claimed, to $188, and also to recover damages for breach of a covenant in the lease to quit and deliver up the premises to the lessor at the end of the term in as good condition, reasonable use and fire excepted, "as same now are."

The lease was dated October 21, 1901, and the term was to begin on that date but the lease actually took effect on March 8, 1902. The case was referred to an auditor who found for the plaintiff in the sum of $138, 350 being deducted on account of damages by fire. The same case was afterward tried before a jury and a verdict of $235.82 was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The defendant took the case to the supreme court on exceptions which were sustained by the court.

One of the principal questions was the exact meaning of the words "as same now are" and the court opined that the date of the lease and beginning of term was meant and not the date when the lease was executed. The court further decided that the agreement to restore the premises in as good order and condition should be considered and imposed upon the defendant the obligation to make whatever repairs were necessary in order to put the premises in as good condition as they were at the beginning of the term, with the limited exceptions.

It was further decided that the defendant was not entitled to any abatement of rent incurred by damage done by fire as it was endorsed on the back of the lease that the lessee would be allowed for all fire damages sustained by him. The property is located on Church street and this matter has been pending for several years. John J. Devine for the plaintiff and John Howard and Rogers for the defendant.

Another case of interest is that of Wilfred Jean vs. Edward Cawley, brought by the alleged conversion of laundry machinery, etc., which was in the defendant's building on Church street. The same attorneys appear in this matter.

It seems that Patrolman Philip Murphy, while passing the building on the evening of the day that the suit was brought, heard hammering inside and upon entering found Mr. Jean and a number of men getting ready to remove the property. In consequence of what the officer said to Jean, he left the premises.

This case was also referred to an auditor who found for the plaintiff in the sum of $700 and interest. It was afterward referred to the court and it was then ruled that for such of the property as there was no evidence before the court to instruct the jury that there was not sufficient evidence to sustain the suit for the plaintiff to recover, but the court refused to so rule and the jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for $400 and interest, all amounting to $558.13. At that time other evidence was heard beside the auditor's report.

In the supreme court it was decided that there was no evidence before the auditor and the jury to find for the plaintiff and that the ruling as requested by Cawley should have been made as no evidence of the conversation Mr. Jean and Officer Murphy should have been admitted. It was decided that the officer was not acting as agent of the defendant so the case was sent back to the superior court for trial.

HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING

PROGRAM FOR THE GRADUATION AT KEITH'S THEATRE WEDNESDAY EVENING

The exercises of graduation of the Lowell High school will be held in Keith's theatre Wednesday evening, June 24, at 8 o'clock. The program, as usual, is an elaborate one. The address to the graduates will be by Hon. John Jacob Rogers. Miss Helen Frances Morgan will be the salutatorian and the valedictory will be by Gleason Harvey McCullough. The presentation of the class gift will be by Charles Constantine O'Donnell and the gift will be accepted by Mr. Perry D. Thompson, chairman of the high school committee. The presentation of Lowell's historical essays on "The Streets of Lowell" will be by Mr. A. G. Walsh. Supt. Hugh J. Molloy will present the Carney medals and Mayor Dennis J. Murphy will present the diplomas.

HACK HORSES RAN AWAY

WORCESTER, June 20.—A pair of horses, frightened by the spluttering engine of a motorcycle, ran away with a hackload of people returning from a funeral on Richards street, today, and three women and a girl were so badly injured when the hack rolled down a steep bank that they had to be taken to the hospital. The victims are Mrs. Frank Halpin of Leicester, Mrs. James Daly of Cherry Valley and Mrs. William E. Ballard of Worcester. All sisters, and Elizabeth Daly, eight years old, daughter of Mrs. Daly.

DETROIT SLUGGER TIED WITH WALKER FOR BATTING HONORS—OTHER AVERAGES

CHICAGO, June 20.—Only nine batters in the American league are batting .300 or better, according to this week's averages and among them is Ty Cobb, who finally has worked his way to the top, being tied with Clarence Walker of St. Louis, with .347. Next to him come: Coveleski, Detroit, .343; Baker, Philadelphia, .332; Jackson, Cleveland, .323; Crawford, Detroit, .315; E. Walker, St. Louis, .308; McInnis, Philadelphia, .300; E. Collins, Philadelphia, .299.

The Athletics lead the league in club batting at .261 and Detroit is next at .254. Misset of New York leads in stolen bases with 23. Pitching averages for the league show the three leading pitchers ranked according to games won and lost to be Wood, Boston, with two victories and no defeats; Boehler, Detroit, with one win and no losses, and Wyckoff, Philadelphia, with seven victories and one defeat.

C. Miller, St. Louis, continues to set the pace in the National, with .361. Then come: Hummel, Brooklyn, .352; Dalton, Brooklyn, .351; Billefeld, Brooklyn, .341; Byrne, Philadelphia, .343; G. Burns, New York, .337; H. Pheasant, Chicago, .333; Grant, New York, .329; S. Magee, Philadelphia, .320.

In team batting, Philadelphia, with .267, and New York with .261, are leaders.

Manager Herzog, with 21, leads in stolen bases. Among the pitchers, Mathewson is credited with ten victories and three defeats, while Pfeiffer and Altshen of Brooklyn and Doak of St. Louis have won five and lost two each.

Walsh of Rochester is doing the best batting in the International league with .424. Then come Mays, Providence, .400; Kritchell, Buffalo, .340; McConnell, Buffalo, .333; Derrick, Baltimore, .333.

Baltimore with 270 and Toronto with 269 lead in club batting, and Derrick of Baltimore is the leading batsman with 17. While Ebbitt of Newark is credited with two victories and no losses, leading honors among the pitchers really are held by Babe of Buffalo, with six wins and one defeat, and Russell, Baltimore, Rogge of Toronto and Hughes, Rochester, with eight victories and two defeats.

LEAGUE STANDING

| N. E. League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
|--------------|-----|------|-------|
| Worcester | 25 | 13 | 65.8 |
| Lawrence | 23 | 17 | 57.6 |
| Wyn | 24 | 19 | 55.8 |
| Lowell | 21 | 21 | 50.0 |
| Portland | 20 | 26 | 43.6 |
| Haverhill | 18 | 21 | 46.2 |
| Weymouth | 15 | 23 | 39.6 |
| Fitchburg | 14 | 29 | 32.4 |

| Amer. League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
|--------------|-----|------|-------|
| Philadelphia | 33 | 21 | 61.1 |
| Detroit | 35 | 24 | 59.3 |
| St. Louis | 31 | 25 | 55.4 |
| Boston | 29 | 26 | 52.7 |
| Washington | 29 | 26 | 52.7 |
| Chicago | 25 | 31 | 44.6 |
| New York | 19 | 37 | 33.9 |
| Cleveland | 19 | 35 | 35.2 |

| National League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
|-----------------|-----|------|-------|
| New York | 30 | 19 | 61.2 |
| Cincinnati | 31 | 21 | 59.4 |
| St. Louis | 29 | 28 | 50.8 |
| Pittsburgh | 25 | 25 | 50.0 |
| Philadelphia | 24 | 25 | 48.9 |
| Chicago | 27 | 30 | 47.6 |
| Brooklyn | 21 | 27 | 43.8 |
| Boston | 21 | 33 | 41.2 |

GAMES MONDAY

New England
Haverhill at Lowell.
Fitchburg at Lawrence.
Lowell at Portland.
Worcester at Lynn.

American
Boston at Chicago.
New York at Cleveland.
Philadelphia at St. Louis.
Washington at Detroit.

National
St. Louis at Boston.
Cincinnati at New York.
Pittsburgh at Brooklyn.
Chicago at Philadelphia.

Federal
Pittsburgh at Kansas City.
Baltimore at St. Louis.
Buffalo at Chicago.
Brooklyn at Indianapolis.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

New England
Lowell 7, Worcester 2.
Lawrence 4, Fitchburg 3 (11 innings).
Portland 12, Haverhill 10.

American
Chicago 3, Boston 2.
Detroit 3, Washington 2 (10 innings).
St. Louis 6, Philadelphia 2.
New York-Cleveland—Rain.

National
Boston 7, St. Louis 5.
New York 6, Cincinnati 0.
Chicago 7, Philadelphia 7.
Pittsburgh-Brooklyn—Rain.

Federal
Kansas City 5, Baltimore 4.
Brooklyn 5, St. Louis 6.
Buffalo-Indianapolis—Rain.

BACHELOR GIRLS DANCE

These talented Bachelor Girls gave another one of their famous dances at Lakeview last evening with an exceedingly large attendance. Doyle's orchestra furnished music throughout the evening. The young people responsible for the success of the affair are as follows: Mary Gallagher, general manager; Lena Sheehan, assistant general manager; Mae Boyle, floor director; Julia Bolan, assistant floor director; chief Genevieve Wayne; Miss Madeline Boland, Marion Nolan, Florence Nolan, Ella Finnegan, Marion McPherson, Mae King, Rose Nicholson, Katherine G. Malone, Agnes Nicholson, Anna McHale, Winifred Chokey, Isabelle Burns, Mae Molloy, Melie Peterson, Elizabeth Sullivan.

ASKS 5 PER CENT. DEBT LIMIT

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 20.—The common council last night passed a resolution offered by Councilman Merrill, requesting the legislature at its next session to amend the law pertaining to the city's borrowing capacity, setting the debt limit at 5 per cent, instead of 2 per cent, as it now stands.

Gardner Brooks had an easy time down in Cambridge last night with Barney Snyder. The Lowell boy had to check his opponent all around the ring after the first round when Snyder's features collided with several stiff straight lefts. Brooks was awarded the decision and in the opinion of many Snyder would not have been on his feet at the end of the ten rounds if he had stood up and boxed instead of ducking and running away.

In the main bout at the Cambridge club John Glover substituted for Jack Read as Joe Eagan's opponent. Read claimed that Eagan was too heavy for him and refused to enter the ring. Glover put up a good fight in spite of the fact that he was not in shape to box. Eagan was given the verdict without a question.

Coach Wray and his Harvard ear-men, while they did not win, need not consider themselves whipped by any means. To be beaten by a foot after the long grind over the four mile course is no disgrace. The Yale crew had the final spurt to slide over the line a winner. It was the closest finish of any long rowing race that sporting history reveals.

Here's a peculiar thing. The Red Sox were in fourth place a year ago this morning with an average of .527. Today they stand tied for fourth place with exactly the same percentage in the average column.

Stimpson, Matthews and DeGroat, Lowell trio of outfielders, are slugging the ball hard again as a unit. Matty collected a triple and a double yesterday while his two partners in the outer gardens got a brace of singles apiece.

The entries for the championship swim from Nashua to Lowell on June 28th are now closed unless the two local swimmers, Murphy and Wrenn, wish to declare them open. According to the arrangements made previously last night was the time set for declaring further entries ineligible. At present either Murphy or Wrenn will cop the championship of the city.

Johnny Evers and Miller Huggins both put on their cutup clothes yesterday in the Braves-Reds contest in Boston. The hot-headed captain of the Braves tore at the umpires and in this phase of diamond he started something with the ump's and had Johnny waved off the playing surface.

We can't complain at all about that game yesterday. Although in justice we must admit that Umpire Black's

Joe Meehan pegged with deadly effect yesterday and Matthews' steal of third in the eighth was Woodbury's fault. The pitcher allowed Matty to take a long lead off second and when Joe threw to Dowd the center fielder scampered for third and made it standing up. Matty displayed good judgment on the play.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOLWORK

Principal Fisher is Well Pleased With Results—Two Small Engines Built for Sale

The closing of the Industrial school will take place next week and this afternoon from 2 to 4 the relatives and friends of the pupils were given a good opportunity to inspect the work done during the past school year, and the exhibition, was indeed worthy of inspection. Monday and Tuesday those desiring to inspect the school may do so by applying at the office of the school in Broadway.

The departments to close next week are the machinist, carpentry, automobile and electrical. There will be no graduation, but a number of boys have secured lucrative employment and they will go out and test their knowledge in the different lines of work they have been busy with for the past several months.

The machinist and carpentry departments are located in the old Bartlett school in Clark street, and the progress of work on exhibition in that building shows that the boys have been very active and under the direction of competent instructors. Among the many pieces that were finished in the machinist department are two two-cylinder, two-horse power, hot gasoline engines, which are perfect in every way and in good running condition. These engines were built for outsiders who supplied the stock, and this was good experimental work for the boys. The market price for one of these engines is about $160, and Superintendent Fisher informed the writer this morning that both were built at an approximate cost of about $70 apiece. The time the boys have taken to build the apparatus is reckoned up and a charge is made for labor.

The school is doing considerable productive work and the quality of the goods manufactured is all better results were obtained this year, for all the machinery is now installed and in good working order. During the two previous years the pupils of the school were kept busy installing machinery and shafting and very little work was done on the machines. But now they are right down to business and great improvements are noticeable. Most of the tools used about the machine shop were manufactured on the spot and it is fair to assume that no better work is being put out of prominent tool shops.

Bench lathe, jack screws, milling machine cutters and other apparatus frequently used in machine shops are being manufactured at the Industrial school and sold at reasonable prices. The carpentry department has started doing outside work and under the supervision of the instructor, they have recently finished the interior of a dwelling house in Braintree, and built a camp at Tyngsboro. In the cabinet making department the boys manufacture flat top desks, book cases and other useful articles. Some of the pupils have purchased the material and manufactured pieces of furniture for their homes, and the result obtained was most satisfactory.

Supt. Fisher is satisfied with the results obtained during the past year, but he feels if a larger building and one built on a different style could be muffs were mostly injurious to Worcester's chances, still Jesse can't blame the loss of the game on the decision maker. The Lowell players hit the ball at the right time for base runners to qualify.

Billy Burke played his usual sensational game and gave the fans a great exhibition of head work in running bases. With DeGroat on second in the third inning and Burke on first Stimpson singled to left center. The Rubs streaked it for home. Pottelger fielded the ball and was on the point of trying to get Rubs at the plate when he saw Burke start for third after rounding second at full speed. The outfielder, of course, thought he would make an easy assist at third on the local captain instead of taking a chance of getting DeGroat. Burke stopped short, however, and doubted by it to second after seeing Rubs reach safely and Stimpson stand at third with the ball. Inside plays like this one are rarely noticed by the spectators but win a great many tight ball games.

The new man looked well around second although he appeared a trifle awkward on several pegs. His throw on Pottelger's grounder in the eighth was not much more than a lob and Pott was safe. The big fellow certainly mounted the horsehide in the second inning when he drove in Matthews. Shaffer's life in the field and on the coaching lines looked like business and the Lowell club would appear more like a pennant contender if the rest of the team would follow his example and talk it up all the time.

Boston fans are looking forward with great eagerness to the bout next Tuesday night between Eddie Murphy and Gilbert Gallant. The twelve rounds which these two mitt swingers will furnish ought to be a check full of action. Murphy is generally conceded to be the money in the two but Gallant's friends think that their champion picked up enough ring lore on his western trip to offset the South Boston boy's skill. With both boys in shape it will be a great battle.

Joe Meehan pegged with deadly effect yesterday and Matthews' steal of third in the eighth was Woodbury's fault. The pitcher allowed Matty to take a long lead off second and when Joe threw to Dowd the center fielder scampered for third and made it standing up. Matty displayed good judgment on the play.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

Although Pete Veebo was not present with a hit his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

WAR AGAINST OUTLAWS NIGHT HUNT WITH CAMERA

National Commission Considers an Increase in the Number of Major Baseball Leagues

NEW YORK, June 20.—An increase in the number of major leagues in organized baseball by the removal of the draft rule from the class AA leagues is one of the methods said to be under consideration by the national commission in its war against the Federal league. At its meeting today it is expected that the national commission will grant the demand of President E. G. Barrows of the International league and Manager Dunn of the Baltimore club of that organization for the removal of the draft rule.

The International league officials complain that the Federal league has made its hardest fights for patronage in their territory. They argue that with the draft rule removed, the International league will assume the classification of a major league and thereby be in a better position to combat the Federal league opposition. This same argument applies also to the American association and the Pacific Coast leagues, the other two class AA leagues and should the demand of the International league be granted these organizations are almost certain to make similar requests to be classed as majors.

The National league club owners also are in session here awaiting word of the action of the national commission as to plans for concerted action against the Federal league. It is said that while there is much opposition in the National league to the demand of the International league for league recognition, it will do out if the supreme court of organized baseball rules that it is to the best interests of all concerned to remove the draft rule from one or all the class AA circuits.

REOPEN "FRUITLANDS" "CRAZIEST" STATE IN U.S.

HOME OF A. BRONSON ALCOTT AND LOUISA M. ALCOTT HAS BEEN REMODELED

HARVARD, June 20.—"Fruitlands," for a time the home of A. Bronson Alcott, the philosopher and his daughter, Louisa M. Alcott, the novelist, and one of the meeting places of the Concord school of philosophy, was formally reopened today after being remodeled and restored as nearly as possible to its original condition. Members of the Concord and Harvard Historical societies had accepted invitations to participate in the ceremony, which was to include an address by Frank B. Sanborn, the last survivor of the famous Concord group of men of letters.

The house was built early in the 18th century. The apple orchards and mulberry trees which gave it its name are still flourishing. The property is now owned by Miss Clara Endicott Sears. Many articles of historic interest have been grouped within the buildings.

HELD FOR MURDER
ROCHESTER, N. H., June 20.—Boleo Gulisplei pleaded not guilty to the murder of Joseph Carline in the district court yesterday and was held for the next session of the superior court without bail. Carline was found in a lumber camp May 24 with his throat cut.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advises itself."—Mrs. S. T. Hurley, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? It has helped others, why not you?

DANDELION

A Mucilage as a Blood Purifier
Say thousands who have used them. A positive cure for Rheumatism, Constipation and Eczema. Best remedy for Liver, Kidney and Stomach. Eliminates all poisons from the system without griping. Purely vegetable and guaranteed under Pure Food and Drug Law. Free samples on request to SCHENCK CHEMICAL CO., 54 Franklin street, New York. 25 Cents a box at

HALL & LYON CO., 77-79 Merrimack Street, Lowell, Mass.
MONUMENTS AND MEMORIALS
On all descriptions in granite, marble and bronze. Our machinery plant has the most modern power equipment and every labor saving device.
GUMB BROS.
Cor. Gorham and Anderson sts. Near Edison Cemetery. Tel. 1517

Catching Likeness of Wild Animals Possesses Fascination

Easy to Make Wild Creatures Take Their Own Pictures

WASHINGTON, June 20.—George Spras, 30, who has just arrived in Panama to assist Col. Goethals in making the canal zone a large and safe haven for birds and animals, is the originator of night photography of wild animals and the pioneer hunter with the camera. When in congress he was the author of the original bill putting migratory fish and birds under federal control, the bill pertaining to birds becoming a law last year, under the name of the Weeks-McLean bill. He has also suggested a series of international agreements to protect birds migrating between nations in a brief filed with the senate.

Mr. Spras' most recent contribution on the subject of the newest form of sport, camera-hunting, is in the shape of a communication to the National Geographic society at Washington, D. C. He opens up a wide range of possibilities for the sportsman and throws new light on the proper way to "teach the young idea how to shoot."

May Take Its Own Picture
"A camera and accessories can be so arranged that any animal or bird and many a reptile, however large or small, again or cunning, may have its picture faithfully recorded during daylight or darkness without the immediate presence of a human assistant," writes Mr. Spras. "To meet the difficulties, I have developed methods suitable to the habits of each animal. In the main, I have used many of the devices of the trapper rather than the hunter, substituting the automatic camera for the trap, and using the same baits and scents in favorable locations and during the season of the year when success is likely. Some who take up camera hunting become discouraged by early failures and are unable to see how such an instrument can ever be a satisfactory substitute for the sportsman's gun. Others continue on until, overcome by the attractiveness of the game, where success costs no life, or an awkwardly handled camera leaves no wounded animal to die a lingering death."

Mr. Spras sets his camera and flash-light before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal do the rest.

Does Not Condemn Killing
"The feeling is so strongly expressed for the camera as the better medium for leading one's skill in the pursuit of wild animals and birds is acquiring a knowledge of their habits, and finally in getting a sufficiently satisfactory and enduring trophy, may create the impression that I look with considerable disfavor upon those who hunt with a gun. Very much to the contrary is the case when the sportsman shoots in moderation and is willing to co-operate in the efforts to conserve the game supply by shorter seasons, by the establishment of game refuges, and in the elimination of the market hunter. The sentimentalist who desires the killing of all game birds and animals is not infrequently one who grumbles when a joint is tough because a lamb was killed earlier in its gambols. The successful sportsman, who enjoys plucking from the air a bird on its meteoric flight across the sky, can, if he tries, capture one, a dove, or a 100-antelope, and secure a sensitive plate, while a marsh scene or the rolling breakers give a life view in striking contrast to the pathetic heap of blood-stained, ruffled feathers marking at the close of the day the accuracy of his aim. So, the big-game hunter, rewarded in his quest for an antelope head, may continue on during the remainder of his woodland visit taking many more, but in a way that neither lessens life or the enjoyment of the hunter."

CIVIL WAR VETERAN DEAD
GARDINER, Me., June 20.—Charles O. Wadsworth, city clerk for 37 consecutive years, died today, aged 74. While serving with the 18th Maine regiment in the battle of Gettysburg he lost a leg. He was prominent in Maine Grand army circles.

ATTACHMENT OF $75,000
BOSTON, June 20.—An attachment for $75,000 was filed against the Boston & Maine railroad today in the registry of deeds here by the Peoples Savings bank of Pittsburgh, Pa., said to hold overdue notes of the company.

KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACKS
VANCEBORO, Me., June 20.—Fred Bonnevillie of Ontario was killed last night while walking on the Maine Central railroad tracks near the station.

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE REVERE CHARTER BILL

BOY JUMPED FROM MOVING ELECTRIC CAR AND WAS STRUCK BY AUTO

BOSTON, June 20.—Isadore Strogoff, 16 years old, of 253 Third street, Chelsea, jumped from a moving electric car on the south draw of the Chelsea bridge, Charlestown, passed behind a car going in the opposite direction and was struck by an automobile which followed the car, about 7:20 last evening, receiving injuries from which he died at the Relief hospital shortly after his arrival.

The automobile which struck the unfortunate youth was numbered 41,928, is owned by Moses M. Morse of 301 Beacon street, this city, and was operated by Alfred Rihl, 27 years old, of 3 Shepherd avenue, Roxbury. Rihl, a married man, was detained at police station 15, Charlestown, after he had taken the injured lad to the Relief hospital in the automobile. He was charged with manslaughter.

The accident occurred at an hour when car traffic was heavy on the bridge. After having jumped from the outward bound Bay State Street Railway car on which he was riding, Strogoff walked behind the car which was toward house, and failing to see the approaching automobile he continued across the tracks when he was struck and knocked down before the chauffeur could bring the auto to a stop. He was unconscious when picked up and placed in the automobile by Peter Keeney of 51 Deatur street, Charlestown, assisted by Lyman Payne of 511 Union street, Lynn. At the hospital it was learned he had a fractured skull.

Mrs. Strogoff, the mother of the dead boy, was almost frantic with grief when she visited station 15 last evening upon learning of the death of her son and demanded to "see the face of the man who killed her boy." She visited the Relief hospital. The Strogoff boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strogoff. Mr. Strogoff is a junk dealer and widely known in the "Hollow" district of Chelsea. The boy was attending the class of the Williams school and was to have received his diploma next Thursday.

TO PLAY SUNDAY BASEBALL
Springfield-New Haven Game Transferred to Orange, Conn.—Test Case Expected

NEW HAVEN, June 20.—Baseball will be played at Savin Rock, in the adjoining town of Orange, next Sunday by the transfer of the Springfield-New Haven game in the Eastern association schedule from Light House Point. It was agreed that Sunday baseball could be stopped at the latter resort, which is within the city limits.

It was also agreed that the game in Orange, two months ago in test cases brought under the Sunday observance laws in the Orange town court Judge Bryant held that moving picture theatres do not disturb the peace and quietness of Sunday. But flying horses and other noisy amusements were held to be contrary to law.

Flying horses are now run Sundays without music. Flocks of baseball expect a test case over the prospective Sunday game.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE HAPPY

MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REJOICES OVER RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

BOSTON, June 20.—A joyous spirit prevailed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association at 88 Boylston street yesterday afternoon. Good news for the cause from various quarters was given as the reason for the happy state of mind.

The association was recent endorsement of woman suffrage by the federal Women's Clubs in Chicago. Another was the decision of the Illinois supreme court that woman suffrage is constitutional.

It was announced that Mrs. Oliver Ames will lead the association on a tour for the remainder of the campaign, and it was added that a garage is desired. Mrs. John Leonard reported that the parade of 12,000 in Boston last month cost the association only $4125, the bulk of the expense being borne by the members themselves.

The formation of 22 new branches of the association last month was announced. Another bit of news was that 23 tables for the suffrage bazaar at the Copple-Plaza in November have been taken.

The reported engagement to marry of Margaret Foley was denied, but that of Miss Gertrude Smith executive secretary of the association, was announced, the wedding date being June 23. Mr. Richard Davenport Cox is to have charge of headquarters while the secretary is on her wedding trip.

TWO FACTORIES SEIZED
Internal Revenue Officers Charge Violations of the Oleomargarine Laws in Providence
PROVIDENCE, June 20.—Internal revenue officers seized the plant of the New England Manufacturing company yesterday. The charge against the concern is that it is using artificial coloring matter in oleomargarine without paying the required tax.

REVERE CHARTER BILL

GOV. WALSH INDORSES MEASURE GIVING CITIZENS' OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE ON CITY PLAN

BOSTON, June 20.—Gov. Walsh yesterday signed the bill which gives the citizens of Revere an opportunity of voting at the next state election on the question of whether they wish their town to become a city. A city charter, which has been prepared by the legislative committee on cities, whose members are becoming expert in drafting charters, will be submitted to Revere citizens.

Originally the citizens of that town wanted legislative power to vote on three questions, annexation to Boston, a city charter, or remaining a town. But when Mayor Curley said Boston did not wish to annex Revere the legislature accepted his statement. The bill for a city charter had no difficulty in getting through both branches.

The quill with which the governor signed the bill has been obtained by Rep. Andrew Cassara of Revere. The measure provides for a mayor, who shall serve a two-year term, and a council of nine. There is also provision for recall of the mayor.

IMPRISONMENT PENALTY
Railroad Penalties Bill Passed in Senate, as Well as Bill Inspection Act

BOSTON, June 20.—In the state senate yesterday the Hobbs draft of the so-called railroad penalties bill was passed to be engrossed. The bill amends a penalty of $1000 or one year's imprisonment, or both, for any officer or agent of a railroad company who instigates the taking by his road of the stock or bonds or dividends of any other corporation for an amount beyond that authorized by law.

Senator Clark's bill for inspection of the production and sale of milk was passed to be engrossed, after it had been amended to include milk dealers. The bill requiring street railway companies to relay pavements between their tracks when a city or town changes the pavement was passed to be engrossed, after amendment releasing the railway from such responsibility in case of repairs.

The bill relating to the prosecution of offences against chastity was defeated. The senate adjourned till Monday at 2 p. m.

CANT ATTACK CHRISTIANITY

Free Speech and Press Doesn't Mean Such Right, Rev. Fr. O'Sullivan Says at St. Albans

HURLINGTON, Vt., June 20.—Rev. D. J. O'Sullivan of St. Albans, speaking yesterday at the graduating exercises of St. Michael's college, attacked what he termed the "false philosophy" taught in many American colleges and universities. "Many students," he said, "leave the institution with little belief in the existence of a God."

Free speech and a free press, he declared, did not mean the right to make utterances against Christianity, morality or social order. Bishop J. J. Rice was present.

MRS. C. N. SLADEN'S RECITAL

Colonial hall was the scene, last evening, of the annual recital by the pupils of Charles Norman Sladen and those who attended passed a most enjoyable evening. The work of the pupils was very commendable. The singer were assisted by Miss Madeline McLaughlin, Miss Florence Carter and Loretta A. Hannan as accompanists. The program was highly creditable.

The pupils of last evening's recital were: Soprano: Isabel Bridgeford, William Chandler, Theresa Gram, Madeline McLaughlin, Florence Fletcher, Kathleen McLaughlin, Dora E. Lincoln, Susan McLaughlin, Edith R. Sanders and Esther Sawyer.

Contraltos: Laura Greene, Peter Kane, Alice Sampson and Marie Sladen.

Tenor: Fred Defoe.
Bass: Alfred Fletcher, Frank Leighton and George Kerwin.
Basses: Frank P. Mills and Ralph Somers.

FUNERAL OF MME. NORDICA

LONDON, June 20.—Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian Nordica, the singer, who died recently in Batavia, Java, will be held next Tuesday in the King's Welsh House church, Grosvenor square, where Mme. Nordica and George W. Young of New York were married five years ago. After the funeral services, the body will be cremated in Golders Green cemetery.

The body of Mme. Nordica arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Young, who met the steamer on which it was conveyed from Java to Marseilles.

DETECTIVE BURNS

Dropped From Honorary Membership by Police Chiefs—Committee Adopts New List

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 20.—Just before it adjourned yesterday the International Association of Chiefs of Police in annual convention dropped, in an indirect way, Detective William J. Burns from the list of honorary members of the association.

A committee prepared a new honorary membership list. The convention adopted this new list upon which Burns' name did not appear. But the detective did not escape criticism on the floor of the convention. He and his firm were assailed by delegates for using the insignia of the association on the firm's stationery.

POLICE INSPECTOR SHOT DOWN IN BOSTON CAFE

Thomas F. Norton Murdered by Lawrence Robinson, a Noted Crook, Whom He Was Arresting on Charge of Triple Murder at Grand Rapids, Michigan

BOSTON, June 20.—Inspector Thomas F. Norton, one of the cleanest and bravest men of the police department, was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Boylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Norton fell fatally wounded at the first shot and died less than a half hour later at the Relief hospital. Following the slaying of Norton two detectives and two police officers who were with him, fired upon Robinson as he fled from the restaurant and wounded him three times. He is now at the City hospital, where it is believed he will recover.

Robinson is known as a desperado and a bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

Held on Murder Charge
With him at the time of the tragedy was Joseph P. Daniels, alias Duddy, known to the police of many cities as a pickpocket. He was captured, and is held by the police without bail to answer to a charge of murder. If Robinson recovers, he will be arraigned upon the same charge.

The circumstances surrounding the murder of Inspector Norton were of a character unequalled in the records of the police department. The restaurant was fairly filled with guests. Girl waiters were hurrying back and forth, taking and delivering orders, and the orchestra was discoursing lively popular music.

So quietly had the officers entered that none of the guests realized that anything out of the usual was happening. Not a head turned as the five officers, all in citizens' clothes, strolled in.

Then a shot rang out, followed by another, and then a fusillade of staccato reports. Through the smoke a knot of struggling men could be seen in one corner. Then one staggered out of the group and fell, and another broke away and fled, followed by the flash of revolvers and more reports.

Plaintiff Kept Plying
That was all those in the restaurant were able to sense, so rapidly had the tragedy occurred. Even the woman pianist continued, mechanically, to pound out ragtime. It was all over in a few seconds.

Robinson has been in Boston a few days. All during his stay he has been shadowed by detectives. It is charged against him that Sept. 18, 1913, he and another entered in one corner of the Collins street, Grand Rapids, Mich., and while robbing the place shot and killed three employees.

Shore that time the Jewellers' Security Alliance has had Pinkerton detectives on his trail and the trail has followed him from place to place, always just too late to capture him.

It was known generally that Robinson was one of that class of crooks who make a practice of following circus and large outdoor carnivals for the purpose of picking pockets in the crowd.

It is supposed that when the circus came to Boston Robinson followed in its wake. Almost as soon as he reached this city the Pinkertons knew

Enjoyable Outing at the Vesper Club Yesterday—Dancing Enjoyed in the Evening
Another of those famous ladies' days was held at the Vesper Club club yesterday and the affair which was largely attended proved a most delightful event. Several members of the fair sex gathered at the well appointed club rooms on Tyng street last afternoon and partook of a well arranged program, which consisted of cards and other games. In the evening a dainty luncheon was served on the lawn and general dancing was enjoyed till a late hour. The music being furnished by the Tenth Regiment band. The committee responsible for the success of the affair consisted of the following: Messrs. Harry G. Boland, Perry D. Thompson and H. Hutchins Parker. Steward Wingate gave valuable assistance.

PRESENTED A FLAG
The B. F. Butler Relief corps No. 75, presented a flag to the Vesper club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Worthen making the presentation. The flag was accepted by School Committee member Abel Campbell. There were songs and recitations by the pupils and a salute to the new flag by the school. Mrs. Rose M. McVey, wife of the singing and Miss E. Laura Moore accompanied on the piano. There was a fine program by the school.

BURNED BY MILITANTS
WREXHAM, Wales, June 20.—Military suffragettes set fire to and destroyed the station and several adjoining buildings at Wrexham, north here, last night. An attempt was made to set fire to a train. Quantities of suffrage literature were found in the vicinity.

U. S. ATTY. OF NEW HAMPSHIRE
WASHINGTON, June 20.—The nomination of P. S. Brown of Somersworth, N. H., to be United States attorney for New Hampshire, was proposed today at the White House. He will succeed Charles Holt, resigned.

DEVASTATED BY EARTHQUAKES
BATAVIA, Java, June 20.—Several islands to the north of British New Guinea have been devastated by earthquake and storm, according to reports received here today. Hundreds of houses have collapsed and a number of natives were drowned.

PETER DAVEY
Undertaker and Funeral Director
83 BARILETT STREET
Telephone 79-R

CARROLL BROS.
PLUMBERS and STEAM FITTERS
36 Middle St. Tel. 1650

LIST OF THE GRADUATES IN POLICE COURT IMMAGULATE CONCEPTION SCHOOL GIRL'S BODY IN SACK

Of High and Grammar Schools — Exercises Will be Held Next Week

The exercises of graduation of the high and grammar schools will be held next week. The dates of the exercises in the different schools were published in The Sun yesterday.

The names of the graduates of the high school vocational school and the grammar schools, so far as the lists have been issued, are appended:

GREENHALL SCHOOL
Cielakiewicz, Mildred
Lafayette, Helen
Malone, Beatrice Mae
McDonald, Helen Teresa
Pouliot, Lillian Ethel
Roussel, Lucille Olga
Sager, Pearl Ernestine
Seton, Elsie Annie
Stewart, Mary Veronica
Tweed, Margaret
Bagley, John Francis, Jr.
Bretton, Arthur Joseph
Bretton, Levi Joseph
Condon, Richard Emmet
Descoteaux, Harvey Roland
Foster, Paul Rudolph
Giffin, Walter Joseph
Haslam, James Richard
Lachance, Lewis Norman
Mahoney, John Richard
Mahoney, John Taylor
McDonald, James
Merrill, Clifford Leroy
Powers, Daniel Thomas, Jr.
Thompson, Douglas Ross
Van, Joseph Armand Oscar

Honorable Mention for Scholarship
Mildred Cielakiewicz and Margaret Tweed.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL
Girls' Department
Anderson, Mabel Olive
Baumler, Alice Mary
Boehme, Sophie Johanna
Briggs, Nellie Belle
Caster, Ethel Christine
Cryan, Helena Patricia
Dalton, Edith Grace
Ell, Gladys May
Katabrook, Marion Grace
Foye, Madeline
Gould, Mabel Ruth
Howe, Edith Rankin
Hoye, Mildred Ethel
Lawrence, Doris Mae
LeBrun, Gertrude Marie
Lyons, Ruth Mae
Matthews, Martha Frances
McGregor, Mildred
Meneher, Mildred Catherine
Hoche, Catherine Isabel
Rogers, Pearl Edelle
Swanson, Edith Lydia
Tighe, Helen Louise
Walsh, Anna Margaret
Whitehead, Ruth Anna
Wilson, Helen Winifred
Youngs, Lena Doris

VARNUM SCHOOL
Barnes, Earl Edson
Barlett, Clarence Arthur
Cannell, Douglas
Caragher, Harry Carl
Connor, Charles Henry
Connor, Thomas Francis
Cregan, James Joseph
Cregan, Thomas Alexander
Davis, Seward Thomas
Dehgan, Leo Augustine
Derby, Roland Everett
Dewar, Allan Sargent
Faulkner, George Taylor

GOV. WALSH CHEERED INSPECTOR IS MISSING

SPOKE AT SEND-OFF TO MEMBERS OF PILGRIM PUBLICITY ASSOCIATION
BOSTON, June 20.—Red fire, cheering and a farewell speech by Gov. Walsh, who went to the station expressly to see the party off, marked the departure of more than 100 members of the Pilgrim Publicity association from the North terminal in a special train at 7:45 last evening for Toronto, where they are going to attend the 1914 convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America.

Before 7 o'clock the pilgrims, accompanied in many cases by their wives, sisters or daughters, began assembling near the gate of track 12, from which their special was scheduled to depart. A good-sized delegation of elderly Boston pilgrims, headed by George W. Coleman, a former president of the organization, came down to give those who were going to the convention a fitting send-off.

The entrance of Gov. Walsh into the train was the signal for a tremendous outburst of cheering. After his introduction by U.S. Patrick, ex-Attorney General, the governor, their "Okeydoke" cheer was given for the governor, Carroll J. Swan, an ex-president, leading the cheering.

REPORT OF DEATHS

- June
- Shires, 1 h., patent valve.
 - Mary Shannon, 2, tuberculosis meningitis.
 - Martin F. Hogan, 64, cancer of liver.
 - Eddie E. Anderson, 5 h., Ac. Lob. pneumonia.
 - Florence C. Hatch, 14, Ac. Lob. pneumonia.
 - Charles Dufney, 4 days, premature birth.
 - Stanislaw Bohenski, 10 m., enteritis.
 - William W. Fowler, 63, hepatic carcinoma.
 - Hannah Collins, 75, cerebral hemorrhage.
 - Lorenzo E. Smith, 55, accidental fall.
 - Bridget M. Hartley, 63, interstitial myocarditis.
 - James Tole, 61, myocarditis.
 - John Wren, 62, Ac. nephritis.
 - Mary Eubank, 44, pulmonary tuberculosis.
 - Gertrude B. Norton, 2, tubercular adenitis.
 - Richard A. Moore, 11 days, enteritis.
 - Manuel Augusta, 7 days, suppression of urine.
 - Antoine Perreault, 66, apoplexy.
 - Richard J. Mougher, 3 m., congenital malformation.
 - George W. Miller, 62, carcinoma of rectum.
 - Frances M. Locklin, 57, Lob. pneumonia.
- Stephen Flynn, City Clerk.

SHOOTING CONTESTS

PARIS, June 20.—The International Olympic congress today decided that the rifles to be used in international shooting contests should be selected by the country where the meet was held.

Goodwin, John Farrington Halt, Seth Wilson
Hill, Chester Alexander
Holt, Wilfred Henry
Hurd, Ralph Glenn
Keeffe, George Horan
Kulley, Hubert Francis Joseph
Kochanek, John
Lanmountain, Joseph James
Lorrey, James Edmund
Lorrey, James Edmund
Maher, Frank Matthew
Marston, Howard Eliza
McKay, Ian Hamilton
McKinley, James Gordon
McLaughlin, John Early Francis
McLone, Edwin Robinson
Monty, Earl Francis
Ready, Peter Harold
Redding, Chester
Robinson, Herbert Greeley
Small, Francis
Vassar, Albert Eben
Ward, Florence Mae
Callahan, Frances Theresa
Charles, Marion Edith
Chisholm, Lillian Elizabeth
Cork, Vera Mildred
DeLaurion, Viola
Dick, Catherine Carmichael
Donovan, Doris Ida Mae
Farley, Loreta
Fay, Katherine Elizabeth
Flynn, Estelle Viola
Gillis, Jessie Elizabeth
Gurney, Carrie Ella
Howell, Letitia Elaine
Irish, Dorothy Grace
Kozanowski, Sophie Helen Lantagne, Bella Mary
Leach, Muriel
McCloughry, Gladys Margaret
McElroy, Marion Ethel
McMahon, Florence Elizabeth
Mellen, Hazel Belle Mellen, Irene May
O'Brien, Mary Elizabeth
Murphy, Nellie Agnes
Parker, Florence Minnie
Shay, Olga Foster
Sherman, Della Marion
Smith, Ethel Frances
Thomas, Belle Milton
Thomas, Ruth May
Tighe, Mildred Theresa
Traver, Doris Ebon
Webster, Gladys Murea
Wilson, Myrtle Irene
Wotton, Gladys May
Wright, Dorothy

BUTLER SCHOOL
Anderson, Henry Edward Emmanuel
Baker, Lester Harold
Barker, Ernest Angus
Bell, Henry George
Breen, Aloysius John
Cahill, Joseph William
Carlson, Albert Herman
Cavan, George Daniel
Dillon, Charles Joseph
Dukeshire, Leslie Leand
Dwyer, Walter Louis
Emerson, George Edogakia
Finnegan, Dennis J.
Finnegan, Thomas Henry Joseph
Forsberg, Carl Gordon Adelbert
Flynn, George Daniel
Graville, Henry Carl
Gray, John William
Hansen, Henry Arnold
Hayden, Lawrence Henry Joseph
Heudun, Oscar Emmanuel
Keenan, Francis Joseph
Kenny, Francis Joseph
Higgins, Eugene Anthony
Keller, George Daniel
Lourcraft, John Irving Charles
Lyons, George Joseph
Concluded on page four

HE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

COSTAS SAMARAS SHOT HIMSELF TWICE AT HIS FATHER'S HOME
Lynn, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself twice in the right side at the home of his father, Nicholas Samaras of 63 Janover street, shortly after six o'clock last evening and as a result he now lies at the Lowell corporation hospital in a critical condition.

Inability to secure steady employment and the fact that he has a wife and two children at 530 Boston street, Lynn, depending upon him for support are believed to be the causes of the young man's attempt at suicide. He came to this city Thursday and made several attempts to get work but each time he failed and it is said that he did not want to go back to his wife without a position.

While the members of his father's family were seated around the supper table, Samaras slipped into the kitchen and taking a revolver from his pocket shot himself twice just above the hip. He then shouted for help but his father was beside him as soon as the second shot was fired and the ambulance was sent for to convey him to the hospital, where he was placed on the operating table.

Samaras is a tanner by trade and has now worked for several weeks. He had shown no signs of despondency until recently.

EMPEROR CHRISTENS DESIMARK

HAMBURG, Germany, June 20.—Emperor William today christened the name of Desimark, chosen by himself, on the third vessel of the Imperial fleet, which was launched for the service of the Hamburg-American line.

The new steamer is almost an exact reproduction of the Vaterland, but she is six feet longer and has two more hulls. Her plans call for a speed of 22 1/2 knots.

The Rismark is to be ready for commission in 15 months.

Pretending to be an agent for some oil concern, one Francis Keefe entered a house on Church street early this morning and while the occupants of the house were busy preparing to go to work, picked a pocket-book, containing $30 and one ring, from a table and was making his escape when Patrolman James E. Kennedy, who lives in that vicinity appeared on the scene and put a stop to the young man's flight. The money and ring are the property of Ross Zazoulinski.

It seems that the defendant went into the house for the purpose of showing the quality of his oil and the police claim that he snatched the pocket-book, and taking out the contents, started to run away when the cries of the occupants attracted Officer Kennedy and he soon apprehended the man.

Keefe was brought into court this forenoon but his case was continued till Monday and will be fixed at 3:00.

John Seccord pleaded not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery upon Annie T. Allen of 3 Queen street. Defendant was represented by Daniel J. Donahue.

Mrs. Allen said that as a result of a few words which she had with the defendant's wife, he approached her one evening while she was sitting on her front steps and threatened to harm her unless the differences between the complainant and the defendant's wife were ironed out. Mrs. Allen stated that she told him his wife had insulted her and this and his anger and he struck her several times calling her hard names at the same time.

The case was placed on file.

Peter Roussell failed to make answer to a charge of assault and battery and a capias was issued for his arrest. Just one month ago Roussell was arrested for cutting off the fingers of a rump-patriot in a butcher shop on Davidson street and the case was continued for one month on condition that he pay to the complainant the expenses incurred and it is understood that he has failed to do this.

John Hughes was arraigned on continuance in police court this forenoon charged with battery of $35, a pair of shoes worth $4 and a pair of socks worth $1. The complainant was William F. Falls and the case went to trial under a plea of not guilty.

Mr. Falls testified that he met the defendant on Middlesex street last Saturday evening and together they went to his witness' room, at 5 Dutton street. He said that when he awoke Sunday morning he missed the money and the articles and reported the matter to the police. Defendant was given four months to the house of correction.

James Highland was given a suspended sentence to the state farm for drunkenness. Patrolman Hamilton testified that the man refuses to work to support his wife and children. However, he promised that he would change his way of living and the court gave him one more chance to live a better life.

JUROR IN NEW YORK
CONFERRED TO HAVING ACCEPTED BRIBE—HELD IN THE SUM OF $3000
NEW YORK, June 20.—George Jameson, the juror in a case on trial before Justice Donnelly in the supreme court who was arrested as a detective passed him $35 in marked money Wednesday night, made to Assistant District Attorney William O'Malley yesterday a full statement of his participation in the jury fixing now being investigated by the district attorney.

Jameson named Milton Solomon, who was arrested with him and is said by detectives to have bonated of his influence with the jury as the man responsible for the transaction which led to an indictment yesterday charging both men with bribery. They were arraigned before Judge Crain in general sessions, pleaded not guilty, and were held in $5,000 bail each.

Analysis It Wasn't Bribery
Walter S. Kennedy, their counsel, told the court that if any crime had been committed it was that of obtaining money under false pretenses. He insisted for reduction of bail was denied. Immediately after the arraignment Solomon said he wished to see Mr. O'Malley.

He told the Assistant District Attorney he first became well acquainted with Solomon at the election on the question of a constitutional convention, when Jameson was an inspector of the district attorney.

According to Jameson, Solomon bragged about the influence he had in the supreme court. Shortly afterward Jameson said Solomon urged him to become a juror, saying that he would get $2 for every day he served. On April 9 Jameson wrote to the commissioner of jurors asking to be put on the panel and again in June "Solomon told me that some time he might want to use me," Jameson said.

Nothing was done until the trial of the case before Justice Donnelly, when Jameson said he was offered $150 for his vote.

$25,000 LOSS BY FIRE

CHILDREN PLAYING WITH MATCHES IN A BARN STARTED BLAZE IN CLIFTONDALE
CLIFTONDALE, June 20.—Children playing with matches in a barn started a fire which destroyed the Cliftondale Methodist Episcopal church and the residence of Dr. H. A. Dauforth and damaged nine other dwellings in the vicinity yesterday.

Help summoned from Lynn, Revere, Franklin Park, Saugus and Malden aided in the local force.

Hosmer, a member of the Saugus department, was severely injured by falling glass.

The loss was estimated at $25,000.

WIRELESS MESSAGE 4000 MILES

WASHINGTON, June 20.—An exchange of wireless messages between President Wilson and Emperor William was made public at the White House today. The messages sparked through over 4000 miles of air from New Jersey to Hanover, Germany.

President Wilson and Emperor William exchanged messages last January, when the emperor sent a message to the Tuckerton station but as it was not then equipped to transmit messages only, not to receive them, President Wilson's reply went by cable.

Held Closing Exercises at the Playhouse With Large Attendance

Fine Showing by Graduates—Fr. Tighe Congratulated Teachers

The commencement exercises of the Immaculate Conception parochial school were held at the Playhouse, Shattuck street last night. The attendance was so large that many were unable to find standing room. In past years the closing exercises of the school were held in the parochial school hall, but this year on account of the large number of graduates it was deemed better by the Grey Nuns of the Cross, who are in charge of the institution, to look for a large meeting place and the Playhouse was selected with the firm conviction that the theatre contained seats enough to accommodate all those who wished to be present, but it proved inadequate and long before eight o'clock standing room was at a premium. It was evident that great interest prevailed among the members of the parish by the large number of women standing in the rear of the hall. The galleries were filled and many stood in the aisles and despite the intense heat, remained until the last number on the program had been carried out.

In order to give more floor space for the spectators the many graduates were led from the theatre into the ante rooms, where they remained until they were awarded their diplomas by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I. McMahon's orchestra was in attendance and in the course of the evening rendered several enjoyable selections.

A fact worthy of mention is that 37 boys and girls received diocesan diplomas, which is the largest class in this city to be honored by the diocesan authorities. In order to receive a diocesan diploma at least 50 per cent on all subjects combined in the examination is needed and this reflects much credit on the sisters in charge of the children, and Fr. Tighe in his address took occasion to congratulate both the children and the teachers for the success achieved in the course of the year and also made special mention of the high standing of the school.

The entertainment program which had been carefully prepared by the devoted sisters consisted of various numbers and all proved very interesting. The motion songs by the kindergarten and primary classes were well rendered and the little ones were warmly received. The church selections, staff drill and operetta proved very entertaining and those who took part were given a cordial reception.

The address by the pastor, Rev. Lawrence F. Tighe, O. M. I., was listened to with great interest. The clergyman reviewed the work of the parochial school during the past year and spoke highly of the teachers upon their good judgment in sending their children to the parochial schools and concluded by extending his best wishes and those of the parish to the graduates and expressed the hope that the good work started would be continued indefinitely. The entertainment program consisted of the following numbers:

Motion Song.
Kindergarten.
Primary Boys.
Staff Drill.
Chorus—Boating Song.
Junior Girls.
Recitation—Song of the Drum.
Senior Boys.
Chorus.
(a) The Blacksmith.
(b) The Brownies.
Junior Boys.
Operetta—The Little Gypsy.
Dorley Glenn, Mary Haggerty, Florence, Minnie Wood, Kate, Catherine, O'Brien, Grace Garvey, Teresa, John Kennedy, Anna McMahon, Mary Craven, Christina O'Shea, Anna Welch, Elizabeth Little, Mary Corey, Margaret Gilly, Anna Conlan, Nora McDermott, Mary O'Reilly, Mary Soraghan, Marion J. Dowd.
American Penman Diplomas—Catherine Sullivan, Mary Cassidy, Helen Cassidy, Esther Ringwood, Catherine Sullivan, Mary Payton, Mary Wood, Mary Lalour, Anna Pollard.
Recitation—Kate Shelly.
Senior Girls.
Chorus—Out to the Dean.
Senior Boys.
Pantomime—Old Folks at Home.
Parasol Drill.
Chorus—Harvest Moon.
Reflections.
Helen Sullivan.
Presentation of Diplomas and Address to Graduates.

THE GRADUATES

The list of graduates was as follows:
Allen, Agnes Joseph
Bracewell, Martha Mary
Craven, Mary Mildred
Cassidy, Mary Rose
Cassidy, Helen Marie
Conan, Mary Elizabeth
Corey, Mary Gertrude
Dougherty, Irene Farrington
Fennell, Alice Rita
Hughes, Sadie Margaret
Kierce, Alice Gertrude
Lalour, Mary Elizabeth
Lalour, Helen Frances
Little, Elizabeth Theresa
McDonald, Bertha Mary
McKay, Gertrude Isabel
O'Shea, Christina Louise
O'Leary, Mary Agnes
Payton, Mary Elizabeth
Pollard, Anna
Robbins, Anna Mary
Sullivan, Catherine Theresa
Sullivan, Helen Theresa
Tynan, Catherine Elizabeth
Wood, Margaret Mary
Welch, Anna Walburga
Dyng, William
Conroy, John Joseph
Connor, Walter Francis
Cox, James Joseph

REV. LAWRENCE F. TIGHE, O. M. I., Pastor

Condrey, Maurice Tully
Donnelly, Peter Leo
Flynn, Thomas William
Gallagher, John Michael
Mahoney, John Joseph
McDermott, John Leo
McGilly, William Joseph
O'Brien, Francis Andrew
O'Brien, John Joseph
O'Shea, Richard Henry
Rall, Francis Lawrence
White, Edward Francis
White, George Daniel

Diocesan Diplomas

Allen, Agnes Joseph
Craven, Mary Mildred
Cassidy, Helen Marie
Conan, Mary Elizabeth
Donnelly, Irene Farrington
Fennell, Alice Rita
Lalour, Mary Elizabeth
Lalour, Helen Theresa
Little, Elizabeth Theresa
McDonald, Bertha Mary
McKay, Gertrude Isabel
Payton, Mary Elizabeth
Pollard, Anna
Robbins, Anna Mary
Sullivan, Catherine Theresa
Sullivan, Helen Theresa
Tynan, Catherine Elizabeth
Wood, Margaret Mary
Welch, Anna Walburga
Dyng, William
Conroy, John Joseph
Connor, Walter Francis
Cox, James Joseph
Condrey, Maurice Tully
Donnelly, Peter Leo
Flynn, Thomas William
Gallagher, John Michael
Mahoney, John Joseph
McDermott, John Leo
McGilly, William Joseph
O'Brien, Francis Andrew
O'Brien, John Joseph
O'Shea, Richard Henry
Rall, Francis Lawrence
White, Edward Francis
White, George Daniel

THE GREEK-TURKISH WAR

REPLY OF TURKISH GOVERNMENT SHOWS DESIRE FOR FRIENDLY SETTLEMENT

ATHENS, June 20.—Official circles here are of the opinion that the reply of the Turkish government to the Greek note regarding the expulsion of Greek subjects from Asia Minor shows a desire for a friendly settlement of the dispute between the two countries. Greece, it is pointed out, will however continue to insist upon the repatriation of the Greek refugees and also on the restoration of their property.

SCHOOL FOR EVANGELISM

DECIDED UPON AT NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION TODAY—NEXT SESSION IN LOS ANGELES

BOSTON, June 20.—The appointment of a general, state and foreign population evangelists and the establishment of a school for evangelism, recommended in the report of the commission on evangelism, were unanimously decided upon at the Northern Baptist convention today.

The report also recommended the organization of an associate committee to cooperate with the home missionary society in the work of evangelization. The report advised that the new committee on evangelism in consultation with the board of the Home Mission society outline some plan of so standardizing this work as to guard the churches against imposture and at the same time to facilitate intercourse between evangelists and the churches that need their help.

That the publication society be instructed to look into the advisability of carrying for a more systematic development of the daily, vacation, bible schools was recommended by the commission on city missions.

The convention voted to hold its 115th sessions at Los Angeles, Cal.

MODERN WOODMEN OF AMERICA

TOLEDO, O., June 20.—Rev. H. E. Dunnack of Augusta, Me., was elected head chaplain of the modern Woodmen of America at last night's session of the 11th annual convention. A. R. Talbot of Lincoln, Neb., was re-elected head consul.

BANK IS CLOSED
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 20.—After an all night conference of the directors of the State National bank of this city that institution did not open for business today. The bank carried deposits of $1,719,873. The action was taken "because of a steady withdrawal of deposits."

ATTENTION!
I. O. O. F. U. UNIFORM BANK
Menorials services at North Billerica, Sunday, June 21st. Assemble at town hall, 2 p. m. sharp. Full uniform, white gloves. All unity men invited. Bodes and bow gloves. Arr. order. CAPT. W. H. HINSON.
ARTHUR DE LONG, Clerk.

Ghastly Find at Schenectady, N. Y.—Victim Believed to Have Been Murdered

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 20.—A part of the body of an unidentified young woman, whom police believe had been murdered, was raised from the bottom of the Mohawk river here late yesterday by fishermen.

The upper part of the trunk from the third lumbar vertebra and the legs from about midway between the knees and thighs had been hacked away. The rest of the body had been wrapped in oilcloth, securely sealed in a burlap sack and weighted down with a twenty-pound slab of concrete. City and county officials hope that a petticoat which was found in the sack may help to establish the victim's identity. A minute description of these articles will be sent broadcast immediately.

Coroner E. Holcomb Jackson, who is a physician, said last night that his examination indicated that the woman was about twenty-five years old and weighed possibly 150 pounds. He also said he had found a slight scar on the right side of the abdomen and that it was not the kind of a mark an operation for appendicitis would have left.

Police officers dragged the river for several hours last night in a futile attempt to locate the missing parts of the body. The work was resumed today. Other officers will seek to learn whence came the concrete weight. It appeared to have been removed from a roadbed.

The suggestion that medical students might have dropped parts of the body into the river or fastened the sack to the fishermen's sailboat, was ridiculed by Coroner Jackson. He declared the body had been cut to pieces by one unfamiliar with anatomy.

The river is not navigable at the point where the body was found, except for motor boats and smaller craft.

FINAL MEDIATION SESSION

Today May End Conferences—Net Result Delay of Hostilities Between U. S. and Huerta

DR. NAON CONFIDENT OF MEDIATION SUCCESS

Just one month ago today the first of the Mexican mediation conferences was held. Probably the last will occur today. The prediction cannot be made with positiveness because of possible developments in Mexico City and Washington, about which the mediators lack definite information.

Minister Naon of Argentina, who is expected to arrive here about 2 p. m. from Washington, where he conferred with President Wilson, Secretary Bryan of the state department, and Luis Cabrera, one of the representatives of the constitutionalists, may be bringing some new plan. This is not considered probable, however, as the American delegates seemed yesterday to spread the news that their statement to the public was final and that a constitutionalist president be selected for provisional president. It is not believed here that anything Dr. Naon could say to the Washington government or to the constitutionalist agent would change the determination of either to reject any plan to install a neutral.

The possible developments in Mexico City, which particularly interested the mediation colony related in the report that Pedro Lascurain, the ranking member of Madero's cabinet, had yielded to persuasion and would again accept the portfolio of minister of foreign relations. If true it could mean only that Huerta was prepared to relinquish his authority without regard to the outcome of mediation. Many who have followed closely the trend of events in Mexico City feel that the executive authority surrendered to a prominent Mexican who admittedly would assume control only until some way out was found, the position of the United States would be far less embarrassing. It was said that the United States probably could ensure an orderly entrance of the constitutionalist army into Mexico City and protection for those who had opposed its progress, if Huerta were out of the way.

Principals to the mediation conference will go into the session to be held late today feeling that there is no chance of an agreement and doubting if a way can be found to prolong the negotiations. If the three plans formally submitted the Americans will reject that prepared by the Mexican delegation and a very similar one presented by the mediators. The Mexicans would then ask how delegations if they felt that there was possibility for a change of opinion, if deadlock were confessed the proceedings automatically would end.

It is probable, therefore, that the net result of mediation will be the delay of hostilities between the United States and the Huerta government and even avoidance of further fighting and a hostile action is taken by the federal forces opposed to American troops at Vera Cruz, the latter being contingent upon Huerta's retirement and the withdrawal of American forces which would follow.

Only one protocol directed toward settlement of the Mexican trouble was signed. It proclaimed that there shall be set up in Mexico on a day to be fixed later a government to be recognized by the Mexican people as a whole. This was intended to be followed by other protocols settling forth the names of the individuals to be installed in control of such government; fix the date at which they would take over affairs from Huerta and pledge recognition by the United States and the three South American governments represented by the mediating plenipotentiaries.

No agreement was reached on names and the protocol, which consumed a fortnight of argument in its preparation.

NEGOTIATIONS "PROCEEDING SATISFACTORILY," SAYS BRYAN

WASHINGTON, June 20.—"I was never more confident than I am today of the ultimate success of mediation," said Dr. Romulo Naon, minister from Argentina, when he arrived here at 12:30 p. m. after conferences in Washington with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—"I was never more confident than I am today of the ultimate success of mediation," said Dr. Romulo Naon, minister from Argentina, when he arrived here at 12:30 p. m. after conferences in Washington with President Wilson and Secretary Bryan.

When I despair of success I will announce it," declared the secretary.

So far as the attitude of the United States is concerned the diplomatic dtd has been cast. After the visit here of Minister Naon, one of the three mediators, it was made known today that the administration would stand by the declaration that only a constitutionalist would be acceptable as the head of the provisional government in Mexico.

It was suggested that if at the eleventh hour the constitutionalists agreed temporarily to waive their objections to diplomatic consideration of Mexico's internal troubles it might influence the Huerta delegates to alter their attitude against candidates for the provisional presidency proposed by the United States.

Prior to the resumption of the conference at Niagara today, Secretary Bryan was in communication with Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, the American delegates.

What disposition would be made of the American forces at Vera Cruz in the event that mediation failed was widely discussed. Administration officials refused to indicate their plans for the future. It was pointed out, however, that no movement had been made indicative of a purpose to express the activities of the army or navy in Mexico.

NOTICE!

My wife, Mrs. Flora Dowd, having left her bed and board and city without cause, I will not be responsible for any bills contracted by her from this date.

Signed,
JOHN F. DOWD,
156 Chapel St., City.
June 20, 1914.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

The entire Mexican question was discussed and as a result the outlook is more hopeful.

Officials declined to go into details.

Lillian Gilbert and Alice Donovan, both of whom are employed at the Merrimack Mfg. Co., will be leaving in a few weeks for the White Mountains where they will serve as waitresses at one of the hotels for the season.

TRAINS TO AND FROM BOSTON

| Southern Div. | | Portland Div. | |
|---------------|-------------|---------------|-------------|
| To Boston | From Boston | To Boston | From Boston |
| Lte. Arr. | Lte. Arr. | Lte. Arr. | Lte. Arr. |
| 6:43 6:58 | 7:33 7:48 | 6:43 6:58 | 7:33 7:48 |
| 6:58 7:13 | 7:48 8:03 | 6:58 7:13 | 7:48 8:03 |
| 7:13 7:28 | 8:03 8:18 | 7:13 7:28 | 8:03 8:18 |
| 7:28 7:43 | 8:18 8:33 | 7:28 7:43 | 8:18 8:33 |
| 7:43 7:58 | 8:33 8:48 | 7:43 7:58 | 8:33 8:48 |
| 7:58 8:13 | 8:48 9:03 | 7:58 8:13 | 8:48 9:03 |
| 8:13 8:28 | 9:03 9:18 | 8:13 8:28 | 9:03 9:18 |
| 8:28 8:43 | 9:18 9:33 | 8:28 8:43 | 9:18 9:33 |
| 8:43 8:58 | 9:33 9:48 | 8:43 8:58 | 9:33 9:48 |
| 8:58 9:13 | 9:48 10:03 | 8:58 9:13 | 9:48 10:03 |
| 9:13 9:28 | 10:03 10:18 | 9:13 9:28 | 10:03 10:18 |
| 9:28 9:43 | 10:18 10:33 | 9:28 9:43 | 10:18 10:33 |
| 9:43 9:58 | 10:33 10:48 | 9:43 9:58 | 10:33 10:48 |
| 9:58 10:13 | 10:48 11:03 | 9:58 10:13 | 10:48 11:03 |
| 10:13 10:28 | 11:03 11:18 | 10:13 10:28 | 11:03 11:18 |
| 10:28 10:43 | 11:18 11:33 | 10:28 10:43 | 11:18 11:33 |
| 10:43 10:58 | 11:33 11:48 | 10:43 10:58 | 11:33 11:48 |
| 10:58 11:13 | 11:48 12:03 | 10:58 11:13 | 11:48 12:03 |
| 11:13 11:28 | 12:03 12:18 | 11:13 11:28 | 12:03 12:18 |
| 11:28 11:43 | 12:18 12:33 | 11:28 11:43 | 12:18 12:33 |
| 11:43 11:58 | 12:33 12:48 | 11:43 11:58 | 12:33 12:48 |
| 11:58 12:13 | 12:48 13:03 | 11:58 12:13 | 12:48 13:03 |
| 12:13 12:28 | 13:03 13:18 | 12:13 12:28 | 13:03 13:18 |
| 12:28 12:43 | 13:18 13:33 | 12:28 12:43 | 13:18 13:33 |
| 12:43 12:58 | 13:33 13:48 | 12:43 12:58 | 13:33 13:48 |
| 12:58 1:13 | 13:48 14:03 | 12:58 1:13 | 13:48 14:03 |
| 1:13 1:28 | 14:03 14:18 | 1:13 1:28 | 14:03 14:18 |
| 1:28 1:43 | 14:18 14:33 | 1:28 1:43 | 14:18 14:33 |
| 1:43 1:58 | 14:33 14:48 | 1:43 1:58 | 14:33 14:48 |
| 1:58 2:13 | 14:48 15:03 | 1:58 2:13 | 14:48 15:03 |
| 2:13 2:28 | 15:03 15:18 | 2:13 2:28 | 15:03 15:18 |
| 2:28 2:43 | 15:18 15:33 | 2:28 2:43 | 15:18 15:33 |
| 2:43 2:58 | 15:33 15:48 | 2:43 2:58 | 15:33 15:48 |
| 2:58 3:13 | 15:48 16:03 | 2:58 3:13 | 15:48 16:03 |
| 3:13 3:28 | 16:03 16:18 | 3:13 3:28 | 16:03 16:18 |
| 3:28 3:43 | 16:18 16:33 | 3:28 3:43 | 16:18 16:33 |
| 3:43 3:58 | 16:33 16:48 | 3:43 3:58 | 16:33 16:48 |
| 3:58 4:13 | 16:48 17:03 | 3:58 4:13 | 16:48 17:03 |
| 4:13 4:28 | 17:03 17:18 | 4:13 4:28 | 17:03 17:18 |
| 4:28 4:43 | 17:18 17:33 | 4:28 4:43 | 17:18 17:33 |
| 4:43 4:58 | 17:33 17:48 | 4:43 4:58 | 17:33 17:48 |
| 4:58 5:13 | 17:48 18:03 | 4:58 5:13 | 17:48 18:03 |
| 5:13 5:28 | 18:03 18:18 | 5:13 5:28 | 18:03 18:18 |
| 5:28 5:43 | 18:18 18:33 | 5:28 5:43 | 18:18 18:33 |
| 5:43 5:58 | 18:33 18:48 | 5:43 5:58 | 18:33 18:48 |
| 5:58 6:13 | 18:48 19:03 | 5:58 6:13 | 18:48 19:03 |
| 6:13 6:28 | 19:03 19:18 | 6:13 6:28 | 19:03 19:18 |
| 6:28 6:43 | 19:18 19:33 | 6:28 6:43 | 19:18 19:33 |
| 6:43 6:58 | 19:33 19:48 | 6:43 6:58 | 19:33 19:48 |
| 6:58 7:13 | 19:48 20:03 | 6:58 7:13 | 19:48 20:03 |
| 7:13 7:28 | 20:03 20:18 | 7:13 7:28 | 20:03 20:18 |
| 7:28 7:43 | 20:18 20:33 | 7:28 7:43 | 20:18 20:33 |
| 7:43 7:58 | 20:33 20:48 | 7:43 7:58 | 20:33 20:48 |
| 7:58 8:13 | 20:48 21:03 | 7:58 8:13 | 20:48 21:03 |
| 8:13 8:28 | 21:03 21:18 | 8:13 8:28 | 21:03 21:18 |
| 8:28 8:43 | 21:18 21:33 | 8:28 8:43 | 21:18 21:33 |
| 8:43 8:58 | 21:33 21:48 | 8:43 8:58 | 21:33 21:48 |
| 8:58 9:13 | 21:48 22:03 | 8:58 9:13 | 21:48 22:03 |
| 9:13 9:28 | 22:03 22:18 | 9:13 9:28 | 22:03 22:18 |
| 9:28 9:43 | 22:18 22:33 | 9:28 9:43 | 22:18 22:33 |
| 9:43 9:58 | 22:33 22:48 | 9:43 9:58 | 22:33 22:48 |
| 9:58 10:13 | 22:48 23:03 | 9:58 10:13 | 22:48 23:03 |
| 10:13 10:28 | 23:03 23:18 | 10:13 10:28 | 23:03 23:18 |
| 10:28 10:43 | 23:18 23:33 | 10:28 10:43 | 23:18 23:33 |
| 10:43 10:58 | 23:33 23:48 | 10:43 10:58 | 23:33 23:48 |
| 10:58 11:13 | 23:48 24:03 | 10:58 11:13 | 23:48 24:03 |
| 11:13 11:28 | 24:03 24:18 | 11:13 11:28 | 24:03 24:18 |
| 11:28 11:43 | 24:18 24:33 | 11:28 11:43 | 24:18 24:33 |
| 11:43 11:58 | 24:33 24:48 | 11:43 11:58 | 24:33 24:48 |
| 11:58 12:13 | 24:48 25:03 | 11:58 12:13 | 24:48 25:03 |
| 12:13 12:28 | 25:03 25:18 | 12:13 12:28 | 25:03 25:18 |
| 12:28 12:43 | 25:18 25:33 | 12:28 12:43 | 25:18 25:33 |
| 12:43 12:58 | 25:33 25:48 | 12:43 12:58 | 25:33 25:48 |
| 12:58 1:13 | 25:48 26:03 | 12:58 1:13 | 25:48 26:03 |
| 1:13 1:28 | 26:03 26:18 | 1:13 1:28 | 26:03 26:18 |
| 1:28 1:43 | 26:18 26:33 | 1:28 1:43 | 26:18 26:33 |
| 1:43 1:58 | 26:33 26:48 | 1:43 1:58 | 26:33 26:48 |
| 1:58 2:13 | 26:48 27:03 | 1:58 2:13 | 26:48 27:03 |
| 2:13 2:28 | 27:03 27:18 | 2:13 2:28 | 27:03 27:18 |
| 2:28 2:43 | 27:18 27:33 | 2:28 2:43 | 27:18 27:33 |
| 2:43 2:58 | 27:33 27:48 | 2:43 2:58 | 27:33 27:48 |
| 2:58 3:13 | 27:48 28:03 | 2:58 3:13 | 27:48 28:03 |
| 3:13 3:28 | 28:03 28:18 | 3:13 3:28 | 28:03 28:18 |
| 3:28 3:43 | 28:18 28:33 | 3:28 3:43 | 28:18 28:33 |
| 3:43 3:58 | 28:33 28:48 | 3:43 3:58 | 28:33 28:48 |
| 3:58 4:13 | 28:48 29:03 | 3:58 4:13 | 28:48 29:03 |
| 4:13 4:28 | 29:03 29:18 | 4:13 4:28 | 29:03 29:18 |
| 4:28 4:43 | 29:18 29:33 | 4:28 4:43 | 29:18 29:33 |
| 4:43 4:58 | 29:33 29:48 | 4:43 4:58 | 29:33 29:48 |
| 4:58 5:13 | 29:48 30:03 | 4:58 5:13 | 29:48 30:03 |
| 5:13 5:28 | 30:03 30:18 | 5:13 5:28 | 30:03 30:18 |
| 5:28 5:43 | 30:18 30:33 | 5:28 5:43 | 30:18 30:33 |
| 5:43 5:58 | 30:33 30:48 | 5:43 5:58 | 30:33 30:48 |
| 5:58 6:13 | 30:48 31:03 | 5:58 6:13 | 30:48 31:03 |
| 6:13 6:28 | 31:03 31:18 | 6:13 6:28 | 31:03 31:18 |
| 6:28 6:43 | 31:18 31:33 | 6:28 6:43 | 31:18 31:33 |
| 6:43 6:58 | 31:33 31:48 | 6:43 6:58 | 31:33 31:48 |
| 6:58 7:13 | 31:48 32:03 | 6:58 7:13 | 31:48 32:03 |
| 7:13 7:28 | 32:03 32:18 | 7:13 7:28 | 32:03 32:18 |
| 7:28 7:43 | 32:18 32:33 | 7:28 7:43 | 32:18 32:33 |
| 7:43 7:58 | 32:33 32:48 | 7:43 7:58 | 32:33 32:48 |
| 7:58 8:13 | 32:48 33:03 | 7:58 8:13 | 32:48 33:03 |
| 8:13 8:28 | 33:03 33:18 | 8:13 8:28 | 33:03 33:18 |
| 8:28 8:43 | 33:18 33:33 | 8:28 8:43 | 33:18 33:33 |
| 8:43 8:58 | 33:33 33:48 | 8:43 8:58 | 33:33 33:48 |
| 8:58 9:13 | 33:48 34:03 | 8:58 9:13 | 33:48 34:03 |
| 9:13 9:28 | 34:03 34:18 | 9:13 9:28 | 34:03 34:18 |
| 9:28 9:43 | 34:18 34:33 | 9:28 9:43 | 34:18 34:33 |
| 9:43 9:58 | 34:33 34:48 | 9:43 9:58 | 34:33 34:48 |
| 9:58 10:13 | 34:48 35:03 | 9:58 10:13 | 34:48 35:03 |
| 10:13 10:28 | 35:03 35:18 | 10:13 10:28 | 35:03 35:18 |
| 10:28 10:43 | 35:18 35:33 | 10:28 10:43 | 35:18 35:33 |
| 10:43 10:58 | 35:33 35:48 | 10:43 10:58 | 35:33 35:48 |
| 10:58 11:13 | 35:48 36:03 | 10:58 11:13 | 35:48 36:03 |
| 11:13 11:28 | 36:03 36:18 | 11:13 11:28 | 36:03 36:18 |
| 11:28 11:43 | 36:18 36:33 | 11:28 11:43 | 36:18 36:33 |
| 11:43 11:58 | 36:33 36:48 | 11:43 11:58 | 36:33 36:48 |
| 11:58 12:13 | 36:48 37:03 | 11:58 12:13 | 36:48 37:03 |
| 12:13 12:28 | 37:03 37:18 | 12:13 12:28 | 37:03 37:18 |
| 12:28 12:43 | 37:18 37:33 | 12:28 12:43 | 37:18 37:33 |
| 12:43 12:58 | 37:33 37:48 | 12:43 12:58 | 37:33 37:48 |
| 12:58 1:13 | 37:48 38:03 | 12:58 1:13 | 37:48 38:03 |
| 1:13 1:28 | 38:03 38:18 | 1:13 1:28 | 38:03 38:18 |
| 1:28 1:43 | 38:18 38:33 | 1:28 1:43 | 38:18 38:33 |
| 1:43 1:58 | 38:33 38:48 | 1:43 1:58 | 38:33 38:48 |
| 1:58 2:13 | 38:48 39:03 | 1:58 2:13 | 38:48 39:03 |
| 2:13 2:28 | 39:03 39:18 | 2:13 2:28 | 39:03 39:18 |
| 2:28 2:43 | 39:18 39:33 | 2:28 2:43 | 39:18 39:33 |
| 2:43 2:58 | 39:33 39:48 | 2:43 2:58 | 39:33 39:48 |
| 2:58 3:13 | 39:48 40:03 | 2:58 3:13 | 39:48 40:03 |
| 3:13 3:28 | 40:03 40:18 | 3:13 3:28 | 40:03 40:18 |
| 3:28 3:43 | 40:18 40:33 | 3:28 3:43 | 40:18 40:33 |
| 3:43 3:58 | 40:33 40:48 | 3:43 3:58 | 40:33 40:48 |
| 3:58 4:13 | 40:48 41:03 | 3:58 4:13 | 40:48 41:03 |
| 4:13 4:28 | 41:03 41:18 | 4:13 4:28 | 41:03 41:18 |
| 4:28 4:43 | 41:18 41:33 | 4:28 4:43 | 41:18 41:33 |
| 4:43 4:58 | 41:33 41:48 | 4:43 4:58 | 41:33 41:48 |
| 4:58 5:13 | 41:48 42:03 | 4:58 5:13 | 41:48 42:03 |
| 5:13 5:28 | 42:03 42:18 | 5:13 5:28 | 42:03 42:18 |
| 5:28 5:43 | 42:18 42:33 | 5:28 5:43 | 42:18 42:33 |
| 5:43 5:58 | 42:33 42:48 | 5:43 5:58 | 42:33 42:48 |
| 5:58 6:13 | 42:48 43:03 | 5:58 6:13 | 42:48 43:03 |
| 6:13 6:28 | 43:03 43:18 | 6:13 6:28 | 43:03 43:18 |
| 6:28 6:43 | 43:18 43:33 | 6:28 6:43 | 43:18 43:33 |
| 6:43 6:58 | 43:33 43:48 | 6:43 6:58 | 43:33 43:48 |
| 6:58 7:13 | 43:48 44:03 | 6:58 7:13 | 43:48 44:03 |
| 7:13 7:28 | 44:03 44:18 | 7:13 7:28 | 44:03 44:18 |
| 7:28 7:43 | 44:18 44:33 | 7:28 7:43 | 44:18 44:33 |
| 7:43 7:58 | 44:33 44:48 | 7:43 7:58 | 44:33 44:48 |
| 7:58 8:13 | 44:48 45:03 | 7:58 8:13 | 44:48 45:03 |
| 8:13 8:28 | 45:03 45:18 | 8:13 8:28 | 45:03 45:18 |
| 8:28 8:43 | 45:18 45:33 | 8:28 8:43 | 45:18 45:33 |
| 8:43 8:58 | 45:33 45:48 | 8:43 8:58 | 45:33 45:48 |
| 8:58 9:13 | 45:48 46:03 | 8:58 9:13 | 45:48 46:03 |
| 9:13 9:28 | 46:03 46:18 | 9:13 9:28 | 46:03 46:18 |
| 9:28 9:43 | 46:18 46:33 | 9:28 9:43 | 46:18 46:33 |
| 9:43 9:58 | 46:33 46:48 | 9:43 9:58 | 46:33 46:48 |
| 9:58 10:13 | 46:48 47:03 | 9:58 10:13 | 46:48 47:03 |
| 10:13 10:28 | 47:03 47:18 | 10:13 10:28 | 47:03 47:18 |
| 10:28 10:43 | 47:18 47:33 | 10:28 10:43 | 47:18 47:33 |
| 10:43 10:58 | 47:33 47:48 | 10:43 10:58 | 47:33 47:48 |
| 10:58 11:13 | 47:48 48:03 | 10:58 11:13 | 47:48 48:03 |
| 11:13 11:28 | 48:03 48:18 | 11:13 11:28 | 48:03 48:18 |
| 11:28 11:43 | 48:18 48:33 | 11:28 11:43 | 48:18 48:33 |
| 11:43 11:58 | 48:33 48:48 | 11:43 11:58 | 48:33 48:48 |
| 11:58 12:13 | 48:48 49:03 | 11:58 12:13 | 48:48 49:03 |
| 12:13 12:28 | 49:03 49:18 | 12:13 12:28 | 49:03 49:18 |
| 12:28 12:43 | 49:18 49:33 | 12:28 12:43 | 49:18 49:33 |
| 12:43 12:58 | 49:33 49:48 | 12:43 12:58 | 49:33 49:48 |
| 12:58 1:13 | 49:48 50:03 | 12:58 1:13 | 49:48 50:03 |
| 1:13 1:28 | 50:03 50:18 | 1:13 1:28 | 50:03 50:18 |
| 1:28 1:43 | 50:18 50:33 | 1:28 1:43 | 50:18 50:33 |
| 1:43 1:58 | 50:33 50:48 | 1:43 1:58 | 50:33 50:48 |
| 1:58 2:13 | 50:48 51:03 | 1:58 2:13 | 50:48 51:03 |
| 2:13 2:28 | 51:03 51:18 | 2:13 2:28 | 51:03 51:18 |
| 2:28 2:43 | 51:18 51:33 | 2:28 2:43 | 51:18 51:33 |
| 2:43 2:58 | 51:33 51:48 | 2:43 2:58 | 51:33 51:48 |
| 2:58 3:13 | 51:48 52:03 | 2:58 3:13 | 51:48 52:03 |
| 3:13 3:28 | 52:03 52:18 | 3:13 3:28 | 52:03 52:18 |
| 3:28 3:43 | 52:18 52:33 | 3:28 3:43 | 52:18 52:33 |
| 3:43 3:58 | 52:33 52:48 | 3:43 3:58 | 5 |

SUCCESSOR TO PRES. HUERTA

GOV. WALSH SIGNS THE MERRIMACK RIVER BILL

Measure Carries a State Appropriation of $1,000,000 Providing However That Congress Agrees to Complete the Project

BOSTON, June 20.—Governor Walsh today signed the bill to widen and deepen the Merrimack river. The measure carries a state appropriation of $1,000,000, provided, however, that congress agrees to complete the project, which will cost approximately $7,000,000.

The governor also signed the New Bedford harbor development bill appropriating $350,000. The bill contains the provision that the city of New Bedford must turn over to the state waterfront property valued at about $100,000.

HARVARD --- YALE

Deciding Game in Baseball Series at Boston This Afternoon

BOSTON, June 20.—The diamond was in perfect condition when the Harvard and Yale nines started the deciding game this afternoon in the series which is to settle their baseball differences for the year 1913.

The sun shone from a cloudless sky and the northwest wind, which had been almost a gale earlier in the day, diminished to a gentle breeze.

Long before three o'clock, the hour set for the opening of the game, the crowds began to converge at Fenway park, where the game is to be held.

This is 18th time that a third game has been necessary to decide the series. Harvard has won 21 of the series played in previous years and Yale 16 with three ties. Harvard won two of the three games last year.

The lineup:

Harvard—Nash, 1b; Wingate, ss; Clark, 2b; Ayers, 3b; Gannon, rf; Hildebrand, cf; Frye, lf; Mahan, p; O'Brien, c.

Yale—Middlebrook, cf; Haines, rf; Blossom, ss; Cornish, 2b; Kelly, 3b; Hunter, c; Falsely, lf; Swihart, 1b; Wax, p.

Harvard scored at the outset. Clark hit safely after two were out. Ayers singled to left and Clark went to third when Hildebrand threw. Gannon doubled over second, scoring both. Hildebrand singled and Frye sent Gannon to left. He was put out at second.

Yale came back with two runs on a

ANGELES PROCLAIMED PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Acting Secretary of War of Constitutional Cabinet Deposed From That Position by Carranza and Proclaimed the Provisional President of Mexico by Gen. Villa

SALTILLO, Mexico, via Laredo, Texas, June 20.—General Felipe Angeles, acting secretary of war of the constitutional cabinet, was deposed from that position today by order of General Carranza, for disobedience of orders.

No further details of the action which caused a sensation here were made here beyond a statement that Angeles had received certain orders from Carranza and had failed to carry them out.

General Angeles is general of artillery in Villa's army and a strong Villa partisan. His removal from the cabinet reduces him to the rank of general. He is a graduate of Chapultepec military academy and has played a prominent part in Villa's campaigns.

Word was received today from Orizaba, Hidalgo, that 20 chiefs had met in that place and arranged for a campaign in the central Mexican states. They sent their respects to Carranza and asked for instructions.

It was stated that 30,000 men under General Gonzalez are being mobilized for the campaign to the south and that several detachments had left already for San Luis Potosi.

It was reported here that General Manuel Chao, former governor of Chihuahua, who was replaced by Villa had been executed on Villa's orders.

DENY REPORT CARRANZA ABOUT TO FLEE TO BORDER

SALTILLO, Mexico, June 13, via Laredo, Texas, June 20.—Reports from the United States that General Carranza was about to flee to the border reached constitutionalist headquarters today and were characterized officially as "absurd." Carranza only two days ago secured a permanent home here, into which he moved with his wife and two daughters.

ANGELES PROCLAIMED PRESIDENT BY VILLA

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 20.—The Mexican delegation here received a telegram today from the counsel of their government at El Paso, Texas, that General Angeles had issued a statement addressed to the American people saying that he had proclaimed General Angeles provisional president of Mexico.

DIAS GUTIERREZ CAPTURED BY REBELS

SALTILLO, Mexico, June 19.—(Via Laredo, Texas, June 20)—Diaz Gutierrez, a small town north of San Luis Potosi, was captured today by constitutionalists under General Carranza, according to official advices received here.

Three monoplanes for use in the constitutionalist campaign arrived here today.

VILLA WILL EMPLOY 25,000 IN ZACATECAS ATTACK

TORREON, Coahuila, June 19 (over military wires to El Paso, June 20).—The last of the organizations of the division of the north to be employed in the attack on Zacatecas left here early today. General Villa and his staff will follow either late today or early tomorrow morning.

"In the attack on Zacatecas will be employed about 25,000 men," Villa said today. "Of this number about 20,000 belong to the division of the north. We will be supplied by 50 pieces of artillery and 75 machine guns. There is enough ammunition for both, as well as for the men."

"I would prefer that those Mexican patriots who engage in politics take a ride and fight Huerta. As for myself, I wish to say that I am out of politics and that bringing this campaign to successful conclusion is the only object I pursue."

Last night a train with 50 severely wounded soldiers arrived here from the Zacatecas scene of operations. They were taken to the military hospital.

Heavy rains have put the railroad traffic in a precarious condition. The line to Chihuahua City is broken in two places near Jimenez and Santa Rosalia.

Third Edition NINE KILLED IN MIMIC WAR IN AIR AT VIENNA

Ripping of Dirigible by Biplane While Both Were Flying at Great Height Caused Explosion and Nine Men Were Burned

VIENNA, June 20.—Nine aviators lost their lives today when a mimic war in the air was suddenly turned into tragic reality by the accidental ripping of a dirigible by a biplane while both were flying at a great height during the Austrian maneuvers.

Both craft were destroyed and their occupants, nine military and naval officers and non-commissioned officers, were burned and mutilated beyond recognition.

The Austrian army dirigible balloon No. 12, which was being used for reconnaissance, was flying at about 12 miles from Vienna, where there is a military aviation station. It was the intention of Captain Hauswirth, the commander, to take photographs of the movements of the troops below and then to join in the maneuvers.

The aeroplane started half an hour later from the same spot. It was manned by Lieutenants Platz and Hosta.

The mosquito craft soon overtook

HIGH SCHOOL RIVAL GAME

LOWELL AND LAWRENCE TEAMS MEET IN SECOND GAME OF THE SERIES

The Lowell and Lawrence high schools met today at Spaulding park in their second game of the season for the diamond championship of the two schools.

These two schoolboy rivals met in Lawrence last week when the local team was returned the winner after a nip and tuck struggle.

Providing that Lowell high wins today's contest the series will be over with Coach Pulsifer's charges victorious, but if the down river schoolboys reverse last week's decision a third game will have to be played. In case of a rubber contest being necessary Spaulding park will once more be the scene of struggle, although the date has not yet been fixed.

The local team was greatly handicapped today by the absence of Edwards, the first string catcher, from the lineup. Edwards received a broken finger from a foul tip in the Haverhill game this week and Falls will fill in behind the bat. Pantion, who was not in the lineup against Haverhill, returned to the game today at second base.

At 1:30 o'clock the brass band of the Middlesex County Training school opened proceedings with a much enjoyed concert which continued until the contest was called at two o'clock. The entire training school was present in a body.

The cool weather was undoubtedly responsible for the small attendance, hardly 100 fans being present to witness the contest. The lineup was as follows:

| | |
|-------------|-------------|
| Lowell | Lawrence |
| Duffy 1b | McGinnis ss |
| McVey 2b | Higgins c |
| Panton 3b | Delaney 2b |
| Hart rf | Kennis lf |
| Wilson p | Burkel 3b |
| Breen ss | Labonte rf |
| Hobson cf | Giskill cf |
| Falls c | Gerry lf |
| Couillard p | Flynn p |

There was no score by either team in the first two innings. Up to the first half of the third Wilson of Lowell did not allow a hit. In this inning, however, Wilson was hit by McVey and Hart allowed Flynn to reach third and McGinnis to reach second, with one out. Wilson hit the next man, filling the bases. Delaney's scratch infield hit scored Flynn and there were still three men on. Burkel was then hit by Pletcher Wilson and a second run was forced in. Labonte doubled into left, clearing the bases after Higgins had been forced at the plate on Kennis's fielder's choice. Giskill fled out to Breen and closed the inning, but five runs had been scored.

Lowell broke the ice in their half of the third. Couillard reached first on an infield hit which Burkel tried to handle, but threw wide to Delaney, who covered the bag and Couillard went to second. Duffy got his second hit of the game, a long three-bagger to right center, scoring Couillard.

WRECK INQUIRY RESUMED

Jacob Saxe, Third Officer of Stordstad Cross-examined By Counsel for C. P. R. R. Co.

QUEBEC, June 25.—Counsel for the Canadian Pacific R. R. Co., owners of the Empress of Ireland, cross examined Jacob Saxe, third officer of the Stordstad at the wreck inquiry in an effort to show that the chief mate of the collier neglected his duty in not calling Captain Andersen to the deck as soon as he saw the approach of the fog that shrouded the two vessels when they collided. Saxe said that the captain had been called from his cabin only a few moments before the collision.

due to the helm being put hard aport. Saxe insisted that this was not the case.

Ludwig Fremmerlid was the lookout on the Stordstad at the time of the collision but threw no new light on the situation, Peter Johnson, the helmsman of the Stordstad at the time of the accident described how the chief officer had ordered him to port the helm and said that after he put the wheel half over the third officer came up and it was hard over. The witness said the ship did not answer her helm immediately.

The third engineer of the Stordstad, Jacob Shaldeen gave an account of what occurred in the engine room.

HE WASN'T INJURED

Fire Chief Saunders tells the following story of an incident when Irving Earlow's store toppled from the overhead bridge in Chalmersford street to the floor below—a rather amusing incident at a very serious moment. "There was a fellow phoned beneath a wooden beam," said Mr. Saunders, "and he was holding for help. The first to his assistance was a man whom I think was a railroad man. As the beam was lifted the fellow beneath pulled quickly away and collided with the railroad man, knocking him down. Just at that time the ambulance reached the scene of the accident and before the railroad man had time to regain his feet, four men had grabbed him and started with him toward the ambulance. He told them that he was not hurt; that he had been receiving a fellow named beneath a beam, but the four men looked at each other knowingly, as much as to say: 'The poor fellow is delirious.' Realizing that to expostulate was of no avail, the railroad man put up a fight and the well-intentioned quartet very quickly discovered that they had made a mistake."

Joseph Dexter and J. McDonald have returned from a fishing trip in Maine.

KING GEORGE STARTS RACE

HENRI DJEBELIA WON MARATHON FROM WINDSOR CASTLE TO CHELSEA FOOTBALL GROUNDS

LONDON, June 20.—Twelve minutes behind the record set in 1911 by J. J. Corkery of the Irish-Canadian Athletic club of Toronto, Ontario, Henri Djebelia, a Frenchman, today won the annual Marathon race from Windsor castle to the Chelsea football grounds. Djebelia covered the 26 mile, 380 yard course in 2 hours, 46 minutes and 39 seconds, and captured a prize which is valued at $2500.

King George fired the pistol which sent the 43 starters away on their long run.

Richardson Hotel

DINING ROOM

SUNDAY, JUNE 21

Special Table d'Hote $1.00

DINNER

Special Combination for one or more persons. Combination No. 1 served for two.....$1.50

Choice of soups, olives, radishes, fried tomatoes, planked sirloin steak a la Richardson, old fashioned strawberry shortcake or fresh strawberry college ice, Roquefort cheese, toasted crackers, after-dinner coffee.

Music 5.30 to 8.30

For 65 Years

City Institution for Savings

LOWELL, MASS.

Never paid less than

4%

Interest Begins July 11

CENTRAL STREET

THE ROAD TO RELIEF

FLEX-OIL

ON THE FEET

It is worth your while to think what this means when your feet are released from a pair of leather shoes at night, heated and dried—baked—then dry them thoroughly and rub in Flex-oil. It is absorbed—do this three times a week—and your feet lose all stiffness and soreness. Remember that men and women are as old as their feet feel—Flex-oil is for sale at all drug stores and at

O'SULLIVAN BROS. CO., Opp. City Hall Price 25 Cents

O'SULLIVAN SPECIALTY CO. Lowell, Mass.

THE CHALIFOUX CORNER

Not a day passes without new lots of goods being opened here for the first time, and not all of them can be advertised. Just now many good things in WEARING APPAREL AND SUMMER THINGS are unaccountably low-priced for quality. Visit our cool, spacious and airy store and fulfill your wants in a high posted store built for the comforts and accommodation of its patrons.

Object of the Gift

The object of a wedding gift is to perpetuate the memory of the wedding day.

The gift should be a frequent reminder of the happy event by its years of useful service.

Consider the electric toaster, percolator, chafing dish or tea samovar—These are true examples.

Lowell Electric Light Corp.

50 Central Street

SHAMROCK FOUR FAST

LEPTON'S CHALLENGER SHOWED A FINE TURN OF SPEED IN FIRST TRY SINCE RIG WAS CHANGED

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 20.—Shamrock IV showed a fine turn of speed in her first spin today since her rig was changed from that of a sloop to that of a cutter.

LEPTON'S CHALLENGER SHOWED A FINE TURN OF SPEED IN FIRST TRY SINCE RIG WAS CHANGED

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 20.—Shamrock IV showed a fine turn of speed in her first spin today since her rig was changed from that of a sloop to that of a cutter.

Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America's cup quite outpaced the older Shamrock in a good breeze. The changes in her canvas and the reduction of the amount of lead in the keel greatly diminished her stiffness and increased her speed. She sailed without a centredboard but this can be replaced in a few minutes if thought advisable.

LOWELL WON FIRST GAME

Lowell won the first game at Worcester today by the score of 5 to 2. Lowell made 9 hits and 1 error. Worcester collected 5 hits and made an error.

AMONG THE TOILERS

John Halloran, employed at the Merrimack mills has purchased a motorcycle.

Jack Moran, employed at the Massachusetts mills has invented a socket wrench.

William Quinn, employed at the Lowell Electric Light Co., is a great admirer of a certain motorcycle.

Tom Mullin, formerly employed at the Bay State mills has accepted a position with W. J. Mulsch.

Miss Hazel Ferris, employed at the Ipswich factory, is visiting up for a few weeks at Hampton beach with her friends.

Robert Whalen, formerly employed at the Tremont & Suffolk mills, is now working for John Douglas & Co., Depot lunch.

Miss Minnie Meade, employed at the Boot mills is planning for her vacation which she will spend at Littleton, Mass., in July.

Frank Cassidy, employed at the American Hide & Leather Co., has been confined to his home for the past week with a bad cold.

William Burns and Robert McComb, employees at the U. S. Fertilizer Co., had an enjoyable time at the Rockport party which was held last evening.

Miss Anna Fagan, employed at the U. S. Bunting Co., will spend the month of August at Atlantic City with a party of girl friends.

P. S. Burgess, superintendent of the Pioneer Woolen Co., Pittsfield, Maine, has severed his connection with that company.

Bart Rollins has accepted the position of overseer of dyeing at the Ashland Knitting mill, Ashland, N. H. He comes from Laconia, N. H.

May —, employed at the Barry Shoe Co., was seen last Saturday first with Nelson at Salem, N. H. They do say that she can swim as well as the old boy at that.

Sylvester Kilborn, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., is a perfect marvel on the violin. The most complicated pieces he strings out with comparative ease.

Mr. John Shanley, employed at the Northern Wools Co., is suffering from a very painful injury received while at work yesterday. It will probably confine him to his home for a few weeks.

Charles Nichols, employed at the Bigelow Carpet Co., says that going to work with an alarm clock in one's pocket is not all that could be desired.

J. W. Tiffany, president and general manager of the New England Knitting Co., Winsted, Conn., succeeds the late David Strong as president of the Winsted Hosiery Co., same city.

Guy Goodwin has been appointed overseer of spinning at the Stark mills, Manchester, N. H. He was formerly employed as second hand in the spinning department at this mill.

Thomas Roe, superintendent of the McCallum hosiery mill, Northampton, Mass., has resigned his position with that company to accept a position with a new company which is starting operations at Holyoke, Mass.

Peter Bauer, who has been superintendent at the Farago silk Co., for three years, has resigned to accept a similar position with Fred McClain, who is starting a silk mill at Turner Falls, Maine.

James W. Booth, agent of the Atlantic mills, Providence, R. I., has severed his connection with that company. He is succeeded by Everett E. Salisbury, who was head of the yarn sales department for the same company.

The Yale Knitting Co., of Malden has purchased from the city of Malden, 600 sq. ft. of land adjoining its present property and is having plans prepared for a four story addition, 50 by 100 feet of mill construction. A decision has not as yet been reached as to whether this addition will be constructed at once and no contracts have been awarded.

The Burton Co., of Holliston, Mass., has been reorganized with organized capital stock of $1,000,000, to deal in yarns, twines and cloth. The incorporators are George D. Burton, 155

YOUR STOMACH MAY BE TO BLAME

Don't find fault with the cook for your indigestion. It may not be caused by poor cooking, but by weakness of your stomach. If this is the cause, your stomach should be helped to perform its duty, not relieved of it. More and more people are finding that Dys-pep-tis reader just the right service and are pleased to take. Buy a box at your druggist's for a quarter. Try them for your stomach, wind in the stomach, heartburn and nausea. Get them today.

CROQUET

The Ever Popular Game

Croquet Set
75c to $5.00

White Mountain Ice Cream Freezers
ALL SIZES, FROM
1 Quart to 25 Quarts
THE BEST FREEZER MADE

Handsomeness Hammocks
MADE FOR SERVICE

BARTLETT & DOW
216 Central Street

"SYLVIA WINS!" CRY THE SUFFRAGETTES ASQUITH AT LAST GRANTS THEM HEARING

1-SYLVIA PANKHURST 2-PREMIER ASQUITH 3-SUFFRAGETTE BANNER

LONDON, June 20.—Premier Asquith capitulated to the suffragettes. He consented to receive a deputation of east end working women at his official residence in Downing street. Sylvia Pankhurst's attempt to carry out her threat of a hunger strike at the entrance to the house of commons until the premier yielded to the demands that he listen to a delegation of women was largely responsible for the prime minister's decision. The victory was a distinct one, because Sylvia Pankhurst was arrested about a week ago for attempting to lead a procession of east end women to Westminster to demand the audience which Mr. Asquith had steadfastly refused.

THEY DO SAY

That you never can tell when the ground will open up and swallow you.

That all bridges in Lowell should be thoroughly examined.

That it is possible to buy baseball tickets in Lowell.

That he who goeth often to the bar goeth seldom to the bank.

That the Lowell ball team is getting a move on.

That we are only a little way from the glorious Fourth.

That the rose party of St. Margaret's parish was some event.

That July 16 will be a great day for department store clerks.

That the pulpit at last proved its effectiveness.

That Arthur can't get over it and he is out to solve the mystery.

That the high crown straw hat gives relief to many a swelled head.

That a bird in the hand is not worth much if the cat had it first.

That there is too much drunkenness in the streets of Lowell.

That many a wife is a thing of beauty and a jaw forever.

That the temporary loan remains intact despite the many attacks upon it.

That the city government for 1914 is not saving any money for the city.

That the high street church clock may be forsaken in its old age.

That it is difficult to think what the lives of some great men remind us of.

That the savings bank will do more for the country than socialism.

That Alderman Brown believes there are many forms of the rector's courtesies.

That, lest we forget, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

That trading houses for house lots is a new business for the city of Lowell.

That the graduation exercises are coming thick and fast.

That Nellie says she thinks they were intended for a Chinaman.

That the Chippewas' Farmers ball at Bullerica on July 10 will be a big affair.

That the printer's "devil" will have at it in several events at the big field day Tuesday.

That John H. Condon was always on deck to see that sports are run off properly.

That St. Margaret's parish affairs invariably draw a heavy of charming young ladies.

That some very lively contests are to be decided at the N. E. T. U. convention next week.

That the fellow who fell out of his automobile in Prescott street didn't get arrested.

That the police are not making a howling success of enforcing the traffic rules.

That not all the sour-visaged people you meet in the early morning have been eating the first cantaloupes.

That the little doggie is not welcome in the house when he dips his little feet in the newly spread oil.

That some people do not realize the danger of too much solitude until they are in solitary confinement.

That Nesmith street was not cleaned any too well before the oil was put on.

That some men don't drink charged water because they can't have it charged.

That a water lily on the Concord river within the city limits is an appropriate symbol of purity.

That even when the barber shops are licensed they won't carry anything stronger than hair run.

That the affected sweetness of some ladies sounds like a rooster trying to chirp sparrow talk.

That the celebration of St. John's day in Springfield next Wednesday will be the best ever held in this country.

That the clock without works in the J. L. Chaffin Co.'s window keeps 'em guessing.

That according to many landlords there is no more room for children in Lowell.

That the builders are getting busy and the number of new buildings is rapidly increasing in this city.

That one young lady said the new tariff did not smell very well but it would undoubtedly keep the dust down.

That if some guys were invited to heaven via Jacob's ladder, they'd wait for an elevator.

That the sewer work in Pawtucketville will keep a lot of men employed over election time.

That one of the fair examiners at the Whitall is going to change her name.

That the smoke goes up the chimney just the same and all about the city just the same.

That George Lynch says a hole in a doughnut is worth two in your stocking.

That a woman's voice is always sweetest when she's talking to a woman she hates.

That a man never puts off until tomorrow the mean things he can say today.

That "Happy Days" Carey is sporting a new cognomen since last Sunday when he rode at the head of the Italian parade. It's Caruso Casey now.

That the residents of upper Gosham street are all prepared for those "Miss stories" upon the return of the Manhattan from their fishing trip.

That the man who rides home a mile or two on the running board is kidding himself if he thinks he is spared the exertion of walking.

That the fellow who could not buy a wheelbarrow usually poles fun at any but the most elaborate automobile.

That the residents of Pawtucketville feel an improvement society in their district would mean a lot toward the development of that part of the city.

That one member of the school board said recently that Henry H. Harris wouldn't get his vote for superintendent.

That Stan. Britton and Jimmy Callahan allow that they can spare the time from fishing when the Progressives must be on deck.

That Pres. Frank J. Campbell of the Mass. Druggists association has some interesting passages in his annual report.

That with all the "cats" the committee has arranged for the delegates to the N. E. T. U. convention someone is liable to get the goat.

That the fellows who went to Plymouth, Sunday, had the time of their lives, but they didn't go on Harry Thaw's yacht as they expected.

That mischievous boys tickled the Cross street woman's neck with a feather while she snoozed at the movies.

That Mary and Nellie and Lyle don't think much of the fellow who failed to take them to the movies after inviting them.

That the fellow who slipped on the banana peel at the corner of Central and Market streets has engaged a seat on the water wagon.

That the fange is in full bloom in Lowell and that two pretty Boston girls pay a visit here every Tuesday night.

That there are many horses in Lowell's streets that should be sent to the Red Farm or despatched to the happy hunting ground.

That a certain police officer is quoted as saying the average dog doesn't know when he's on the way to the gas box. How remarkable!

That The Sun, as usual, was the first paper in the street with a full account of the Chalmers street bridge accident Wednesday morning.

That Charles Stickney's plan for a waiting room on the roof of the American Express company's building is elevating.

That where Alderman Brown goeth repairs go with him as witness the painters and carpenters in the treasurer's and auditor's offices.

That the typography of that nonpareil book issued in connection with the N. E. T. U. convention is a distinct tribute to the artistic ability of Lowell's printers.

That with Ed Shea, John Dalton, "Billy" Gookley, Jimmie Donnelly, Andrew McCarthy, and "Cleave" Nobles (an Typo) banquets surely has a feast of sweet voiced singers.

That when it comes to a real swimming race there are but few men in Lowell who have sufficient confidence in their ability to be willing to risk a few iron men on the outcome.

That after listening to the hot-house variety wit of an effervescent young man last week, an original local young lady tapped her forehead and said: "If it swims, we have it."

That Supt. Kernan, unlike many other superintendents, does not consider himself above doing some of the manual labor connected with the upkeep of parks.

That people living in Fletcher street are up in arms against Charlie Morse for cleaning the street at 4:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They want clean streets but they don't want to lose half a night's sleep over it.

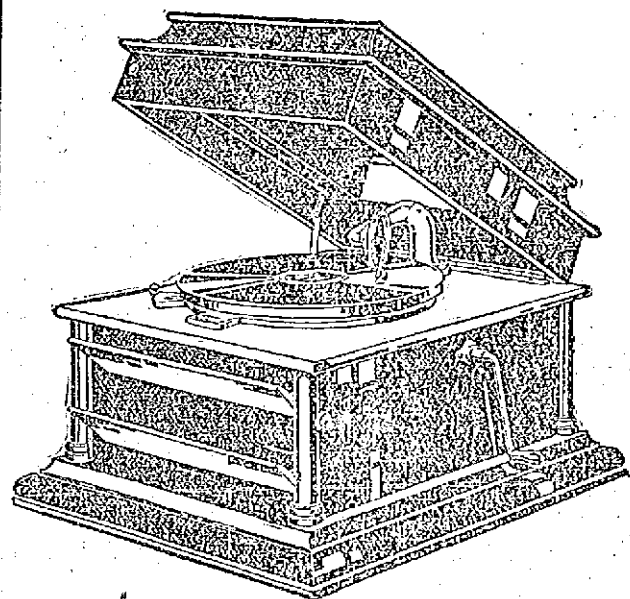

That Charlie Morse says the new land that will be brought into the market by the building of the new sewers in Pawtucketville will pay for the sewers. Harry Howe doesn't believe it.

When you feel discouraged, confused, nervous, tired, worried or despondent it is a sure sign you need MOTT'S NERVE PILLS. They renew the normal vigor and make life worth living. Be sure and ask for MOTT'S NERVE PILLS by druggists.

WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop., Cleveland, Ohio
For sale by Falls & Burkinshaw

The Bon Marche

LOWELL'S MOST PROGRESSIVE STORE

ON APPROVAL

Then pay for it in $5.00 payments if you decide to keep it.

The one Standard "Talking Machine" of the world—the Columbia Grafonola "Favorite."

With a full outfit of double-disc records—24 selections, including the famous Sextette from "Lucia" and Quartette from "Rigoletto."

On 3 days' free trial—the whole outfit subject to your acceptance and approval.

For machine and full outfit of records $59 in $5 payments or terms agreeable
NEW JULY RECORDS NOW ON SALE

AT THE SACRED HEART IN JOINT OUTING

SPECIAL SERVICES AT 11 O'CLOCK
MASS—FEAST OF SACRED HEART
AND CLOSE OF 40 HOURS

Tomorrow the services at the Sacred Heart church will have a double significance, inasmuch as the feast of the Sacred Heart will be observed and the closing services of the forty hours' devotion will take place. The forty hours' devotion service was opened last evening, with services at 7:30 o'clock at which there was a very large congregation. Today many parishioners visited the church and remained there to do honor to the Blessed Sacrament which was exposed on the altar.

While at all the masses tomorrow special services will be held the most impressive will come at 11 o'clock, when solemn high mass will be sung and a procession will be held. A feature of the exercises will be a special musical program at the 11 o'clock mass which will be as follows:

Asperges Warner
Sanctuary Choir.
Kyrie, "Mass in F" Casali
Church Quartet.
Gloria, "St. Cecilia's Mass" Turner
Credo Turner
Church Choir.
Soloists: Miss Sadie Kenney, Timothy Finnigan, James Cusick.
Offertory, "Salva Regina" Dudley Buck
George Kirwin.
Sanctus, Mass in F Casali
Benedictus, Mass in F Casali
Agnus Dei, Mass in F Casali
Church Quartet.
Communion, "Jesu Dulcis Memoria" Gounod
Sanctuary Choir.
Closing of forty hours' devotion will follow after mass with the following program:
Close of Forty Hours' Devotion
Processional Hymn, "Pange Lingua" Gregorian
Sanctuary Choir.
Soloist, George Kirwin.
Tantum Ergo Lyles
Church Quartet.
Aldermanus Gregorian
Laudate Dominum Gregorian
Church and Sanctuary Choirs.
Recessional March Whitney

Church choir of 40 voices assisted by sanctuary choir under the direction of Rev. James T. McDermott. Church quartet: Mrs. Mary Monroe Mooney, soprano; Miss Bessie Finnigan, contralto; John McMahon, tenor; George Kirwin, bass. Organist and director, John J. Kelly.

If you want help at home or in your business, try The Sun "Want" column.

Hamilton Mill Officials and New Bedford Concern Celebrate

This morning at 9.15 the agent, superintendent, overseers, second hands, office clerks and other officials of the Hamilton Manufacturing company of Lowell met in Merrimack square for the purpose of enjoying their annual outing. It has been the custom in years past for the employees of the Hamilton company to celebrate this outing jointly with the officials of the Sharp Manufacturing company of New Bedford, and both groups met this morning in Boston and proceeded to Rouses Wharf, where they took a specially chartered boat for Nantasket Beach. As on last year the feature of the outing is a banquet at the Villa Napoli on the heights above Nantasket. Some of the most notable men in the textile business in this section of the country attend, and a great many leading business men of Boston are guests of the occasion. After the banquet a social time will be enjoyed and speeches will be made by the most notable men present. The presentation of the cash prize donated annually by the Sharp Manufacturing Co. for the greatest gain in efficiency in any department of both mills will then be made. Last year the prize came to an overseer in the Hamilton Co. Supt. Albert D. Milliken of the local mill takes personal charge of all arrangements so far as the Lowell contingent is concerned.

This morning the young men in the happy party were looking forward with especial eagerness to the annual baseball match held on the grounds of the Villa Napoli between the representatives of the Lowell mill and the New Bedford mill. The game is easily the leading feature of the summer pleasure schedule at Nantasket.

TOILET SOAP AND PREPARATIONS

We stock only the kinds which through their purifying character have nationally established themselves. See the special box of toilet soap in our window for 15 cents. This box is regularly sold for 25 cents.

F. J. CAMPBELL

Registered Pharmacist
TOWERS CORNER DRUG STORE

I Promise Not to Hurt You

Don't put off your dental work any longer through fear. After the first tooth has been filled or extracted by the King Safe System of Painless Dentistry you will laugh at your former wonder why you waited so long.

PAINLESS, ABSOLUTELY PAINLESS

No old style instruments. The finest that up-to-date dental science has produced for the comfort and pleasure of my patients. See Dr. King first.

Full Set of $5 up
Teeth $5

Gold Crowns, $15.00 Other Fillings 50c Up
Gold Fillings $1 Up Bridge Work, $45.00

PAINLESS EXTRACTING FREE

DR. T. J. KING, 158 Merrimack St., Lowell.

u. n. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays 10-2. Dental Nurse in Attendance. Phone 3500 French Spoken

WORCESTER AGAIN DEFEATED

Outplayed by Local Team and Lost by 7-2 Score

Lohman Pitched Steady Game and Team Went Well Behind Him

"TEXAS" LOHMAN
Lowell Pitcher Who Let Down Bur-
kett's Men Yesterday With Two Lonesome Tattles

"All up for Worcester," was the slogan at the local baseball headquarters yesterday morning, while Jesse Burkett was grooming his club at a Lowell hotel for the game. Manager Gray was particularly anxious to head off the league leaders in yesterday's game as the ladies were admitted to the contest free of charge in view of the fact that Wednesday's game was transferred to Worcester. The local management evidently believes that with the ladies backing the club the gate receipts will soar.

The Worcester team stands out an even seven full games ahead of Lowell and the game yesterday was fought after by both clubs with equal vigor. Burkett knows his pitchers are none too numerous for a hard sleaze and that they are sure to buckle if they are obliged to do better often. Although Jesse is outwardly confident of winning the pennant the Worcester manager knows as well as anyone else that he will have to nurse his pitching staff along in order to stay at the top during the hot weather battles.

The victors came up to Lowell from Lawrence yesterday. They played in Louis Phipps' town. Thursday and staged over night so that the entire club would not be tired out with train travel.

Joe Monahan, the former Lowell catcher, who was released to the Bridgeport team of the Eastern association last season when Tommy Daly got going so well, has been signed up by Worcester and arrived with the club yesterday. Joe stroled into the baseball office yesterday and "Shorty" Dee and "Rube" DeGroot who played with him here two seasons.

An instance which goes to show how superlatives a ball player is, occurred yesterday noon. As a rule the local club has taken the 12:15 car for the ball park but yesterday they left Merrimack square at 12:15. Today when the 12:15 car left the majority of the ball players were aboard. "I went out on this car yesterday," said Stimpson, "and collected four hits, so you don't think I'd let it go by today, do you?" And there you are.

The new infielder, Harry Shaffer, arrived and was given a uniform. He is fully as large as reported and weighs 210 pounds right now. "If I took off another ounce I'd be thin," he told Manager Gray and he looks it. Shaffer will prove a big help to the catchers in pegging, too, for they will have to throw the ball out to the flag pole in order to get it to his reach. And by the same token the new man may get a mighty long ways to go for a ball on the ground.

Woodbury started the season with Portland and took part in one game which ended disastrously for Lowell. Later he went back, however, and Duffey hit him and Burkett signed him up and decided to give him a try against Lowell yesterday. Opposed to Woodbury was "Texas" Lohman, who is determined to break his streak of hard luck.

"Dutch" Pottelger looked natural on the Worcester bench. The former Lowell outfielder has been put in the clean-up role on the Worcester batting order. Umpire Black, who has proved so unpopular all along the circuit this season called the game as the last of some six or seven hundred fans, many of whom were of the fair sex, filed into the stands.

First Inning
Lohman walked "Stubby" Carroll, the first Worcester batter to face him. "Texas" drew down the line, and this crowd when he retired Shaffer, the Worcester slugging right fielder, on strikes. Carroll started for second on the first ball pitched to Strands. It was a wild heave and the base runner went to third. At this point Jimmy Gray and Jesse Burkett went to the umpire, Gray claiming that only one base could be taken on a passed ball or a wild pitch and Burkett telling Carroll to remain on third. Umpire Black finally sent him back to second. Matthews made a nice throw to Strands. By left center, Pottelger singled to left and Carroll came across the plate with the first score of the game. Pottelger tried to steal second but Waco's throw to Dee was accurate and Pottelger picked up his glove and beat it to the catcher's feet. One run, one hit, no errors.

Shaffer, the new infielder, went into the first base coaching box as Dee stepped up to the plate. The big fellow has a lot of pep and snap, anyhow. A crowd of about three hundred fans gathered and narrowly missed two ladies. It was amusing to see the ladies exhibited in getting behind the wire nothing better than the next ball was pitched. Dee grounded to Woodbury and was an easy out at first. DeGroot after getting three hits hit a flow roller to Dowd and he likewise was retired at first although the decision was a close one. Burkett laid down a beautiful punt along the first base lines and beat the ball to first for an infield hit. Burkett went out trying to steal second. Monahan's tag to Dowd being perfect. No run, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning
Rain began to fall at the beginning of the second inning. Stewart, the Worcester pitcher and outfielder who was injured by a collision with Dowd in the Worcester-Lawrence game yesterday, was on the coaching lines at first base. The two teeth which had been knocked out yesterday have been reset and although his lip is badly split and swollen he showed lots of life. Ross sent a slow roller to the new man. Shaffer who threw him out at first. Shaffer displayed more ginger than all the rest of the infield put together. Dowd sent up a "high footer" which Waco's was a "Pete" and was given the glad hit to the fans.

Conroy sent a high fly over the pitcher's box which Lohman shouted for. The ball rolled out of "Texas" glove, however, but Conroy was too ambitious and tried to make second. Burkett grabbed up the ball and chased him toward second, throwing to Dee for the put-out. No runs, no hits, one error.

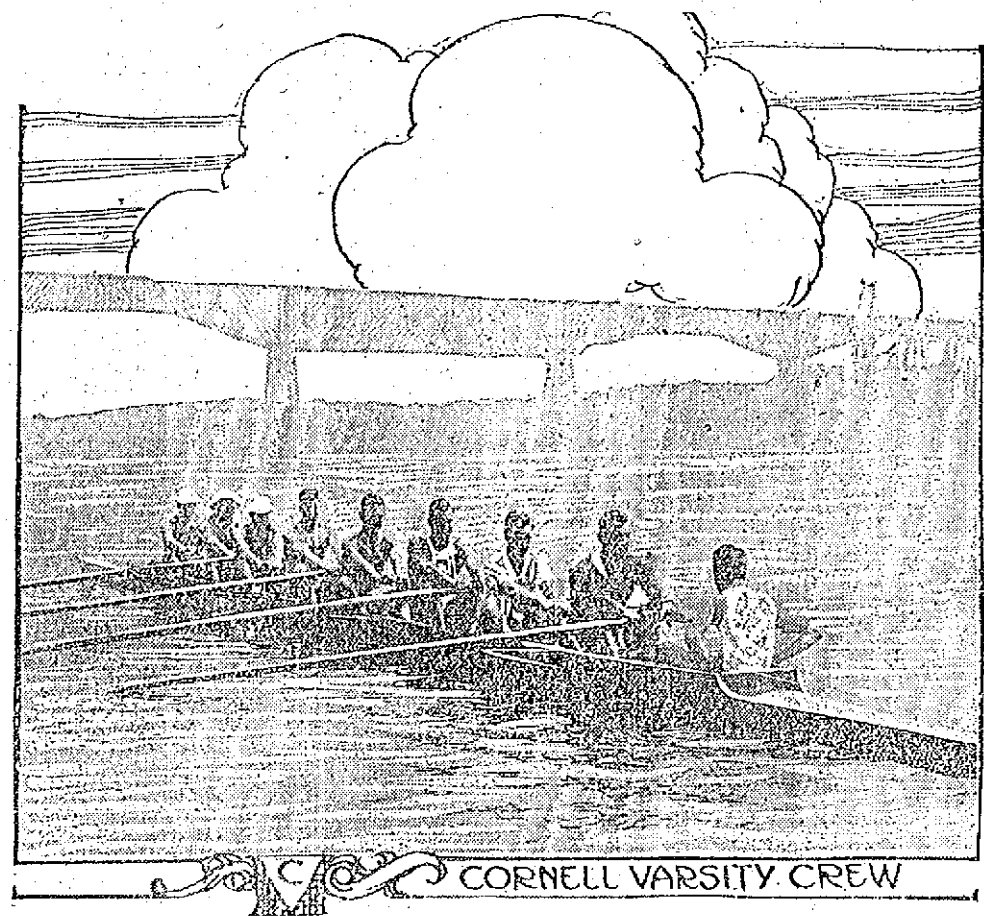

Third Inning
Monahan sent up a high fly which Kelly had no difficulty in taking care of. Woodbury hit to Dee and "Shorty" threw to Kelly for the out. The umpire called a strike on Carroll and "Stubby" registered a vigorous kick. The crowd got after the Worcester outfielder for the ball went directly over the plate. Carroll lifted a high one to Stimpson for the third out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Shorten sent a grounder to Shaffer which took a well appreciated bound and the outfielder was thrown out at first. Matthews made his second nice catch of Strands' bat. Pottelger lifted a high fly to short right center. Shaffer, Matthews and DeGroot all ran for the ball. It should have been DeGroot's chance but Matthews reached it with one hand and dropped it. This home head work showed up all the more plainly when Ross cracked a single to left, sending to third. Dowd was real obliging, however, and slapped a grounder to Dee on which Ross was forced at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
DeGroot galloped Conroy's fly. The shouts of "I have it" could be heard in the Worcester Centre. Lohman crossed up Monahan. After getting Joe in the hole for two strikes he slipped over the third one. Joe retired to the bench without taking the bat from his shoulder. With two out and the pitcher up, Lohman not careless with the result that Woodbury singled to right. Carroll, however, forced the runner at second with a grounder to Shaffer. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning
Umpire Black called the worst strike of the season on DeGroot. Rube is a pretty sizeable chap but he couldn't have rushed Woodbury's offering with stills. Conroy gobbled up DeGroot's grounder and this time made a good throw to Ross, getting Reuben without difficulty. Burkett went out by the same route. There was another little shower during the last half of the fifth. Stimpson did a job on Woodbury for a pass. He counted when Matthews hit to deep center for three bases. Shaffer closed

COURTNEY SAYS CORNELL VARSITY EIGHT WILL REPEAT AT INTERCOLLEGIATE REGATTA

Pop Courtney, coach of the Cornell navy and the most famous and successful handler of crews in the country, says that the Ithacans are going to repeat their former triumphs on the Hudson this year. Last summer Syracuse beat them out in a heartbreaking pull, but Courtney says the defeat to overconfidence. Nearly all of the crews entered this year have a good chance to win, and Columbia, Washington and Wisconsin are also feared.

the inning with a fly to Carroll out in left. One run, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 1.

Sixth Inning

Manager Burkett lost his temper between the fifth and sixth inning when the Worcester players went to the bench. Shorten died to Stimpson. Lohman made Johnny Strands, one of the league's heaviest hitters, look foolish striking him out. The first strike on Strands was called by the umpire. Stimpson got his second putout of the inning when Pottelger was silly enough to drive a fly ball into left field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Waco failed to reach first when he grounded to Woodbury. Kelly sent up a foul fly behind the plate but Monahan was under it. Lohman grounded out, Strands to Ross. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 1.

As the Sun sporting writer was in the summary of the inning,

Jesse Burkett shouted to him, "Just add, no umpire to that."

Seventh Inning

Ross singled to centre over Lohman's head. Dowd beat out an infield hit to Burkett. Ross going to second. It looked bad for Lowell with nobody out. The next batter, Conroy, hit to Dee and Dee's throw to Shaffer forced Dowd at second. Conroy reached first on the fielder's choice. Dee ran in back of second and took Monahan's short fly and the fans began to breathe easier with two men out. Ross was left on third base which he reached on Conroy's leader's choice when Woodbury hit to Dee and Conroy was forced at second. No runs, two hits, no errors.

DeGroot drove his second single into right field after Dee had grounded out. Woodbury to Ross. The Rube once more proved a cut-up kid on the third base. "Dutch" Pottelger performed a horrible operation on Burke's line drive. "Dutch" dove for the ball and made the catch a few inches off the ground. It was one of the greatest plays that has been seen at Spaulding park this season. DeGroot thought that he was a sprinter and tried to reach second without a license. Monahan's throw to Dowd ripped him on a questionable decision. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 1.

Eighth Inning

Stimpson made another putout when Carroll lifted a fly to left. Shorten connected with one of Lohman's fast ones for a single to right center and took second when Matthews failed to catch the ball cleanly. Strands hit to Burkett and the latter threw him out at first after attempting to get Shorten who went to third on the out. Pottelger beat out an infield hit to Shaffer and Shorten crossed the plate with Worcester's second run. Ross slugged a grounder at Burke and Pottelger was forced at second. One run, two hits, one error.

Stimpson started the latter part of the eighth with a single to centre. Matthews drove the ball to the left field fence for a double. Stimpson beat the ball to short. Shaffer sent up a sacrifice fly to Shorten. Stimpson singled. Matthews took a long lead off second and when Monahan threw to Dowd, he stole third base. It was a pretty bit of baseball. Waco popped one up to Monahan in front of the plate. Kelly spanked the ball to right field for a single and Matthews came home with another tally. Lohman forced Kelly at second with a grounder to Conroy. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 5, Worcester 2.

Ninth Inning

Dowd singled to left.

Dee got Conroy's grounder near second, forging Dowd and completed a double play by whipping the ball to first ahead of the runner.

Monahan struck out.

The score:

LOWELL

Dee ss 3 0 0 0 0 0

DeGroot cf 4 1 2 1 0 0

Burke 2b 4 1 1 0 0 0

Stimpson lf 3 2 2 4 0 0

Matthews cf 4 1 1 3 0 0

Shaffer 2b 4 1 1 3 0 0

Waco c 2 0 0 1 0 0

Kelly 1b 3 0 1 6 0 0

Lohman p 3 0 0 0 0 1

Totals 32 7 9 21 12 2

Worcester

Carroll lf 3 1 0 1 0 0

Shorten rf 4 1 1 1 0 0

Strands 3b 4 0 0 2 0 0

Pottelger cf 4 0 3 2 0 0

Ross 1b 4 0 1 3 0 0

Conroy ss 4 0 0 6 0 0

Monahan c 4 0 0 3 2 0

Woodbury p 3 0 1 0 0 1

Totals 34 2 9 24 17 3

Lowell 0 2 0 1 0 0 1

Worcester 1 0 0 0 0 0 1

Two-base hits: Matthews. Three-base hits: Shaffer. Double plays: Dee and Kelly. Stolen bases: Matthews.

Bases on balls: By Lohman 1, by Woodbury 3. Struck out: By Lohman 3, by Woodbury 2. Left on bases: By Lowell 5, by Worcester 7. Time: 1:45. Attendance: 500. Umpire: Black.

greatly exaggerated. In the first place a franchise, players, grounds and nearly everything a major league club needed didn't cover a cost of much over $100,000 in those days and every dollar that was put into the enterprise wasn't a dead loss.

Also it must be borne in mind that if this story about "selling out" is true, that some of those who backed the Players' league got out of it with a profit, and that the total loss suffered by the men behind the Players' league didn't collapse that which the National league was made to suffer.

Therefore if these stories from the past assume the proportion of facts, it will be seen that the Players' league and the Federal league cannot furnish any suitable parallel unless some of the Feds sell out to organized baseball, a possibility that is very very remote.

The Players' league made a greater showing, in some ways, than the Feds have done. The Players' league opened the season with practically the cream of the talent of the National league. Of all its stars of the year before, the National league had left only a handful and their lineups looked strange and very "fanciful."

The Players' league failed to live, but it won out in its purpose to force an agreement among magnates concerning the splitting of the attendance so that the small town players would get nearly as much money as those in the larger ones.

In the days before the formation of the Players' league the visiting teams were not given a percentage of the gate, but were allowed something like $100 a day. This hardly met traveling expenses, and in small towns the owners of the teams that had to depend on the home gate receipts for paying off their players could afford to pay the men only small salaries, while cities like New York and Chicago the home receipts were very large and, of course, the players on these teams drew down big salaries.

The players wanted some equitable arrangement, and when the magnates of the big towns refused to change the plan of allowing visiting teams only $100 instead of splitting the income 50-50 the players decided to form their own league and work along on their own basis.

However, after the Players' league went into the scrap heap, the National league lifted the splitting idea from the wreckage and adopted it to its own use.

Were the old plan of guaranteeing the visiting team an allowance of about $100 a day still in existence it would mean that such teams as the Giants, Phillies, Athletics and other good home drawing teams would make about six million dollars each year while the Browns, Cardinals and other perpetual all-unders would suffer tremendous—and ruinous—losses.

DEMAND FOR VEAL INCREASING
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 20.—"The demand for veal has increased rapidly, and not only are the surplus dairy calves slaughtered but thousands of beef calves as well, until a calf will now sell for from $5 to $12 when only two to three months old."

This quotation from Farmer's Bulletin 558 of the U. S. department of agriculture means that unless the farmer has unlimited cheap feeds, it is usually more profitable to market the dairy or dual-purpose calves than to attempt to raise them, even though some of them might make good steers. While many deplore this heavy slaughter of calves, and legislation against it has been urged, the consumer's demand must be met.

While the number of cattle has decreased, the demand for meat has naturally grown until not only have the experts nearly ceased, but the packers are now buying many cattle that were formerly fed. The farmers who formerly bought nearly finished cattle as feeders have been compelled to pay higher prices for such cattle or to take thinner animals.

The cattle-feeding business has changed greatly during recent years. Formerly steers from four to six years of age were fed in large numbers on commercial feed at yards near grain or mill, or upon large farms where only the roughage was grown, and the cattle were kept on full feed for six months or longer. This method became too expensive, so feeding is now conducted upon farms as a means of marketing farm products by converting them into beef, while the manure produced is utilized as a by-product for maintaining fertility.

It has been said that the backers of the Players' league suffered a loss of about $1,000,000. This figure seems

Some Say the Federal League Will Come to the Same End

Those who are pointing to the failure of the Players' league back in 1900 and citing it as an instance to show that the Federal league will come to the same end, fail to take into consideration some of the important facts concerning the Brotherhood war.

At the time that the Players' league went to smash there were ugly charges that some of the prime movers in it had sold out to the National league and the latter threw him out at first after it seemed that they had whipped the National league to a frazzle by taking practically all the star players.

It was said at the time that the number of the ruling powers in the Players' league figured that they could make more by "selling out" to the National league than by sticking to the new league. And so they went the way that promised the biggest personal returns. If, so the charges declare, those powers had not sold out, the Players' league would have become the mighty power in baseball, and the National league, then on the verge of bankruptcy, would have had to go down and out for all time.

Just what means were used in the "selling out" process are not quite clear but it is said that some of the men deeply interested in the new league made a deal with the National league whereby the National league people were to reimburse them for all the money they had put into the new proposition and give them a handsome bonus in addition, for getting out of the new league's affairs, and using whatever influence they had to further loosen the props of the new league.

When a number of the backers of the new league suddenly withdrew their support, in keeping with the alleged "selling out" process, the foundations of the new league weakened. The players who had hurried to the new organization then became panicky and were quite willing to get back into the National league fold.

It has been said that the backers of the Players' league suffered a loss of about $1,000,000. This figure seems

YALE WINS BY 4 INCHES

Blue Leads Crimson Eight Across Line in Greatest Struggle in History

NEW LONDON, June 20.—Yale's big blue varsity eight, displaying a degree of gameness never before duplicated upon the Thames, snatched victory from the very jaws of defeat in the last 25 feet of yesterday afternoon's Harvard-Yale varsity race.

By a mere matter of four inches, the difference in time was announced as a fifth of a second because boat races are timed by split second stop watches instead of by electric chronometers—the bow of Yale's English rigged, English-coached varsity eight across the finish line. One boat length before the finish Harvard was in front. It was 100 to 1 that Harvard would win it. There came in less time than it takes to tell Yale's final rush, the greatest flash of come-back rowing ever seen in college aquatics, and Yale, not Harvard, was the winner. Yale's time was 21 minutes 16 seconds. Harvard's 21 minutes 16.5 seconds.

Closest Race in History of Sport

Never in a varsity boat race, here upon the Thames or at Foughekeepsie on the Hudson, has a race been won and lost by so infinitesimal a margin. As the crews sped across the finish line the difference between them was so slight that even partisan supporters of the rival eights upon the Central Vermont's observation train as they looked down upon the crews not 25 yards away, were not sure which eight had won it. It was one of those decisions that might have gone either way and it was only when the big dark blue flag, emblematic of Yale, was swung out from the side of the judge's boat and waved vigorously back and forth that the spectators were aware as to which eight was first and which was second.

As in every close decision there was a difference of opinion among those who were on the water, assembled on either side of the narrow lane in which the eights pulled through their final strokes, the strokes that won for Yale and lost for Harvard. A moving picture concern that had secured a desirable position exactly upon the finish line took moving pictures of the finish and there were a number of photographers, professional and amateur alike, who flashed the flash more or less upon a direct line. What these cameras will reveal when plates are developed isn't known here in New London. It might be that the camera will uphold the official decision, and then again it may be otherwise. In any case the race is likely to stand upon the official records as a win for Yale, and surely there will be no word of protest from official Harvard.

Yesterday's victory was the first in seven years for Yale varsity eight over Harvard.

COPPERMAGNATE CHAS. F. MURPHY

F. Augustus Heinze, is Reported Near End at Home in New York

Latest Picture of Tammany Leader Who Faces Fall Fight

NEW YORK, June 20.—F. Augustus Heinze, copper magnate and formerly a power in the financial world, is seriously ill in his home here. His counsel, William Travers Jerome, asked for the reopening of a case wherein a

NEW YORK, June 20.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, faces once again a fight to retain his power in the city and state. The great democratic organization is split, and it remains to be seen how badly. The

F. AUGUSTUS HEINZE

CHARLES F. MURPHY
© 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

judgment for $275,000 had been found against Heinze. Jerome reported his client as dying. The judgment was in favor of William Nelson Cromwell, Edward Gould and others, who held Heinze's promissory note for that amount given in payment for 13,000 shares of the Mercantile National bank on Jan. 8, 1907. When Heinze failed to defend the action the verdict was declared against him by default.

antis hope to oust Murphy. Murphy hopes to down his enemies. Fences have already been built for the fall campaign. Murphy's claim is that his leadership has been fair and impartial for the good of the party supporters.

CIRCUS HERE NEXT WEEK

THE BARNUM AND BAILEY ARRIVATION TO BE AT FAIR GROUNDS WITH GREAT SHOW

It will be here Friday, June 26th, boys and girls, and by "T. T." reference is of course made to the Barnum and Bailey circus which is headed this way. A real circus with all the trimmings and funerals is promised by the management. The show will make a grand tour of the city and will be a great success.

P. T. B. himself, turn green with envy were he alive to see it. There will be no looping-the-loops or snail-shattering acts, but an up-to-the-minute circus, with lots of color, a myriad of new features, and as an added attraction to the latter jumped to the ground in safety. Fairbanks slipped, however, and in putting out his hand to grasp a bar fell with the result that his arm was badly cut and crushed. The ambulance was called and Fairbanks was removed to the hospital where his arm was amputated at the elbow.

LEFT ARM AMPUTATED

GEORGE FAIRBANKS OF BOSTON NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH WHILE JUMPING FREIGHT

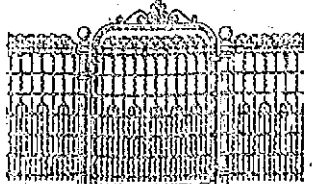

While attempting to alight from a freight car in the vicinity of the Lundberg street bridge about 10 o'clock last evening George Fairbanks of Boston, aged about 20 years, lost his balance and had his left arm so badly crushed that it was found necessary to amputate it at St. John's hospital where he was removed immediately after the accident.

It is said that the young man and a companion were riding on a freight car when they passed under the bridge. The latter jumped to the ground in safety. Fairbanks slipped, however, and in putting out his hand to grasp a bar fell with the result that his arm was badly cut and crushed. The ambulance was called and Fairbanks was removed to the hospital where his arm was amputated at the elbow.

Graduation Bouquets

We will make you a two dollar bouquet of choice flowers tied with ribbon for one dollar, at the Marshall Ave. Greenhouses, Stevens street. Take a Highlands car or you can telephone your orders or call at 212 Merrimack street, upstairs.

J. McMenamin

ORNAMENTAL WIRE FENCE

Directed Complete, for Running Post IRON WIRE AND FARM FENCES AT MILL PRICES—CHAPMAN

THAN WOOD

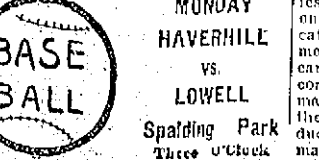

Sent for Catalogue to OLD COLONY FOUNDRY & FENCE CO.

SHOW ROOMS, 43 WEST ST., BOSTON

Phone 2688-M Oxford

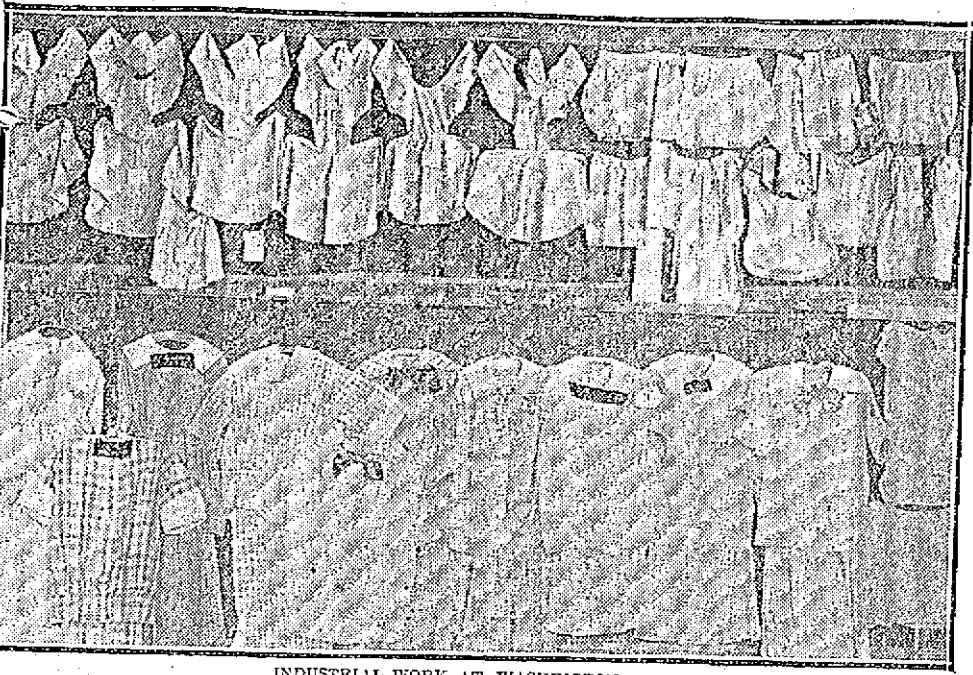

W. J. CASSIDY, Representative

45 Barclay Street,

MONDAY HAVENHILL VS. LOWELL Spaulding Park Three o'clock

MANUAL TRAINING AT WASHINGTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL CONDUCTED UNDER DIFFICULTIES—GOOD RESULTS

INDUSTRIAL WORK AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

The sewing has been done under the direction of the special teachers, Miss Flint and Miss Owen, aided by the regular room teacher. In the fourth grade, both boys and girls have sewed, and be it said that the boys usually excel girls in the quality of their work. The boys made carpenter aprons, and the girls sewing aprons, many of them being trimmed with ribbons and lace. In grade five, the girls made work aprons, and sweeping caps for themselves. In grade six, lessons were given in the making of petticoats and pretty dressing sacks or kimonos. In grade seven, the girls made dresses for themselves. They cut their patterns, too, and several girls have made other dresses at home. In this grade, also, the girls have learned to run the sewing machine, which has been purchased with money raised from cake sales.

The manual training has been directed and taught wholly by the master, John E. Barr, although he acknowledges a debt of gratitude to the suggestions of Miss Underhill, the drawing teacher, whose kindly criticisms have helped to make the articles beautiful as well as useful. In grade five some time was given to mechanical drawing, and accurate measuring and cutting of pasteboard. This was followed by simple problems in wood: book ends to hold books on a table were constructed. In grade six a combination of brasswork and wood work was used for the problems. An original design was first made for the decoration of brass top for pen wiper. This same design was afterwards worked out for the four corners of a blotter mounted on this white wood. The last problem was the making of a letter rack, or postcard holder, from two thicknesses of white wood. The work required careful and accurate use of saw, knife, hammer and glue. Grade seven made raffia porch pillows on looms constructed at the school and tall wooden vases. The latter were decorated with paintings from drawing lessons. One boy finished his in burnt-wood, which made an attractive article. The manual work in grades eight and nine was open to both boys and girls. The articles made were the folding sketching stool and the umbrella stand. These were constructed from hard wood purchased by Mr. Barr and sold at cost or less to the pupils of the class. The tools—two saws, three screwdrivers, several hammers, two planes, a square, and a few other odd tools, donated by children or purchased with money raised at food sales or from sale of old rubbers collected by children. Out of little came much, for necessity is the mother of invention and causes all things to be as they are.

THE SPELLBINDER

Rep. Victor Francis Jewett of Lowell has been referred to quite frequently this year as a republican of the newer type of legislators who disapprove of the methods in vogue by the so-called "reactionaries," and the following is from a recent issue of the Cambridge Sentinel:

If the republicans are ever to come back in the esteem of the people of Massachusetts they must discard every reactionary leader in their midst. These leaders, and Middlesex county has far too many of them for the good of the community, were all opposed to improving the government of Middlesex county.

Girls' High School Needed
In a few months hence the school board will be at its wits' end to find room for all the pupils who wish to be admitted to the high school. At present the work and discipline in the school are seriously interfered with as a result of overcrowding, while some go so far as to say that the pupils are exposed to dangers of a different kind from the manner in which boys and girls are crowded together in class rooms, corridors and passageways.

On all sides it is admitted that we must have either a new high school or a very large addition to the present school. Already we have an "annex" and if another building were added, there would be some difficulty in finding a suitable name for it. It might be called "No. 2" or "High School Extension," which would be very clumsy.

There is a widespread sentiment throughout the city in favor of a girls' high school by which the sexes would be provided for in separate buildings. There is no doubt whatever that great advantages would redound to both boys and girls from segregation in different schools.

In recent years the courses of study for boys and girls have been more and more differentiated along special lines of study and training, demanded in the one case by the boys, and in the other by the girls.

For example boys are tending more to mechanical trades and handicrafts where they do not require for the professions; and the rudiments of a great many such trades are taught in the vocational schools. The girls, on the contrary are taking up domestic science in its various branches and in this the boy has no place. But these are not the only instances in which the courses taken by girls differ from that of boys. The preparation for college is different as it naturally should be. It is a fact incontrovertible that the special educational needs of boys and girls can be much better provided for in separate schools and hence the necessity of reaching a decision as soon as possible in this matter of providing a new high school for girls.

The expense will undoubtedly be urged as a reason for putting off the decision but the sooner the problem is taken up and decided, of the better for the schools, and the city. Undoubtedly the matter of expense is a very serious obstacle, but the necessity may as well be met now as later. There is also a demand for a new industrial school and one which some people regard as more urgent than that for a new high school. In my opinion they are both equally necessary and the city may as well take steps to provide both, even if it be necessary to go to the legislature for permission to borrow outside the debt limit.

The Referendum
It is all very well to talk home rule for cities and to encourage the referendum, but there are certain instances in which the referendum like other good things may be vitiated. If the legislature passed a bill granting a pension to every adult man and woman in Boston the people would undoubtedly approve it by a big majority, but would it be wise, just, or right for the governor to submit any such proposition to the referendum? I think not, and I believe a great many democrats have the same opinion.

Who's to Blame?
When a police officer comes to a gang of boys on the sidewalk and asks them in a gentlemanly way not to block the thoroughfare, or to move on, they generally show respect for his authority and do as he has ordered. But if he treats them like a lot of noxious animals that are to be banished they will naturally resent such treatment. When a police officer is always in trouble with the people on his beat, even when he never men pre- served order and had no trouble, there is a suspicion that the people are not entirely to blame.

Bills That Should Stay Put
There were two bills killed in the legislature this year that should never be brought forward again. One was the veterans' preference bill which in the final show up mustered but little strength. The defeat in the senate was obtained on a voice vote and the advocates of the measure were unable to muster enough supporters to make a respectable showing.

The other bill which has been defeated was that for a statue to Gen. Butler on the state house grounds. This bill always brings to the front the personal enemies of the late General Butler. All the jealous military men in whose minds the low of ell warrior was not an ideal hero. Out of respect to Butler, his friends should let the matter rest until such times as his personal enemies and calumniators shall have passed away, and till posterity unswayed by malice will do justice to his memory.

Oiling the Streets
Now that the streets, formerly watered, are treated with oil, the abutters are wondering whether they will have to pay for the watering merely or pay for what the oil treatment costs. The oiling is much to be preferred if it costs no more than the watering. A good many people believe that the oil would last longer and be more effective as a dust-layer if it were protected against travel for 24 hours after being laid. Why not close the streets for 24 hours after oiling, Mr. Morse?

The County Ring Saved
Speaking of the county ring probe, Practical Politics has the following: "The Middlesex county ring, mythical or otherwise will breathe easier, now that the house has rejected the bill for an investigation of the government and financial administration of Middlesex county."

"Rep. Henry J. Mahoney of Cambridge, editor of the Cambridge Sentinel, made a gallant fight for the measure, but the opposition proved just strong enough to win out. The vote on Thursday was 103 to 102. The bill needed a majority vote. An attempt to secure reconsideration yesterday failed."

"The strong argument used against the measure was that County Commissioner Erson Barlow, who was elected on a Boston American-anti-Middlesex county ring platform, has failed to discover any rottenness and that therefore there is no apparent need of an investigation."

This was certainly turning the tables on Commissioner Barlow and it also shows that as a political power the county ring is still in the game.

Seeking Building Defects
Commissioner Donnelly and Inspector Connor are acting in co-operation with the state police in investigating fire-traps and defective buildings. Commissioner Donnelly states that already considerable good has been accomplished and that fire escapes have been ordered upon several buildings where the laws did not seem to be complied with. Inspector Connor also complains of the great shown by certain proprietors on Central, Middlesex and other streets who build out to the sidewalk line and have some projections over the sidewalk. This habit is to be discouraged as far as possible.

City Finances
Mr. Turbox, the expert accountant

Plan Your Next Visit To Boston Monday, June 22nd And Take Advantage of Our Great Annual June Clearance Sale

An Event of Unusual Magnitude to which every Selling Section of our Two Immense Buildings Contributes Remarkable Values

Hundreds of Price Concessions

This is by all odds New England's Foremost Clearance Sale. Patrons will find thousands of articles needed for Summer uses marked at remarkably low prices. In some cases recent special purchases have arrived in time to be included in this sale.

At Actual Savings of 1/4 to 1/2

If you cannot attend this sale in person use our Telephone or Mail Order Service freely. Information cheerfully given regarding the goods on sale, and orders filled promptly.

SUMMER BUSINESS HOURS—Remember the Jordan Marsh Company store closes at 1 P. M. Saturdays and 5 P. M. other week days during the summer months.

Free Delivery

We deliver free of charge in Massachusetts anything we sell. We deliver free of charge in New England anything we sell, with the exception of House-furnishings—in which case a purchase of 2.50 secures free delivery.

Jordan Marsh Company

No Shopping Trip to Boston Can be Complete Without a Visit to Boston's Greatest Store

from the office of the state board of labor and statistics, has been in Lowell, off and on, for several months and has familiarized himself very thoroughly with the city's financial condition. A small flits across his very pleasant countenance when he hears city fathers and others talking about reductions made and to be made in the temporary loan, so-called. Mr. Tarbox states very emphatically that the temporary loan means the same and that the city will never be able to cut it down until it ceases to appropriate every cent of its revenues. No actual reduction in the temporary loan can be looked for this year and it cannot be looked for next year, or any other year unless less money is appropriated than is represented by the revenues. Reducing the temporary loan with borrowed money is not a genuine reduction and this is just what is going on. The only difference in the mode of operation at city hall this year as compared with former years is that this year the city secured permission from the legislature to carry out a refunding process which is but an arrangement to pay off a certain amount within a specified time.

The Park Department
Things are settling down to normal in the park board and the citizens may now look forward to a display of business judgment in the management of the department affairs. The arrangements for the opening of the playgrounds have been well looked after and there is a prospect of good results. Commissioner Henry Carr has worked hard and collected a considerable sum of money for the playgrounds. He intends to get the board's sanction for a baby show at the closing on the South common, so as to bring out the mothers with their babies. He would offer prizes for the prettiest babies and the most handsomely decorated baby carriages.

Fearful of Pawtucket Bridge
The Pawtucket bridge is under suspicion again and the residents of Pawtucketville will hesitate to drive over it with heavy loads until some engineer reports it safe or until Charles Morse drives over it once more with a big steam roller. What say you, Commissioner Morse, in regard to testing the strength of the bridge once more? It is alleged that it does not wobble under the heaviest of Gage's ice teams or under the ordinary street cars; but even that is not sufficiently assuring to the people who are afraid that it might collapse some fine morning.

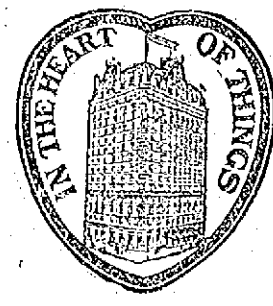

ing same as did part of the Chelmsford street bridge.

School Board Rumors
There is a good deal of curiosity as to what the school board will do at its next meeting. Rumor has it that a new superintendent will be elected either at that or a subsequent meeting. There is still a vacancy for principal of the Edison school. The candidates mentioned are Christopher Hagan, Hon. John F. Meehan and a Mr. King from Boston. Mr. Hagan had charge of the school for a year, and did good work, while the late principal was out on leave of absence. The board put a woman in charge of the school as a matter of economy and it is not known whether after retiring so many teachers, it will be able to pay a principal at the Edison. It is stated that the proposed arrangement for sake of economy is, to give each primary teacher 40 pupils and each grammar teacher 45. There will be no examination for new teachers this year as there is still a waiting list of ample proportions.

THE SPELLBINDER.

Make Your Dollar Produce More in a New York City Hotel

Two Specialties
$2.50 PER DAY A pleasant room with private bath, facing large open court.
(Not one room, but one hundred of them.)
$3.00 PER DAY An excellent room with private bath, facing street, Southern exposure.
(Not one room, but eighty-seven of them.)
Also attractive rooms without bath from $2.00. The Restaurant prices are most moderate

Location
One minute from 5 of the largest department stores. Five minutes walk from 19 principal theatres. Within a block of the Fifth Ave. shopping district. Every line of transportation passes the door. Fifth Avenue bus lines and principal surface lines. The Hudson Tubes across the street. Elevated Railroad Station across the street. Subway Station three minutes away. Grand Central Station within seven minutes. Pennsylvania Railroad Station just one block away. For convenience one could ask no more.

The Hotel
EVERYTHING NEW AND MODERN. A FIVE MILLION DOLLAR HOTEL. EQUIPPED TO SATISFY THE MOST EXACTING TASTE.

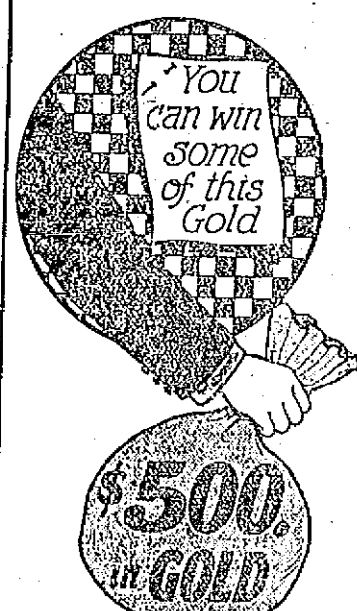

THE HOTEL MARTINIQUE

"THE HOUSE OF TAYLOR"

Established 1848

Broadway, 32nd and 33rd Streets
New York

CHARLES LEIGH TAYLOR President WALTER CHANDLER, JR. & WALTER C. GILSON Vice-Presidents

$500.00 IN CASH PRIZES

GIVEN AWAY IN

Next Sunday's Boston American

FOURTEEN Puzzle Pictures each representing a street, will be published in next Sunday's Boston American. A list containing the correct answers will be published on the same page.

No answer books to buy—no expense to you. Just pick the names you believe to be correct from the list—write them in the "Answer Blank" and mail them to the Weekly Puzzle Editor of the American.

THE ORIGINAL KATZENJAMMER KIDS

Uncle Heiney has his hands full mit dem!

HE GETS 'EM
YOU BET!

Don't Miss Them
Next Sunday!

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

SOME LYING FIGURES

The ways of the political propagandist are often more contradictory than consistent and they who take their industrial information from the pages of trade journals are apt to be badly misled. The current editions of some leading journals and magazines would have the public believe that American industry is in a most depressed condition, that the future is gloomy, that the government is short of funds—and all because of the democratic administration in Washington. Meanwhile there is no indication of hard times in the great manufacturing cities, apart from the temporary lull that is due to conditions the world over and to ever-present seasonable influences. When President Wilson declared a few days ago that the degree of business depression which exists is due to psychological causes, he aroused a storm of protest and would-be ridicule throughout the land, but the truth of his statement is borne out most strongly by the frenzied attempts of selfish interests to create an artificial opposition to the government. The president touched a sore spot and the resultant squalls show that his diagnosis was nearly correct.

No better illustration of judgments formed, consciously or unconsciously, on biased application of statistics could be given than that contained in two recent editorials, one being from the Fall River News and the other from the well known financial review, "The Banker and Tradesman." Both editorials deal with immigration conditions as an indication of good or bad business and though each arrives at diametrically opposite conclusions, no one can deny that each discussion is convincing, without the other.

"There is hardly a more faithful and reliable index of the conditions in the business world," says the Fall River News, "than the statistics of immigration, the ebb and flow of the movement of working people from Europe to this country or the reverse." It then goes on to compare the immigration figures of the present year with those of former years and concludes that the total for the five months ending June 1, 1914, as compared with the same period in 1913 shows a falling off of more than 25 per cent. It furthermore decides that far more emigrants returned to their own country this year than last and that both facts make it look as though American conditions are far from prosperous.

The conclusions arrived at are as follows:

"These figures can only indicate that the demand for laborers is strikingly less at this time than it was a year ago. Opportunities for employment have been reduced. This present condition is but a repetition of what happened following the depression of 1907. Then, foreign born persons returned to their native land in great numbers. So far, there has been no general wage reduction. The employers are not cutting wages, but they are reducing their payrolls. Fewer men are employed. Labor, of course, feels the change."

Even if the figures on which above is based were correct it is questionable if they could be taken as a barometer of American trade conditions, as immigration is affected to a great extent by conditions in other countries. In this phase of the matter, however, we are not at present interested.

The edition of "The Banker and Tradesman" published almost on the same date as the above, tells an altogether different story. Under the caption "Immigration on Increase" it says:

"According to statistics published by the Bureau of Immigration, all records for influx of foreigners to our shores are being broken this year. Since the first of the fiscal year of 1914 began immigrants have come to this country at the rate of more than 2,000 per week. The government statistics show that for April and the ten months ending with April the total admitted for the month was 119,855 and for the ten months 1,038,956. If the number of people admitted during May and June equal those admitted in previous years, the total for 1914 would be approximately 1,351,000 immigrants. The record for any year heretofore was 1,253,343 arriving in 1907."

As the financial journal gives the government Bureau of Immigration as the source of its information, its figures carry more conviction than those quoted by the other paper and go far towards nullifying the pessimistic conclusions. This does not indicate, however, that our Fall River contemporary distorted the immigration reports, but in all probability it used its conclusions on tables compiled by some interested source adverse to the democratic regime.

LAWRENCE STRIKE FUND

The decision of the full bench of the supreme court to the effect that money contributed to the relief of the Lawrence strikers two years ago was a public charitable trust and that those controlling it were personally liable for its expenditure, is a strong blow to the I. W. W. in this section of the country. Strictly speaking it has nothing to do with the principles of the disruptive body, but it will attract a great deal of unwelcome advertising to its methods, and unfavorable advertising is what the I. W. W. or other body founded on false sentimentality most fears.

The case of the Lawrence funds was given to the courts when it was discovered that only $46,153 of the $52,534 contributed by the public, was accounted for. The working public was unusually generous, many having contributed because of the emotional aspects of the case, even though they did not approve of the strike or the methods of those in charge of it. It is not probable that a strike under similar circumstances at the present time would appeal so strongly to public sympathy, particularly after the publication of the supreme court decision.

We look for sterling honesty in greatest degree from those who condemn dishonesty, and therefore the revelations attendant on the Lawrence strike with its mismanagement of funds is a direct shot at the shrewdness of the I. W. W. Surely those who agitate equality for all and who dwell so eloquently on the woes of the poor should be the last to capitalize the misery brought on by their unwelcome agitations. And what sin of capital approaches in grievousness the personal appropriation of money contributed by honest workers for the relief of those believed to be in want?

The court has ordered the Lawrence strike committee to pay over $15,000 to the clerk of the supreme court, and if the individuals concerned have not been repudiated by the organization, the money will undoubtedly be paid in short order. The I. W. W. is said to be well supplied with funds, for whatever way its strikes pan out it succeeds in drawing gifts to its mill. Money may not come so freely, however, after a few revelations like that now brought to public attention.

WHAT OF MEDIATION?

The reported difficulties that prevent a successful culmination of the mediation proceedings at Niagara from slight as compared with the situation confronting the different countries at first that hope should not yet be abandoned. If the proceedings up to date were not a gigantic bluff on the part of any or all of the representatives, it might not be very hard for all parties to find some way out that will be generally acceptable. The two greatest obstacles it would seem are the selection of a successor to Huerta and the bringing about of an armistice between the conflicting parties in Mexico.

The representatives of the present de facto government of the revolution, any land announce that Huerta is willing to resign provided that a neutral official be elected as his representative. This would seem quite reasonable if the Huertistas explained what their idea of a "neutral" is, but of this there is no certainty. On the other hand it is said that the American government insists on a Mexican president from the followers of the constitutionalists—though why this should be is also a puzzle to the ordinary person. Strictly speaking, America should have no more interest in one party than in the other, and if there is any prospect of peace in reflecting somebody outside the active ranks of both parties, the American public would advocate such a proceeding. Still, it is only fair to assume that the administration has some delicate reason for wishing to have a constitutionalist succeed Huerta, and in this connection it is not always well for the public to display too great curiosity.

As to the armistice, the rebels do not seem willing to surrender any military advantage they have gained, relying on their arms to win what mediation may not give them. Possibly Mexico could fare worse than under the domination of the victors. Villa and Carranza, at present at odds, have shown considerable ability as leaders, and their policies in conquered territory have restored a greater semblance of liberty than the rule of Huerta. Whether mediation succeeds or fails, there are gleams of hope in the situation.

THE FOG DANGER

From the testimony already given in the inquiry on the loss of the Empress of Ireland in the mouth of the St. Lawrence and from the report of a somewhat similar collision last week between the Pretoria and the New York—fortunately different in effect—it would seem that the laws governing navigation in time of fog are quite generally disregarded. Though it is an accepted rule of the sea that vessels slow down or stop entirely at such times, the recent disasters prove that many of them trust to luck and keep on their course. From many different quarters comes the statement that no method of signaling can be relied on wholly when there is a thick fog and that absolute safety can only be assured for passengers by ships coming to a dead stop. It will not be surprising if such will be insisted on in the future for the present agitation may not cease until there is some reliable international tribunal with ability to make a new set of wise sea laws and with authority to enforce them.

THE DRUNKEN DRIVER

At the present session of the superior court now sitting in New Bedford, Judge Robert F. Raymond refused to commute the district court sentence of three months in the house of correction imposed upon a resident of Fall River who pleaded guilty of operating an automobile while he was in an intoxicated condition. This action will be commended by the public, for a sentence of three months does not seem excessive for the offence of endangering the lives of men, women and children, and this drunken driver does. He may lose his own life, which in some aspects may not be a public calamity, but he is just as liable to inflict serious injury on the driver or occupants of any other auto using the same thoroughfare, to say nothing of pedestrians who are at his mercy. For the good of all communities an example should be made of all drunken drivers who come before the courts, and it is to be hoped that they get into the clutches of the law before instead of after some serious accident.

ANNEXATION IMPERATIVE

It is not generally known to the people of Lowell that this city is one of the smallest in the state in point of area, as most cities in the same class when population is considered, have twice the area of Lowell.

Lowell has a smaller area than any of the suburban towns. This is one great reason why annexation from these towns is imperative. On this point The Sun will have something to say later on.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

PROTECT OUR YOUNG MEN
Reformers every now and then make a great outcry about the necessity of saving our young women from the snares of the great city. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus points out that there is so much talk about the needs of the young women the young men have been forgotten. The cities grind up a lot of girls. There is no pauperizing that. But they grind up more boys. The average girl is safer in the great city than the average boy. There are just as many people who go running for young men as there are who go for young women. The average youth faces more temptation in a day than the average girl comes across in a month—Johnston Democrat.

INVITING FIRES
There is a disposition in this country to sympathize with any one who has suffered from fire, but the attitude toward such persons in Europe is just the opposite. They being held

FACE FULL OF ITCHING ECZEMA

Pimples Like Little Boils. Could Hardly Shave. So Disfigured Ashamed to Go Anywhere. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Pond Hill Road, Union City, Conn.—"One morning about a year ago I got up with my face full of eczema. The pimples looked just like little boils. They looked red and then festered and came to a yellow head. The itching was so intense that I scratched them until they bled and then they formed a scab and kept bleeding. The scabs were so bad that I could hardly shave myself. My face was disfigured so that I was ashamed to go anywhere. I lost sleep on account of irritation."

"I tried all kinds of remedies without results so one day I noticed an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment in the newspaper and I wrote for a sample and I received them. First I washed my face clean with Cuticura Soap and then I applied the Cuticura Ointment. After trying these cures of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was cured." (Signed) D. H. Martin, June 3, 1913.

In selecting a toilet soap why not procure one possessing delicate emollient properties sufficient to allay much irritation, remove redness and roughness, prevent pore-clogging, soften and soothe sensitive conditions, and promote skin and scalp health generally? Such a soap combined with the purest of saponaceous ingredients and most fragrant and refreshing of flower odors, is Cuticura Soap. Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold by dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Lun Sing
FIRST CLASS LAUNDRY
Quickest and best service in the city. All garments returned without a button missing.
Our Customers' Satisfaction Is Our Aim.
99 PAIGE STREET.

COAL
The best from the leading mines at lowest prices. None better.
Wm. E. Livingston Co.
15 THORNDIKE ST. Est. 1828

personally responsible until they have proved themselves innocent. This may seem unjust and unreasonable, but the result of such action is that very few in Europe are liable to incendiarism. The knowledge that such an occurrence casts a reflection upon the owner of property makes him much more careful regarding the conditions about his premises than is the case where a fire is considered simply a misfortune.—Newport News.

WHERE FROM MISSOURI

And how it is said that the generally accepted report of the death of the black monarch, King Menelik of Abyssinia, like several others that had received circulation previously from time to time in the past few weeks, is entirely untrue. The king is still in the flesh. Apparently he is a tough old proposition with more lives than a cat.—Fall River Globe.

FOGS AND SPEED

There will be general approval of the action suggested by Secretary Rodd of the department of commerce, and taken by Acting Supervisor Ingersoll, to instruct all local boards of steamboat inspectors to impose a heavy penalty in all cases where a master of a vessel carrying passengers proceeds through fog at full speed. The penalty is to be imposed, whether the recklessness of the captain resulted in loss of life or not. In the event of a collision, the master of a vessel found to be at fault for a collision to occur to incur the penalty, but the mere fact of the endangering of lives by running at full speed will be a factor in being taken.—Manchester Union.

WORCESTER LIGHTS

Worcester saw itself lighted up last night and one of the largest, if not the very largest crowd, that has ever congregated in the city's history was out to see. The spectacle was a revelation to all. Few ever received a more striking demonstration of the value of light over half-light and darkness. To many the wonder was that the city had not installed up-to-date lighting in its central portion before this.—Worcester Gazette.

PRISON TERMS

A Boston hotel employee's story, about being hounded back to crime by the painful nagging of fellow workers is heard, in Sunday's Monday edition, where an ex-convict has come back to prison for a second term. If the prison happens to have incarcerated decent fellows in the prison, the story is a small part of the punishment the law inflicts. Even a year's term is a life-sentence, of a sort.—Brookline Times.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
Hundreds of persons have already seen the wonderful Lasky photodrama, "The Only Son," at the B. F. Keith theatre, and today many more will witness it. It is a remarkable picture, with a happy blending of the tragic with the lighter scenes. Thomas W. Ross in the leading part is seen to distinct advantage, while his supporting company of players is of the most polished sort. The rise of a pampered son in the business world, and the light which he relentlessly wages against his father form the burden of the story told in this picture. It is a comedy nature, and in one of which the irrepressible John Bunny appears. Admission is 10 cents, with a few seats reserved at 15. Children five cents.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Of the many interesting and really commendable southern plays presented

Whittemore's Shoe Polishes FINEST QUALITY LARGEST VARIETY

"QUICK WHITE," for only ladies' shoes, giving them a positively shining, black, glossy and perfect finish, and children's shoes, shines without rubbing. "QUICK WHITE," for all shoes, gives them a combination for cleaning and polishing all kinds of shoes, tan shoes, etc. "QUICK WHITE," for all shoes, gives them a combination for cleaning and polishing all kinds of shoes, tan shoes, etc. "QUICK WHITE," for all shoes, gives them a combination for cleaning and polishing all kinds of shoes, tan shoes, etc.

ALLAN LINE
BOSTON TO GLASGOW
"ONE CLASS" (H) CABIN SERVICE
Pretoria, July 1 Pretoria, July 21
Numbulon, July 15 Numbulon, Aug. 14

For further information apply to any local agent, or H. A. ALLAN, 30 State St., Boston, Mass.

OTTO COKE
GENUINE OTTO COKE
$6.00 Per Ton 2000 Lbs.
$3.00 Per Half Ton 1000 Lbs.
$5.00 Per Chaldron 1440 Lbs.
$2.75 Per Half Chaldron 720 Lbs.
Prices subject to advance without notice.

JOHN P. QUINN
Tel. 1180 or 2480. If one is busy call the other.

This season by the Merrimack Square Theatre Players, none should prove more entertaining and meet with more general satisfactory results than next week's attraction, "Lena Rivers," a play dramatized from Mary J. Holmes' novel of the same name. This piece has been giving genuine satisfaction to the theatrical people of the country for several years past, and in judging from the results attained during the present season, it promises to be listed with the best of its kind for some time to come. Undoubtedly many local patrons will witness the play in the kind it loses none of its charm and power to entertain despite its repetition. The story it tells is one that grips and holds rapturing from the first scene and always dealing with facts and circumstances that reflect the work of a true artist. The characters of the play and the atmosphere which the dramatist has drawn about the piece is wonderfully done, and tends to make it a distinctly southern drama, the kind that invariably reaches over the footlights and touches the heart and fever of its audience. Walter Scott Weeks and Miss Valerie will appear in the leading roles and they should add to their laurels already won. They will receive the complete support of the Merrimack Square Theatre. Seats are now on sale and if you would be sure of your favorite locations be sure and telephone 2653 and have them reserved. Sunday's sacred concert, given after the play, will be of the usual high standard and will have something new in the line of photo-plays.

Remember this theatre is always cool and comfortable. Try it and be convinced.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

Sunday brings Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne in "The Girl Behind the Curtain," a clever two part story acted in these two actors' unmistakable manner. It is a very good play, a marriage in order to secure a fortune. How they finally find themselves in a beautifully told, in a clear and convincing manner. Other good films will also be shown in Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "Through the Clouds," a most spectacular photo-play, with every scene a sensation, will be the special attraction. The story is that of a young girl who is finally getting a valuable diamond through a clever ruse. A detective is at once engaged to unearth its whereabouts and after a series of thrilling escapes, he finally lands the prize, and the gang is killed. A rescue from a balloon to an aeroplane in mid-air is one of the many thrilling scenes.

THE OWL THEATRE

"Gosh darn that villain!" he came pretty near killing the series of "The Perils of Pauline" in this week's release. You see, it is to his advantage to make away with Pauline, and the smooth rascal is as inventive as a fox. She came pretty near death this week, and it is to his advantage to make away with Pauline, and the smooth rascal is as inventive as a fox. She came pretty near death this week, and it is to his advantage to make away with Pauline, and the smooth rascal is as inventive as a fox.

THE KASINO

This afternoon and evening, the Kasino will be the objective of hundreds of happy couples representing Lowell, Nashua, Lawrence and Haverhill. The Kasino is a most enjoyable amusement resort has spread far beyond Lowell boundary lines, and today finds patronage more substantial than ever. It is an inviolable tribute to the Kasino management. Come and get the Kasino sensation.

LAKEVIEW PARK

Band concert at Lakeview park, Sunday June 21, 1914, by the National band, R. A. Griffith, bandmaster. Jos. C. Usher assistant bandmaster. F. T. Mussey, piccolo soloist. Bandmaster Griffith has here arranged one of his most popular concert programs of songs new and old.

AFTERNOON, 3 TO 5

March, Gollup Bros. Triumphal, Sweet Overture, Light Cavalry, Supper Overture medley, I'm Just Crying for You, Caprice, The Merry Widow, Waltzes, Our Wedding Day, Tobani Selection, Bonnie Scotland, etc. (b) I'm on My Way to Mandalay. (c) When the Twilight Comes to Kiss the Rose Good Night. Von Hilzer Descriptive, The Forge in the Forest, Medley, Hawaiian Hits, etc. (d) Finale, The Picture of the North and South. BENDIX

EVENING, 7.30 TO 9.30

March, Freedom's Awakening, Barrington-Sargent Welcome, Overture, etc. Catlin, Selma, Remick's Hits, etc. (b) The Blue and the Gray, Dalbey Piccolo solo, The Meadow Lark, Brookshire

Mr. F. T. Mussey, Dalbey Selection, Maritana, etc. (b) The Blue and the Gray, Dalbey Piccolo solo, The Meadow Lark, Brookshire

Putnam & Son Co.

166 CENTRAL STREET

Attention Workmen!

"WATCH THE WEAR"

The best Union Made Overalls in America. If a pair rips, Bring Them Back, and get a new pair free. In our basement department we carry everything required by tradesmen, mechanics, machinists and teamsters, of the best make and quality.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, 50c
Blue denim, white drill, Otis pin check, black, drab black and white duck and drill.

"Watch the Wear" Overalls and Coats, high back railroad make, 75c
Double cylinder blue denim, heavy pin check, special white, drab, and black and white duck.

Remember, if a pair of "Watch the Wear" overalls rip, you get a new pair FREE.

Working Shirts 45c
Great full sizes; double stitched felled seams and full length. Black entire and twills, black and white, and chevrons.

SPECIAL TODAY
Lisle Finish Fast Black Hose 10c
A lot just closed from a manufacturer—much finer quality than we have ever seen for this price.

Engineers' and Shop Caps—100 Canvas Gloves—50
Wool and White Duck Frocks and Coats for butchers, all length coats, long, three-quarter and short.
Long Khaki Coat for grocers, long covert coats, covert coats and overalls.
White Duck Coats for barbers, druggists and barkeepers.
Machinists and carpenters' aprons.
Bakers' Long White Coats and Caps.
Everything for all tradesmen in our Basement Department.

WHITE-PINE BLISTER RUST

DEPT. OF AGRICULTURE RECOMMENDS DESTRUCTION OF ALL INFECTED LOTS

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 26.—Further investigations by specialists of the U. S. department of agriculture into the white pine blister rust have convinced the department that if this disease becomes generally distributed in our forests it will be the worst enemy that the white pine has to encounter. Drastic action is therefore urged again by the authorities in order to eradicate the disease before it becomes as firmly planted here as it is already in Europe. Owners of infected areas are strongly advised to destroy their diseased trees without delay. There is no chance that the tree can recover, and it is merely a menace to its neighbors.

In a professional paper published as bulletin No. 116 by the U. S. department of agriculture entitled "New Facts Concerning the White Pine Blister Rust" the latest information available regarding this disease is set forth.

To indicate the seriousness of the disease it is stated that about 10 years ago infected trees were found in the pines planted for ornamental purposes in a large private estate in Vermont. About 50 of the 160 trees on this estate or 33 1-3 per cent are now visibly affected by this disease. Probably 5 or 10 per cent more will develop it, for it takes a long time for the maximum of damage to be done.

In studying this menace the department of agriculture has had something like 200 lots of white pines carefully inspected. Results of this inspection show conclusively that a single tree with fruiting bodies of the fungus and in proximity to a current bush which acts as a carrier for the disease may start an epidemic which may continue for years and may spread over an area of several square miles. Moreover, it was found that the inspection and removal of trees actually found to be infected was quite inefficient to prevent the spread of the plague. Despite the present loss that it would cause, therefore, the department feels that the only safe method is the total destruction of infected lots.

The white pine blister rust is a native of Europe, and was first discovered in this country in 1906. It had not yet attacked any of our forests, and if owners of white pines which have not been grown from seeds which have been infected, it is hoped that it can yet be kept under control. Ordinarily the rust makes its presence known through yellow blisters which break out through the bark on the main stem near the ground. After a few days these blisters break open and give forth large numbers of dusty orange colored pine spores. Owners who have reason to suspect this disease on their trees are urged to forward specimens for investigation to the office of forest pathology, bureau of plant industry, where examination of them will be made free of charge.

WOMEN'S PANAMA HATS

A few genuine South American Panamas, large shape, today $1.00

A LIMITED NUMBER of Women's small shapes in Panamas, exceptionally fine brims $3.00

WHITE FELT HATS— for women, and White Duck Hats with black patent leather band 50c

Putnam & Son Co.
166 Central Street.

CUT PRICES ON LEATHER GOODS

DEVINE'S
124 MERRIMACK ST.
Repairing, Etc. Telephone 2180

ANDREWS & McGRAY
Manufacturers of Cabinet Work of All Kinds to Order. Stores and offices fitted up. Wood turning, jobbing and repairing. Old furniture repaired and finished. New furniture made to order. Wood tanks, sheds and butchers' blocks and tables made to order. 46 Fletcher St. Tel.

Summer Prices on COAL

NOW PREVAIL
They Will Undoubtedly Be Advanced July 1st. A Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

E.A. Wilson & Co.

OFFICERS CHOSEN TODAY ASQUITH MEETS WOMEN TY COBB ON THE TOP ATHLETES AND ATHLETICS

By Convention of Wool Sorters and Graders Lowell Man Was Elected President

The delegates to the convention of the Wool Sorters and Graders resumed their session at 10 o'clock this morning. Considerable important business was disposed of. Many strong debates were heard on various questions that came up for transaction. At noon the convention proceeded to ballot for officers for the ensuing two years with the following result: President, John J. Whitaker, Lowell; vice president, W. Briggs, Providence; secretary-treasurer, G. Brear, Lawrence. One of the important transactions recorded was the abolishing of the position of treasurer and the adding of the duties to the secretary's office. At 12:30 a recess was taken for ten minutes. The members were back in their places promptly at 12:40 and the date of the next convention set. It will be held in the city of Lawrence, the third week of June, 1916. The convention closed at that time with the usual three days' duration. The board of arbitration was then elected and the convention closed.

The visiting members are strong in their praises of the Lowell members. Their hospitality could not be beaten, was the opinion of the majority when questioned by a Sun reporter. Many of the visitors went directly to their station and boarded trains for their respective homes while others, delighted with the charms of the "City of

Premier Received Deputation of Suffragettes at His Official Residence Today

LONDON, June 20.—Premier Asquith today fulfilled the promise to receive a deputation of suffragettes which he had made to Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant leader, when after her recent release from Holloway jail she took up her position on the doorstep of the house of commons and threatened to carry out a hunger strike there until the prime minister received the deputation.

A party composed of six working women, members of Miss Pankhurst's East End federation, today visited the prime minister at his official residence in Downing street.

A big crowd had gathered in anticipation of the usual fight between the police and the ladies. The proceedings, however, were carried out in perfect order except for a little elbow work on the part of some workmen who had come to see that their women got a square deal. Their presence proved to be unnecessary, as the deputation, whose members arrived by taxi, was immediately received by the premier. The women were accompanied by George Lansbury, a former socialist member of parliament, and they urged the cause of women suffrage from their special point of view.

Sylvia was not present, as Mr. Asquith had insisted that the deputation must be composed of genuine working women. This debared her.

The premier welcomed the members of the deputation as representatives of "an association which disavowed itself from the criminal methods of those who have done so much to damage and put back the cause of women."

Mr. Asquith argued that if every woman over twenty-one years of age possessed the vote they would still find legislation a problem of exceeding difficulty in the same way as the men had found them. He agreed with the deputation that if the franchise was given to women it should be granted on the same terms as it was given to men.

The premier explained that while it had become necessary to suppress the organized violence of the militant suffragettes the government had no desire to interfere with free speech or the proper organization of opinion.

In conclusion, Mr. Asquith promised consideration of the women's representations and said he would present to Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, the women's request for the unconditional release of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst.

DETROIT SLUGGER TIED WITH WALKER FOR BATTING HONORS—OTHER AVERAGES

CHICAGO, June 20.—Only nine batters in the American league are doing .300 or better, according to this week's averages and among them is Ty Cobb, who finally has worked his way to the top, being tied with Clarence Walker of St. Louis, with .347. Next to him come: Covelski, Detroit, .341; Baker, Philadelphia, .332; Jackson, Cleveland, .323; Crawford, Detroit, .315; E. Walker, St. Louis, .308; McInnis, Philadelphia, .307; E. Collins, Philadelphia, .306.

The Athletics lead the league in club batting at .267 and Detroit is next at .251. Mabel of New York leads in stolen bases with 23. Pitching averages for the league show the three leading pitchers ranked according to games won and lost to be Wood, Boston, with two victories and no defeats; Boehler, Detroit, with one win and no losses, and Wyckoff, Philadelphia, with seven victories and one defeat.

C. Miller, St. Louis, continues to set the pace in the National, with .261. Then come: Hummel, Brooklyn, .252; Dalton, Brooklyn, .251; Elberfeld, Brooklyn, .244; Byrne, Philadelphia, .243; G. Burns, New York, .237; H. Phelps, Chicago, .233; Grant, New York, .229; S. Maseo, Philadelphia, .220.

In team batting, Philadelphia, with .267, and New York with .264, are leaders.

Manager Herzog, with 21, leads in stolen bases. Among the pitchers, Mathewson is credited with ten victories and three defeats, while Pfeiffer and Altshen of Brooklyn and Dool of St. Louis have won five and lost two each.

Gardner Brooks had an easy time down in Cambridge last night with Harry Snyder. The Lowell boy had to chase his opponent all around the ring after the first round when Snyder's features collided with several stiff straight lefts. Brooks was awarded the decision and in the opinion of many Snyder would not have been on his feet at the end of the ten rounds if he had stood up and boxed instead of ducking and running away.

In the main bout at the Cambridge club, Johnny Glover substituted for Jack Lead as Joe Egan's opponent. Jack claimed that Egan was too heavy for him and refused to enter the ring. Glover put up a good fight in spite of the fact that he was not in shape to box. Egan was given the verdict without a question.

Coch Wray and his Harvard oarsmen, while they did not win, need not consider themselves whipped by any means. To be beaten by a foot after the long grind over the four mile course is no disgrace. The Yale crew had the final spurt to slide over the line a winner. It was the closest finish of any long rowing race that sporting history reveals.

Here's a peculiar thing. The Red Sox were in fourth place a year ago this morning with an average of .257. Today they stand tied for fourth place with exactly the same percentage in the average column.

Stimpson, Matthews and DeGroot, Lowell trio of outfielders, are slugging the ball hard again as a unit. Matty collected a triple and a double yesterday while his two partners in the outer gardens got a brace of singles apiece.

The entries for the championship swim from Nashua to Lowell on June 28th are now closed unless the two local swimmers, Murphy and Wrenn, wish to declare them open. According to the arrangements made previously last night was the time set for declaring further entries ineligible. At present either Murphy or Wrenn will cop the championship of the city.

Johnny Evers and Miller Huggins both put on their cutup clothes yesterday in the Braves-Reds contest in Boston. The hot-headed captain of the Braves tore at the umpires and Manager Huggins, not to be outdone in this phase of diamond life, started something with the ump and he and Johnny were waved off the playing surface.

We can't complain at all about that game yesterday. Although in justice we must admit that Umpire Black's foul fly was one of the game's features.

motifs were mostly injurious to Worcester's chances, still Jesse can't blame the loss of the game on the decision maker. The Lowell players hit the ball at the right time for base runners to qualify.

Billy Burke played his usual sensational game and gave the fans a great exhibition of hand work in running bases. With DeGroot on second in the third inning and Burke on first Stimpson singled to left center. The Rubs stretched it for home. Potteiger fielded the ball and was on the point of trying to get Rubs at the plate when he saw Burke start for third after rounding second at full speed. The outfielder, of course, thought he would make an easy assist at third on the local captain instead of taking a chance of getting DeGroot. Burke stopped short, however, and doubled back to second after seeing Rubs reach safety and Strands stood at third with the ball. Inside plays like this one are rare, noted by the spectators but win a great many tight ball games.

The new man looked well around second although he appeared a little awkward on several pegs. His throw on Potteiger's grounder in the eighth was not much more than a lob and Potteiger was sure. The big fellow certainly made out his horse in the second inning when he drove in Matthews. Shaffer's life in the field and on the coaching lines looked like business and the Lowell club would appear more like a pennant contender if the rest of the team would follow his example and talk it up all the time.

Boston fans are looking forward with great eagerness to the bout next Tuesday night between Eddie Murphy and Gilbert Gallant. The twelve rounds which these two milt swingers will furnish ought to be a check full of action. Murphy is generally conceded to be the cleverer of the two but Gallant's friends think that their champion plow man will ring home on his western trip to offset the South Boston boy's skill. With both boys in shape it will be a great battle.

Joe Monahan pegged with deadly effect yesterday and Matthews' steal of third in the eighth was Woodbury's fault. The pitcher allowed Matty to take a long lead off second and when Joe threw to Dowd the center fielder scampered for third and made it stampering up. Matty displayed good judgment on the play.

Although Pete Wauch was not present with his infield out scored Shaffer in the second and put Lowell in the lead. The Californian handled himself in his usual fine style behind the bat and his catch of Dowd's high foul fly was one of the game's features.

THE PAWTUCKET BRIDGE

Under Suspicion—Order for Thorough Examination to be Presented at Council Meeting

Allderman Brown announced today that he would introduce an order at the next meeting of the municipal council for a thorough examination of the Pawtucket bridge. "There are a lot of people," said Mr. Brown, "who believe the bridge is unsafe. Engineer George Bowers pronounced it unsafe years ago and while the bridge has not shown any signs of weakening I think it ought to be given a thorough overhauling by competent bridge men and engineers. The accident to the Chelmsford street bridge has awakened new fears concerning the Pawtucket bridge and I am going to present an order at the next meeting of the council providing for a thorough examination of it."

Hotly Pump Still Resting
The big hotly pump in the new pumping station at the boulevard is enjoying a rest, well earned or otherwise. The pump was shut down several days for the purpose of overhauling the steam piping and the upper part of the pump which had been idle for two years was put into commission again. The water supply at the present time is being pumped at the upper boulevard station and the Coak wells. The big pump in the new station will remain idle for another week.

Fire Chief Saunders went about the city in his automobile this afternoon distributing permits for the sale of fireworks. All of the stores were examined by the chief before the permits were granted and if conditions were not to his liking he refused to sign them. About all of the stores, however, received permits.

Fire Poles Painted
In order that the poles to which fire boxes are attached may be the more readily seen by persons not familiar with the fire locations, Chief Saunders has had a big red band painted around the pole just above the box and all of the boxes have been painted red.

The chief was at city hall this morning and he said that when the fire underwriters were here the fire boxes were being painted red and a band on the poles. It happened that the underwriters did not see any of the red boxes or bands and they called the chief's attention to it. The chief, however, explained that the boxes and poles were being painted, so that when the underwriters submit their report the recommendations will not have anything to say about red paint on fire boxes and poles.

Underground Fire Wires
In order not to disturb the paying to be held in Gorham street, the fire department is laying underground wires from the firehouse in Gorham street to Manchester street. "The conduits were already laid," said Chief Saunders, "and it was just as cheap to put the wires in now as any other time. By putting them in now we will obviate the necessity of digging up the paving later on. The underground wires already extend to the Gorham street house and the run to Manchester street will simply be an extension."

Marriage Intentions
The following marriage intentions have been registered at the city clerk's office since the last were published:
Henry G. Farrell, 27, restaurant, 265 Pleasant street, and Alice V. Parker, 28, shoemaker, South Greeland, Mass.
James J. McGowan, 29, operative, 531 Elm street, and Susan McCarthy, 25, at home, 12 Boone street.
Joseph Edward Matthews, 22, boiler maker, 432 Adams street, and Mary Anita Crowe, 22, carpet weaver, near 231 Gorham street.
Samuel B. White, 36 (divorced), machinist, 41 Rock street, and Mary E. Ream, 43 (widowed), Manchester, N. H.
Chester Lewis Morse, 21, (the inspector, 275 Foster street, and Leona Frances Allen, 29, bookkeeper, Norwood, Mass.
Desert Richard, 28, carpet weaver, 45 business, try The Sun "Want" column.

ANOTHER FIRE IN MINE

After Recovering Twenty Charred Bodies Rescuers Were Driven From Hillcrest Collieries

LETHBRIDGE, Alberta, June 20.—After recovering 20 charred bodies at nine o'clock this morning rescuers were driven from their work by fire at mine number 20 of the Hillcrest collieries, where a great explosion yesterday wrecked the underground property and is believed to have killed 107 men.

Mine experts believed that most of the men were entombed about 1200 feet from the pit mouth, but tons of rock, broken timbers and other debris are heaped in the entrances and it seemed probable that many of the bodies will not be recovered for several days.

SUPREME COURT DECISION

Reversing That of Superior Court in Cases of Cawley vs. Jean and Vice Versa

Important decisions referring to the cases of Edward Cawley vs. Wilfred Jean, an action of contract, and Wilfred Jean vs. Edward Cawley, an action of tort, have been made by the superior court and at least one of the cases will probably be tried over again.

On March 6, 1906, Edward Cawley brought suit against Wilfred Jean to recover rent due under the terms of a lease amounting, as he claimed, to $158, and also to recover damages for breach of a covenant in the lease to quit and deliver up the premises to the lessor at the end of the term in as good condition, reasonable use and fire excepted, "as same now are."

The lease was dated October 21, 1904, and the term was to begin on that date, but the lease actually took effect on March 3, 1905. The case was referred to an auditor who found for the plaintiff in the sum of $158, $50 being deducted on account of damage by fire. The same case was afterward tried before a jury and a verdict of $235.52 was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. The defendant took the case to the supreme court on exceptions which were sustained by the court.

One of the principal questions was the exact meaning of the words "as same now are" and the court decided that the date of the lease and beginning of term was meant and not the date when the lease was executed. The court further decided that the agreement to restore the premises in as good order and condition should be considered and imposed upon the defendant the obligation to make what repairs were necessary in order to put the premises in as good condition as they were at the beginning of the term, with the limited exceptions.

It was further decided that the defendant was not entitled to any abatement of rent incurred by damage done by fire as it was endorsed on the back of the lease that the lessee would be allowed for all fire damages sustained by him. The property is located on Church street and several years ago John Devine for the plaintiff and Qu. Howard and Rogers for the defendant.

Another case of interest is that of Wilfred Jean vs. Edward Cawley, brought for the alleged conversion of laundry machinery, etc., which was in the defendant's building on Church street. The same attorneys appear in this matter.

It seems that Patrolman Philip Murphy, while passing the building on the morning of the day that the first suit was brought, heard hammering inside and upon entering found Mr. Jean and a number of men getting ready to remove the property. In consequence of what the officer said to Jean, he left the premises.

This case was also referred to an auditor who found for the plaintiff in the sum of $700 and interest. It was

LEAGUE STANDING

| N. E. League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
|-----------------|-----|------|-------|
| Worcester | 25 | 13 | 63.8 |
| Lawrence | 23 | 17 | 57.5 |
| Cincinnati | 24 | 19 | 55.8 |
| Lowell | 21 | 21 | 50.0 |
| Portland | 20 | 20 | 50.0 |
| Haverhill | 18 | 21 | 46.2 |
| Lewiston | 18 | 23 | 43.9 |
| Fitchburg | 14 | 29 | 32.6 |
| Amer. League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
| Philadelphia | 33 | 21 | 61.1 |
| Detroit | 35 | 21 | 62.3 |
| St. Louis | 31 | 25 | 55.4 |
| Boston | 31 | 25 | 55.4 |
| Washington | 29 | 26 | 52.7 |
| Chicago | 25 | 26 | 49.6 |
| New York | 22 | 32 | 40.9 |
| Cleveland | 12 | 35 | 25.4 |
| National League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
| New York | 30 | 19 | 61.2 |
| Cincinnati | 31 | 21 | 59.4 |
| St. Louis | 29 | 25 | 53.8 |
| Pittsburgh | 25 | 25 | 50.0 |
| Philadelphia | 24 | 25 | 48.9 |
| Chicago | 27 | 30 | 47.4 |
| Brooklyn | 22 | 32 | 40.9 |
| Boston | 21 | 30 | 41.2 |
| Federal League | Won | Lost | P. C. |
| Chicago | 20 | 24 | 45.5 |
| Indianapolis | 23 | 27 | 45.8 |
| Buffalo | 26 | 23 | 53.1 |
| Baltimore | 27 | 21 | 56.3 |
| Kansas City | 23 | 25 | 48.2 |
| Brooklyn | 22 | 25 | 46.5 |
| St. Louis | 25 | 23 | 52.0 |
| Pittsburgh | 23 | 29 | 44.1 |

GAMES MONDAY

New England
Haverhill at Lowell.
Fitchburg at Lawrence.
Lewiston at Portland.
Worcester at Lynn.

American
Boston at Chicago.
New York at Cleveland.
Philadelphia at St. Louis.
Washington at Detroit.

National
St. Louis at Boston.
Cincinnati at New York.
Pittsburgh at Brooklyn.
Chicago at Philadelphia.

Federal
Pittsburgh at Kansas City.
Baltimore at St. Louis.
Buffalo at Chicago.
Brooklyn at Indianapolis.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

New England
Lowell 7, Worcester 2.
Lewiston 6, Lynn 1.
Lawrence 4, Fitchburg 3 (11 in. abs.).
Portland 12, Haverhill 10.

American
Chicago 2, Boston 2.
Detroit 3, Washington 2 (4 in. abs.).
St. Louis 6, Philadelphia 2.
New York-Cleveland-Rain.

National
New York 7, St. Louis 5.
New York 6, Cincinnati 0.
Chicago 7, Philadelphia 7.
Pittsburgh-Brooklyn-Rain.

Federal
Kansas City 5, Baltimore 4.
Brooklyn 8, St. Louis 6.
Buffalo-Indianapolis-Rain.

BACHELOR GIRLS DANCE

These talented Bachelor Girls gave another one of their famous dances at Lakeview last evening with an exceedingly large attendance. Doyle's orchestra furnished music throughout the evening. The young people responsible for the success of the affair are assisted by: Lena Sheehan, general manager; Lena Sheehan, assistant general manager; Bob Boyle, floor director; Julia Bolan, assistant floor director; chief aid, Genevieve Wynn; aids, McKendall Bolan, Marion Bolan, Florence Bolan, Edna Finnegan, Lillian McPherson, Mae King, Rose Nicholson, Kathleen G. Malone, Agnes Nicholson, Anna McCall, Winifred Chokee, Isabelle Burns, Mae Molloy, Mollie Peterson, Elizabeth Sullivan.

ASKS 5 PER CENT. DEBT LIMIT

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 19.—The common council last night passed a resolution offered by Councilman Merrill requesting the legislature at its next session to amend the law pertaining to the city's borrowing capacity, setting the debt limit at 5 per cent. Instead of 2 per cent as it now stands.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL WORK

Principal Fisher is Well Pleased With Results—Two Small Engines Built for Sale

The closing of the industrial school will take place next week and this afternoon from 2 to 4 the relatives and friends of the pupils were given a good opportunity to inspect the work done during the past school year, and the exhibition was indeed worthy of inspection. Monday and Tuesday those desiring to inspect the school may do so by applying at the office of the school in Broadway.

The department to close next week are the machinist, carpentry, automobile and electrical. There will be no graduation, but a number of boys have secured lucrative employment and they will go out and test their knowledge in the different lines of work they have been busy with for the past several months.

The machinist and carpentry departments are located in the old Bartlett school in Clark street, and the pieces of work on exhibition in that building show that the boys have been very active and under the direction of competent instructors. Among the many pieces that were finished in the machinist department are two two-cycle, two-cylinder motor boat gasoline engines, which are perfect in every way and in good running condition. These were built for outsiders who supplied the stock, and this was good experimental work for the boys. The market price of one of these engines is about $150, and Superintendent Fisher informed the writer this morning that both were built at an approximate cost of about $10 apiece. The time the boys have taken to build the apparatus is reckoned up and a charge is made for labor.

The school is doing considerable productive work and the quality of the goods manufactured is all. Better results were obtained this year, for all the machinery is now installed and in good working order. During the two previous years the pupils of the school were kept busy installing machinery and shafting, and very little work was done on the machines. But now they are right down to business and great things are being accomplished. Most of the tools used about the machine shop were manufactured on the spot and it is fair to assume that no better work is being put out of prominent tool shops.

Bench lathes, Jack screws, milling machine cutters and other apparatus frequently used in machine shops are being manufactured at the industrial school and sold at reasonable prices. The carpentry department is divided into two sections, house carpentry and cabinet making. The gang in the house carpentry department have started doing outside work and under the supervision of the instructor they recently finished the interior of a dwelling house in Dracut, and built a camp at Tyngsboro. In the cabinet making department the boys manufacture flat top desks, book cases and other useful articles. Some of the pupils have purchased the material and manufactured pieces of furniture for their homes, and the result obtained was most satisfactory.

Supt. Fisher is satisfied with the results obtained during the past year, but he feels that a larger building and one built on a different style could be secured. It would mean a lot for the city and pupils. He is also of the opinion that the money received from the sale of goods at the school should be turned into a small treasury instead of the city treasury. "We purchase material from our appropriation and when we sell the goods the money is turned into the city treasury. The result is that when our appropriation runs out we are stalled, and have to wait until friends supply us with stock to manufacture things they need. If the money obtained through sales could be utilized in the industrial school better results would be obtained. The electrical and automobile departments have also made a very good showing during the past several months and those classes are also making noticeable progress.

A week from Monday the teaching staff of the industrial school will attend the annual conference of industrial schools in the city, which will be held at Hyannis, Mass. The conference will last three days and interesting lectures will be given by members of the educational board and other prominent men in the industrial line.

LEG AMPUTATED BY TRAIN
BOSTON, June 20.—Residents of Quincy will start an investigation of the accident yesterday, for which Officer Martin Ellison, 16, of 18 Ryan st., Quincy, was struck by a train at the Quincy station. The girl's left leg was amputated below the knee and her right leg severely injured.

Miss Ellison, while on her way to catch the 6:30 train, tried to cross the track and was struck by the engine of a south bound Cape Cod train. Her three companions crossed in safety.

Dr. George M. Sheehan rushed to Miss Ellison's assistance and immediately ordered her removal to the Quincy city hospital, where her name was placed on the dangerous list.

WILL OF JUDGE SHERMAN
BOSTON, June 20.—By the will of the late Judge Edgar J. Sherman, filed yesterday in the Suffolk probate court, all of the property is bequeathed to his wife, Virginia Bryant Sherman, his son, Roland H. Sherman, and other relatives. The personal estate is estimated at $23,000, and there was no real estate.

The son and Edward P. Kimball of Malden are the executors. The will is dated Nov. 5, 1911.

Mrs. Virginia Bryant Sherman is left all the furniture, goods and chattels in the dwelling house owned by her at 10 Hampden road, Jamaica Plain, and also all the horses, cattle, carriages, automobiles, etc., at the Sherman summer home at West Windsor, Vt., together with the furniture and other contents of the house there, owned by Mrs. Sherman.

Following to my wife, Virginia Bryant Sherman, I bequeath all the real estate which the right to be buried in my burial lot in Bellevue cemetery, in Lawrence, where my first wife and my son, Frederick Francis Sherman, are now buried. The bequests to the wife and son comprise most of the estate.

AUTO FIRED ON TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

WAR AGAINST OUTLAWS NIGHT HUNT WITH CAMERA

National Commission Considers an Increase in the Number of Major Baseball Leagues

NEW YORK, June 20.—An increase in the number of major leagues in organized baseball by the removal of the draft rule from the class AA leagues is one of the methods said to be under consideration by the national commission in its war against the Federal league. At its meeting today it is expected that the national commission will grant the demand of President E. G. Barrows of the International league and Manager Dunn of the Baltimore club of that organization for the removal of the draft rule.

The International league officials complain that the Federal league has made its hardest fight for patronage in their territory. They argue that with the draft rule removed, the International league will assume the

Catching Likeness of Wild Animals Possesses Fascination

Easy to Make Wild Creatures Take Their Own Pictures

WASHINGTON, June 20.—George Spinas, 34, who has just arrived in Panama to assist Col. Goethals in making the canal zone a large and safe haven for birds and animals, is the originator of night photography of wild animals and the pioneer hunter with the camera. When in congress he was the author of the original bill putting migratory fish and birds under federal control, the bill pertaining to birds becoming a law last year, under the name of the Weeks-McLean bill. He has also suggested a series of international agreements to protect birds migrating between nations in a brief

Mr. Spinas' most recent contribution on the subject of the newest form of sport, camera-hunting, is in the shape of a communication to the National Geographic society at Washington, D. C. It opens up a wide range of possibilities for the sportsman and throws new light on the proper way to "teach the young idea how to shoot."

Mr. Spinas' most recent contribution on the subject of the newest form of sport, camera-hunting, is in the shape of a communication to the National Geographic society at Washington, D. C. It opens up a wide range of possibilities for the sportsman and throws new light on the proper way to "teach the young idea how to shoot."

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

Mr. Spinas sets his camera and flashlight before darkness. A string across the runway along which the animal is expected to come or a bait connected by a cord with the shutter and flash apparatus are all the mechanical contrivances necessary. He lets the animal go.

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

BOY JUMPED FROM MOVING ELECTRIC CAR AND WAS STRUCK BY AUTO

BOSTON, June 20.—Isadore Strogoff, 16 years old, of 262 Third street, Chelsea, jumped from a moving electric car on the south draw of the Chelsea bridge, Charlestown, passed behind a car going in the opposite direction and was struck by an automobile which followed the car, about 7:30 last evening, receiving injuries from which he died at the Relief hospital shortly after his arrival.

The automobile which struck the unfortunate youth was numbered 41920, is owned by Moses M. Morse, of 901 Beacon street, this city, and was operated by Alfred Rihl, 27 years old, of 3 Shepherd avenue, Roxbury. Rihl, a married man, was detained at police station 15, Charlestown, after he had taken the injured lad to the Relief hospital in the automobile. He was charged with manslaughter.

The accident occurred at an hour when car traffic was heavy on the bridge. After having jumped from the outward bound Bay State Street Railway car on which he was riding, Strogoff walked behind the car which was inward bound, and failing to see the approaching automobile, he continued across the tracks when he was struck and knocked down before the chauffeur could bring the auto to a stop. He was unconscious when picked up and placed in the automobile by Peter Feeney of 51 Decatur street, Charlestown, assisted by Lyman Payne of 51 Union street, Lynn. The hospital it was learned he had a fractured skull.

Mrs. Strogoff, the mother of the dead boy, was almost frantic with grief when she visited station 15 last evening upon learning of the death of her son and demanded to "see the face of the man who killed her boy." She visited at the Relief hospital. The Strogoff boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Strogoff. Mr. Strogoff is a junk dealer and widely known in the "Hollow" district of Chelsea. The boy was in the graduating class of the Williams school and was to have received his diploma next Thursday.

TO PLAY SUNDAY BASEBALL
Springfield-New Haven Game Transferred to Orange, Conn.—Test Case Expected

NEW HAVEN, June 20.—Baseball will be played at Savin Rock, in the adjoining town of Orange, next Sunday by the transfer of the Springfield-New Haven game in the Eastern association schedule from Light House Point. It was agreed that Sunday baseball could be played at the latter resort, which is within the city limits.

MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION EX-ECUTIVE COMMITTEE REJOICES OVER RECENT DEVELOPMENTS
BOSTON, June 20.—A joyous spirit prevailed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association at 555 Boylston street, yesterday afternoon. Good news for the cause from various quarters was given as the reason for the happy state of mind.

ONE ITEM WAS THE RECENT INFORMED OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE BY THE FEDERATION OF WOMEN CLUBS IN CHICAGO. Another was the decision of the Illinois supreme court that woman suffrage is constitutional.

THE FORMATION OF 22 NEW BRANCHES OF THE ASSOCIATION LAST MONTH WAS ANOTHER ITEM OF NEWS THAT 23 TABLES FOR THE SUFFRAGE BAZAAR AT THE COPLEY PLAZA IN NOVEMBER HAD BEEN TAKEN.

REVERE CHARTER BILL

GOV. WALSH INDORSES MEASURE GIVING CITIZENS OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE ON CITY PLAN

BOSTON, June 20.—Gov. Walsh yesterday signed the bill which gives the citizens of Revere an opportunity of voting at the next state election on the question of whether they wish their town to become a city. A city charter, which has been prepared by the legislative committee on cities, whose members are becoming expert in drafting charters, will be submitted to its voters.

Originally the citizens of that town wanted legislative power to vote on three questions, annexation to Boston, a city charter, or retaining a town. But when Mayor Curley said Boston did not wish to annex Revere the legislative committee accepted his statement. The bill for a city charter had no difficulty in getting through both branches.

The quill with which the governor signed the bill has been obtained by Rep. Andrew Cassara of Revere. The measure provides for a mayor, who shall serve a two-year term, and a council of nine. There is also provision for recall of the mayor.

IMPRISONMENT PENALTY
Railroad Penitizing Bill Passed in Senate, as Well as Milk Inspection Act

BOSTON, June 20.—In the state senate yesterday the Hobbs draft of the so-called railroad penitizing bill was passed to be engrossed. The Williams amendment was rejected. The bill provides a penalty of $1000 or one year's imprisonment, or both, for any officer or agent of a railroad company who instigates the taking by his road of the stock or bonds or dividends of any other corporation on an amount beyond that authorized by law.

SENATOR CHASE'S BILL FOR INSPECTION OF THE PRODUCTION AND SALE OF MILK WAS PASSED TO BE ENGROSSED AFTER IT HAD BEEN AMENDED TO INCLUDE MILK DEALERS. The bill requiring strict enforcement of the existing laws between their tracks when a city or town changes the pavement was passed to be engrossed, after amendment releasing the railway from such responsibility in case of repairs.

THE SENATE ADJOURNED TILL MONDAY AT 2 P. M.
CAN'T ATTACK CHRISTIANITY
Free Speech and Press Doesn't Mean Such Right, Rev. F. O'Sullivan Says

BURLINGTON, Vt., June 20.—Rev. D. J. O'Sullivan of St. Albans, speaking yesterday at the graduating exercises of St. Michael's college, attacked what he termed the "false philosophy" taught in many American colleges and universities. "Many students," he said, "leave the institution with little belief in Christianity, and many even doubt the existence of a God."

MR. C. N. SLADEN'S RECTAL
Colonial hall was the scene, last evening, of the annual recital by the pupils of Charles Norman Sladen and those who attended passed a most enjoyable evening. The work of the pupils was very commendable. The singers were assisted by Miss Madeline Melkon, violinist, and Miss Florence Carter and Loretta A. Hannan as accompanists. The program was highly creditable.

FUNERAL OF MME. NORDICA
LONDON, June 20.—Funeral services for Mme. Lillian Nordica, the singer, who died recently in Batavia, Java, will be held next Tuesday in the Kings' Welsh Church, Grosvenor square, where Mme. Nordica and George W. Young of New York were married five years ago. After the funeral services, the body will be cremated in Golden's crematorium.

DETROIT BURNS
The body of Mme. Nordica arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Mr. Young, who met the steamer on which it was conveyed from Java to Marseilles.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 20.—Just before it adjourned yesterday the International Association of Chiefs of Police in annual convention dropped, in an indirect way, Detective William J. Burns from the list of honorary members of the association.

POLICE INSPECTOR SHOT DOWN IN BOSTON CAFE

Thomas F. Norton Murdered by Lawrence Robinson, a Noted Crook, Whom He Was Arresting on Charge of Triple Murder at Grand Rapids, Michigan

BOSTON, June 20.—Inspector Thomas F. Norton, one of the cleanest and bravest men of the police department, was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Boylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Norton fell fatally wounded at the first shot and died less than a half hour later at the Relief hospital. Following the slaying of Norton two detectives and two police officers who were with him, fired upon Robinson as he fled from the restaurant and wounded him three times. He is now at the City hospital, where it is believed he will recover.

Robinson is known as a desperate and bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

He was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Boylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Robinson is known as a desperate and bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

He was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Boylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Robinson is known as a desperate and bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

He was shot down, murdered in cold blood, yesterday afternoon in the Boylston Cafe, Boylston and Washington streets, by Lawrence Robinson, a desperate criminal, whom he was about to place under arrest on the charge of being perpetrator of a triple murder in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Robinson is known as a desperate and bandit of fearless type. He has been sought all over the country by detectives on a charge of killing three clerks during a daring hold-up in Grand Rapids in September, 1913.

of it and began their search in an effort to locate him.

Daughter's Graduation
The men assigned to the case were Supt. Daniel Greene of the Boston office of the agency and Guy C. Packard, a detective. They located Robinson yesterday morning, and with him Daniels, who is wanted in several cities. They followed the men and saw them take places in the cafe.

Immediately police headquarters was notified and Inspector Norton, Patrolmen James R. Claffin and John F. McCarthy, each of whom are doing special detective duty at police headquarters, were assigned to assist the Pinkertons and to make the arrest. It was an emergency call. Inspector Norton had bought a bouquet and was starting to attend his daughter Olive's graduation, but he promptly answered the call.

Robinson and Daniels had taken places in a quiet corner on the Boylston street side of the cafe, where they would attract no attention. They had ordered a meal and were leaning across the table talking in low tones when the five officers entered, just before 5 o'clock.

Firing Begins
The squad had entered at the door on Boylston street nearest Tremont street, and to reach the place where the two desperadoes were seated had to pass through a narrow passage between the two men and the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Detective Packard pointed guardedly to Robinson and Inspector Norton stepped forward a little and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. The two men were now sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Robinson was shot in the chest, and a second bullet struck him in the back. He fell forward, and Inspector Norton stepped forward and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. The two men were now sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Robinson was shot in the chest, and a second bullet struck him in the back. He fell forward, and Inspector Norton stepped forward and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. The two men were now sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Robinson was shot in the chest, and a second bullet struck him in the back. He fell forward, and Inspector Norton stepped forward and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. The two men were now sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

Robinson was shot in the chest, and a second bullet struck him in the back. He fell forward, and Inspector Norton stepped forward and placed his hand on Robinson's shoulder. The two men were now sheltered by one of the delivery desks, so that the officers came upon them without warning.

REOPEN "FRUITLANDS" "CRAZIEST" STATE IN U.S.

HOMER OF A. BRONSON ALCOFF AND LOUISA M. ALCOFF HAS BEEN REMODELED

HARVARD, June 20.—"Fruitlands," for a time the home of A. Bronson Alcott, the philosopher and his daughter, Louisa M. Alcott, the novelist, and one of the meeting places of the Concord school of philosophy, was formally re-opened today after being remodeled and restored as nearly as possible to its original condition. Members of the Concord and Harvard Historical societies had accepted invitations to participate in the ceremony, which was to include an address by Frank B. Sanborn, the last survivor of the famous Concord group of men of letters.

The house was built early in the 18th century. The apple orchards and mulberry trees which gave it its name are still flourishing. The property is now owned by Miss Clara Endicott Sears. Many articles of historic interest have been grouped within the buildings.

HELD FOR MURDER
ROCHESTER, N. H., June 20.—Boleo Giuseppe pleaded not guilty to the murder of Joseph Carluino in the district court yesterday and was held for the next session of the superior court without bail. Carluino was found in a lumber camp May 21 with his throat cut.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. Huxley, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, period pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? It has helped others, why not you.

DANDELION
TABLETS AND PILLS
A Menstrual Blood Purifier
Say thousands who have used them. A positive cure for Rheumatism, Constipation and Foul Breath. Best remedy for Liver, Kidney and Stomach. Eliminates all poisons from the system without griping. Purely vegetable and guaranteed under Pure Food and Drug Act. Free samples. Write to SCHENCK CHEMICAL CO., 34 Franklin street, New York. 25 Cents a box at HALL & LYON CO., 47-49 Merrimack Street, Lowell, Mass.

MONUMENTS AND MEMORIALS
We sell descriptions in granite, marble and bronze. Our manufacturing plant has the most modern power equipment and every facility.

GUMB BROS.
Cor. Gumb and Anderson sts.
Near Edison Cemetery. Tel. 1017

QUITS AS POSTMASTER

MURPHY KEEPS WORD AND TURNS OFFICE AT WEST STOUGHTON OVER TO HIS ASSISTANT

WASHINGTON, June 20.—True to his warning to Uncle Sam, Cornelius Murphy has thrown up his position as postmaster at West Stoughton and has accepted Representative Gilmore and the post office department of his retirement. Also, he adds warning that unless the department appoints a mail carrier by June 30, there will be no one to transport the mails over the 1750-foot stretch between the post office and the West Stoughton depot.

Mr. Murphy's resignation is not heavy, says Murphy, the bulk of the incoming parcel post mail may be delayed by the fact that 50 pound boxes of groceries are not uncommon. These he declines to tote from the depot to the postoffice and he says Miss Murphy is not physically able to do so.

THE DEPARTMENT REPORTS TO MR. GILMORE THAT IT HAS RECEIVED A BIDS FOR CARRYING THE MAIL OVER THE ONE-THIRD MILE STRETCH SIX TIMES A DAY AND SUGGESTS THAT THE POSTMASTER ADVISE AGAIN FOR BIDS. Murphy says he has done so several times without success.

IN CONCLUSION MURPHY SUGGESTS THAT THE WEST STOUGHTON OFFICE BE CONSOLIDATED WITH THE STOUGHTON POSTOFFICE.

SUFFRAGISTS ARE HAPPY

MASSACHUSETTS ASSOCIATION EX-ECUTIVE COMMITTEE REJOICES OVER RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

BOSTON, June 20.—A joyous spirit prevailed at the meeting of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Woman Suffrage association at 555 Boylston street, yesterday afternoon. Good news for the cause from various quarters was given as the reason for the happy state of mind.

ONE ITEM WAS THE RECENT INFORMED OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE BY THE FEDERATION OF WOMEN CLUBS IN CHICAGO. Another was the decision of the Illinois supreme court that woman suffrage is constitutional.

THE FORMATION OF 22 NEW BRANCHES OF THE ASSOCIATION LAST MONTH WAS ANOTHER ITEM OF NEWS THAT 23 TABLES FOR THE SUFFRAGE BAZAAR AT THE COPLEY PLAZA IN NOVEMBER HAD BEEN TAKEN.

THE REPORTED ENGAGEMENT TO MARRY OF MARGARET POLLEY WAS DENIED, BUT THAT OF MISS GERTRUDE SMITH EXECUTIVE SECRETARY OF THE ASSOCIATION WAS ANNOUNCED. The wedding date being June 25. Mr. Richard Davenport Coe is to have charge of headquarters while the secretary is on her wedding trip.

TWO FACTORIES SEIZED

Internal Revenue Officers Charge Violations of the Oleomargarine Laws in Providence

PROVIDENCE, June 20.—Internal revenue officers seized the plant of the New England Manufacturing company yesterday. The charge against the concern is said, is using artificial coloring matter in oleomargarine without paying the required tax.

STEAMER ARRIVES

BOSTON, June 20.—Steamer Devonian from Liverpool for Boston. 515 miles east of Boston at 5:45 a. m.

Protect Yourself
Ask for ORIGINAL GENUINE
The Food Drink For All Ages—Highly Nutritious and Convenient
Rich milk, with malted grain extract, in powder form—dissolves in water—more healthful than tea or coffee. Used in training athletes. The best diet for Infants, Growing Children, Invalids, and the Aged. It agrees with the weakest digestion.

Ask for "HORNIK" at Hotels, Restaurants, Fountains.

Don't travel without it. Also keep it at home. A lunch in a minute. In Lunch Tablet form, also, ready to eat. Convenient—nutritious.

PETER DAVEY

Undertaker and Funeral Director

83 BARTLETT STREET
Telephone 79-R

CARROLL BROS.

PLUMBERS and STEAM FITTERS

36 Middle St. Tel. 1650

PRESENTED A FLAG

The B. F. Butler Relief corps, No. 75, presented a flag to the Cotton and Wool school yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Worthen making the presentation. The flag was accepted by School Committee member Abel Campbell. There were songs and recitations by the pupils and a salute to the new flag by the school.

BURNED BY MILITANTS

WRENTHAM, Wales, June 20.—Military suffragettes set fire to and destroyed the station and several adjoining buildings at Coodpath, near here, last night. An attempt also was made to set fire to a train. Quantities of suffrage literature were found in the vicinity.

U. S. ATTY. OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The nomination of F. S. Brown of Somersworth, N. H., to be United States attorney for New Hampshire was prepared today at the White House. He will succeed Charles Hottel, resigned.

DEVASTATED BY EARTHQUAKES

BATAVIA, Java, June 20.—Several islands to the north of British New Guinea have been devastated by earthquakes and storm, according to reports received here today. Hundreds of houses have collapsed and a number of natives were drowned.

